Hedges, Lillian	Doctor's lips sealed forever
	And sister of girl betrayed asked arrest of two men Louisville, Ky., - Applications for warrants for the arrest of two prominent Louisville men were made by the sister of Lillian Hedges, who it is claimed, submitted to a criminal operation at the hand of Dr. Wm. Peyton, colored. Peyton, who shot himself on the appearance of officers, died at the city hospital, and many prominent white people who are concerned in the entangling affair are worried and nervous. He died without having uttered a word concerning the affair. The sister presented the names of the two men, one of whom she declared to have been her sister's betrayer. The warrants were refused, however, by the clerk who told her to consult an attorney. Persistent rumor names a real estate man of some social pretensions in the affair. Miss Hedges will recover, it was said at the hospital where she is being attended.

Helm, Arthur M.	Death of Dr. Helm Former Winchester physician succumbs to typhoid fever at Lexington Thursday night Dr. Arthur M. Helm, of Paint Lick, died of typhoid fever at St. Joseph's Hospital, Lexington, Thursday morning. He was located here for some time and was afterward at Ford, this county, and was a member of Pilot Lodge, Knights of Pythias of that place. A big fire at Paint Lick some weeks ago was indirectly responsible for his death. His home was among those burned, and his, with the family of another physician, found shelter in a dwelling that had long been in disuse. In the course of a few days analysis showed the water of a cistern from which they were drinking to be impure. Water was then obtained from another source, but his system had already become poisoned with germs of typhoid. He was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, Lexington, two weeks ago, but the disease resisted the most earnest efforts of his physicians and he passed away Thursday morning. Helm, James P.	The death of James P. Helm, one of the foremost attorney's at the Louisville bar, which occurred Tuesday morning last at his home in that city, is a personal grief to the editor of the Democrat. Forty and five years ago we were the youngest member of the bar at Elizabethtown, and his honored father, Gov. John L. Helm, was one of the oldest. When the Governor died, only a day or two after his inauguration, we were one of the pall bearers who carried his mortal remains from the palatial residence at "Helm Place," to the family burying lot, on a mound near by. Jim was a fifteen-year-old boy then, now he is dead at sixty. Time flies and friends fall. It if the natural and unalterable course of evens. Some day the call will come for us. May it be as truthfully said of us then, as of this last departed now. "He lived well and worthily." The Winchester Democrat Friday, April 1, 1910

Helton, Vaughn	On Wednesday Gov. Buckner pardoned Alonzo Becraft who was serving a life sentence
Tiction, vaugini	for murder. This is the last of the celebrated Barnett gang and recalls one of the most exciting episodes of this section of the State. In 1884, Vaughn Helton, who lived in Menifee county, incurred the enmity of old John Barnett and several of his followers. As these were known to be bad men, Helton moved to Montgomery county where he was murdered shortly afterward. A number of the Barnett gang were arrested and placed in jail at Mt. Sterling. In a few days a party of friends of the dead man headed by Jack Ringo, Sheriff of Menifee county, made an assault on the jail where the prisoners were confined for the purpose of lynching them. The jailer was apprised of their intention and the assaulting party was received with a volley of bullets from the guards of the jail. Several of the mob were wounded and Ringo had his leg so badly injured that amputation was necessary. Circuit Court was in session at the time and the prisoners were speedily brought to trial, and within a week, John Barnett, John Gibbs, John, Solomon and Alonzo Becraft, Newton Yarber and Elliott Wadkins were in the penitentiary to serve out life sentences. Wadkins was pardoned out in a short time as he was found to be comparatively innocent. The change from the free air of the mountains to the walls of a prison was too much for the prisoners, and one by one, John Barnett, John Gibbs, John Becraft and Solomon Becraft went to the hospital and from thence to the graveyard. Last fall Newton Yarber was pardoned by the Governor and sent home to die in a short time. This week, as above stated, Alonzo Becraft, the last of the gang, was pardoned and sent home to the last stages of consumption, the same disease that carried
Helton, William	off the rest of his companions. The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, April 15,1891 Asleep on Track Three men asleep on the railroad track near Barbourville were struck by a fast freight. Hemphill, Walter	The trial of Joe Ewalt, formerly of this city for the murder of Walter Hemphill, of Milledgeville, Ga., begins today at that place. Col. Billie Breckenridge will defend him. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, July 14, 1896
	The Paris Kentuckian gives his as the version of Joe Ewalt's friends, of the killing for which he is now being tried at Milledgeville, Ga. "It seems that Joe and a friend went to a bar and the friend asked for a pistol he had pawned. As the barkeeper handed it over he showed he had another pistol, and the friend said, "you two shoot wile I count," and Joe shot and killed the barkeeper, who before dying said: "Oh Joe, what did you want to kill me for, your friend?" Of course when Joe realized that he had killed his friend and would have to be jailed and spend all his little claim to Bourbon farm to defend himself, he realized he ought not to drink. Joe had made friends there as a horse trainer." The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, July 21, 1896

The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, July 21, 1896 Joe Ewalt Pardoned Gov. Candler, of Georgia, has pardoned Joe Ewalt who was serving a life term in the penitentiary of that State for murder. He is the only son of Sam Ewalt, of Paris, who was formerly proprietor of the Central Hotel of this city. Joe was a horse trainer while here and went from here to Millidgeville, Ga. In 1896, while on a drunken spree he shot and killed Walter Hemphill, a bartender of that city. The murder was almost unprovoked and it was only the eloquence of Col. W. C. P. Breckinridge who defended him, that saved his neck. He is in very bad health, which had some weight in procuring his pardon. The Winchester Democrat Fri., Aug. 22, 1902

	Just as a freight train on the Kentucky Union road was leaving this city Monday morning for Lexington, William Hendershot, the head brakeman tried to jump from a car containing lumber to the tender. The lumber was wet causing him to slip and fall

	When Dr. Henderson was in charge of the church in Paris he had preached faithfully for the bride's filmy white dress caught fire and in an instant she was enveloped in flames

Hendricks, Miss	The death of Mrs. Achilles Deatherage, on Friday, was the result of poison drunk in coffee five years ago. A negro boy who possessed more native meanness than any one of his years the country ever produced, put rough-on-rats in the coffee with the deliberate intention of murdering the entire family. The sickness produced was alarming, but did not terminate fatally at the time. But a year ago, Miss Hendricks, a white girl poisoned at the same time died. Now follows another victim.
	About twelve days after the poisoning of Mrs. Deatherage, she gave birth to a healthy baby boy, who is now in good health.
	The murderous boy was sent to the penitentiary, and his time has about expired. He should make himself extremely scarce on Muddy creek.—Richmond Climax Oswego, Ill., Oct. 1. Christopher Henney, a poor farmer, whose home on a leasehold is near Bristol, was murdered by an unknown cyclist on a roadway which runs through a stretch of lonely wood, a mile and a half from this town. The killing was of a most cold-blooded character. Henney had spent the afternoon in Aurora and passed through the Oswego about 6 o'clock. He was alone and had scarcely entered the bush road when he was confronted by the cyclist, who declared: "Now, I've got you," and fired point blank at the form. Then the assassin rode speedily away. The bullet struck Henney in the abdomen inflicting a wound from which he died in a few hours.

Hensley, John	A dispatch from Jackson Friday says: Word reached here to-night that a second attempt was made this morning to lynch L. C. Combs, of Perry county. Several weeks ago kluklux tried to do him bodily harm but he escaped. This morning they came again, forty strong, and he fired on them with his Winchester, killing one, who was left behind, Knocked a Woman Down and Was Killed By Her Son.

	Williamstown, Ky., June 30.—A family feud at Cross Roads, 12 miles west of Williamstown, resulted in murder. James Parnell is a farmer and lives just across the street from Merrit Hensley. They have been at outs for months. Hensley went over to the Parnell home and stirred up the old trouble. Mrs. Parnell, an aged woman, went after him with an ax and ran him home. Hensley knocked her down with a stick of stove wood. Young Parnell then shot into the game with a pistol and shot Hensley three times.
	Hensley is barely alive and will die in a few hours. Parnell is in jail without bail.

Hensley, Orlando V.	The Mt. Sterling Sentinel Democrat published the following clipping from a Missouri
Trensiey, eriande v.	paper. He was well known here: "In a room in the Laclede hotel at Independence, Orlando V. Hensley, a farmer, blew out his brains with a bullet from a 45-calibre revolver Sunday evening. Death was instantaneous He drove to Independence from his farm, two miles distant, and paid in advance for the room, representing to the clerk that he would remain over night. Despondency over financial reverses is supposed to have been the cause of the rash act. Four weeks ago Hensley insured his life with the New York Life, making the policy payable to his widow. Mrs. Mack James was his daughter.

Hickman, Richard II	Reminiscences of an Old Kentucky Homestead Mrs. G. M. Thrasher and sister Miss A. E. Hickman of Bourbon Commercial College, have recently returned from a visit to Mrs. Wm. Kenney of Clark county, and while there spent an afternoon at the old home of their great-grandfather, Gen. Richard Hickman, second Lieutenant-Governor of Kentucky. He was born in 1757 and died in 1838. He married Miss Lydia Caldwell. He was a man of fine physique, sterling character and rare intellect, and it is with pleasure that the great-grandchildren visit the home and grave of so worthy an ancestor. The late John L. Hickman spent many of his childhood days there with his grandparents and the fact of his so often entertaining his children with telling them of his delights there as a boy, gave additional interest to the visit. The house is built on a beautiful sloping hill, at the foot of which and on the rise of another hill is the picturesque entrance to a large cave, which is one of the most attractive features of the place. It is said to be second in size to the Mammoth Cave. The old brick house with its flower gardens, the mouth of the cave with its rugged rocks and overhanging foliage, in full view of a placid expanse of water, with workmen driving their lazy oxen to drink on one side and boats idly plying on the other, it is a scene to please the fancy of an artist. The house is probably the oldest brick home in this part of the country, being over a hundred years old. It was so conspicuous at the time that it was built that it was designated by all the neighbors as "the brick house." It was built before Kentucky became a State, in what was known at that time, as Kentucky county, Virginia. The house and the graveyard are both in a state of excellent preservation, having fallen into appreciative hands. The farm is now owned by Mr. Joseph F. Jones, who purchased it in '57. Mr. Jones has a large family, and during the thirty-seven years of his living there, has never had a case of fever or protracted illness of any kind. The surroun retains the impress of "happy days gone by." -Kentucky-Citizen.

Hieatt, J. M.	A Pleasant Occasion.
	For many years it has been the custom for the surviving members of the family of the late J. M. Hieatt, of Bagdad, to hold an annual reunion at the residence of some member of the family on September 26, the birthday of Mrs. Hieatt. This year they met with W.
	P. Hieatt, of this county. The members of the family from a distance were B. L. Hieatt, wife and daughter of Frankfort, M. P. Hieatt and wife and T. D. Hieatt and wife of Shelby county, Mrs. E. A. Long and daughter, of Shelbyville and L. T. Hieatt, of Bagdad.

Hieatt, Mattie	TO THE MEMORY OF MATTIE E. HIEATT Died- At the house of W. D. Strode and wife, her grandparents, September 4, 1891, of intersusception of the bowels, Mattie E. Hieatt, age 5 years and nearly 7 months. Death has snatched from our happy home one of it brightest lights and left our hearts Oh, so sad! Her sweet, happy face we see no more and while her sweet little life is ended on earth and we know that she is enjoying that sweet rest in that world of bliss, yet our hearts are full of grief and we can but say her life was asked but God denied. She was a child of a rare sweet and affectionate disposition, always wanting to see and make others happy around her, and although young in years, she loved her little prayer. "Now Llay me Down to Sleep" and with it her favorite song "Weit Meekley Weit
	"Now I lay me Down to Sleep.", and with it her favorite song "Wait, Meekley Wait, and Murmer Not." None over corried it out more fully then she. Although her suffering was of the most None ever carried it out more fully than she. Although her suffering was of the most intense, not a murmer escaped her sweet little lips. We would say to the loved ones, look beyond this vale of tears to the bright beyond, where they shall hope to meet the two little loved ones; where partings and sad farewells are no more. And so may they be able to say, "The Lord Gave, and He hath taken away. Blessed be His name." Thy giants voice now is hushed, 1 mg Banno voice non is nusited,

	The second of the district Thy warm true heart is still,
	And on thy young and innocent brow
	Is resting Death's cold chill, Thy hands are crisped upon thy breast And in our aching hearts we know We have no little Mattie now.

Higby, Almeron	In the management of a cherry tree the late Almeron Higby, of Watson, Lewis county, Wis., may be regarded by some people as wiser in his day and generation than the youthful George Washington. When 9 years old he planted a cherry stone, from which grew a tree that was known by his parents as "the boy's tree." When it began to bear cherries he picked the fruit, sold it and saved the money. This he continued to do during his entire life. Last summer, at the age of 59, his health declined, and the tree also began to decay. So he cut it down, had the trunk sawed into boards, and with his own hands made a pretty cherry coffin for himself. A few days ago he died, and all of his funeral expenses were paid from the money that he had saved as the proceeds of the sale of the cherries.

Higgins, Mrs. Ed AA	A terrible tragedy took place near the Levee, in Montgomery county last Sunday night. A negro named Ed Higgins went home and found another negro name Horace Hood in bed with his wife. He took a grubbing hoe and killed the guilty pair by beating their brains out, and then left for parts unknown. A little child of Higgins' was so badly frightened by the terrible murder, that it is feared she may lose her reason. The Clark County Democrat Wednesday, May 19, 1880
	Sentinel: About a year ago a double murder was committed in this county near the Levee. Ed Higgins, colored, caught another Negro by the name of Kitchen with his wife, became insanely jealous, and seized a grubbing hoe and killed them both. He made his escape and has been leading a roving life ever since, until last week, when Marshall Punch heard of his being in the county, a few miles from town, and on Wednesday night, accompanied by Dick Forman, went out and arrested him, and now he languishes in Castle Bruton. The young men saw a notice of the killing and a description of the negro and decided to go on his track. They found him at Muir's Station Wednesday night and captured him without any trouble. A knife and a razor were found on his person. He says he was bound to kill Higgins or get killed. Higgins had applied a vile epithet to him and was drawing a pistol when he fired the fatal shot. Hiley, William	Fatal Accident
111103, 11 111111111	At an early hour Sunday morning the body of a dead man was found near the bridge on Jackson street over the O. and O. road. Coroner Wills summoned a jury composed of Waller Calmes, C. E. Bush, J. W. Crone, W. H. Irvine, J. W. Lawrence and Jas. Parrish.
	The inquest developed the fact that the deceased was William Hiley, of Estill county, but more recently of Olympia. In company with a man named Hart he had come to this city on a spree and at midnight was in a saloon. It is supposed that he tried to board a car while drunk and fell beneath the wheels which cut him in two just above the hips.
	Mr. Jones, of Olympia, came later in the day and took the body back to that place. He was said to be an industrious and hard working young man, the support of his aged parents, but addicted to periodical sprees.

No greater tribute could be paid; no higher compliment can be conceived. Politically many unkind things were said of the man, but these pale into insignificance before the fact that he was good to his mother. Perhaps in the game of politics he played rather hard hands to some; maybe in business he was unusually strong to those with whom he dealt; but even these have to be forgotten in the face of the fact that "he was a good boy to his mother." If there is one thing in the world greater than any talent a boy or man can possess; if there is anything deserving of more credit, it has not been found. And there isn't a good boy or girl, or man, or woman that isn't good to their mother. – Hedgenville Herald The Winchester Sun Wed., 3-27-1929 The Winchester Sun Thur., 4-15-1999 The Winchester Sun Thur., 4-15-1999 The Winchester Sun Thur., 2-27-1932 The Winchester Sun Thur., 10-14, 10-15-1971 The Winchester Sun Fri., 9-2-1927 LILLIE HILL, the eleven-year-old daughter of Grant Hill, who lives near Pine Grove, died Saturday night of hydrophobia. Hiltbruner, E. A.	On Tuesday the locomotive of the express train from Huntington to Lexington exploded about twenty miles east of Mt. Sterling, killing the engineer E. A. Hiltbruner, of Huntington and fireman Ed. Mack of Kilgore. The train was thrown from the track and several of the passengers considerably bruised, one lady having her collar bone broken. No cause is known for the explosion. This accident is the culmination of a long series of mishaps that had befallen Engineer Hiltbruner during his services on this road. Although accounted a safe and careful man, no less than twenty-eight persons have been killed by the trains in his charge. A few years ago he ran into a construction train near Ashland and killed eight men. He was in charge of the train that killed Mrs. Modena Curtis near Thomson a year or two ago her little child was also badly hurt but recovered. A few years ago a train in his charge ran into a vehicle near Mt. Sterling in which a of young society men and a couple of negro prostitutes were riding and all four were killed. All these occurrences were accidents and could hardly have been averted by any effort on the part of Hiltbruner. The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, January 14, 1891

Hilton, Vaughn	Gov. Buckner has granted a pardon to Newton Yarber who was sent up for life for the murder of Vaughn Hilton in 1883. Hilton was murdered by a gang of men raised by his brother-in-law, John Barnett, and composed of seven men. They were arrested and placed in the Mt. Sterling jail. The jail was attacked the next night by a mob of 150 men headed by Jack Ringo, Sheriff of Menifee county. The jailer had, in the meantime, been warned and had summoned a guard. In the fight which followed, Ringo was badly hurt as were a number of followers. The trial speedily followed and all the prisoners were sent up for life. Four died in the penitentiary in a few years, one was pardoned by Governor Hindman and died at home in a few weeks, and one now remains who is in bad health and will live but a short time. Yarber was a mere youth at the time and did not know of Hilton's death till the next day, as he had been posted as a sentinel to catch a horse thief named Crouch, who he supposed was the man the gang was after. Hiner, Edward	Edward Hiner, eighty years old, was instantly killed at Owensboro Monday. He had traded for an old rusty pistol, and was cleaning it to sell. He took the cylinder out and the rust was so thick he took a large nail to hammer the rust off. He did not notice an old cartridge. He struck the cap of the cartridge and it exploded. The ball remained in the chamber but the hull tore through his heart killing him instantly. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, March 1, 1895

Hines, Mrs. Mary F.	Died in Lexington
Times, Mis. Mary 1.	Mrs. Mary F. Hines died at her home in Lexington Monday afternoon from heart disease, aged twenty-eight years. The remains were brought to this city and buried in the Winchester cemetery, services at the grave being conducted by Eld. M.P. Lowry.
	She was a daughter of D.N. Haggard and was a native of this county. She is survived by her husband and two sons, her mother, four sisters and eight brothers. The Winchester Democrat Friday, April 29, 1910
Hines, Mrs. Thomas H.	Died Mrs. Hines, wife of ex-Chief Justice Thomas H. Hines, died suddenly of apoplexy Monday night at Frankfort. Judge Hines is also very low and there is little chances of his recovery. He first became well known as a dashing cavalryman with Morgan and was with the latter at the historic escape of Morgan and his men from the Columbus prison. The Winchester Democrat Friday December 24, 1897 Ex-Chief Justice Hines Crawls From a Sick Bed by the Side of His Wife, Who Died Suddenly in the Next Room. Frankfort, Ky., Dec. 22.—The death of Mrs. Thomas H. Hines of apoplexy at 1 o'clock Tuesday morning was attended by peculiarly and circumstances. Their son was temporarily absent and Mrs. Hines was alone attending her husband, the ex-chief justice, who has been an invalid for two months. Complaining of feeling faint Mrs. Hines had passed into a room adjoining her husband's and failed to return. The sick man crawled from his bed and found his wife dying in the next room. Too weak to call, he had begun ringing a bell to arouse the neighbors, when his son returned and summoned the other members of the family who live here. Judge Hine's already exhausted constitution can hardly withstand the shock to which he was subjected. For Mrs. Hines, who was the friend of every child and every poor and troubled person here, the whole city is in mourning. Judge Hines has for many years been a conspicuous figure in legal circles, but he first became widely known as a captain under Gen. John H. Morgan, whom he accompanied on the famous raid through Ohio. The raid and capture of Morgan, Hines and others, their incarceration in and escape from the penitentiary in Columbus formed the subject for an interview in the Enquirer about two years ago, which attracted great attention all over the country. Hines, Sam AA	The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, July 12, 1910 Cut to pieces Sam Hines, colored, shockingly mangled by a freight train Saturday night Saturday night a West bound train on the C & O road ran over Sam Hines, a negro man, just beyond the overhead bridge on Jackson Street, and killed him instantly. The train men knew nothing of the occurrence until they arrived at Lexington, and were astonished to find a human arm fastened to some of the machinery. Hines was evidently asleep on the track and probably never knew what hurt him as a leg and arm were cut off and he was disemboweled. He lied near L & E junction and was a widower with no children. Hines had been working on the railroad for several years as a section man, and is said to have been sober and industrious. He was seen in town as late as ten o'clock Saturday night and stated to a friend that he intended to buy a few groceries and then go home. Coroner Brinegar impaneled a jury composed of Clay Frisbie, Henry Moohn, W.R. Elmore, Gus Aldridge, Dan Howard and V.C. Moore, whose verdict simply gave the name of the victim and manner of his death without any other conclusions. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, September 8, 1908

	Man jailed for manslaughter in fatal blaze A Winchester man was arrested Friday afternoon for allegedly being involved in an apartment fire that killed three and injured several others. According to the Clark County Detention Center's website, 55-year-old Jackie McClure Hisle Jr. was arrested Friday afternoon on a single count of second-degree manslaughter. The website said Hisle is being held on a $1 million cash bond and is scheduled to appear in Clark District Court on Monday. Neither a Winchester Police spokesman nor the coroner could be reached Saturday. Other media outlets said Clark County Coroner Robert Gayheart identified the three victims as 29-year-old Tina Reynolds, 36-year-old Donald Hisle and 71-year-old Dixie Everman. Reynolds and Hisle died from smoke inhalation, though Everman's cause of death has not been determined, according to the reports.
	Further information was not available at press time. Saturday afternoon, Winchester

	Fire-EMS Chief Cathy Rigney said the fire investigation is still underway and will resume Monday. Friday afternoon, there were personnel on the scene from Winchester Fire-EMS, Winchester Police, Kentucky State Police, the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, along with a K9 unit from the Scott County Fire Department. Rigney said the first insurance investigators arrived Friday and more are expected Monday. A cause has not been determined for the fire in the 200 building of B&P Apartments on Springmist Lane in Winchester. "They're still leaning toward that middle bottom apartment as where everything started," Rigney said. "They're still investigating why." The fire was reported shortly after 1 a.m. Friday. Some residents reported hearing an explosion before discovering the 10-apartment building heavily involved with fire. Some residents jumped from second-floor windows on the back of the building to escape the blaze, which was focused on the front of the building, she said. The fire eventually spread into the second floor and burned through the roof, leaving only the joists. The roof collapsed over one set of stairs on the front of the building. At least six other people were transported to the hospital Friday morning, Rigney said, most of which were kept overnight for observation. The complex is owned by James Tackett. City officials said there have been no complaints filed about the apartments. The American Red Cross was on the scene Friday morning and was working with the families to find temporary shelter. Clark County Community Services Executive Director Debbie Fatkin said Saturday some people have brought donations for the fire victims, but said they really need linens, sheets, cooking equipment and other housewares for the voucher program to help the victims later.

Hisle, Jack	A dispatch from Richmond, Wednesday says: "Jack Hisle a poor farmer residing at Doylesville in this Madison county, died suddenly at his home on Saturday night.
	During the night he wakened his wife and informed her that he thought he was dying:
	She startled and alarmed, ran to the house of a neighbor who at her request accompanied her back to he husband's bedside only to find him dead. Some nights ago Hisle was visited by a party of Regulators or White Caps who, as their victim claims, for causes unknown to him whipped him unmercifully. His wife corroborates him in his story of the outrage, and his death is undoubtedly the result of the brutal treatment of the White Caps. The case has aroused a great deal of indignation, the man is poor and friendless and the case will be investigated by the authorities.

	passed from the scene of her earthly labors. Mrs. Hisle was the daughter of John Finnell, one of the pioneers of Boonesboro, and was born in Clark county. Had she survived by five sons and two daughters. Messrs. Willis, Algan, Walker, John and Roy Hisle, Mrs. Robert Covington and Mrs. Coleman McKinney, all of whom live in this county. She also has one sister living. Mrs. Lottie Williams, of Vienna, Clark county, who is one hundred and one years of age. For sometime past Mrs. Hisle has made her home with her son, Algan Hisle at Waco, at whose house she died. She was a life-long

Hisle, Sam		Brutal Crime. The Worst Ever Known in the County.—Sam Hisle, Colored, Under Arrest.—Ordered to Lexington.—Denies Guilt. On the C. & O. R. R., about four miles west of this city at about 11:30 A. M. Monday, Mrs. Jasper Case, a young white woman was criminally assaulted by a negro. The terrible details are unfit to print. From a description given by Mrs. Case and also by Mrs. Boone, who saw the man just before the outrage was perpetrated, Sam Hisle, who lives in this city, was suspected. After diligent search it was learned that Hisle had gone to Paris. He was arrested there by Sheriff McCord, Tuesday morning. He was taken before Mrs. Case and Mrs. Boone who both identified him. By order of Judge J. M. Benton the prisoner was taken to the Fayette county jail. This was a wise move because it is more than probable that a mob would have been formed if he had come to Winchester. In an interview published in the Lexington herald Wednesday, Hisle denies his guilt. He says:
		"In company with George Moore, Noah Hume and Maud Hull I left home at 7 o'clock on Monday morning and went to Bucktown which is a negro suburb of Winchester. With these same people I went straight to Mr. Porter's bar room and not feeling well sat on the steps in the back yard and watched a lot of negroes shoot craps. I was in and about Mr. Porter's saloon until 10:00 o'clock, when I went with the same negroes to my home in Connersville, which is another negro suburb of Winchester. Janie Rudley, a negro woman, who lives next door, saw me at home at 10 o'clock. After staying at home for a few minutes I went over about 250 yards from home to a warehouse that is being built, and sitting down in the shade went to sleep." Jane Rutledge and Sue Patton who live next door to Hisle's mother say that they saw Sam about 7 a.m. and between 2 and 3 p.m. but not in the intervening time. The Moore referred to could not be found. Noah Hume, according to a statement by his wife left home at 4 o'clock Monday morning to work in the country and will not be back until Saturday night. Maud Huls (not Hull) states that she did not see Hisle at all on Monday. Ben Parker, colored, states that he saw Hisle at the crossing of the C. & O. R. R. and Washington street about 2 p.m. Monday. The accused is only about 19 years of age. In 1902 he broke into J. W. Holler's store on North Main street. For this offense he was sentenced for two years in the pen. In the past year a good part of his time has been spent in jail for minor offenses. It is probable that he will remain at Lexington until the meeting of the grand jury here next month. The Sun-Sentinel, Thursday, August 17, 1905 Sam Hisle was sentenced to death Friday for assaulting Mrs. Jasper Case at Colbyville. The scenes in the courtroom during the trial were very impressive. It early became evident that a jury could not be found in Clark county so a panel was ordered from Madison. During the testimony of Mrs. Case everyone not necessary to the trial was excluded from the court room. Her story was straight forward and her identification positive. Hisle's story was rambling and contradicted by every witness. It took the jury just nine minutes to return its verdict. Judge Benton made a short talk to the assembled crowd expressing his satisfaction that the people, in spite of their righteous indignation, had permitted the law to take its course. Judge Beckner, chief counsel for the defense, next arose and said that his client although poor, ignorant and degraded, had been tried as fairly as if he had been the wealthiest in the land. He thanked the whole court and stated there would be no appeal. Monday morning Hisle was brought into court and sentence passed his execution being set for Thursday, October 19 th . The Sun-Sentinel, Thursday, September 21, 1905 Sam Hisle, the rapist, will be hung in the jail yard Thursday of next week. The Sun-Sentinel, Thursday, October 12, 1905 Sam Hisle showed very little emotion when Sheriff McCord read him the death warrant last Thursday, but showed much pleasure at the thought of a new suit of clothes, which would be given him. The Sun-Sentinel, Thursday, October 12, 1905
		To Hang at 9 A.M. At nine o'clock this morning Sam Hisle, the rapist, will be hung in the jail yard. We do not believe that exploiting such incidents are for the public good. Magnifying such things fixes crime in the minds of the people and causes them to think of crime when it is best that we should think of pleasant things. He was fairly tried and convicted and has confessed his guilt. He is to be hung this morning as he deserves to be. When it is over, let us dismiss the horrible subject from our minds. We could draw moral lessons but they would be of no effect. Brutes like Hisle don't read the Sun-Sentinel.

	IN MEMORIAM Died, at his home, near Winchester, KY., Tuesday, October 18 th , 1892, of typhoid fever, Mr. James J. Hodgkin in the 41 st year of his age.
	"There is no sleep so calm, so beautiful, so free from all trace of pain, as the sleep of death,: and so we thought with Dickens, as we gazed upon the handsome, pallid features of this dear friend, who in the prime of life, and with a bright future before him, had suddenly passed to be with Jesus in that home beyond the Jordan.
	His illness was not of many days duration, nor was his condition thought to be alarming until his last night on earth, when his suffering was so intense, that even in his delirium he begged so piteously to go home, that at the dawning of the morning methinks a convoy of angels came down and bore that spirit on high, to spend an eternal day in that home prepared for the children of God.
	The large concourse of sorrowing friends that followed his remains to its final resting place, and the many beautiful floral offerings which covered the fresh mound, partially testified to the esteem in which he was held. The deceased possessed may manly virtues and noble traits of characteristic not to be found every day in life. His energy was untiring, his judgement clear, his morals exemplary; a kind, good and useful citizen, who will be sadly missed in the community in which he lived. The humbler class will miss a friend who was ever ready to help them by deeds of love and mercy. The church, too, has sustained a heavy loss by this removal. He confessed a Saviour's love at "Forest Grove,: this county, some twenty years ago, since which time he has been a faithful and consistent member. To say that our brother was faultless, or made no mistakes, would be assuming too much; but to say that he possessed all the attributes and qualifications belonging to the , model man, and child of God, is but just to his memory, for he scorned the low and petty tricks to which less lofty natures will sometimes steep. To those who knew him best his moods were variable to extremes, being so very light-hearted and happy at times as to impart that cheerfulness to those around him; then, again, when high hopes were destined to be brought low by disappointments, he was for a little while, correspondingly despondent, proving that "The heart that is soonest awake to the flowers, is always the first to be touched by the thorns."
	To the bereaved brothers and sisters, we tender our warmest sympathy, and may that "Peace, sweet Peach" which passeth all understanding able in each heart till they meet again.
	He leaves a devoted wife, whose grief was so deep and pitiable, that words of comfort seemed ineffectual, and friends could only weep in silence amid a sorrow so sacred. We would say to her in this dark day of her young life, to look unto and lean upon the Savior your dear husband loved as well and trust God's word for it. He will never fail thee, nor forsake thee. Live bravely on in the sweet assurance that "We shall meet our loved and own some sweet day, Gathering around the great while throne, home sweet day. A FRIEND

Hogan, Cliff T.	A SAD DEATH
	Mr. C. T. Hogan, foreman of the Sun office, started home last Saturday night. It was very dark and when near the bridge on the Paris pike that spans the Kentucky Union railroad, he fell into the cut, and was so badly injured that he died next day about noon.
	A fence that should have guarded the cut had been carelessly left down by the employees of the railroad company. Mr. Hogan was an honest, industrious, conscientious man, and leaves a family. He learned his trade in the Democrat office, and was with its present editor for years. The entire community extends its sympathy to the distressed family. It is shocking to see a stout, young, useful man come to such an untimely end.

	A THREE weeks session of Common Please Court will begin Monday. The docket is a heavy one 71 new cases being filed and about 150 continued ones. Among the most important cases is that of Mrs. Cliff Hogan and children against the K. U. railroad for$20,000 damages on account of the killing of Mr. Hogan. It will be remembered that he came to his death by falling into the cut near the Paris pike and which accident is alleged was caused by this failure of the railroad to properly fence the cut.
	The Democrat, Wednesday, January 29, 1890.
	THE following is the opinion of the Court of Appeals reversing the decision of the Circuit Court in the case of Mrs. Cliff Hogan against the K. U. railroad: "In this action against a railroad company to recover damages for the death of one who was killed by falling at night into a cut which the company had made across a turnpike in constructing its road, there being testimony tending to show that the death was due to the negligence of the company in failing to erect suitable barriers along the banks of the cut or in allowing barriers which it had erected to be count of repair so that they afforded no protection to travelers on the highway, the court erred in giving a peremptory instruction to find for the defendant. The Democrat, Wednesday, February 15, 1893.

Smith Hays for Mrs. Minnie Hogan, administratix of Virgil Hogan, deceased, in which damages in the sum of ten thousand dollars is asked at the hands of Connie Gaines, for the death of young Hogan. About a year ago Virgil Hogan, aged ten years, in company with Flournoy Jouett, son of Judge E.S. Jouett were returning from a blackberry excursion on the Muddy Creek pike, when near Mooresville they met Mr. Gaines and some other men leading several horses. The little boys got off the road in order to let the animals pass, but when the horses got near the boys one of them wheeled around and kicked Virgil Hogan in the head. He lingered in an unconscious state for a couple of days and died. His mother, Mrs. Minnie Hogan, qualified as executrix and brought the suit in this capacity. The petition alleges that the horse was a vicious one and was known to be such by Mr. Gaines; that the animal was led in a careless manner and was suffered to kick Hogan, from the effects of which he later died. Hogan, Wm. S.	Death of a Veteran. Wm. S. Hogan died Monday at his home near Pinchem in the 85th year of his age. His funeral was preached at the family residence by Eld. J. W. Harding and he was buried under the auspices of the Confederate Veterans Association in the old Adams grave yard. He served in the Mexican war under John S. Williams and in the Confederate army under Col. Chenault. He also served the county as jailer. A Hero Has Fallen. "Yes, a hero—not one who lived in glare and glitter of the world's homage but a hero all the same. "William S. Hogan died in his humble home on the night of the 23rd inst. He was a member of the company which served under John S. Williams in the war with Mexico. He was a veteran of the war between the States as well. As a soldier he was brave and true. Ready always and in line for camp or field duty. After the war was over he took up the battle of life and fought it to the end. Stood facing the front and fired as long as he had a shot in the gun. Poor and often in need of the comforts of life, he denied himself and struggled on to life's close. As long as he was able he labored in the vineyard and even when affliction and age bent his form and whitened his head he went on crutches to the turnpike to break rocks for wages rather than ask or accept charity. It is of such stuff as this that heroes are made. And as we, about a score of his old comrades gathered around his coffin and lowered him into his lonely grave in the spot he loved so well, not one of us but felt it was an honor to call him comrade and friend. "He was laid to rest by loving hands besides the wife of his youth and young manhood. "The beautiful burial services of the Veteran Association was read, the typical spray of evergreen with the brothers' tears was dropped in his grave. "May his rest be peaceful and sweet and the awakening be to a world where there is no poverty and no pain. His comrades bid him farewell hoping in that world to give him a liverage good morning." Legland Hethways.
	joyous good morning." Leeland Hathaway

Hoggard, Ed Hogge, Elijah	Just for fun Franklin wrote letter which caused his brother-in-law's death Glasgow, Ky., - The mystery surrounding the murder of Ed Hoggard who was killed on the night of August 8 while asleep at the home of his brother-in-law, J.E. Franklin, at Greenburg, Ky., is thought to be about cleared away. Just before he was killed Hoggard received threatening letters. On the strength of these letters Franklin has been arrested and charged with the crime. The facts that led to his arrest was the striking similarity of his handwriting to that of the party who wrote the threatening letters. After being held to the grand jury Franklin admitted writing his brother-in-law a letter, "just for fun". The Winchester Democrat Friday, September 21, 1906 The Winchester Sun Tues., 4-4-1939

Hohman, Earl	On February 14, 2022, Earl Hohman left the many blessings God has bestowed on him to go the even greater blessings of life with Him in eternity. He was blessed to be the son of Fred and Hallie Hohman and further blessed by his older brother, Kenneth, who was his closest friend through much of their lives.
	He served in the US Navy during the closing years of WWII, graduated from Speed School and the engineering school of the University of Louisville. Soon after, God called him to preach. He graduated from Southern Baptist Theological Seminary with a Masters in Divinity. God further blessed him by calling him to be pastor of the Augusta Ky Baptist Church. While there, God gave him Margaret Rose Taylor, the perfect wife.
	They were married on December 28, 1953. They were husband, wife and best friends for 64 years. Then God called him to Morganfield (Ky) Baptist Church.
	While there, God gave him two fine sons, Jeff and Nathan "Nace". When his work was finished there, he pastored the First Baptist Church Nicholasville (Ky). In 1970, he retired from full-time ministry to work with computer systems for the Ky Department of Mental Health until he retired in 1988. Throughout this time, God continued to use him as interim pastor twelve times in five different churches and many Sundays of supply preaching. He let him teach the CoEd2 class at Immanuel Baptist Church in Frankfort until he and Margaret moved to Brooks Place in Winchester.
	Special thanks to the Willows at Hamburg for the excellent care provided the past four years. God blessed Earl with a wonderful loving family. Jeff married Debbie Shroat and they have two special daughters, Lauren and Madison (Matt Knowe) and two great grandchildren, JB and Kingsley. Nathan married Tempa Harris and they have a special son, Taylor.
	And now Earl has entered the presence of God, forgiven of his many sins by Christ's atoning death to share in Christ's resurrection glory.

Holland, S. M.	A fatal shooting Thursday afternoon S.M. Holland had trouble with a customer in the barber shop of R.S. Noland at the St. George Hotel and was ejected by Noland. Holland was drinking and during the afternoon made threats against the life of Noland, but they did not meet for some hours. Noland was at the supper table, when Holland entered and seizing Noland about the neck, bore him to the floor. Noland drew a pistol and shot him in the right breast inflicting a wound from which Holland died a few hours later. The next morning Coroner Brineger held an inquest. The jury composed of D.W. Owen, Fred M. Owen, E.E. Hughes, D.D. King, John Kirk and Shelby Elkin rendered a verdict in accordance with these facts and further stated that Noland acted in self defense.

	Noland, who had been in charge of the police, was then taken before Judge Evans and released on his own bond of $250 to await the action of Circuit court. Holland was an agent for the Kentucky Central Life and Accident Insurance Company, of Louisville.
	The dead man had but little money and S. A. West of Louisville, acting for the company, defrayed the burial expenses, the body being buried in the Winchester cemetery. Holland's home was at McPherson, Georgia, and his brother, the postmaster of that point was here Saturday. He said his brother was a very dangerous man when drinking. Noland is a quiet young man, a barber who came here from Mt. Sterling. He is a member of the local lodge of Odd Fellows and is highly respected.

Hollar, Mis. Mary
	There died in this city on July 17 th a woman whose life deserved more than passing notice, Mrs. Mary Hollar, born Oct. 5, 1825. She was a daughter of Caleb and Hannah Mastin. Methodist pioneer settlers of Nicholas county. In early childhood she gave her life to God and through eighty-two years she remained his faithful follower and handmaiden. She was very modest and unobtrusive and honored God by helping her husband, Rev. W.F. Hollar – a local Methodist preacher and in entertaining the ministers who came to the vicinity to work for the master. She had no servants to cook the meals and care for the house and provide for the family, but with her own hands and the help of members of her family, she cooked, kept house, wove and sewed, no grudgingly, but cheerfully, all through life. Through the married life of Frances and Mary Hollar extending over nearly half a century, they lived at the same house near Headquarters in Nicholas county, where M.L. Hollar now resides. Four children survive this sainted mother: J.W. Hollar, Winchester, Mrs. W.J. Rutledge, of Grayson, Mrs.
	Annie Rankins, Portsmouth, O, and M.L. Hollar, of Nicholas county. When I contemplate the pure, simple lives of the people of the hill country of our State I am reminded of those lines from Burns' "Cotter's Saturday night." O Scotia my dear, my native land! For whom my warmest wish to Heaven is sent!
	Long may thy hardy sons of rustic toil Be Blest with health, with peace and sweet content. And, O May heaven their simple lives prevent. From luxuries contagion, weak and vile! Then however crowns and coronets be rent. A virtuous populace may rise the while, and stand a wall of fire around your much loved isle. All her life she was a member of the Rose Hill church in the yard of which she is sleeping until God shall call his people. Her peaceful, quiet, humble, Christian life should be an inspiration to her children and all who knew her. The pure stream of life that flows out into this world from the plain, modest, remote country homes is the hope of our country. In war and in peace our country homes where God fearing, home loving parents rear sturdy sons and daughters A Friend

Holliday, deputy sheriff	About Breathitt. Deputy Sheriff Holliday was killed by Jake Noble. It appears that Holliday went to arrest Noble for a minor offence; that he fired on Noble with a shot-gun, wounding him; Noble then fired six times with a 44 killing Holliday. Noble it is said, will refuse to be arrested while Hargis is county judge. The Nobles are of a fighting family and were anti-Hargis in the late election. It appears that we will have more trials in this county growing out of of Breathitt county conditions. The Callahan brothers are at outs. They were formerly in business together. It is charged that Sam Callahan forged the names of his brothers, Ed. and Green, to a note for $104, at the Winchester Bank in this city, and that an indictment is prepared and will be returned tomorrow charging him with the forgery. THREE MINUTES

Was Enough for the Jury to Acquit Dennie Warnock of Murder.

RIVERTON, Ky., July 22.-The jury, after three minutes deliberation, returned a verdict of not guilty in the case of the Commonwealth against ex-Deputy Sheriff Dennie B. Warnock, charged with killing John Hollingsworth last November. The trial lasted four days, during which time many witnesses were examined and the ablest counsel to be secured was engaged on either side. The circumstance for which Warnock was tried transpired on the sixth day of last November. Warnock and Ed Hollingsworth became engaged in an altercation, during which Hollingsworth struck Warnock a couple of blows on the head with his naked fist. Warnock drew his revolver, but friends seized him and attempted to disarm him, but during the scuffle the pistol was discharged, the ball striking and fatally wounding John Hollingsworth, the father of the young man who was engaged in the fight with Warnock.

Hollingsworth, Paul Arthur

Paul Arthur Hollingsworth, 63, husband of Charlene Bates Hollingsworth, went from the loving arms of his family into the loving arms of Jesus on October 27, 2017. Paul was born on June 2, 1954, to the late Rev. Arthur and Edna Hollingsworth.

Paul was a Pastor, and at the time of his death was pasturing the Liberty Bible Church of God in Winchester, KY.

Paul was also a Funeral Director and an Embalmer for many years. He considered it an honor to serve families in their time of grief.

Paul had the gift of compassion and a true servant's heart.

He cherished his wife of 45 years, and was the most amazing Dad to his three children: Tara (Derek) Hickman, Keri Hollingsworth, and Jonathan (Monee) Hollingsworth.

Paul was a proud Poppa who adored his five grandchildren: Lauren Elise, Cameron Lee, Sophia Grace, Reagan Abbott (Hickman), and Maxwell Arthur Hollingsworth.

Paul was the rock of his family, and he leaves behind a powerful legacy of love, faithfulness, kindness and gentleness.

In addition to his immediate family, Paul is survived by 6 adoring sisters: Bonnie Kline, Elesha Knox, Enola Davis, Laverna Truitt, Shelba Edens, and Cheryl Sneed, as well as many nieces and nephews who will miss their fun-loving Uncle Paul.

He was a devoted and caring son-in-law to Roy Bates, and the late Betty Bates.

Visitation will be Sunday evening, October 29th from 4 p.m. to 8 p.m. at the Librty Bible Church of god, 6615 Veterans Memorial highway, Winchester, KY.

Celebration of Life service will be Monday, October 30th at 11 a.m., also at the church.

The service will be conducted by dear family friends, Rev. Jeff Keaton and Pastor Bill Konstantopolous.

	It was a blessing to Paul to be so well-loved and cared for by some fine young men in his church. It was important to him that these young men be honored for what they meant to him, and also to leave a legacy in their minds and hearts for eternity.
	To that end, he and the family have asked the following to be Pallbearers: Tim Riddell, Andrew and Bryce Sargent, Jason Martin, Jordan Gaither, and grandsons Cameron and Reagan Hickman.
	Honorary Pallbearers will be: beloved physician Dr. Lee Hicks; treasured friend and colleague Mike Preston; loving and caring neighbors and friends, Greg Woosley and Craig Means; supportive and trusted friend, Fred Pace; lifelong friend since childhood, Dave Coose; caring friend, Pastor Ronn Pelfrey, and infant grandson and namesake Maxwell Arthur Hollingsworth.
	The family wishes to thank both Preston Funeral Home of Paintsville, KY, and Scobee Funeral of Winchester, KY, for their tender care of our Husband and Dad and Poppa, and for working together to honor his life through their service.

Holloway, James Hillyer	The following sketch of Col. Holloway, our Senator-elect, appeared in the Courier-Journal of a recent date.
	"James Hillyer Holloway, Senator-elect from the Twenty-eighth district composed of the counties of Clark, Bourbon and Montgomery, was born in Henderson, Ky., and is a son of Wm. Starling Holloway and Mary Hillyer Holloway. His paternal grandfather John Holloway, was a Major in the war of 1812. His maternal grandfather, James Hillyer, came from Hartford, Conn., to Henderson in 1811 and became a distinguished lawyer in the Green river section. His great-grandfather, Capt. David Hart was a brother of Cols. Thomas and Nathaniel Hart, the early pioneers and three of the seven proprietors of the Transylvania Company, to whom the Legislature of North Carolina

	1200,000 granted 200,000 acres of land in what is now Henderson, County, Ky., which grant was ratified by the Virginia Legislature in 1776. Col. Holloway was educated in the Henderson schools and began the study of law. His father offered him a position in his mercantile establishment, however, and the practice of law was abandoned. A year later in September 1861, he entered the Federal army as Second Lieutenant, and in November, 1862, he was mustered out as Lieutenant-Colonel. In the following spring, he married Miss Mollie Williams of Montgomery county. Shortly after the close of the war he removed to Clark county, where he has since been engaged in farming and mercantile pursuits. He has served as a member of the Democratic County Committee and as a member of the City Council of Winchester. Although often solicited, this is the first political office to which he ever applied."

	W. D. Black and party, who felled a tree in the Wilds of Gunpowder Creek to get at coons, found the skull and crumbled skeleton of a man in a hollow of the tree and a $10 gold piece. The remains are supposed to be those of a man named Holt, who went from Belleviews, this county, en route to Glencoe years ago and was never heard from. One theory is he climbed the tree while hunting, and fell headforemost into the hollow, either being killed by the fall or starving.

	Devises Most Of His Wealth To Build A Masonic Orphan's Home Frankfort, Ky., April 3
	The will of James A. Holt, disposing of property valued at $150,000, was probated here.
	The Fidelity Trust Co., of Louisville is named as executor, upon request of Clark Lodge of Masons No. 40, of Jefferson, Ind., the chief beneficiary. Holt left a farm of 750 acres in this county to Clara Clark and Clementine Deshon, of Jeffersonville, and the rest of the property to Clark lodge, with directions to build in Jeffersonville a home for orphans of white Masons. If the persons to whom the farm is devised die without issue it goes to the Clark lodge. The will is dated 1883. A codicil dated September, 1904, provides only "white" children shall be cared for in the home.

	A dispatch from Frankfort says: "Through the appointment of a committee to divide the estate of the late James Holt between his nieces, Mrs. Clara Clark and Mrs. Clementine Deshon, every provision of this will has been carried into effect except the arrival of a child to inherit 742 acres of Blue Grass land after the death of the two women. Neither of them however, has given up hope that the stork will appear. Mrs. Clark has been married eleven years and Mrs. Deshon three years. If these women die without children the Masonic Orphans; Home at Jeffersonville, Ind., to which Holt gave $500,000 will be $100,000 richer, as the farm left to his nieces reverts to the Home if they die childless. The estate is one of the finest in Franklin county, was founded by Harry Todd, who erected the largest house in the county outside of Frankfort. The house contains nineteen rooms with only four people to occupy it, and although the sisters are not on speaking terms, they will petition the committee to run a dividing line through the center of the home in order that they may occupy it. For, if they live away from the

Hood, Horace AA	A terrible tragedy took place near the Levee, in Montgomery county last Sunday night. A Negro named Ed. Higgins went home and found another Negro named Horace Hood in bed with his wife. He took a grubbing hoe and killed the guilty pair by beating their brains out, and left for parts unknown. A little child of Higgins' was so badly frightened by the terrible murder, that it is feared she may lose her reason. The Clark County Democrat Wed., 5-19-1880
Hood, J. T.	Died—at his home in Madison county, on the 29 th of May, Dr. J. T. Hood, a native of this county. Dr. Hood was a graduate of Jefferson Medical college and was a very popular and successful physician. He was a member of the Presbyterian church, His funeral was preached by Dr. Forman, assisted by Rev. Mr. Crowe. True to himself he could be faithless to home, and there are many to mourn he laying down to his final rest of this kindhearted, honest man. The Democrat, Wednesday, June 4, 1890

Hood, John B.	This gallant soldier died at New Orleans last Saturday. He was born at Owingsville, Bath county, Kentucky, in 1830, and graduated at West Point in 1858. He was assigned to duty in the 2 nd dragoons, the crack regiment of the old army, and while fighting the Indians was severely wounded in 1857. He entered the Confederate army at the beginning of the struggle between the States and rose from the position of Colonel to that of General. During the war he lost an arm and a leg, and made a world wide reputation as a bold, fearless dashing fighter. He was unfortunate in his command of the Western army, but he was overwhelmed by numbers and the time had gone by when success was possible. In the days of chivalry he would have made as courageous, gallant a knight as ever couched a lance. Before receiving his appointment to West Point, he went to school in Clark near the Montgomery line, and has many warm friends here, who sincerely mourn his death. His mother was the sister of Judge Richard French, dec'd, and his father a brother of the late Dr. Andrew Hood of this place. He was, therefore, the first cousin of Judges James and C. S. French and of Richard French and Mrs. J. T. Tucker, of our town. Mrs. Dr. Geo. O. Graves is his sister. After the war, he wanted to go into business in New Orleans, but lacked the capital. Forty of his friends in this and Montgomery counties, (the most of them, however, being from Clark,) advanced for his benefit the sum of $10,000, which was lost in the bad times that he happened to strike. He was born and bred a soldier, and had no aptitude for any other pursuit. No man was more honorable or made braver efforts to succeed, but everything that he undertook in the financial line was a failure. His wife and two children have died within the past ten days, and another child is quite ill with the yellow fever. Hitherto he has been in the habit of leaving the city during the sickly season, but this year his finances did not permit. He leaves nine children, who are under the age of eleven years

	and friend passed away on December 23, 2021 in Longmont, CO. His long battle with Parkinson's disease showed his courage in facing life challenges and he stayed strong until the end. L.B. was born in Winchester, KY to the late Lyle and Mattie Hood. L.B. is survived by his wife of 57 years, Frannie Follick Hood, daughters Synthia "Synth" Hood Decay (Do Balence Botto) and Words Kling (Too)). Grandbillion "Syndy" Hood Deese (Dr. Rebecca Bartee) and Wendy Kling (Troy). Grandchildren Lauren Hangge (Jon), Haley Deese, Wyatt Kling, Shantell Hayes (Steven) and Jordyn Harvey (Travis). Great Grandchildren Brantley Gould, Cora Hangge, Hayden and Harper Harvey. In addition to his immediate family he leaves behind numerous nieces, nephews, cousins and dear friends in Longmont and Winchester.
	L.B. grew up in Winchester, KY and graduated from Clark County High School in 1963. He began his career with IBM in 1964 at the Lexington plant and in 1977 moved his family to Longmont, Colorado where he worked in Boulder until his retirement in 2003.
	He was an athlete his entire life; playing high school basketball and baseball. He was known to be quite the pool shark and spent many hours at the Playhouse in Winchester earning a little cash on the side in his early days. His father-in-law, Bud Follick, introduced him to bowling and L.B. bowled regularly up until the last few months.
	Over his lifetime he bowled six, perfect, 300 games. The friendships he made at Centennial Lanes in Longmont were dear to him and have been long lasting. He and his bowling buddies participated in many tournaments in Sidney, Reno and Las Vegas. His last tournament in Vegas (2018) was a great accomplishment as he was years into his Parkinson's diagnosis at that time. In addition to bowling, he spent many years playing competitive softball in the Longmont/Boulder area. One of his favorite tournament spots was in Leadville, Colorado. At over 10,000 feet in altitude it was easy for him to hit many home runs.
	After moving to Colorado L.B. maintained his ties to Kentucky and his fervent support for UK Wildcat Basketball. He fell in love with Colorado, especially Rocky Mountain National Park. He and Frannie spent many weekends with their family picnicking and exploring the area. He had an eagle eye for Colorado wildlife and could spot an elk, deer or Rocky Mountain bighorn sheep at the furthest distance.
	Another passion of his was riding his Harley Davidson with the Frederick Circle Hogs. He enjoyed the miles they drove together on beautiful Colorado sunny days, especially through the mountains.
	L.B. Hood was a small town, southern man that loved his family and friends.
	A celebration of his life will be held on Sunday, January 30th from 2:00 - 5:00 pm at Centennial Lanes in Longmont, Colorado. We invite you to join us as we celebrate him and bowl a few games after his service.
	In lieu of flowers, please consider a contribution to the Parkinson's Foundation, the Michael J Fox Foundation or the Davis Phinney Foundation in his memory.
	L.B. 's family would like to thank Dr. Mark Hinman and everyone at Life Care Center of Longmont for their support and dedication to his care. To sign the online guestbook visit www.ScobeeFuneralHome.com.

Lebanon, July 5Clarence Shipp, aged 17, who a few days ago, it is claimed, ambushed and assassinated Richard Horde and seriously wounded John Allen on Scott's Ridge, this county, has not yet been apprehended, although a posse has been searching for him, and believe they will shortly capture him. Deputy Sheriff Jack T. Fisher brought in and placed in jail Guidion Shipp, an 11-year old brother of Clarence Shipp, the alleged assassin. He was with his brother in the thicket when the fatal shots were fired. He declares he is innocent, but admits having been with his brother when the shots were fired. It has been learned that four men were shot instead of two, as at first reported. Horde, who died, had 40 buckshot in his breast and head. Dave Allen was mortally wounded and John Allen is badly shot, but not seriously. A lunch basket he carried protected him. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, July 9, 1901.

	Death of W. H. Horine. About six o'clock Sunday evening Mr. W. H. Horine, of this city, died in Lexington. He left here about noon of the same day in a carriage. When about halfway to Lexington he fell into a stupor from which he did not recover. The body as returned here Monday, and Tuesday the funeral services were held at his late residence on West Broadway, conducted by Elder c. J. Armstrong, pastor of the Court street Christian church to which the deceased belonged. A large number followed the remains to the cemetery where the concluding services were conducted by the Odd Fellows. Mr. Horine was a man of noble and generous disposition. He was not faultless, but "Let him that is without sin cast the first stone." The motto of Friendship, love and Truth was exemplified by the odd Fellows in Mr. Horine's case. Mrs. Horine is a noble woman. Her sorrow is great, but she can have some comfort in knowing that she has sympathy from all classes of our people. Their four children, three sons and a daughter,

	Campbellsville, Ky., Oct. 13. – The report that Joe Horton, the slayer of Postmaster Dinn at Amity, Ind., was a desperado, and had killed two men here is a mistake. Horton is about 22 years old and was born and reared about four miles north of this place of respectable parentage. He was never in a difficulty here, but comes of a family noted for courage. Horton while drinking here several years ago rode another man's horse part of the way home and hitched it on the highway, where it was soon found. The owner became angered and indicted him for horse stealing. After a time there was a Campbellsville, Ky., Feb. 24.—One dead and the other dying is the result of a desperate duel between Robert Shipp and Lloyd Horton, brothers-in-law in Taylor county, near this place, Wednesday. The duel grew out of a feud of long standing between the men, and for sensational features has not been equaled in this section. Wednesday afternoon Shipp was passing Horton's house. Horton was standing outside and Shipp made some remark. Horton told him he wanted nothing to do with him and to get away from him, whereupon Shipp drew his pistol and fired, the ball entering just to the right of Horton's navel. Horton then drew his pistol and fired. Shipp fell and instantly expired, but Horton continued to fire until the contents of his revolver were emptied into Shipp's body.

	Horton called his wife to assist him into the house, saying that he was killed. At 9 p. m.
	he is dying. Both men leave large families.

Hoskins, Albert B. Sr. Hoskins, Buck	The Winchester Sun Wed., 12-11-1963 Kiddville Correspondences-A terrible accident occurred near the Red River Iron Works
,	on Friday, the 20 th inst. Mr. "Buck" Hoskins left his home for the purpose of feeding stock across the river from his house, and attempted to cross the Iron Works dam upon the ice. He carried with him a pole about 20 feet in length, evidently designed to hold him above the water in case the ice should break. Unfortunately it did break, and let him down into water fifteen feet deep. As he arose and clutched to the ice he screamed with all the power of his voice and was heard by some of his family and others, who rushed to his rescue, but arrived only to find that he had sunk to rise no more. His struggle for life must have been a terrible one, for the ice was broken for a considerable space around where he sank through. His body floated under the ice; it was not recovered until the following day. Mr. Hoskins was one of the best and most useful citizens of this county. What a stroke to his family! How suddenly the strong arm is palsied! Upon the bosom of their great Creator may they lean, to his ear petition, for he only can pour in the balm to soothe their suddenly stricken souls.

Hoskins, Riley	The life of a brakeman on a railroad seems to have a peculiar fascination for many men, yet there is hardly any position so fraught with peril, an at best it is but a few years before he is usually killed or badly hurt. A verification of this was the fatal accident that occurred at Indian Fields Wednesday afternoon. When the West bound train on the Kentucky Union road reached that place. Riley Hoskins, a brakeman, went into the store and came out with a pair of gum boots in his hand. He attempted to board the train, which was already in motion, but his feet slipped on the icy platform and he was drawn under the wheels. In a moment the wheels passed over his body crushing the life out at once. The limbs were cut off and mangled and the body frightfully crushed. He was about 25 years old and unmarried. The remains were carried to his home in Powell county for interment.

Trouston, James 11.	Two Men Killed, Five Seriously Injured and Ten Slightly Hurt In the Wreck.
	Lebanon, Ky., June 31Two men were killed, five seriously injured and ten slightly injured in a wreck on the Greensburg branch of the Louisville & Nashville railroad at Calvary, six miles from Lebanon. The killed are: Geo. Mullins, bridge carpenter, of Mt.
	Vernon, and J. H. Houston, bridge carpenter, of Pine Hill. Seriously injured: J. B. Martin, supervisor, of Lebanon; Wm. Adams, bridge carpenter, of Broadhead; John Newland, bridge carpenter, of Broadhead; E. W. Hagan, baggage man, of Greensburg, and Claude Hobson, brakeman, of Campbellsville. Slightly injured: Ed Smith, carpenter; Charles Andes; Robert Bell, bridge carpenter; Frank Allen, bridge carpenter; Walter Miller, bridge carpenter, Glen Spaulding, passenger, of Lebanon, and C. K. Crawford, passenger, of Danville. Thirteen bridge carpenters were at work on the bridge that crosses Rolling Fork river. The passenger train, composed of engine, baggage car, combination coach and one regular coach, was in the center of the first 100-foot span when the bridge gave way and precipitated almost the entire train into the bed of the river. The last coach, containing 23 passengers, was left hanging over the abutment, and was not seriously damaged until after its occupants were taken out. Lebanon, Ky., June 22With the exception of John Newland and Wash Cable, bridge carpenters, of Broadhead, those injured in the wreck at Calvary, Ky., are rapidly recovering. The remains of James Houston and George Mullins, the two killed, were shipped home. The wreck, is considered by railroad men the worst in years, the bridge having given away at each end almost simultaneously, precipitating bridge and train, with the exception of a rear coach, to the river bed, about 30 feet below. Men are working night and day, and it is not thought traffic will be delayed longer than Friday.

Howard – Turner Feud	The daily papers of Friday contained intelligence of another outbreak in Harlan county. About the August election Geo. Turner was killed by Wilson Howard. A warrant was issued for his arrest, but both the sheriff and jailer were his relatives and refused to make the arrest. Wilson Lewis, the county judge, summoned a posse and went to arrest Howard. He found him surrounded by a number of his friends and opened fire, fatally wounding a member of Howard's party named Spurlock. Geo. Hall of the attacking party, was also killed during the fight. Both parties were scattered. Meredith and Craig, of the Judge's party were ambushed on their way back and badly wounded. Judge Lewis and his brother were followed and fired on but without effect. Howard has a number of determined men with him and says he will not be taken. The Gov. of Missouri has offered $5,000 reward for his arrest for crimes committed there and Gov. Buckner has offered $500 on account of the last killing. The Winchester Democrat Wed., 8-28-1889 A special from St. Louis says: "Wilson Howard, a notorious desperado and outlaw, was placed in jail here Saturday night. He was one of the principals in the notorious feud that for eight years, existed between the Turners, Bailey's and Howard's in Harlan county, Ky., and according to the statement of John S. Bailey, brother of his victims, the Turner family, and a dozen or more distant relatives of Bailey. Howard will be taken to Maries county, Mo., and be tried on the charge of murdering Thos. McNichols, a deaf mute, on April 27, 1889. Howard was located by John S. Bailey in the penitentiary at California, when he was robbing the stage coach near San Quentin. The Governor granted him a pardon and he was brought here." The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, February 11, 1891 Wilson Howard, the famous Harlan county desperado, has been sentenced to death in Missouri for the murder of a deaf mute who was an important witness against him in another case. He was one of the principals in the famous Howard-Turner feud which dates back to 1882 and, is said has killed thirteen men himself. The Democrat, Wednesday, February 10, 1892. Berry Turner, the notorious outlaw and leader of the Turner faction in Harlan county, was captured at White Oaks, Tenn. He was at the house of his sister, and when the Sheriff and posse surrounded the house he retreated to a loft armed with a Winchester rifle and revolver and swore that he would not surrender, but after a seige of an hour and a half he finally, on the assurance of the officers that he would not be hurt, surrendered. He escaped jail at Pineville a year ago, where he was confined for one of the many murders charged to him. The Democrat Wednesday March 30, 1892 THE trial of Wils Howard a member of the notorious Harlan county gang, for the murder of a deaf mute, will take place at Lebanon Mo., this week. The Democrat, Wednesday, January 18, 1893. The old Turner feud has broken out again in Harlan county. Last week John Turner and his uncle, Will Turner, were both killed in a fight with Dr. Nolin, a prominent physician. The Turners were the leaders in the Howard-Turner feud which caused so much trouble there a few years ago. Wils Howard, the leader on the other side, was hung in Missouri a few weeks ago. The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, February 14, 1894 "Wild Bill" Turner, once a leader in the noted Turner-Howard feud and reputed to be the wealthiest man in Bell county, was shot and killed by Will Combs at Middlesborough Monday. Middlesboro, Ky., April 21.—Details of a tragedy which occurred late Wednesday on Wilson's creek have just been received in this city. Green Howard and John Simpson, neighbors, became engaged in an altercation, when Simpson drew a revolver and mortally wounded Howard. Throwing down his pistol, Simpson started on a run for home. When he was some distance away Howard secured Simpson's pistol and fired at him. Simpson instantly fell dead. Howard is a member of the Howard family, of Howard-Turner feud fame. Howard, James	Another victim Of A Feud. James Howard Assassinated in the Shadow of the Manchester Courthouse Near Where Tom Baker Fell. Manchester, Ky., (via London) June 16.—Another tragedy occurred in the famous Baker Howard feudal war Thursday, and this time the Howards, in turn, lost one of their bravest and ablest leaders. James Howard was standing in front of the courthouse Thursday afternoon conversing with friends and was just turning to enter the building, when a sharp report like the crack of a whip was heard, and a puff of smoke curled slowly from a window not half a block away. Howard whirled about facing the locality from which the shot had been fired and fell to the ground, gasping, "They've shot me!" The bystanders scattered for a moment, fearing more firing, and then returning, gathered up the prostrate man and carried him into an adjacent residence. There a physician examined the victim and found him mortally wounded, the shot having entered the right side. No trace could be found of the man who fired the shot, and, indeed, little effort was made in that direction for a time, so great was the excitement and so general the fear of those not directly involved in the long and deadly feud. When Sheriff White and his deputies were summoned and organized a search nothing could be found, though many of the friends of the dying man were not slow to express their opinion as to the identity of the assassin. James Howard is credited with killing George Baker, the county attorney, and the father of Dee Baker, on April 7, 1898. His own tragic death has been predicted for some time, and since the killing of Tom Baker by an unknown the other day these predictions have been renewed with stronger force. Baker was slain while surrounded by soldiery near the courthouse, and Howard was shot Thursday within a few paces of the spot where the brave leader of the hostile clan met death. Manchester has resembled a town in a state of siege for days, but the women and children were just beginning to return from the hills, where

Howard, James	The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, June 20, 1899 Dillard Adams caught On June 4 th Dillard Adams had a row with Jas. Howard in Clay county during which Adams struck Howard with a stick from the effects of which Howard has since died. Adams was from this county and for some days the officers have been on the lookout for him and yesterday morning officers Ed. Patterson and Mitchell Calmes found him in Blount's saloon and arrested him. They will take him to Clay county in a day or two. Adams is the son of Harvey Adams who was killed by Will Creed during the war. Harvey Adams was a Confederate soldier who had came back and hurrahed for Jeff Davis which so incensed Creed that he shot and killed him. The Winchester Democrat Friday, July 17, 1896
	In our notice last week of the arrest of Dillard Adams we incidentally mentioned that his father was killed during the war by Will Creed because Adams hurrahed for Jeff Davis. Capt. John C. Creed, a brother of Will Creed says we were mistaken, that Adams had menaced Creed with a shot gun and the killing grew out of that. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, July 21, 1896
	Discharged Some days ago Dillard Adams, of this county, was arrested by officers Calmes and Patterson, on a warrant from Clay county, charging him with striking Jas. Howard of that county, with a stick. It was also said that Howard had died from the effects of the blow and that his charge would be changed to murder. He was placed in jail here and the authorities of that county communicated with. This week word was received that Howard had recovered from the effects of the blow and the official added his private opinion that Adams did the right thing in striking him. It appeared that there was little or nothing in the charge and Adams was released from jail on his own recognizance to appear if the Clay county authorities wished to push the charges of breach of the peace. Howard, Jas.	Capt. Jas. Howard died at Mt. Sterling Friday, aged 87 years. For sixteen years he was postmaster of that city. The Democrat, Wednesday, December 30, 1891.
Howard, Jas.	An attempt at kukluxing near the Bath and Montgomery line Wednesday might resulted in the killing of two of the attacking party and the serious wounding of others. On that night a party of masked men went to the residence of George Kupps and broke down the door. No one except Kupps, his wife and baby were at home. Kupps seized a shotgun and fired a load into the breast of George Howard inflicting a fatal wound. As Howard fell his pistol dropped to the floor and Mrs. Kupps picked it up and shot Jas. Howard in the back killing him also. Next morning the dead bodies of the Howard brothers were found near the house. Two others of the attacking party are said to have

Howard, Jason	been badly hurt, but the doctors who were summoned refused to reveal their names. Geo. Howard was one of the principal actors in the fight at Mt. Sterling several years ago in which city marshal Young was killed and also Mr. Thomson, a bystander. For this Howard served a term in the penitentiary. Jas. Howard recently come from Missouri and was a bad man. As the bodies were being taken to the cemetery, their sister, Mrs. Lee Frisbee, who was unable to be present at the funeral, desired the procession to stop that she might have last look at the remains. The shock was so great that she went into spasms and gave premature birth to a child. She died in a short time, as did the child, and all were buried at the same time. The aged mother is lying at the point of death. The Democrat, Wednesday, October 21, 1891. Jason Howard, 33, of Lexington died Oct. 12.

Howard, John Howard, John	Howards Creeks The Lexington Herald recently published a sketch of Col. John Howard, one of the early pioneers of Kentucky from the pen of A.C. Quisenberry from which the following is an extract: "In 1775 Col. John Howard made a settlement at Boonesboro, Ky., and he entered one thousand acres of land at the mouth of each of two creeks in what is now Clark county. From this fact those two creeks were named in his honor, Howard's Upper Creek and Howard's Lower Creek; and they retain those names to this day, and probably will continue to do so to the end of the world. It is to be presumed that he lived for a time on some of his land in Clark county; and it is very probable that his only son, Governor Benjamin Howard, was born in that county; but Col. Howard was for many years a resident of Lexington, and he died in that city at the advanced age of 103 years, at the residence of Major Aaron K. Woolley who married his granddaughter, Sallie Howard Wickliffe, daughter of Robert Wickliffe, Sr. He was a devoted Christian, having been an exemplary member of the Presbyterian church for more than eighty years. His only son, Benjamin Howard, represented Fayette county, in the Kentucky Legislature in 1801 and 1802; was a member of Congress from 1807 to 1810, and soon afterwards was appointed Governor of Missouri territory. He died in St. Louis in 1814." The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, September 27, 1910

Howard, Martin Van Buren	An Aged Recluse Former Indiana Sheriff Commits Suicide near Griffith's station Owensboro, Ky., April 9 – An aged recluse is dead by his own hand in a cabin near Griffith's station. Howard Martin, as he called himself, lived for more than a decade in his solitary way in that neighborhood, but not a man of his acquaintance knew for certain what his name was. It developed after the finding of the body that his real name was Martin Van Buren Howard, formerly sheriff of Clark County, Ind. It is said that the affairs of his office at Jeffersonville were not exactly straight and that he suddenly disappeared and never returned to his Indiana home. His relatives, prominent in Indiana politics, stood by him, but could never get him to return home. It is supposed that the

Howard, Mrs. Rebecca	In the last issue of the Columbia, (Mo.) Herald the following interesting item appeared; interesting because of the principal being an inhabitant of our county: "Mrs. Rebecca Howard, of Missouri township, born in Clark county, Ky., June 16, 1807, came to Missouri in November, 1807, will be 82 years old next birthday. She says her father's emigrant wagon is supposed to have been the first wagon that ever crossed the Missouri. She undoubtedly has lived longer in Boone county than any other person now living, having been here over 81 years and a half." This is not an obituary. The Winchester Democrat Wed., 8-14-1889

Howard, Philip Montez Howard, Phillip Montez	The Winchester Sun Wed., 5-25, 5-27-2011 Philip Montez Howard of Winchester, passed away at 2:12 a.m. Monday May 23, 2011 at Clark Regional Medical Center. He was born May 5, 1982, to Dwain Howard Sr. and Francine Ferguson Nartey. He was a graduate of the Continental Academy and received his Associate Degree in Business Management from National College of Business, Thursday, May 26, 2011. In addition to his parents, he is survived by his grandmother, Ms. Anna Howard, three brothers; Brian Clark, Dwain Howard Jr. and Dominic Vancleve, all of Winchester, several aunts and uncles, a host of nieces, nephews and cousins and a very special friend, Deniece Williams. Funeral services will be Monday, May 30, 2011 at 1 p.m. at First Baptist Church, North Highland St., with Rev. Marvin King officiating. Visitation will be at 10 a.m. until the time of service. Chenault Brothers Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements.
	Police made their first arrest in Monday's fatal home invasion, three days after the suspect showed up at St. Joseph East Hospital with a gunshot wound to his back. Aaron Lewis, 29, of Lexington, had been in police custody since Tuesday, Winchester Police Capt. James Hall said, but was released from the University of Kentucky Medical Center late Thursday afternoon. where he was transferred. "We've been interviewing him and gathering evidence since Monday," Hall said. "He has made statements to us, but he has not made any statements as to his role in the home invasion." Several of those statements, Hall said, were conflicting and could not be corroborated. Lewis is facing first-degree burglary and murder charges for the death of 28-year-old Philip Howard early Monday morning in his home on Redwing Drive. Howard and one of the invaders, 24-year-old Demontez Cowherd, both died later that morning from gunshot wounds. Witnesses saw a man fleeing the scene after they heard shots after 1 a.m. Monday. Witnesses also reported seeing a silver or blue Dodge Magnum leaving the area at a high rate of speed. "We believe this is the individual witnesses saw leaving the scene," Hall said. Officers also located the vehicle, which was registered to Cowherd's girlfriend Ann-Gelica White, in Lexington later that day. Lexington Police officers processed the car for evidence and found blood from the back seat as well as evidence that linked Cowherd to the car, Hall said. White had reported the car as stolen, Hall said. Hall would not comment on whether White is a suspect. Detectives are actively searching for other suspects, he said. "Somebody dropped Mr. Lewis off at the hospital and the description (of the vehicle) was similar to the one leaving the scene," Hall said. Hall said more than five shots were fired inside the home, as Howard defended himself. One of the handguns recovered at the scene belonged to Howard, while the other belonged to Cowherd. So far, detectives have not established the exact relationship between the three, but believe they were acquainted with each other. Lewis was lodged in the Clark County Detention Center.

Howard, Thomas AA	Mt. Sterling Sentinel: A colored boy, Thomas Howard, aged about 17 years, was found dead in the pasture of J. Davis Reid, about 2 miles from the city, on the Winchester pike, last Wednesday morning. A ball had penetrated his skull at the base of the brain just in front of the right ear. Mr. Reid says he probed into the wound four inches and the ball went straight in. Near the body was a small pistol .22 caliber, with two of the chamber empty. The deceased had been in town with another Negro boy named Tom Adams and they were returning home. Adams says that when they arrived near the place where the body was found, Howard said he had forgotten something and must return to town, and told Adams to go on home, which he did. These boys were seen together by Davis Reid and hands passing from town and they were chatting and on friendly terms. The body was found not more than fifty yards from where Reid's hands were at work, but none of them heard any firing. The coroner, J. A. Orear, held an inquest and the jury returned a verdict that deceased came to his death by violence, but

They trailed him to the house of John Pitts, in Menifee county, which they reached before day Tuesday. A light was made and Howard shook the apparently sleeping man to wake him up. In a moment the latter seized a pistol from under his pillow and shot Howard through the brain; turning, he put another through the head of Tipton, and with pistol in hand, made for the door where he met Rayburn, at whom he fired, wounding him in the side and arm. A large bull dog seized Rayburn at the same time and tore his legs badly. The murderer, who was recognized as a man who went under the names of Alonzo or Charlie Brookshire and Charlie Crow, escaped from the house, but in a few moments returned and wanted to shoot Tipton again as he was not quite dead, but was prevented by Pitts. The horse was found there and returned to the owner. A special train was dispatched from Mt. but was caught in a couple of weeks. A short time before his term expired he escaped again, this time getting clear away. He came to this county and stayed for some time near Renick. While there he, together with a fellow named Parker, was arrested for breaking into the house of Mr. Owens and stealing a horse. While awaiting trial on that charge, John Oden, at that time Chief of Police, learned he was an escaped convict, and took him back to serve out his time. Several months ago he was arrested and placed in jail here, charged with stealing horses from Rev. Wm. Repard Geo. Hunt, and Ben Franklin, but the charge could not be proved and he was released. It is only a matter of time until murderer Brookshire will meet his fate. -Richmond Climax The Democrat, Wednesday, August 31, 1892. Menifee Circuit Court convenes in September and Brookshire, the murderer, now in the Lexington jail, will be taken there for trial. The Democrat, Wednesday, August 31, 1892. Brookshire Sent to the Pen For Life. Monday morning the jury in the Brookshire case at Frenchburg reported a verdict of murder in the first degree fixing the punishment at imprisonment for life in the penitentiary. Immediately after receiving the sentence, Brookshire was taken by Sheriff and a guard across the country to a station on the C. and O. railroad, and taken by a circuitous route to Frankfort. The Democrat, Wednesday, September 21, 1892. BROOKSHIRE, the Menifee murderer, was safely lodged in the penitentiary last Wednesday. He seemed glad to get there. To a reporter he said: "Yes, I have been here before. I was sent to the penitentiary in 1888. They accused me of breaking into a house. They made me a trusty, and I heard my mother was sick and I ran off. I was a kid then. They caught me three months later at Winchester and brought me back. I was then sent to the railroad camp, and they made is so hot for me that, when I had only two months and twelve days to serve, I ran away. You see they whipped a fellow nearly every time he turned around. I was out two years and three months when I was captured again at Winchester, and I was released from prison the 18th day of last December. "Why did you kill Mr. Tipton and Mr. Howard?" "I thought they were going to kill me. I waked up in time to see them drawing their pistols, and I don't know how I got my pistol out from under my pillow in time to get the drop on both of them. I was excited, too, and I don't know how I did it. I never saw either one of them before, and did not know what they wanted, except that when I opened my eyes they were drawing their pistols. No, sir, Mr. Tipton never arrested me The Democrat, Wednesday, September 28, 1892. Late Friday afternoon, Gov. Brown issued his proclamation offering a reward of $300 for the arrest of Alonzo Brookshire, the murderer of Tipton and Howard, and it appeared in Saturday's issue of the Capitol. The executive order has however been revoked, it appearing to the satisfaction of the Governor that Brookshire was already in custody when it was issued. The proclamation has been withdrawn from the Capitol and Mr. Brookshire saves the treasury $300 by surrendering at an early instead of a later hour in the afternoon. The money will come in very well to buy a scaffold when the time comes to hang him. The Winchester Democrat Wed., 8-10-1892 A dispatch from Frankfort says Alonzo Brookshire, the notorious outlaw, who after he escaped from the penitentiary about a year ago, killed Jailer Tipton and two deputies who were endeavoring to arrest him for horse stealing, died of typhoid fever within the walls there Wednesday. Howard, William	Father and Son Waylaid and Killed Manchester Ky., April 8.—A. B. Howard, ex-sheriff of Clay county and his son Will 8, were waylaid and killed. Howard is very prominent. A terrible feud has been raging between the Philpots, Bakers, Campbells and Howards for the past year. Twenty men have been killed during that time mostly from ambush. A reign of terror exists in many parts of the county. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, April 12, 1898 JIM BAKER TRIAL The Prosecution Concluded Its Testimony by Introducing Four Witnesses-Baker Claims an Alibi. BARBOURVILLE, Ky., Aug 5In the Jim Baker trial the prosecution concluded its testimony by introducing four witnesses. A. B. Howard testified that he was wounded at the time his son William was killed. As they were riding along the road they were shot at by persons in ambush. He recognized Tom Baker and some one whom he thought was Jim. James Robinson, who was working at Bakers' house when the killing occurred, testified that soon after shots were fired Tom and Jim came home greatly excited. Just before the shooting he said Tom went down the road in the direction whence the shots came, with what he thought to be a gun. Robinson testified in the examining trial that Tom and Jim were both home when the shots were fired. Now he calaims that he was forced by the Bakers to swear to a lie as they threatened to kill home. John Collins testified that when he heard shots he immediately ran up the hill in their direction. He saw two men enter Tom Baker's house, but could not identify them. Fuller Barrett had testified twice before that Tom and Jim were at home when Wilson Howard was killed. This time he swore that he, in company with Jim, Tom and Wiley Baker were together in the road when Howard came up: that Tom fired and Burch Storr fell dead and Bill Howard was wounded. Jim Baker fired and there was a fusillade of bullets. He said the Bakers forced him to swear false the first two times. Barrett was indicted with the Bakers for the murder, but after his indictment had been final trial beginning Tuesday morning. It is not probable that a motion will be made for bail in Jim's case, as it most likely would be denied. About 20 of the Bakers and many of the supporters are here. A large White force is also here, but none of the Whites. Both sides are heavily armed and considerable bitter feeling is expressed. The Bakers said Monday night that the other side are attempting to bridle the Bakers' witnesses. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, August 8, 1899

Howard, Wilson	Troops To Guard The Court. Lexington, Ky., June 3.—The Lexington battalion of the state guard with a Gatling gun, left here on a special train Saturday morning for Manchester, the county seat of Clay county, to protect the court while Tom Baker and accomplices are tried for killing Wilson Howard and Burch Stone last year in the Baker-Howard feud. Ammunition for rifles and Gatling gun arrived here Friday morning. There was target practice Friday afternoon and Col. Williams took 30 of the best marksmen from each company, besides the Gatling gun battery and the men to serve it. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, June 6, 1899
	Baker Kept His Word. Was in Waiting, When the State Guard Arrived—He Says It Will Be Easy to Prove an Alibi. Manchester, Ky., June 9.—The Bakers are in the guardhouse at Camp George Bradley, under the protection of the state militia. Wednesday morning at 4 o'clock a detail of 20 men, under Maj. J. Embry Allen and Capt. Fred Wilson, guided by Deputy Sheriff Stubblefield, left Manchester in two jolt wagons. They arrived at the home of Perry Collins on Cane creek, 12 miles from here, about 8:30 o'clock. As per his agreement Tom Baker was there. With him was his wife, his son, his brothers, Dee and A. W. Baker and their friend, Robert Henley. Immediately upon arrival at Collins' home Stubblefield read to Tom Baker a warrant sworn by county Judge Wright, charging him with the murder of Burch Stoor, who was killed from ambush on April 6, 1898, along with Wilson Howard, and at the same time that A. B. Howard was punctured in the back, for all of which Tom Baker is held responsible. The arrest of Baker by Stubblefield on such a warrant was as much a surprise to the soldiers as it was to Baker, who on the other hand, regarded the troops, whom he believed had come merely for the purpose of protecting him, with suspicion, believing, for a time, that he was being entrapped. The entire party named above entered the wagons with the guards and were driven back to Manchester. The Bakers were uneasy all the route and kept watchful eyes on the hilltops and ever tried to penetrate the denseness of the roadside brush and foliage for evidence of some lurking enemy with an assassin's heart. The journey, however, was without particular incident, nothing occurring that was the least in evidence that the opposing faction had made a move to take Baker's life. Baker says he is innocent of the murders charged against him and can easily prove an alibi. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, June 13, 1899 Clay County Feud The Trial of the Bakers at Manchester terminated in a tragedy in spite of the presence of the troops. The indictments against the Bakers were quashed, new ones found, and a change of venue to Knox county had been granted. Tom Baker, the principal prisoner, stepped out of the tent in which he was guarded and was shot through the heart by a bullet fired from the house of Sheriff Bev. White across the street. The assassin was not found, although when broken into, White's house was found to be well stocked with guns. The troops left Sunday for Barbourville with two of the other Bakers as prisoners. John G. White, of this city, brother of Sheriff and of Will White who was killed by Tom Baker, left Sunday for the seat of war. It is expected that trouble will break out afresh. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, June 13, 1899 Capt. Slack was with the soldier boys at Manchester as Adjutant. On the was to Barbourville the forces were interrupted by a crowd whose object is thought to have been the capture of the Gatling gun, of which they stood in wholesome awe, but when this was placed in position they left at once. He thinks there will be more trouble in Clay county and says that no one can foresee the end. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, June 16, 1899
Howard, Wm.	Jas. Baker Acquitted James Baker was acquitted at Barbourville Monday of the murder of Wilson Howard. Hubbard, Ann Marlene	CROWDS GATHERING. No Doubt Has the Bakers' Attorneys as to Their Acquittal-The Cases May Be Called Tuesday Afternoon. BARBOURVILLE, Ky., July 26The largest crowd ever seen in this town was here Monday at the opening of court, where Wiley and Jim Baker will be tried on a change of venue from Clay county. A large portion of the crowd was composed of friends and witnesses in the case. No steps were taken Monday in this case, and it will probably not be called before Tuesday afternoon. Attorney Allen Baker, of Manchester, is here, and has been since the murder of his brother Tom. He will take the leading part in the defense. He expresses surprise at the possibility of conviction, and claims no case can be made against the boys. They have many friends and relatives in this county, who say they will contend for their rights. The Whites, who will be interested in the prosecution, have not yet arrived, but will probably be on hand Tuesday. Another murder case to come up at this term is against Lawson Goodin for complicity in the alleged murder of Town Marshal Hubbard 13 years ago. Goodin left this county soon after the killing, returning only last year, when he surrendered for trial. His alleged accomplice, Will Beckett, was sent up for 21 years, but was lately pardoned. There is no indication of trouble. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, August 1, 1899.

Hughes, Frank	ON Monday night of last week Frank Hughes, a prominent farmer of Scott county, was brutally murdered by Frank Dudley, a colored man whom he had recently discharged from his employ. Dudley's wife still remained to cook for Mr. Hughes who was a bachelor. Dudley had asked Mr. Hughes to be employed again, but the latter refused. Dudley that night got drunk and told other negroes that he intended to kill his and Hughes also. When Dudley's wife saw him coming she ran to the house and begged Hughes to let her in to keep her husband from killing her. He at first refused, but afterwards admitted her. Dudley came to the door cursing and swearing he would kill her. Hughes told him to go away, but Dudley tried to break door down. Mr. Hughes grabbed a hay knife and opened the door when Dudley fired, shooting the whole top of Hughes' head off. Dudley went to Georgetown, surrendered himself and was put in jail. Thursday night a crowd of men, well organized and quiet, went to the jail, overpowered the officers and took Dudley out and hung him to a tree near town. The negroes seem much excited and the women especially are uttering threats advocating burning of houses, etc. On Friday night three fires in different parts of the city broke out about the same time showing that the negroes were disposed to put their threats into execution.

The State Authorities at Frankfort were telegraphed to and Adjutant General Hill sent down one hundred rifles and a large quantity of ammunition which were distributed among the citizens. The houses burned belonged to ex-Judge Payne and County Judge Varon. Pawling Hall, the boarding house of the College was also fired. The better class of negroes say that there is no organized plot, but that the fires were caused by some of the meaner and lower element. The Democrat, Wednesday, September 2, 1891. 	Capt. D. J. Pendleton, Surveyor and Commissioner, assisted by J. Harvey Hunt and Dr. Wash Miller, Commissioners, have been engaged this week in dividing the land of Mrs. John Coleman, deceased, near Pine Grove. The heirs are J. H. Graves, Mrs. Lizzie H. Gay, Mrs. Hallie Wilson and Ben Douglas Goff. The right of the latter in a proportion of the estate is in controversy growing out of the will of the late Jacob Hughes. The latter left his property to his grandchildren who were Mrs. Will Estill, Mrs. Robt. Estill, Mrs. Richard Prewitt, Mrs. Richard Spurr and a young man who died, children of Chas. Schaeffer and Mrs. Coleman, Mrs. Gay, Mrs. Wilson, Jacob R. Graves and Mrs. Ben Goff, children of Ben Graves. He provided in his will that if any of his grandchildren should die without issue, that their share should go to their brothers and sisters. As will be seen above, the mother of Master Ben Douglas Goff was a sister of the deceased Mrs. Coleman, was being the only heir of his mother, claims her share of Mrs. Coleman's estate. This claim is resisted on the part of Mr. Graves, Mrs. Gay and Mrs. Wilson on the ground that it is not in accordance with the will of Mr. Hughes. Master Goff won in the late term of the Circuit Court here, and the case was carried to the Court of Appeals where it is now pending. The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, May 17, 1893

	Katherine Michelle Hines (Andrew) and Elisabeth Paige Sellards (Charley), and six grandchildren, Keira Sellards, Nora Sellards, Ruby Sellards, Beatrix Sellards, Miles Hines and Amelia Hines. She attended Randolph-Macon Woman's College, Pikeville College, Eastern Kentucky University, and the University of Kentucky. She held Bachelor's degrees in history and political science and a Master's degree in business administration and worked as a Certified Public Accountant for many years. She was a devoted wife of forty years to her childhood sweetheart. Her greatest accomplishment in her mind was the rearing of her children. She was totally devoted to them and talked daily of the pleasure of homeschooling them and some of their friends. She loved hearing of all their accomplishments and spending time with her grandchildren. In her later years she took pleasure in teaching Sunday School at her church, The Fellowship of Believers, and teaching children on mission trips. She never smiled greater than when talking about her best friend Jesus to small children. She was passionate about her faith and expressed it best with skits and impromptu dramas at orphanages on those trips. In writing of her own life she closed with a quote from Ralph Waldo Emerson, Life is too short to waste In critic peep or cynic bark: Quarrel or reprimand: "Twill soon be dark; Up! Mind thine own aim, and God speed the mark." Funeral services will be Saturday at 11am at the Fellowship of Believers, 3421 Combs Ferry Rd, Winchester, with visitation from 10am until the hour of service. Entombment will be in the Annie E. Hukill, William D. Hukill, Zach	Some marked peculiarities appear in connection with the drowning of persons in the Kentucky river from Boonesborough up to the Mouth of Red river. The drowning at Ford last week brings forth these remarks. From the settlement of this locality, 1775 to about 1885, a period of eighty years, it is believed nobody was drowned. About the latter year Capt. Turnbull, of Winchester was drowned at the mouth of Bear Run. Probably three years later, Pen Coe, another Clark county man was drowned just below the mouth of Four Mile. In 1882, a dozen negro men and a white woman were washed out of a railroad camp on Two Mile creek into the river and drowned near Ford during a sudden rise. A few years later, several boys from Clark were drowned at the Mouth of Upper Howard's creek. Since that time the number of drownings especially at Ford, have been too great to be recalled, but perhaps every instance except that of John Sewell, several years ago and the boy East a year ago and a colored boy the past Spring that were from Clark. Thus it spans that for nearly a century and a quarter only four or five Madison county people have been drowned along about fifteen miles of river and those within the brief period of less than six years, while Clark has been unfortunate for nearly forty years and the extent of dozens. But our Madison people on the North side never had any great love for water except for farming purposes.—Richmond Register. This is only a partial list of those drowned near Ford is even the last generation: Rufus Emerson was drowned at Boonesboro; a man named Tillet near the Mouth of Otter Creek; John Atkinson some where near the same place; two sons of Commodore Richardson at the mouth of Two Mile, and a negro boy in the big eddy above the Mouth of Four Mile. Zach Hukill drowned himself on account of ill health near Riverside; Bennie Butler was drowned in Two Mile creek and his body was afterward found in the river. Quite a number of other drownings have occurred, the names of the victims having escaped our memory. The

Huls, Webb		The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, July 26, 1898 The death of Webb Huls at Sherman, Tex,. Recalls a cruel hoax or attempted swindle
Tiuis, webb		that was perpetrated on his friends several years ago. At that time his father, Tom Huls, was living in Richmond and young Huls had gone to Kansas City, Mo. A young man named Brooks, also of Richmond had wandered as far off as Kansas City where he was stranded with no money and no inclination to work for any, in order to raise funds he telegraphed to the elder Huls that his son had died suddenly, and to send him one hundred dollars for burial expenses. The friends in this county were notified to have a grave prepared, while the stricken father started to bring the remains home for burial.
		All necessary arrangements for the burial had been made, when the swindle was discovered. Fortunately the perpetrator was unsuccessful in obtaining money by his act.

Hume, Matthew D.	Who died at his home in this county last Thursday, was perhaps the oldest native of Clark living within her borders at the time of his death. He was born on the 22 nd day of June 1803. Mr. Hume was a man of strong intellect, vigorous will and marked individuality of character. By good judgment, attention to his business and economy, he had amassed a large fortune, having before he made division a few years ago, been the owner of about 2,500 acres of blue grass land. He was a faithful true friend, and a kind accommodating neighbor. He never joined any church, but was a firm believer in God and the Christian religion. Only one child survives him, Mrs. John C. Clay. Two other daughters have left descendants. He had conveyed away all his lands save 400 acres where he lived, and as there is no will, this will be distributed according to law.
	He owned Canewood, that famous old homestead where Mrs. Gist dispensed such an elegant and generous hospitality seventy-five years ago, where Frank Blair and Benjamin Gratz were married, and where Gov. Scott died. He also owned the place where Gen. Ben Bristow's grandfather, himself a noted Baptist preacher lived and died more that forty years ago and he has since remained a widower.

Hunt, H. Tighlman	Death of Dr. Tighlman Hunt.
	The Angel of Death with its sable pinion enters the palace of the king and the hovel of the peasant with strict impartiality and with equal impunity. The old man who has outlived all his compeers, and his days of usefulness, who dreams of the day when he shall be loosed from the bonds that bind him to earth and yearns for the rest and silence of the grave, is left and the young man full of the hopes, the promises and the ambitions of life who sees down the vista of coming years and catches glimpses of a life of love, of happiness and of usefulness is touched by the wand of the dark angel and earth knows him no more. Just why things are so ordered are among the secret things that belong to God and shall be mysteries to us until we attain to the "rest that remains unto the people of God," and then shall we know and be satisfied.
	These reflections are called forth by the sudden death of Dr. H. Tighlman Hunt, which occurred at his home near Pilot view, Saturday evening. He was born with a predisposition to consumption, and some time ago evidences of the fatal disease became apparent. Accompanied by his mother, Mrs. Kate Hunt, he went to California and Arizona where he hoped to be benefited. They returned home a few weeks ago and he seemed to be better. After eating supper he retired to his room, where a hemorrhage from the lungs ensued and in a short time he was dead.
	His father, Willie Hunt, died in the same manner in the depot at Lexington many years ago as he was preparing to take the cars.
	Dr. Hunt was about twenty-five years old and from boyhood had been almost a model in disposition and character. He was educated in the common schools of the neighborhood, the Mt. Sterling Military School of Prof. Fowler and had taken two courses of lectures at the Ohio Medical College at Cincinnati. The funeral was preached at the Baptist church of this city Monday by Rev. B. B.
	Bailey and Richard French and the remains were buried in the cemetery.
	To the sorrowing friends and especially to his mother thus left a childless widow, goes out the sympathy of our people.

Hunt, Pat	Pat Hunt was hung in Paris Wednesday for the murder of Jas. Abnee last February. He
Hunt Doray	was brave and defiant to the last and never admitted his guilt, though few people had any doubts concerning it. His blasphemous spirit is shown by a remark he made the morning of the execution. "Well, I am going to ride on a forked railroad this morning and will go to Heaven or Hell, one or the other. If I go to Hell, they will have a good fire for me." Father Jones formerly of this city was one of his spiritual attendants. The scaffold on which he was hung, was the same on which the Negro John Bush of Lexington, Wm. Neal of Ashland, and four others suffered the penalty of their crimes. In August 1886, Rick Thomas was shot in one of the most public places in Paris, but strange to say no one saw the shot fired. Mr. and Mrs. Pat Hunt were arrested for the crime, when Mrs. Hunt, who had been a woman of easy virtue, acknowledge the shooting, claiming that Thomas made an indecent proposal to her. Hunt was acquitted and Mrs. Hunt was sent to the penitentiary for three years. Jas. Abnee was the principal witness against her, for which Hunt threatened to kill him which he did last spring, and for which he was executed Wednesday. Since the hanging of Hunt, Mrs. Hunt claims that he killed Thomas also, but that she assumed the crime, believing that she would be acquitted and also fearing that if she told the truth about the matter that her husband would kill her. The Winchester Sun Sat., 2-11-1939 The will of Wilson G. Hunt, with assets of $5,000,000 has just been put on file in New York and calls out the fact of Mr. Hunt's failure many years ago. After a hard fight he again got on his financial feet, called all his creditors to a banquet, and under each plate was a check for principal and interest of the indebtedness of Mr. Hunt to the person named. The affair created a profound impression at the time. The Democrat, Wednesday, January 11, 1893.

Hunter was appointed to office by the present administration. About six months ago the two men quarreled about a discrepancy in Cardwell's books which was discovered by Hunter, and since that time their relations have been strained. The two men were alone in Hunter's office at the time of the shooting. Cardwell fired five shots, three of which took effect in Hunter's person. Hunter fired three, none of which took effect. From surrounding circumstances, it appears that Cardwell fired first and that the killing was the result of a well-planned effort on his part. Hunter was a brother of Squire R. D. Hurley, Mrs. James	For Poisoning His Wife. Dr. James Hurley, of Madison county, was arrested this week on a charge of having poisoned his wife. She was sick but a short while and the conduct of the husband in insisting on burying her in a few hours after her death aroused suspicion. 	Dr. James Hurley Suspected of Poisoning His Young Wife at big Hill, Near Richmond, Ky. Richmond, Ky., March 15.—Dr. Jas. Hurley, a well known physician living near big Hill, in the southern end of this county, is under arrest, suspected of having poisoned his young wife who had died a few days ago and was hastily buried, the husband refusing, it is said to have her every-day clothing removed. This story, told by a servant to the family, coupled with alleged cruel treatment, caused the dead woman's relatives to prefer charges against the doctor. Mrs. Hurley's remains have been exhumed and the stomach was sent to Louisville Monday to be analyzed by experts, pending which Hurley waived examination before Squire Sandlin.

	Dr. Hurley came from Clay county about five years ago, and has been practicing ever since. He was indicted two years ago for practicing medicine without a license. Feeling is running pretty high over the affair, and mob violence was freely threatened Sunday night.

Hurley, Tom AA	Near Cumberland Gap Wednesday, L. A. Burk, telegraph operator, had a difficulty with Tom Hurley, a negro concerning some trifling matter. While Burk was on his way home shortly after, he was waylaid by the negro who blew hie head off with a shotgun. The murderer fled but was captured next morning, and while the officers were carrying him to jail a mob took him from their hands, hung him to a tree and riddled his body with bullets. Since the arrest and incarceration of John L. Wigginton, no further developments are known in the poisoning case. The old man sticks to it that they are all innocent, and that the confessions that were made by those who did confess were untrue, and extorted by intimidation and threats. Hurst, Wiley	A strange Story comes to us from Four Mile this week. Mr. Wiley Hurst, a well-known citizen of that section, died last week. A day or two before his death he told his wife where he wanted to be buried, under some locust tree on a hillside, near the house. After his death his wife, not being certain of the exact spot he had requested to be buried in, went out to see if she could identify it from his description. As she approached the locust trees she noticed two white doves sitting in them. These doves did not fly away at her approach, but flew down from the trees and alighted near her feet. One of them stood still and the other walked off about the length of a grave from his mate, and stopped. And under the exact spot thus measured off was Mr. Hurst buried. Huston, James W.	The Winchester Sun Thur., 3-5, 3-6-1987
Huston, John Boyd	SKETCH OF HON. JOHN B. HUSTON
	By Judge James Flanagan
	Hon. John Boyd Huston was born in the year 1814 near Bloomfield, Nelson County, Ky., He sprang from Scotch Irish parentage, his father being of Scotch descent and his mother of Irish descent. They settled in Nelson county, Ky., in the early part of the century. His father was born on the Juniata river in Pennsylvania. Both of his parents were members of the Presbyterian church, in which they lived and died. Their only son, the subject of this sketch, was educated for the ministry, having graduated with high honors at Centre College, Danville, Ky. He disappointed the hopes and expectations of his parents by relinquishing their cherished desire of his entering the ministry after graduation at Centre College. He soon commenced the study of law and taught school while engaged in its study under his preceptor, the late Judge George Robertson. After being licensed to practice his profession he soon wedded the only daughter of Hon.
	Chilton Allan, of Winchester, Ky. She was a brilliant and highly gifted lady and died after a happy married life of fifteen years She was an artist of diversified talents; she was a painter, sculptor, poet and author. Mr. Huston, after remaining a widower a few years married the widow of Henry C. Allan, a most estimable woman who survived him until recently.
	Mr. Huston was one of the most brilliant and talented men that Kentucky ever produced, prolific as she has been of great men. He was a combined man, both an able lawyer and a great advocate. The writer feels that he will be sustained by his brethren of the Kentucky bar in the expression of his humble opinion that Mr. Huston was unsurpassed and rarely equaled as an advocate. He was in the estimation of the writer possessed of the most versatile talents of any man he ever met. The writer never knew any public man in Kentucky whose failure to reach the highest judicial stations or the political honors he so much deplored. If he had appeared of the councils of the nation he would with his grand intellect and great attainments not have failed to win a national reputation. He was an orator, a statesman and lawyer of the highest order of ability. He was largely indebted to nature for a wonderful physique, imposing bearing and handsome and expressive features. If he had in young manhood chosen a larger theater for his life work, where he would have had the opportunity to display his great ability, it cannot be doubted he would have reached the highest honors of his profession, coupled with the fame and fortune such as his brilliant intellect would have won for him even in the forum in which such legal lights as David Dudley Field, James T. Brady, John Van Buren and Charles O'Connor won national and inter-national fame as great lawyers and advocates.

The writer is safe in saying that he has heard him make as many as five hundred speeches and never heard him make any two alike. His mental resources were of the most extraordinary character, He had a rich imagination and great gift of language. He was a born genius. He was never more delighted that when, as professor in the law school of Transylvania University hearing a class of students recite to him. It gave him delight to hear them in a recitation and give their views on abstract subjects they had been poring over. No student of law who had the good fortune to have him as a preceptor cannot forget his teachings, his precepts his expounding of the law as he understood it to be. Nor can they ever forget his genial courtesy, his patience, his generosity and his earnest desire to help and advance each and every one of them in their studies. The writer reveres the memory of his friend the great advocate and lawyer, whose salient points he has feebly portrayed in this sketch and wishes he had the ability to do the subject that justice which it deserves, and to which it is so eminently entitled. Mr. Huston represented Clark county several times in the Lower House of the Kentucky Legislature, and was Speaker of the House in the session of 1855-6. He was faithful to the interests of his constituents and to the interests of the Commonwealth at large. During his service he occupied the front rank and left his mark upon the legislation of the State. He located in Winchester when he began the practice of his profession and was a member of the Winchester bar for twenty-seven years, when in 1864 he moved to Lexington, Kentucky where he continued to reside to the close of his life. He died in Winchester, Kentucky, November 16, 1881, among the friends he loved so well, and who never ceased to admire him with a generous friendship which survived his useful and honorable career. The writer was much with him the last week of his life, and will never forget the sparkle of his wit and humor and the wonderful thoughts he uttered as the expiring lamp was going out. We ne'er shall see his like again. His remains repose in the beautiful cemetery at Winchester, Kentucky, by the side of loved ones to await the general resurrection—Vanitas Vanitatum

The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, August 9, 1893

The late General John B. Huston, of this city, was a lawyer of long and extensive practice at the bar of bars. He made many sage remarks, but he never made a wiser one then when he advised a client "never to go to law with a woman. Give all she claims for she will put her handkerchief to her eyes, heave a sigh or two and shed a few tears, or pretend to, and the jury will send you to hell-right or wrong. Keep out of such litigation."-Lexington Gazette.

Monument For Gen. John B. Huston..

At a meeting of the members of the Winchester Bar held Wednesday, May 15, 1901, Judge James Flanagan was chosen Chairman and J. M. Benton appointed Secretary of the meeting. At said meeting an Executive Committee of seven, including the Chairman of this meeting, the other members being W. M. Beckner, G. B. Nelson, J. R. Morton, Leeland Hathaway, T. J. Scott, J. D. Hunt and J. F. Winn was selected for the purpose of taking charge of the matter of selecting a suitable monument to be erected at the grave of General John B. Huston, a former member of this Bar, with power in said Committee to take all action that may be necessary in the premises, and on motion the meeting adjourned. This May 15, 1901. Jas. Flanagan, Chairman, J. M. Benton, Secretary.

Gen. Huston's Monument.

It is to be hoped the movement inaugurated by the bar meeting recently to provide a monument to the memory of Gen. John B. Huston, may not end as so many such movements do end, in resolutions.

Gen. Huston lived in his city many years and loved Winchester and her people. During his residence here he was thoroughly identified with our people ant their interests. As a lawyer he knew more of our citizens, their relations, family history and connections, than almost anybody in the county.

He represented this county in the Legislature several terms, and for one or two terms was Speaker of the House. He was twice married, each time to a daughter of Chilton

	Allan, who for years represented this district in Congress. So great was his love for Winchester that when he felt his life drawing to a close, he returned to our city to die, and his death occurred at the Rees House in 1881. Shortly after his death, Judge Beckner began a movement through the columns of The Democrat to build a monument, but for some reason the matter was suffered to lapse and nothing was done. About $325 has been raised and it is proposed to erect over his grave, which is now unmarked, a substantial stone which will call attention to his merits and qualities. Col. Breckinridge and perhaps others will be asked to deliver an oration either when the corner stone is laid or the monument is completed. We hope to see a monument worthy of the great lawyer and orator, the kind hearted and genial friend, the public spirited citizen, John B. Huston. desperate conflict. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, May 21, 1901 Monument to John B. Huston. In November, 1881, John B. Huston died in this city, aged sixty-eight years, and his remains were interred in the Winchester cemetery. He was a native of Nelson county, but came to Winchester in his young manhood and for many years he towered above his colleagues at a time when Winchester bar was probably the strongest in the State. He was twice married. His first wife was a daughter of Hon. Chilton Allan and his second wife was a daughter of Samuel D. Jackson and the widow of Henry Allan, Huston's brother-in-law. Both these wives are buried beside him, as well as the body of young McFarland, the adopted son of Huston's stepdaughter who was drowned in a pond near Lexington. Huston was perhaps the equal of any man the State has ever produced as an advocate before a jury, as few jurors could resist his eloquence. He serve the county four times in the Legislature and was Speaker during the session 1855-56. Just before the breaking out of the Civil War he was a member of the border State peace convention, that tried to find some means of putting a stop to that fratricidal step. Before the war he was a Whig, during the war of a Union man and afterward a Democrat. At one time he was a candidate for Congress but was beaten by John C. Mason.
	Shortly after his death an effort was made to raise a sufficient sum of money among his friends to erect a monument over his grave. Judge Flanagan was at the head of the movement and John T. Shelby, of Lexington, was Treasurer; $289 was subscribed and is still in his hands. Judge Flanagan has again taken the matter up and will endeavor to raise $300 more with which to finish the monument. It is purely a matter of love with the Judge, as he receives no recompense for his efforts. The cemetery company has donated a lot to which the remains of Gen. Huston will be removed.
	As citizens of Clark county who was the friend of everybody, and who was loved by all who knew him, there should be a liberal response to this effort on the part of Judge Flanagan to do even this tardy justice to the memory of one of our most distinguished citizens. Hutchcraft, Mrs. Eliza A.	OBITUARY-My Sister Died, at her residence of heart disease, May 18, 1881, Mrs. Eliza A. Hutchcraft, in her 69 th year. I knew my sister well and long as a good wife, a loving mother, a kind sister and benevolent friend, always ready to alleviate the poor in necessary wants. But we sit not down to eulogize the departed and while we mourn with those whom loss can never be repaired, we feel to say with the post— "While memory bids me weep thee, Nor thoughts or words are free,

	The grief id fixed too deeply That mourns a woman like thee."
	The death of the aged is the fulfillment of the end of humanity's creation—it is a matter to be expected. Death! How sad and solemn are the emotions that fearful word inspires. He comes stealthily upon us, and the flowers of affection, while so bright and beautifully blooming, wither in his path. Refined in manners, cultivated in mind, with a pure piety, she was esteemed by all who knew her. As I took the last look at my sister as she lay in her burial robe I felt how beautiful and resigned she looked, so softly sleeping in holy and serene beauty; so still she lay no breath quivered on her lips or stirred the lashes of her gentle eyes. A smile, not cloud, dimmed her brow; their purity and peace illumined it. Over her sinless heart, too sinless for this showed world, her hands lay folded with blooms of sweet flowers, and I could but be reminded of her great love for flowers all her life, but now how sweetly she sleeps—weary eye lids sealed and turned away from the rich splendor of the creamy May. We can faithfully say, "Thy will be done" without a murmur. As night dews gem the blossoms o'er her grave, which was covered by her friends and relations, we repeat, "He knoweth best." "Thy will be done."

Hyden, Allen	County Judge Assassinated Judge Allen Hyden, County Judge of Owsley county, was shot from ambush and wounded Monday. Hyden made the race for nomination on the regular election on a fusion ticket, which resulted in a contest which was lately decided by the Court of Appeals in favor of Hyden and the Fusion ticket. During the contention there was much bitter feeling. The Winchester Democrat Fri., Oct. 17, 1902
	Foul Murder Allen Hyden, County Judge of Owsley county, was shot from ambush the 13 th , on the night of the 15 th he died. There is a bitterness of feeling in Owsley county growing out of the election last fall when Mr. Hyden was elected to the office of County Judge, on a fusion ticket. The county is largely republican. We are not informed as to whether that had anything to do with the assassination or not. But whether it did or not, it is to the credit of the Owsley county officers that every effort is being made to find the assassin, and I sincerely hope that they will be successful. The Winchester Sentinel Wed., Oct. 22, 1902 Died From His Wounds Judge Allen Hyden, of Owsley county, who was shot from ambush and badly wounded a week or so ago, has since died from his wounds. Gov. Beckham has offered five hundred dollars reward for the apprehension of his murderers. Owsley county is heavily Republican and the killing grew out of a political row a year or so ago. Gov. Beckham on Tuesday appointed Hon. Hiram Hogg as County Judge to succeed Judge Hyden. The Winchester Democrat Fri., Oct. 24, 1902 Reward Offered Gov. Beckham has offered a reward of $500 for the arrest of the assassin who murdered County Judge Hyden, of Owsley county. This is well. Now if the Governor would take the Breathitt county business in hand and try to find the assassins of Dr. Cox and Jim Cockrell, we will have a much higher regard for him.
	Hiram Hogg has been appointed Judge until the next election.
