Ingram, William	Fatal shooting Robert Shroul shot and killed his son-in-law William Ingram The slayer lodged in jail About noon Tuesday a fatal shooting occurred on the Clayton Howell farm near the Pretty Run Pike. Robert Shroul, a tobacco tenant and his son-in-law, William Ingram, lived in the same house. Shroul had working for him, two boys, Ben Stackhouse and Geo. Griffey, the latter being deficient in intellect. It is said that Shroul incited the boys to fight each other for his amusement and that Ingram resented it; at least they quarreled at the dinner hour concerning the boys. The quarrel was continued or renewed when they went to the barn after dinner. Finally Shroul fired at Ingram and missed him; Ingram stooped to pick up a rock when Shroul fired again, the bullet taking effect about the hip. Ingram lingered until about dark when he died. The officer's were notified and deputy sheriffs, Stewart and Bedford went out there but failed to find Shroul and learned that he had come to this city. They returned and after midnight officers Bedford and M.D. Tarpv went out there again and about two o'clock found him at a house some distance from where the killing was done. He denied his identity but was brought to town and lodged in jail. The next morning he was taken before Judge Evans, who fixed his examining trial for this morning. Coroner Brinegar went to the scene of the trouble and held an inquest with the following jury: J.L. Powell, F.M. Poer, J.B. Adams, Chas. Westfield, W.E. Craycraft and Jas. E. Jackson, who returned a verdict that Ingram died from the effects of a pistol shot wound inflicted by Robert Shroul and without expressing any opinion as to the guilt or justification of Shroul. The prisoner is of Rowan county origin and Ingram is said to be the second man he has killed. He has a large scar across his throat as if he had his throat cut. His plea will be self-defense. The remains of Ingram were brought to this city and were shipped to Preston for burial Wednesday afternoon. He leaves a wife to whom he was married in August. The Winchester Democrat Friday, Oct. 5, 1906 Held over The examining trial of Robert Shroul, charged with the murder of his son-in-law, William Ingram, was held before Judge Evans Friday. From the testimony of the prosecution it seemed that the two men fell out concerning the fighting of two boys, who were working for Shroul. Ingram espousing the cause of one and Shroul the other. Shroul also owed Ingram some money as wages and this entered into the quarrel. After eating his dinner Shroul went to the barn and returning met Ingram. After cursing each other Shroul fired but missed and as Ingram stooped for a rock Shroul shot him. Ingram died from the wound a few hours later. The defense offered no testimony and after argument on the question of bail, Judge Evans admitted the prisoner to bail in the sum of one thousand dollars, which the prisoner gave the following day with two Montgomery county men on the bond. Shroul was defended by Judge Hays, of this city, and Judge Cooper, of Mt. Sterling. It is said that Shroul was a confederate soldier during the civil war. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, Oct. 9, 1906 Shot his son-in-law Winchester, Ky., - In a remote portion of the county, Robert Shroul shot his son-in-law, William Ingram, from the effects of which Ingram died. The two men lived in the same house, and quarreled because Shroul tried to get a couple of boys in his employ to fight each other for Shroul's amusement. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, Oct. 9, 1906 The last day Friday was the last day for filing suits for the coming term of Circuit court. Only thirty-five new suits were filed, most of them being of minor importance. The only murder case is that of William Shroul for killing his son-in-law, James Ingram. The principal suit on the docket is the ten thousand dollar damage suit of Sam Jett against Judge Hargis and B.F. French. The School Superintendent killed, the County Attorney probably fatally hurt, the Jailor badly shot, and the Assessor slightly injured. The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, November 12, 1890 The Shooting At Irvine A terrible fight occurred at Irvine on election day which resulted in the death of two prominent citizens and the probable death of a third, besides the wounding of several others. The election was very hotly contested in that county, and in the afternoon a railroad negro attempted to vote. His vote was challenged by John M. Wilson, a Democrat, and School Superintendent of the county. Dr. Pleas Lilly insisted on his right to vote and the quarrel thus began. Lilly drew his pistol but Wilson's pistol caught in his clothing and Lilly shot him twice before it could be extricated. As soon as possible Wilson took a hand in the shooting, a bullet from his pistol striking Dr. Lilly in the center of the breast and passing entirely through him. After both parties had emptied their pistols they drew their knives and Lilly stabbed Wilson several times. Both soon fell from loss of blood, when friends carried them into the house. Dr. Lilly died in about forty minutes. Wilson was shot twice in the breast, once in the side and stabbed twice in the back, but lived until noon the next day. Grant Lilly, County Attorney of the county and Lewis Wilson ex-Assessor, and brothers of the principals, also drew their pistols and took a hand in the affray, and Grant Lilly received a ball through the lung which will probably prove fatal. In addition to Wilson and the two Lillys, Harry Powell, the Jailor, was shot in the arm and breast; Levi Reynolds was shot through the hand; Henry Woosley was shot in the thigh; Bud Coffman was struck in the heel and Henry Neal, the Assessor, slightly wounded in the leg. The Lilly boys are sons of Judge H. C. Lilly, Circuit Judge of the district. The two dead men were young men, aged respectively 27 and 28 years and unmarried although Wilson was to have been married in a couple of weeks, and both were Odd Fellows. The Lilly boys are cousins of the Curry family of this county. The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, November 12, 1890

The Winchester Democrat Tue., March 10, 1903  Insanity Good Defense In Slander Action-Question Decided For First Time In State In the Court Of Appeals in the case of I. Shelby Irvine vs. Florida Gibson, appealed from the Madison Circuit Court, the whole court sitting the decision of the lower court was reversed. The verdict recovered by the appellee for slander was for $30,000. Mrs. Irvine was the party accused of perpetrating a slander. Her defense ad litem was insanity. The court in an exhaustive opinion by Judge Settle, holds that insanity was a good defense in an action for slander. It is the first time the question has been so decided in this State. As Mrs. Irvine died during the pendency of the action the appeal was brought to this court by her husband as administrator. Her death will serve to abate the action in the lower courts. Isola, Louise	Miss Louise Isola Death of this most estimable young woman Saturday afternoon – Burial in Lexington The death of Miss Louise Isola Saturday afternoon brought sorrow to the hearts of a large circle of admiring friends and devoted relatives. She had been in declining health for some time and a few months ago went to Albuquerque, hoping the healthful climate of New Mexico would restore her, or, at least, prolong her life, but her heroic struggle was in vain. A few weeks ago, relatives were advised of her serious condition, and her sister, Mrs. Hannah Mannini, of Danville, and brother-in-law, Mr. Sylvester Dinelli, of this city, hastened to her bedside, the only comfort left them being the hope of bringing her back to her loved ones that the few remaining days might be spent among those she loved so dearly. Arriving last Tuesday she lingered until Saturday and, on that morning, expatiated on the beauty of the world and the brightness of the sun, and as its rays were fading and the evening shadows deepened into twilight, she yielded her gentle spirit to Him, who during life she had so faithfully served, and so peacefully came the end that those surrounding her scarcely knew that the end came. Miss Isola possessed a sweet, gently and retiring disposition, her whole happiness being centered in her home and loved ones, and the sorrow caused by her brave suffering deepens in the presence of her death which came as an Angel of Pity to allay the anguish through which she passed. She was the youngest daughter of the late Joseph Isola, of Lexington, but for many years has resided with her sister, Mrs. Sylvester Dinelli, of this city, and the bond of affection existing between them was most beautiful and touching. She is also survived by her mother, Mrs. Laura Isola, of Lexington, and sisters, Mrs. Hannah Mannini, of Danville, and Mrs. Bella Bona, of Lexington, and one brother, Mr. John Isola, of Mt. Sterling. The funeral took place from St. Joseph's Catholic church in this city at eight o'clock yesterday morning, services being conducted by Rev. Herbert F. Hillenmeyer who paid a high tribute to the Christian character of the deceased, after which the remains were taken to Lexington and interred in the family lot in the Catholic cemetery at that place. The pall bearers, all relatives of the deceased, were: Messrs. Isola Dinelli, of Mt. Sterling; Louis Mannini and Frank Schafer, of Danville; Louis Bona and Murray Wrenn, of Lexington, and James Dunn, of Maysville. A loyal friend, amiable and gentle, Miss Isola endeared herself to all with whom she came in contact. To know her was to love her and her untimely death is generally deplored.
