"Cousin" Nelson Bush cried at the sale. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, June 7, 1898 The Late William Wade The death of Mr. Wade, of Wade's Mill, in Clark county, Ky., in the 80th year of his age, removed from the midst of men one who until a few years ago was an active factor in the busy struggles of life. He was the oldest son of Daniel Wade, deceased, having been born in this county in April, 1813. After a long and useful career he departed this life on the 17th of May, 1898. He resided all his life in the Wade's Mill precinct, a part of Clark county, which was and is noted for the enterprise of its citizens, among whom were the Stuart, Lewis, Judy, Pendleton, Wade, Dooley, Scobee, Gaitskill, Evans, Bratton, Gay, Dean and Hardman families. These families had some members in each who was representative in some branch, either in agriculture, mechanics, merchandise or where duty called them. These families have furnished volunteers in every war, since Kentucky became a sovereign state of American Union. The subject of this sketch was never married. He spent fifty years of his active career in raising and buying stock for the Alabama and Georgia markets. During his active business life he handled many thousand dollars worth of live-stock and was never known to fail to meet all of his business obligations at the end of each season, as he returned from the South. His credit was always of the highest standing and no one ever made complaint of his having cheated or made false statements to them in his extensive dealings which covered such a long period. His reputation for honesty and truth lived with him to the end of his life. Mr. Wade was a benevolent man. No one, were they ever so humble or poverty stricken, ever appealed to him in vain for help. His hands were ever ready to assist not only the deserving but all who happened to make application, for he judged others by his own standard and believed in the integrity of all men. He disregarded the Scriptural injunction in regard to going security, and in many instances he was victim of misplaced confidence and violated friendship, but on these occasions he showed great fortitude for he never was heard to make complaint. He stood these disappointments with composure and there was nothing about him which suggested the "whisper." He joined the Methodist Episcopal Church South in early manhood, and was an obedient and paying member to the close of his life. He had great reverence for spiritual things and had his share of what the preachers call extreme unction. Mr. Wade was full of public spirit and he always subscribed liberally to all enterprises, such as turnpikes, etc. His last days were clouded by mental depression and physical suffering. At length death kindly relieved him of the prostrated burdens of life. About ten days before his departure to another and better world, he asked if his debts were paid and being assured that they were, a glow lit up his wan face and features. Surely such a man did not live in vain. J. F. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, June 10, 1898
Wade, William	Judge James Flanagan was here Tuesday looking over the Wm. Wade estate of which he is trustee. The Judge is managing this large estate wisely and judiciously. It is the opinion of those who are best situated to know that had the Judge been given the management of this estate 5 years sooner it would have been worth $10,000 more money to-day than it is worth. Wainscott, George W.		Death of G.W. Wainscott The public mind was shocked Sunday morning by intelligence that Geo. W. Wainscott had been found dead in bed that morning. He had been in very poor health from kidney and heart trouble for some time but his death was not expected at so early a date. He was born fifty-eight years ago in Owen county and was raised there. For many years he kept a hotel at Owenton and afterward he was in the livery business in Lexington for twelve years. He was a proprietor of the Rees House where he died, for one year and then on account of failing health, he relinquished it to his son Lee, who is the present proprietor. He was twice married. His first wife was Miss Elizabeth Hancock, of Owen county. His last wife was Miss Alva Tanner, of Fayette county. The latter survives him as does two sons by the first wife, G. Lee, of the Rees House and Marshall, of Uvalde, Texas, who was unable to attend the funeral on account of ill health. He had been for along time a member of the Baptist church and the funeral will be held at the Baptist church in Lexington by Eld. Mark Collis, this morning and interment in the Lexington cemetery. Merrick Lodge, I.O.O.F. and the ex-confederate soldiers will also assist in the funeral services, as he was a member of the Odd Fellows and was a confederate soldier under Marshall. He was a genial pleasant man and was well liked by everybody. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, July 21, 1896 Dr. I.H. McKinley, Dr. J.W. Stapleton, John C. Allan and Charles B. Stewart, of Hickman Lodge, I.O.O.F., accompanied the remains of G.W. Wainscott to Lexington for burial on Tuesday. The Winchester Democrat Friday, July 24, 1896 G. L. Wainscott administrator of G. W. Wainscott, has filed suit for damages against Sheriff E. T. Gross, J. H. Kerr, D. T. Frazee and J. W. A few nights before some corn was stolen from Sharp's farm. Sharp located the corn hidden in sacks in a fodder shack on the farm of Dr. Gibson adjoining, and for several nights, armed with a double-barreled shotgun loaded with buckshot, maintained a secret watch over it hoping to catch the thieves. About 8 o'clock Saturday night he saw Hopper and Waite enter the field and, waiting their possessions,-fired,-killing both men instantly. Sharp drove to Lexington and surrendered.-He was denied bond and put in jail. He has a wife and two children and is well thought of in the community where he lives. Wakes, Henderson	AA	Green Will Hang Lexington is to have another legal execution. The jury impaneled to try the case of the Commonwealth against George Green, colored, charged with shooting and killing his wife, Annie Green and her step-father, Henderson Wakes, brought in a verdict of murder in the first degree, and fixed Green's punishment at death. The double murder for which Green will hang was committed there last May. Annie Green was shot while lying in bed asleep in her step-father's house and Henderson Wakes was killed while coming down stairs in his house to investigate the shooting that had killed his daughter. After the killing Green attempted to suicide by shooting himself in the head. The jury was out but six minutes. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, September 17, 1895 George Green, the negro who killed his wife and her stepfather at Lexington last May, was found guilty Wednesday and his punishment fixed at death. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, September 17, 1895 Henry Smith to Hang The Lexington juries have decided to remove the stigma applied to Kentucky juries, that they dare not inflict the death penalty, about ten days ago after deliberating a few minutes, the jury decreed that Geo. Green should be hung for the murder of his wife and her step-father, Friday, in less time, a jury decreed that Henry Smith should be hung for a rape committed on Mrs. Hudson, an aged white woman. Both the condemned men are negroes and committed the crimes under circumstances of great brutality. N. A. Nichols, formerly of this county, was foreman of the latter jury. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, September 24, 1895 Will Appeal the Case The attorneys for the negro Green recently sentenced to death in Lexington, made a motion for a new trial which was overruled. His attorneys, two colored lawyers, say they will carry the case to the Court of Appeals and afterward to the Superior Court of the United States. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, September 27, 1895

Walden Heirs		Heirs to a Big Estate – Every once in a while we hear of a big estate in some foreign country that awaits claimants. Most of these are frauds, but some of them are all right. One of the latter class is believed to be the Walden estate in England, estimated at forty million dollars. Considerable interest has been aroused in Lexington over the matter as some of the heirs live there. Virginia parties are in that city looking up the heirs, and it is said Judge Geo. Denny will take up the matter as an attorney. Among the heirs are the Munday family, of which M. C. Guy and Mrs. S. A. Lipscomb live in this county. Mr. D. C. Munday lives at White Hall, Madison county, and Miss Sallie Munday lives with her niece, Mrs. J. F. Davis, at Lexington. The line of descended, is not long and is said to be easy of proof. The father of Mr. David Munday was the great grandson of Benjamin Munday, who married Lord Walden's daughter. We hope that something tangible may grow out of this and that they may realize a handsome fortune. The Winchester Democrat Friday November 12, 1897 The Munday Family. Lexington, NOV. 14, 1897. EDITOR DEMOCRAT: I notice in The Argonaut a piece taken from your paper in which you are in some what error as to the genealogy of the Munday family. There was born to a Lord Walden an only child, John Walden, who came to this country about 1715. John Walden had several children, among them Rachel who married Benj. Munday, who had three sons, Charles, Abram and Edmund. The latter was the father of Capt. James Munday, who was the father of Aunt Sallie Munday, who lives at my house, which makes Benjamin and Rachel Munday great grandparents to Sallie, D. C., and William Munday, the latter who lives in Columbus, Ga. There is no controversy over the English property that is in the hands of a trustee, consisting of valuable real estate and about $ 40,000,000 in cash in the Bank of England and subject to distribution upon proper proof of the heirs. Mrs. Jennings, an heir, has been at work on this case for more than ten years and is now in England, her daughter, Mrs. Chanslor, is here and Mrs. Taylor has gone to Virginia from whence she will soon sail to England to join Mrs. Jennings. Messrs. Davis and Wood, of Lexington, have been engaged to look up the few remaining heirs and forward the papers when properly fixed up, and any parties interested will do well to write to us about this matter. J. F. Davis. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday November 16, 1897.

Walden, Mrs. Etta	DISTRESSING SUICIDE Mrs. Etta Walden Takes Her Own Life Death is terrible in any form. Even when the subject has lived out the allotted span of life, or is suffering from an incurable malady, we shrink from contact with the grim monster, but when the victim dies by her own hand and in the full flush of young womanhood, the tragic scene is invested with new terrors. Such a death was the one Friday night of Mrs. Etta Walden, the wife of J. W. Walden. The couple were married about a year ago when both were very young. Things did not work smoothly, the young people did not get along well, and a separation followed. The young wife seemed to be devoted to he husband, but his ardor had cooled and the matrimonial fetters were no longer desirable. While the parties were perfectly friendly the young husband was determined not again to live with his wife. To the trouble induced by this determination was added the desperation arising from the belief that she was being supplanted in her husband's affections by another woman. She brooded over these things until it is reasonable to believe that reason had become dethroned, and she believed the only solace for a broken heart was the silence of the grave. Friday night she went from the residence of her father, W. Z. Haggard, to where her husband was staying at his father's, not far away. She had a talk with him in which she gave no indication of the desperate purpose in her mind. A small bottle of carbolic acid was on the shelf, which she secreted, and going into another room she swallowed its contents. At once the terrible stuff begun its deadly work, and, although the family did everything that could be done and a doctor was summoned at once she died after a short interval of terrible agony. The funeral was preached Sunday morning at the church of Christ, on Fairfax street, by Revs. W. F. Neal and Wm. Rupard, and the remains were interred in the cemetery. The attendance was very large, showing the esteem in which she was held. The whole affair is a very sad one, and, no matter where the responsibility rests, a large number of sorrowing relatives on both sides suffer, to whom we tender our greatest sympathy. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, March 6, 1894

Wall, Elmer Nolan		Elmer Nolan Wall, 88, widower of Dorothy Jean Chism Eall passed away quietly at five o'clock in the morning, Thursday, February 18, at Magnolia Village in Bowling Green, Ky. He was born Nov. 5, 1932, in Doyleville, Madison County, Ky., to Marvin Price and Mary Elizabeth Conner Wall. He was an only child. His youth was spent in

	Doylestown hunting in the hills and hollow, fishing and swimming in the nearby Kentucky River, and helping on the farm. As a child and teen, he attended Doylestown Methodist Church where he was your president. Because his walk to school was too long for a small boy, he lived for a short time with grandparents to have a shorter walk to his small rural school. He graduated from Madison Central High School, Richmond Ky. In 1952. He and a group of friends decided to attend a church revival at Allenville Baptist Church in Clark Co., Ky. where he met Dorothy Jean Chism. Seeing Elmer, she declared to her girlfriends. "That one is mine!" They were married on Feb. 13, 1954, at the home of pastor P.B. Akin. Dorothy passed away April 7, 2019. After a short period of farming, Elmer entered the military, serving at Fort Knox, Ky. living in Elizabethtown, Ky. with Dorothy. Shortly after discharge, Elmer and Dorothy moved to Louisville, Ky. where Elmer graduated from Tri-City Barber College. Back in Winchester, Elmer co-owned and operated the Handy Barber Shop on Main St with Gerald Royse. He took a break from barbering for a short time and worked for an insurance company. Then he opened Elmer's Barber Shop on Highland St. He again left barbering and opened a gun and machine shop. Finally, he located Elmer's Gun Shop in the garage behind his home on Sylvania Ave. Beginning as a hobby in years past and becoming his main interest, he made custom-built black powder rifles. He and Dorothy dressed in period costumes and displayed his work at many nearby festivals. He enjoyed sharing the history of these reproductions and their original manufacturers. Author David Dick interviewed him for an article in Kentucky Living Magazine. Elmer was also interested in his family history. He met with older family members and family friends to learn about his ancestors. He copied, collected, and labelled photographs as far back as he could and kept records of what he learned. Elmer and Dorothy traveled up and down narrow gravel roads photographing the old home sites, sometimes just chimneys. They visited overgrown graveyards always taking pictures. Allenville Baptist Church became his church home for many years after he moved to Clark Co. Then he became a member of Northside Baptist Church. At his passing, he was a member and trustee of Emmanuel Baptist Church. Elmer was also a Kentucky Colonel. After the passing of his wife, Elmer went to live at Magnolia Village in Bowling Green, Ky. Although he would have preferred to be in his home on Sylvania Ave. he said all the staff at Magnolia Village treated him like a king. Surviving Mr. Wall are two daughters-Teresa Dianne Dulin (Fred) of Winchester, Audrey Sue Borders of Hazard, Ky. and one son-David Keith Wall of Villa Hills, Ky. and Adam Mitchell Dulin of Huntsville, Ala.; Three great-grandsons-Otis Estes, Ethan Leighton Nightingale, and Conner Lee Nightingale, two sisters-in-law, aunts, uncles, cousins, nieces and nephews. A walk-through visitation will be observed on Friday, Feb. 26, from 11 a.m. until the hour of service at 1 p.m., at Rolan G. Taylor Funeral Home, with Rev. Ron Montgomery, pastor, officiating. Burial will be in Winchester Cemetery. Social distancing and wearing masks will be observed. Rolan G. Taylor Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

Walling, Alonzo	Hanged Scott Jackson and Alonzo Walling were hung at Newport Saturday in the presence of a large crowd for the murder of Pearl Bryan a year ago. The evidence was wholly circumstantial, but the particulars of the crime, especially that the fact that the dead woman's head had been cut off, were so horrifying that the death penalty was awarded by the jury. They were both hardened wretches and neither had at time shown any remorse or sorrow. In fact, they have at all times denied all knowledge of it. Friday they made a joint confession, implicating Dr. Wagner who is now in the Lexington Insane Asylum. The execution was set for Saturday morning, but was postponed for several hours as Jackson that morning had confessed that Walling was innocent. Gov. Bradley was informed by telegraph and said that Jackson would have to give facts and particulars, instead of merely stating his opinion before he would interfere. This Jackson would not do, and in a short while he said this confession was false and only made it to gain time. Before being taken to the scaffold they said the confession implicating Dr. Wagner was false and was made to influence the Governor. They both died game and both, at the last moment, said they were not guilty. A part of their last night was spent in playing cards after which they slept the remainder of the time. Until morning Jackson's body was refused burial at Greencastle, Ind., and his mother had it cremated. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, March 23, 1897 One of the deputies at the hanging of Jackson and Walling says that Jackson's mother told him to die game and not to tell anything. Walson, Arthur “Whitey”	 Arthur M. “Whitey” Walson, 75, passed on to the Lord on Monday, July 30, after a valiant 16 year battle with prostate cancer. He was a native and life-long resident of Clark County, was the son of the late Pete and Gola Palmer Walson of Trapp, and attended Calvary Christian Church. He is survived by his loving wife of 55 years, Billie Jo Walson; one son, Judge Jeffrey M. For 18 years he served as Clark Circuit Clerk before serving as Assistant Director of the Kentucky Administrative Office of the Courts. Upon retirement, he continued working as a commercial warehouseman and farmer. He was a four-term president of the Kentucky Circuit Clerks’ Association, and was involved in many improvements to and modernization of the state’s court system. Locally, he was devoted to Winchester and Clark County, involved in community projects and civic endeavors too numerous to mention, and served on several boards and committees, including the Clark County Community Foundation, an original member of the Winchester-Clark County Planning Commission, Winchester-Clark County Industrial Authority, the boards of Peoples Commercial, Area and BB&T banks, Winchester-Clark County Heritage Commission and the Winchester Downtown Lighting Committee. Walson served as clerk from 1975 to 1992, when he left to work at the Kentucky Administrative Office of the Courts. He was heavily involved in promoting organ and tissue donation and used his position in the Kentucky court system to draw awareness to the issue. In 1992, while working in Clark County, Walson lost a cousin who was waiting for a heart transplant. The experience led to the creation of the Trust for Life program, a statewide effort to get more people to become organ donors. Thanks to Walson’s efforts, anyone renewing a driver’s license may donate $1 to educate the public about organ and tissue donation. Clark County leads the state in Trust for Life donations. In June, Walson was honored with the national Gift of Sight award from the Eye Bank Association of America. Walson’s niece, Paula Joslin, now serves as Clark circuit clerk and worked as a deputy clerk with Walson when he created the Trust for Life. “The things he did, he did quietly. He didn’t do things to get attention. He did that to help others,” Joslin said. She began working with Walson in 1978, and has been employed by the Circuit Clerk’s office ever since. “He’s my uncle, and he just was great to work for. He was all about helping people,” Joslin said. Former Circuit Judge Julia Hylton Adams said Walson was known throughout the state for running an efficient, up-to-date office. The Kentucky Court of Justice often looked to Walson to try programs first in Clark County before implementing them statewide because of his reputation as a diligent worker, Adams said. “These extraordinary programs came through here first as a model for other offices,” Adams said. In addition to her work with Walson through the Circuit Court system, Adams said she was a life-long friend of Walson’s family and praised him for his community involvement. “He was a hard worker. He worried about everyone and everything, and he was a very diligent worker. That didn’t stop when he left office,” Adams said. His community involvement included everything from the Clark County Historical Society to his high school alumni association. His son, Jeff Walson, a family court judge in Clark and Madison counties, said his father loved being around the people of Clark County and rarely ventured out of the community. “He would go eat breakfast at two or three different places just to see people,” Jeff Walson said. A dedicated family man, Walson said the only thing his father loved as much as spending time with relatives was getting to know the people of Clark County. “If I had to pick one thing about him, he just enjoyed people in Clark County. He just loved people, meeting people,” Jeff Walson said. A native of Clark County, “Whitey” Walson was born on a family farm in Trapp, which he was able to purchase in his later years. “In the last few years, he really enjoyed farming. ... He was fourth generation on it, so that was one of the proudest things he’s ever done, get the old home place back. He loved being out there on his tractor, digging around,” Jeff Walson said. Joslin also remembers spending time at the farm with her uncle and the rest of the family. “He spent a lot of hours out there working to make it a place where the nephews could go and hunt, and where we could go and have a picnic,” Joslin said. The Walson family sold the farm when “Whitey” was a young man, and he spent many years trying to purchase it back. Being able to maintain it for future generations was one of his proudest accomplishments, his son said. Jeff Walson also credits his father’s involvement in the court system with his own pursuit of a legal career. “I just grew up in the courthouse. After school, I would go down and hang out. On snow days, I would go down and watch a trial. It had everything to do with me going to law school. He liked that I was interested in it,” Jeff Walson said. In addition to his son, Walson is survived by his wife of 55 years, Billie Jo Walson; daughter-in-law Allyson Walson; and grandchildren, Jacob and Savannah Walson. Funeral services will be Wednesday at 3 p.m. at Calvary Christian Church. Visitation will be from noon until the hour of service. The Winchester Sun July 31, 2012

Walters, Charles Timothy	It is with great sadness that the family of Charles Timothy Walters announces his peaceful passing after a brief illness on July 2, 2021, at the age of 83 years. He was the beloved husband to Leah Patricia Studebaker Walters and the devoted father of the late Marian Camille Walters of Winchester, Kentucky; Robert Benton Walters of Walton, Kentucky; and Mary Virginia Walters Atasoy of Raleigh, North Carolina. Tim was born on May 03, 1938 in Cumberland, Kentucky, the son of the late Gifford Jerome Walters and Anna May Farmer. He was educated at Cumberland High School, Cumberland, KY, class of 1956; Georgetown College, KY, class of 1960; and the University of Kentucky College of Law, Lexington, KY, class of 1964. Having grown up during the 1940s and 1950s in the eastern hills of Appalachia, he developed a commitment to public service, equality, and education. He practiced law for 40 years and held three elected public offices: Legislator, Commonwealth Attorney and Circuit Judge. Tim was an avid reader, rarely without a book during the evening and a lifelong learner. Upon his retirement at the age of 63, he revisited his studies of mathematics to further his understanding of astronomy, a newfound hobby. He built an observatory where he could often be found in the middle of the night observing and taking pictures of the stars. True to his dedication to encouraging education to all of those around him, he and his wife started volunteering at their local library giving astronomy presentations in hopes to increase local interest in science. One of his favorite activities was discussing cosmology, evolution, and humanity's place in the universe. Tim also enjoyed listening to classical music and opera; his favorite musicians included Beethoven, Pavarotti and Bocelli. Eventually, Tim and Pat decided to devote their remaining years to their grandchildren in an effort to positively and unselfishly influence their lives in love, education, and self-confidence. Along with his parents and eldest daughter, Charles Timothy Walters was preceded in death by his brother, Gerald James Walters and sister, Deborah Laetitia Walters Withers. In addition to his wife and children, he is survived by his sister, Ann Patricia

	Walters McCubbin; brother, David Monroe Walters (Janet Barbara Dutton); son-in-law, Erhan Cemil Atasoy; and five grandchildren: Hannah Marie Walters (17), Aydin Ali Atasoy (17), Jessica Claire Walters (14), Leah Emine Atasoy (14) and Mia Turkan Atasoy (14) as well as numerous nieces and nephews. A celebration of Tim's life will be held at a later date. Please email mwatasoy1218@gmail.com and your information to be added to the contact list. If you have pictures or stories you would like to share, please use this contact to send them. In lieu of flowers, the family requests donations be made to The American Cancer Society or to any charity of the donor's choice. The Winchester Sun July 9-11, 2021

Walton, John	Death Preferred To Asylum. John Walton Committed Suicide by Taking Strychnine. Bowling Green, Ky., Oct. 31.—John A. Walton, for six years a member of the regular army and for a period a member of company F, 23rd United States Infantry during the Spanish American War, committed suicide here by taking 20 grains of strychnine. He walked almost to the reservoir and took the dose out of a drachma vial in front of one of the best known residences in the city. Walton was 24 years of age and came from Allen county. He was related to a number of people here. He left a note addressed to "Whom it may concern." In it he said he first married Miss Della Dottson, but was separated from her by reason of the influence of other people. He married the second time, he said, Miss Pernie Taylor, whom he loved better than his life. The letter was written on the back of a letter head from Washington attorneys, who were attempting to secure a pension for him. Dr. S. B. Jones, a member of the local pension board, who is a friend of Walton, had been trying for a month to induce the young man's family to have him tried for insanity. Wednesday afternoon they agreed to have Walton presented Thursday. He must have suspected this, as he procured a bottle of strychnine and took the fatal dose. The Winchester Sentinel, Wednesday, November 5, 1902

Ware, Martha	MURDER Hattie Sawyer Breaks Martha Ware's Neck Wednesday afternoon while Andy Buckner, a well known colored man, was being buried with music and all the pomp of colored Odd Fellowship, a murdered woman was lying with her face in the dust by the side of a little shanty on the same lot. This house was occupied by Hattie Carroll, Hattie Sawyer and Martha Ware. The two Hatties had come down in town and obtained a quantity of liquor with which all three became more or less intoxicated. The Sawyer woman accused Ware of stealing a small piece of meat from the pot where it was cooking, and a few bitter words passed which was ended by Hattie Sawyer striking her opponent on the back of the neck with a piece of iron pipe. The latter fell from the porch where she was standing and died instantly, her neck being broken by the blow. Policeman Newton was informed of the murder and after a lively chase captured the Sawyer woman and lodged her in jail. She showed no remorse and laughed and danced in the presence of the dead body of her victim. The murderess goes also by the name of Galbert, and has been here but a short time, hailing from Danville. The dead woman was raised in this county. Coroner Alexander summoned a jury composed of W. T. Adams, C. A. Sullivan, T. J. Day, A. S. Moore, J. M. Waldon and C. E. Lyddane, who brought in a verdict in accordance with the facts. Warrick, Jacob	Long Delayed On the last day of the session a resolution was adopted to place the name of Capt. Jacob Warrick on the battle monument in the Frankfort cemetery in the space set apart for the names of the soldiers who fell at Tippecanoe. Capt. Warrick was raised in Fayette county and was a gallant soldier who fell at the head of his men at that famous battle. His father, John Warrick, was a soldier in the Revolutionary war and for his services was granted five hundred acres of land on David's Fork, Fayette county. He raised a large family, most of whom moved to Gibson county, Indiana, where Jacob Warrick raised his company. Warrick county, in Indiana, is named for him. Our fellow townsman, Judge James Flanagan, is his nephew and others of our best people are also related. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, March 18, 1898 Capt. Jacob Warrick. In the Frankfort cemetery is a monument dedicated to the Kentucky soldiers who fell in the war of 1812. Among the names that should have been on it but which were not was that of Capt. Jacob Warrick. Representative Abram Renick secured the passage of a resolution through both houses ordering Capt. Warrick's name to be placed on the monument and the resolution has been signed by the Governor, thus making it a law. Capt. Jacob Warrick was an uncle of Judge James Flanagan, of this city, having been his mother's brother. The family lived near old Chilesburg in Fayette county, Indiana, early in the last century. Capt. Warrick commanded a company of troops from that county and was killed at the battle of Tippecanoe. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, March 21, 1902 Honored At Last Jacob Warrick, Captain under Gen. W. H. Harrison was killed at the battle of Tippecanoe, Nov. 7th, 1811. In honor of the distinguished services by an act of the legislature it was directed that his name be placed on the battle monument at Frankfort which has been done. Capt. Warrick was an uncle of Judge James Flanagan, of this city. He was married to Betsy Montgomery in this county in 1795. The Sun-Sentinel Thur., Sept., 21, 1905

Watkins, Etta	AA	Murder Etta Watkins' Throat Cut By Sallie Rankin Jealousy The Cause "Hell Hath no Fury Like a Woman Scorned," and nothing that God ever created is more cruel and vindictive than a jealous woman. To the prompting of this green-eyed

	monster is due another murder that is added to the list of those committed in Winchester. At a late hour Saturday night, Etta Watkins and Will Henry, colored, were walking along the street in Poynterville when Sallie, or "Cute" Rankin another negro woman, suddenly attacked them. With a vile epithet she struck at the Watkins woman with a knife or razor; the weapon entered near the windpipe, severed the jugular vein and the carotid artery. The wounded woman ran a few steps and fell dead. When she found her victim was dead, the Rankin woman fled and by the time the police were informed she had gotten out of town. Preparations were made to intercept her at neighboring towns, but she could not be found there. The next day she sent word from near Renick Station and Chief of Police Madigan went after her and lodged her in jail. She was brought before Judge Pendleton yesterday who remanded her to jail to await the action of the Grand Jury which meets tomorrow. Coroner Wills impaneled a jury composed of A. Gnadinger, R. L. Sutherland, W. C. Young, W. W. George, J. R. Stroud and James J. Small, who brought in a verdict that the cutting was done with murderous intent and without any cause apparent to the jury. The murdered woman belonged to the notorious Gratts family and the murderess belonged to a family whose members are noted for their cutting proclivities. The man, Will Henry, the bone of contention, is a railroad negro of rather prepossessing appearance and came here from Jeffersonville, Indiana. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, March 1, 1898 Circuit Court. Sallie Rankin was tried for the murder of Etta Watkins and was given five years in the pen. The two negro women were rivals in the affections of a negro. Rankin met her victim in company with her lover and promptly cut her throat killing her instantly. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, September 30, 1898

Watson, Mrs. Henry		Shooting At Mt. Sterling Mrs. Henry Watson, wife of Attorney Watson, of Mt. Sterling, Ky., was shot to death at a dance Tuesday night by a man named Flarety. It is claimed that Flarety insulted Mrs. Watson, who told her husband and who slapped Flarety. Flarety immediately drew his pistol and just as he shot, Mrs. Watson ran between them and received the charge, killing her instantly. The feeling is at fever heat and it is feared if they keep Flarety in Mt. Sterling that there will be a hanging. The Sun-Sentinel Thur., Dec. 28, 1905 Brought Here For Safety John Flarity, who shot Mrs. Henry Watson at Mt. Sterling, was brought here about midnight Wednesday night. There was so much talk of lynching that an order was obtained from Judge Hazelrigg and Flarity was placed in a buggy and brought here. Thursday afternoon persistent rumors reached here that the wounded woman was at the point of death, and if she died a mob would come here after Flarity. These rumors became stronger and shortly before midnight Judge Evans ordered that Flarity be taken to Lexington to make certain his safety. Sheriff McCord procured a buggy and took him to the jail at that place. Flarity was very nervous and was glad to be taken to a place of safety. He claims not to remember the circumstances of the shooting. The Winchester Democrat Tue., Jan. 2, 1906

Watts, Brack C.	A DASTARDLY CRIME; Three Persons Poisoned by Arsenic in Their Coffee; One of the most diabolical crimes of which we have knowledge was perpetrated near Grassy Lick, Montgomery county, this week, by which Messrs. William Ferguson and Brack Watts lost their lives. Mr. Watts was a son-in-law of Mr. Ferguson and lived with him. At the breakfast table on Thursday morning, Messrs. Watts and Ferguson drank of the coffee prepared for the meal and in a few minutes symptoms of poisoning were manifested and a physician was hastily summoned. Nothing could be done however and the two victims died the following morning. Grace Boyd, the twelve-year-old granddaughter of Mr. Ferguson tasted of the coffee and was made very ill, but recovered. Mrs. Ferguson does not drink coffee and Mrs. Watts being ill was on a milk diet. These composed the family. An analysis of the coffee showed arsenic in large quantities. Nothing is certainly known as to how it came there, but suspicion is said to certain parties living near, with whom Mr. Watts had some trouble a few days before his death. This was so slight, however, that it seems almost incredible that so horrid a crime could be based upon it.

The coffee was prepared the night before and left upon the stove. Mr. Watts spent the evening with a neighbor and on his return, closed the kitchen door, which had no lock. The next morning it was found open. The theory is that some one entered during the night and put the poison in the coffee pot.

Mr. Ferguson was 78 years old, and was a veteran of the Mexican war. He leaves four children, Mark, who formerly lived near this city, George, who married Miss Maggie Bruner, of this county, Annie, the wife of Mr. Watts, one of the victims, and Hester, the wife of Edgar Boyd, of Montgomery.

Mr. Watts was twenty-nine years old and leaves a wife but no children. He was a son of Fielding Watts, of this county, where his remains were buried. Our correspondent, near the scene of the crime, writes us that intense excitement prevails there, and should sufficient proof be found, the perpetrator would be lynched without ceremony.

LATEST DEVELOPMENTS. In the Grassy Lick Poisoning Case—Two of Them Confess.

As stated in the account of the Grassy Lick poisoning, as given in our last issue, it was believed by many that the poison was placed in the coffee by some tenants on Watts' farm with whom he had had trouble a few days previous. As matters developed, suspicion pointed more and more strongly to these men and public sentiment pointed strongly towards trying them in Judge Lynch's court. Tuesday night a crowd gathered on the Grassy Lick pike for this purpose, but wiser counsel prevailed and the crowd dispersed. On the following morning the officers of the law arrested John L.

Wigginton, aged 60 years, and his sons, Frank, aged 30, Charlie, aged 23, and John, aged 12, as they were at work in the field, near their house. When they saw the officers approaching they were badly scared and guilt was plainly written on their faces. They were taken to Mt. Sterling and placed in jail. For several nights a mob was expected to attempt to lynch them, but Jailer Tipton is a brave man and promised the mob a warm reception should they try to take his prisoners from him. With the remembrance of the fate of Jack Ringo and his companions, who attempted the same job a few years ago, the mob wisely refrained. Frank, the eldest son, made a confession of the motives and manner of committing the crime, to a Sentinel-Democrat man as follows:

"I am unmarried and live at my father's house—Charley and I went to Ferguson's house—I staid outside and Charley took the poison in and put it in the coffee pot—Charley and Breck Watts had had a difficulty in a settlement about some tobacco and Charley was mad at him—this is what we did it for—don't know whether my father or step-mother knew of it or not—it was talked about at the house—John knew we were going to do it, but he didn't go with us—we bought the arsenic at a drugstore, I think it was on Main street—Charley paid for it and carried it home—it was 10 cents worth—we got it a day or two before it was put in Ferguson's coffee pot—don't know just how long before—I have another brother, Newt who lives in Fayette county—he was not there—there was no one connected with the crime but Charley and I—my father's wife is my step-mother—she has five children—John who is in jail upstairs is her oldest." The father and the other two boys denied all knowledge of the crime, but no doubt exists in the minds of anybody as to the guilt of at least a part of them. The mother said in regard to the matter: "The boys were mad at Brack Watts about a settlement and that Frank and Charley did the poisoning. The matter was talked of before the whole family and she and her husband tried to persuade them not to commit such a terrible crime. She said the boys carried a small package of something home wrapped up in paper, with a newspaper around the outside; but she did not know whether it was the poison or not,"

The prisoners were brought before Judge Apperson, Friday for examination. The old man and the boys were discharged, there being no evidence to connect them with the commission although they evidently knew of it. Frank and Charley were held over without bail until June term of the Circuit Court. The prospects for a first-class judicial hanging are decidedly good. The Sentinel Democrat thus describes the two murders: "Frank the eldest son is a small, mostly sandy, degenerated specimen of humanity with just sense enough to tell the truth. Charley is a man of pretty much the same complexion as Frank, but is much larger and has more sense."

LATER: On Saturday night a mob went to the house of Thos. Martin, formerly of this county, where the old woman and little children were staying for the night. The old woman was taken out and strung up, when let down, she confessed that all the family knew about it; that the old man bought the poison; that the boys had determined to burn the house on the same night the poison was administered had they found no opportunity to enter the kitchen. The mob went to the jail also, but did not get in. The old man has not been found, but will undoubtedly be hung if he is found. The old woman was put in jail.

The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, March 18, 1891

John L. Wigginton, a suspect of the murder of Wm. Ferguson and B. C. Watts, who was released on examining trial, but whose guilt is clearly established by the later confessions of Mrs. Wigginton and Charley, as printed on the sixth page of this paper was arrested Tuesday night, on Indian Creek, in Menifee county by Samuel Rothwell and yesterday noon was placed in jail in this city. If he planned and advised the murder, as his wife and son say he did, he is the worst one among them, and the law cannot break his neck too quick. Sentinel—Democrat

	The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, March 25, 1891 A dispatch from Mt. Sterling says a mob went to the jail at that place for the purpose of lynching the Wiggintons, who are confined there for the murder of J. W. Ferguson and B. C. Watts. The jail was strongly guarded and the jailer announced his intention of defending the prisoners to the last extremity. The mayor and others made speeches to the mob counseling moderation, and the crowd finally dispersed without attempting an assault on the building. It is not thought any further effort will be made as the jail is a strong one and could only be taken with much loss to the assaulting party The Winchester Democrat, Friday, March 27, 1891 Since the arrest and incarceration of John L. Wigginton, no further developments are known in the poisoning case. The old man sticks to it that they are all innocent, and that the confessions that were made by those who did confess were untrue, and extorted by intimidation and threats. The boys have stopped talking since "daddy" came back to jail. Sentinel-Democrat The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, April 1, 1891 In the Mt. Watts, Grant	AA	Body Recovered The body of the negro boy Watts, who was drowned at Ford last week, was recovered Sunday near the Mouth of Howard's Lower Creek, a few miles below that point. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, July 2, 1897 Some marked peculiarities appear in connection with the drowning of persons in the Kentucky river from Boonesborough up to the Mouth of Red river. The drowning at Ford last week brings forth these remarks. From the settlement of this locality, 1775 to about 1885, a period of eighty years, it is believed nobody was drowned. About the latter year Capt. Turnbull, of Winchester was drowned at the mouth of Bear Run. Probably three years later, Pen Coe, another Clark county man was drowned just below the mouth of Four Mile. In 1882, a dozen negro men and a white woman were washed out of a railroad camp on Two Mile creek into the river and drowned near Ford during a sudden rise. A few years later, several boys from Clark were drowned at the Mouth of Upper Howard's creek. Since that time the number of drownings especially at Ford, have been too great to be recalled, but perhaps every instance except that of John Sewell, several years ago and the boy East a year ago and a colored boy the past Spring that were from Clark. Thus it spans that for nearly a century and a quarter only four or five Madison county people have been drowned along about fifteen miles of river and those within the brief period of less than six years, while Clark has been unfortunate for nearly forty years and the extent of dozens. But our Madison people on the North side never had any great love for water except for farming purposes.—Richmond Register. This is only a partial list of those drowned near Ford is even the last generation: Rufus Emerson was drowned at Boonesboro; a man named Tillet near the Mouth of Otter Creek; John Atkinson some where near the same place; two sons of Commodore Richardson at the mouth of Two Mile, and a negro boy in the big eddy above the Mouth of Four Mile. Zach Hukill drowned himself on account of ill health near Riverside; Bennie Butler was drowned in Two Mile creek and his body was afterward found in the river. Quite a number of other drownings have occurred, the names of the victims having escaped our memory. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, July 2, 1897 Clintonville – Grant, the 13-year-old son of Chas. Watts, of color, was drowned in the Ky. River on Wednesday, last, just below Ford; his body was not recovered until Saturday. The remains were buried in the family burying ground of Jerry Evans. Watts, James	AA	A Winchester Boy at Santiago. “Smoked Yankees” was the name given to the colored troopers who fought so gallantly at Santiago. Winchester had seven representatives in the ranks of these heroes—Jas. Rogers, Sam Wheeler, Jack Bell and James Watts, of the Ninth Cavalry, and Thompson Morton Berry, George Taylor and William Jackson, of the Tenth. James Watts is said to have been killed and Berry and Jackson were wounded in storming San Juan hill. Our reporter last week interviewed Berry, who has been at home several weeks on a sick leave. He is just twenty-one years of age and quite an intelligent negro. He graduated at our colored public school with the highest honors and took a medal last year. He was also awarded the medal at an oratorical contest in Richmond in 1897. He taught school five months at Ruckerville and in February joined the Tenth United States Cavalry (regulars) at Cincinnati and was sent to Fort Reboe in Montana where he stayed until April 19th, when his regiment was sent to Chickamauga where it remained one month. It was then ordered to Lakeland, Florida, where it stayed until June 12th, when it embarked at Tampa on board the Leona for Cuba. After a week’s voyage the fleet reached Baiquiri, about eighteen miles East of Santiago, and landing June 22nd, went into camp about one and one half miles from the seashore. Breaking camp the next evening, it marched nearly to Siboney. Resting a few hours, the regiment ate an early breakfast and moving forward was joined by the First Cavalry and the Rough Riders and a part of the Twenty-Third Infantry, making a force of about one thousand men. Early that morning (June 24th occurred the fight at La Guasima, where young Hamilton Fish was killed and the Rough Riders were rescued from their perilous position by the charge of the Tenth Cavalry (colored). Berry’s company, in this struggle, had one man killed and seven wounded. The Spaniards had 1,500 men engaged behind trenches and supported by two machine guns from Cervera’s fleet. The fight lasted about two and a half hours in a rough, hilly country and under a blazing red hot sun. The regiment rested just beyond the battle field until the night of the 30th, when it took position for the movement on San Juan which began next morning. The roads were narrow and horrible although the engineer corps had improved them considerably. The soldiers carried their rations of bacon, hardtack and coffee and also their ammunition. There were a number of small streams from a foot to a foot and a half deep before they reached San Juan river, which ran at the foot of the hill on which the fort to be stormed was located. The river was up to the arm pits of the shorter men and had to be waded. Berry’s regiment marched behind a battery of artillery the night of the 30th and was in line of battle at about nine o’clock a. m., after having crossed the river. The artillery was posted behind the infantry, which encountered a storm of shells and rifle balls. Berry’s company had sixty men in line, three yards apart. There were no barbed wire cutters on the first day and the soldiers had to break the wires with the butts of their muskets. On the 2nd day, certain men were detailed with proper implements to cut the wires which were a serious obstacle. The battle raged from nine in the morning until 4:45 p. m. Berry received a flesh wound in the hip about 1:30 p. m., as he went up the hill, but kept his place in the ranks. About 2:30 p. m. , a man in company G, of the Tenth, was badly wounded, and Berry had taken him in his arms to help him to where he could be cared for, when a bullet struck the wounded soldier in the forehead, killing him instantly and spattering his blood and brains over Berry’s hat and clothes. At half-past four, just as his command was rushing on the fort and victory was assured Berry was shot in the foot and, with a little aid, hobbled back to where the ambulance corps took charge of him and carried him to the rear. He left for Port Tampa on the 5th of July on board the Cherokee, which by mistake was fired on by gun boats during the voyage. He was sent to Fort McPherson, Ga., but on the way his train was wrecked. He was in a hospital there about a month and was then sent to Washington where he remained in barracks nursing his wounds until he was allowed to come home, reaching here August 24th. He speaks in the highest terms of General Wheeler’s courage and kindness. During the battle, he went among the men and would tell them to lie down and keep under cover as well as they could. When the soldiers would call to him to lie down too, he would say, “Never mind me, boys. Take care of yourselves.” Berry says his Captain, Watson, behaved very gallantly, and is much beloved by his men. All the commissioned officers of the Tenth Cavalry are white, and many of them from the South. Mr. Whitehead, who married Miss Louise Eginton, of this place, is a Lieutenant in this regiment. He is a Texan, and behaved with great courage in the fighting before Santiago. He was wounded slightly. Berry has had malarial fever since he came home but is not recovering rapidly. He saw Gen. Shafter lying in his tent on a cot, as he went to the rear after being wounded. Berry says that the country where the army operated around Santiago is hilly, but looked as if the soil might be rich and productive. It is covered with thick brush, and is afflicted with the cactus, which puts out myriads of sharp needles. Berry does not think the climate is much warmer than ours. He saw and felt many of the land crabs. Berry heard the guns of the fleets when Cervera’s ships were destroyed. He will report for duty at Fort Thomas on the 23rd, and may be again sent to Cuba with his regiment to do garrison duty. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, October 11, 1898

Watts, Mrs. Nannie J.	OBITUARY; Died—Of pneumonia, near Pine Grove, Clark county, Mrs. Nannie J. Watts, the wife of James Watts. She was born October 15, 1846 and was married to James Watts, July 15th 1867. She and her husband confessed their Savior August, 1864, at Antioch church, under the preaching of Eld. J. W. Harding. Thus for twenty-seven years they have been faithful followers of the Master. She leaves only one child a daughter with two small children, who had recently come to stay with them and to whom she was fondly attached. By her sudden taxing away they with her husband are left so lonely in this world, but they may rest assured they will have the prayers and sympathy of all good and true people. She was reserved in manner, yet kind in disposition, modest and unobtrusive in demeanor, but steadfast and true in her attachments. She was industrious and faithful in all duties devolving upon her as a wife and mother and neighbor. Though the hand of affliction had at different times been laid heavily upon her, she bore them all with Christian resignation and fortitude without murmuring, knowing "He doeth all things well." May the grace of God abundantly sustain her faithful and devoted husband and dutiful daughter, and by the tender mercies of Him who delivereth the righteous from all their afflictions. May those who loved here be permitted to join with her in the everlasting kingdom in the full realization of that salvation that shall come to the faithful through Jesus the Christ. W. The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, April 8, 1891 The funeral of Mrs. Nannie Watts, wife of Jas. W. Watts will be preached at Antioch, the first Sunday in July at 11 A. M., by Eld J. W. Harding. Weathers, Mrs. Mossie Marie	AA	Fire Fatal To Woman Husband Tries To Rescue Wife But Is Driven Back By Flames Q Winchester woman was burned to death at approximately 3:45 a.m. today when fire swept through a two-story frame house at 125 Second Street.

	Deputy Coroner Charles Gatson said Mrs. Mossie Marie Weathers, 49, was burned to death in the pre-dawn fire. It was the first fire fatality since Jan. 30, 1953. Mrs. Weathers lived on the second floor of the house with her husband John, according to firemen. The lower floor was occupied by Alice Crockett. The house was owned by James Parrish. Fire Chief Elliott Ecton said the house was engulfed in flames when firemen arrived and that they were unable to reach Mrs. Weathers. Ecton reported that Weathers attempted to rescue his wife but was driven back by the flames and smoke and jumped from a second-floor window to the ground. The fire chief said the blaze apparently started from a spark in a defective flue of a Warm Morning heater on the first floor of the house. He said the floor under the heater was completely burned away, and that the fire spread to the rest of the eight-room house. Firemen said other houses in the neighborhood were not jeopardized by the blaze. Thirteen firemen, including volunteers, fought the fire. Two lines of 2 ½ inch hose and two lines of 1 1/2 inch hose were used. Two pumpers and the emergency vehicle answered the fire alarm. Mrs. Weathers was a native of Madison County. The body was taken to Haggard & Son Funeral Home. THE WINCHESTER SUN. Weaver, Robert		When it is down on the books for somebody to be killed at Mt. Sterling it generally takes place according to program. Thursday, the United States Courtroom was the scene, a couple of witnesses the performers, and Judge, lawyers and spectators the audience. Lee Sturgill of Elliott county, was on trial before United States Commissioner Rogers for illegal sale of whiskey. Charles Watkins was the prosecuting witness; Greene Atkins was a witness for the defense and swore that he would not believe Watkins on oath. At this point Watkins drew a revolver and fired three shots at Adkins, all of which pierced his clothing but missed his body. Robert Weaver, a half brother of Atkins, rushed in to save his brother and was shot in the bowels and will probably die. Watkins was lodged in jail in default of bail. Robt. Weaver, the man who was shot by Watkins, has since died at his home in Carter county. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, December 4, 1894

Webb Family		A Remarkable Family Jason L. Webb, of Sargent, Ky., is seventy-six years of age. He had seventeen children twelve boys and five girls: ninety grandchildren living and fifty great-grandchildren, all of whom reside in less than ten miles from Sargent with the exception of a son in West Virginia. Probably the oldest living family in the State is the Webb family who all reside near Sargent. There are six of them and the following are their ages: Lettie, aged eighty-two, Pollie, eighty; Jason, seventy-six; Miles, seventy-four; Sallie, seventy-two and Wiley, seventy. It is a fact that every resident of Letcher county is directly or indirectly related to those people. Lettie has twenty children, ninety-five grandchildren and fifty great-grandchildren; Pollie, sixteen children, eighty-four grandchildren and thirty great-grandchildren: Miles, fourteen children, seventy grandchildren and twenty great-grandchildren: Sallie, thirteen children, seventy grandchildren: Wiley, eleven children, fifty-four grandchildren and fifteen great-grandchildren. Until recently all were in good health but Lettie is now failing in health and not expected to live long. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, October 25, 1895

Webb, Ben	Five years ago next court day Charlie Brumback killed Ben Webb on the streets of this city. The parties had been intimate friends, and though both were drinking, no adequate cause for the killing could be assigned. It was thought by those who were in a position to know, that the inevitable "woman in the case" had something to do with it. Brumback was tried at the following term of the Circuit court and was sent to the penitentiary for seventeen years. During his incarceration his conduct has been most exemplary and his friends have been unremitting in their efforts to obtain his release. Wednesday he was released under the terms of the Parole law and returned to his home in Madison county. The Democrat, Wednesday, January 15, 1890 SAM BRUMBACK was here Monday. He and his brother, Martin, went down to Frankfort to testify in the case of Dick Clark, of Clark county, charged with stealing saw logs in Kentucky river. Their testimony led to their arrest as parties to the crime with Clark. They gave bail. Sam says he and his brother bought the timber, cut the logs and sold them, and can so prove by reliable witnesses. They have always borne a good name and their neighbors expect them to be cleared.-Richmond Climax. These boys are brothers to Charlie Brumback who killed Ben Webb, in this city and who was sent to the penitentiary for seventeen years, but who was afterward paroled. Mart and Sam Brumback have never been in trouble of this kind before. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, June 18, 1895. Old Crimes Recalled. The Louisville Post gives a list of the pardons granted by Gov. Beckham during the past year, among them Charlie Brumback was restored to citizenship. Brumback killed Ben Web in this city many years ago by shooting him in the head. He was given seventeen years in the penitentiary, and after serving for a while he was paroled. The time for which he was sentenced had expired but the action of Gov. Beckham restored him to citizenship. Another pardon granted was to Lucien Brown, of Athens, who was given a term in the pen for the murder of his stepbrother, Chad. Taylor. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, November 27, 1900

Webb, Eliza Lawson	A Big Law Suit. A law suit is pending in Baltimore over possession of a piece of property worth now several hundred thousand dollars. Attorney George Webb, of Lexington, but formerly of this county, this week received a letter from Baltimore in regard to it. The Lexington Herald prints the following about it. "The story is that one Lawson, in 1765, came into this country and obtained possession of a tract of land on which a portion of Baltimore is now located. At his death, he conveyed the land to his trustees to be held in trust and used for the purpose of building and maintaining a church. In case the church ceased to exist the land was to revert to his wife or her heirs. Mr. Lawson's wife formerly a Miss Eliza Brown upon her death gave the property in her possession to her sister, Priscilla Brown and the latter's issue. Miss Priscilla married one Dr. Wm. Webb, of Virginia, who removed to Clark county, Ky., and died there about 1845. Dr. Webb's daughter, Miss Eliza Lawson Webb, who was heir through her mother, married a Mr. Childs of Clark county. They died without children. Finally the church did cease to exist and the property on which it was located was sold to the United States Government for the present custom house. Mr. R. M. Webb, father of Mr. Geo. Webb and Mrs. Susan Childs were half brother and sister to Mrs. Eliza Lawson Childs, to whom a portion of this property was left and who died without issue. Some years ago the heirs in Baltimore brought suit to recover the property, but were unable to prove their relationship to the original Mrs. Lawson. Mr. Lawson’s wife formerly a Miss Eliza Brown upon her death gave the property in her possession to her sister, Priscilla Brown and the latter’s issue. Miss Priscilla married one Dr. Wm. Webb, of Virginia, who removed to Clark county, Ky., and died there about 1845. Dr. Webb’s daughter, Miss Eliza Lawson Webb, who was heir through her mother, married a Mr. Childs of Clark county. They died without children. Finally the church did cease to exist and the property on which it was located was sold to the United States Government for the present custom house. Mr. R. M. Webb, father of Mr. Geo. Webb and Mrs. Susan Childs were half brother and sister to Mrs. Eliza Lawson Childs, to whom a portion of this property was left and who died without issue. Some years ago the heirs in Baltimore brought suit to recover the property, but were unable to prove their relationship to the original Mrs. Lawson. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, January 31, 1899

Weir, Mrs. Sally Ann Dye	The Winchester Sun Tues., 6-21-2011
Weir, Sally Ann Dye	Our mom, Sally Ann Dye Weir, died the morning of Friday, June 17. She was 70-years-old. She passed after a too-long struggle with a foe too mighty. She was at varying times the Mother of my Earth, my sunrise after stormy nights and my teacher of all things really worth knowing. But I'm not special. She only made me feel that way. I am just one of her many children. We are Wendy, Robbin, Shawn, Toby, Kevin, Bobby and Marty. The "Magnificent Seven." We have been blessed with many children and grandchildren. All precious and all would likely claim a special bond with Sally Weir. She had that effect on everyone she met. Among many things, she was a teacher and a healer. What can you say about a maternity nurse who got Christmas cards from grandparents whose newborns she cared for? Words now are small things. But they are all that we can offer when grace slips from our presence. She is once again on the loose, so look out, St. Peter, and give a big hug to "Our Gal Sal." Services for Sally will be held at noon, Wednesday, June 22, at Kerr Brothers-Main Street, with burial to follow at Camp Nelson in Jessamine County. Visitation will be 11 a.m. Wednesday until the time of service. The Winchester Sun June 21, 2011

Weisbrodt, George	RILEY MACKLIN, of Robertson county, last week shot and instantly killed George Weisbrodt, of Cincinnati at Blue Licks. The murder was a most brutal and unprovoked one and without provocation. Macklin formerly lived near this city and was considered a dangerous man. About two years ago he killed a man and is still under bonds for the crime. He escaped after killing Weisbrodt and has yet to be arrested. The Democrat, Wednesday, July 15, 1891. RILEY MACKLIN, formerly of this county, who murdered George Weisbrodt at Blue Licks about four months ago, and who escaped at the time, was captured at Vernon,

	Texas, last Wednesday and brought back for trial. The Democrat, Wednesday, September 30, 1891. In our last issue we made notice of the capture of Riley Macklin, formerly of this county, in Texas. He was wanted for the murder of Geo. Weisbrodt, at Blue Licks last July. He escaped at the time but went to Breathitt county. The officers came here in search of him and telegraphed to Jackson, but the Sheriff was a little slow and the prisoner got away and went to Texas where he was caught. He was brought to Mt. Olivet and put in jail for safe keeping. An interesting question of jurisdiction between Robertson and Nicholas counties has arisen. The crime was committed on the pike in front of the hotel at Blue Licks. The dividing line between the two counties runs along this pike at that point, and the question now is whether the crime was committed in Robertson county or in Nicholas county. Some parties claim that Macklin was in Nicholas county and Weisbrodt was in Robertson county when the fatal shot was fired. If this is proved, then each county has jurisdiction and the one that gets hold of him first will try home. Macklin has been indicted in both counties, each claiming jurisdiction. Welch, Mrs. Sallie E.	Died—At her home in Jessamine county, Monday night, Mrs. Sallie E. Welch. She was a sister of T. F. and T. L. Phillips, of this city, and a very popular woman. Her husband, Dr. S. D. Welch, was the surgeon of the Twentieth Kentucky Federal Infantry during the war, the regiment to which W. A. Attersall and others from this place belonged. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, July 6, 1894 The Jessamine Journal has the following account of Mrs. Sallie Welch, who has numerous relatives and was well known here: “Mrs. Sallie Elizabeth Phillips Welch died at her home near Hanley, Monday night, July 2 nd , at 8 O’clock after a protracted illness of eight weeks or more from fever. She was the daughter of Harrison Phillips and was born in March 1836, on the old home place in this county, where her aged mother now lives. Here the deceased was brought up and lived until her marriage to Dr. S. D. Welch, where in a home of her own, she wrought out a woman’s highest mission, as a Christian mother and home keeper. There were born to her eight children, six of whom are now living to mourn her loss: Hon. Jno. H. Welch, Dr. Geo. E., Palatka, Fla., Dr. Harry C., Welaka, Fla. Mrs. T. J. Scott, Richmond, Thomas and Miss Mary Welch. Upon this highly honorable family, she left the impress of her well developed character and no where can be found a woman who will live more truly than she in her children. Her three brothers, Judge W. P. Phillips, of this place, Theodore and Thomas Phillips of Winchester and two sisters, Mrs. Mattie Brothers and Mrs. Lila McGee, were present and joined her bereaved husband and children in mourning her death. The funeral service were held at the late home of the deceased, on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o’clock, a large number of relatives and friends attending. A most appropriate and impressive sermon was preached by Rev. E. W. Noland, from the text, “Well done thou good and faithful servant.” Assisted by Rev. J. A. Sawyer, who concluded the exercises at the grave, in Maple Grove Cemetery, by the reading of the ritual service. The floral offerings were many and beautiful and only slightly expressed the sorrowing love of Mrs. Welch’s many friends. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, July 10, 1894

Welch, Samuel	Prominent man killed At Berea Tuesday night, Samuel Welch, President of the Berea Bank and the wealthiest man in that section was shot five times and instantly killed by his son-in-law, Grover Cleveland Fish. The latter’s wife had separated from him and he blamed his father-in-law for it. The Winchester Democrat Friday, April 22, 1910 Change of venue At Richmond Judge Benton granted the request of the prosecution for a change of venue, in the case of Grover Fish, who is accused of killing his father-in-law, Welch.

	The State claims that on account of prejudice against Welch the State could not get a fair trial against Fish. The case was sent to Jessamine county. The Winchester Democrat Friday, May 27, 1910 A novel case A refusal to grant a change of venue is frequently a ground urged for reversal by the defendant, but it is seldom the granting of a change is appealed. An appeal, however, has been taken by the defense from the decision of Judge Benton in the Madison Circuit court, granting the Commonwealth a change to Jessamine county in the Fish murder case. It was argued in the Court of Appeals Wednesday by the attorneys for the defense. The Winchester Democrat Friday, June 10, 1910 Allowed bail Judge Benton went to Richmond, Tuesday, where Grover Fish, under indictment for murder, had asked for bail. Judge Benton granted bail in the sum of five thousand dollars, which was given and Fish was released. The Winchester Democrat Friday, July 8, 1910

Welch, W. P.	Sensational Suit. A Widow Sued by an Insurance Company That Believes Her Husband Suicided. Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 26.—A sensational suit was filed here Wednesday before Commissioner Chinn in the United States court by Judge Jere Morton, of Lexington. The suit is against Mrs. Mary R. Welch, wife of popular Rudy Welch, the Lexington official who was drowned in the reservoir at Lexington a year ago while out fishing with friends. The plaintiff is the Preferred Accident Insurance Co. of New York and it seeks to recover back from Mrs. Welch $5,000 cash and the $10 weekly indemnity paid her since her husband's death on the ground that Welch committed suicide instead of being accidentally drowned, as was believed when the money was paid. Welch had several policies in other companies and it is expected they, too, will file suits in a few days. Welch was deputy tax collector of Lexington for a number of years and so many shortages have been unearthed in this office in the last few months that the insurance company now suspects Welch of being complicated in the matter, and that he suicided. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, September 27, 1895 The widow of W. P. Welch, of Lexington, got $5,000 from an accident policy which he held when he was drowned in the reservoir last year. Since then investigation has made it probable that he was a defaulter for a large amount and the Company now says his death was not due to accident but to suicide and have sued the widow for the recovery of the money. Weldon, Jefferson W.	Died-At his home near Ruckerville, Sunday night of typhoid fever, Jeff Weldon: buried at the home place. Out of seven victims of typhoid fever originating in the same house. Mr. Weldon is the fifth to die. He was a good citizen and quite popular. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, March 30, 1894. Obituary JEFFERSON W. WELDON The subject of this sketch was born May 7, 1862; died March 23rd, 1894, of typhoid fever at his home in this county. Death is solemn in any form, but when it comes in the bloom of manhood and plucks away the mainstay of a window's support, it wears an air of greater solemnity. He, after the death of his father, ten years ago, assumed the duties and responsibilities of the head of the family, and nobly did he perform them. He was a jealous member of the Masonic Fraternity, having united with W. H. Cunningham Lodge. No 572 F. and A. M., six years ago, and was ever willing and ready to discharge his duties. He was an earnest member of Ephesus church. Death drew round him the darkened veil and shut out his form, hushed his voice forever, he lives on in our memory, and we say an exemplary young man, a dutiful son, a loving brother, an earnest worker both in Masonry and the church, an honest, upright citizen has gone to join his father and sister beyond the silent grave. Peace to his ashes. He leaves behind a mother, three sisters and a brother to mourn his loss, and we, in their sad hour of affliction extended our heart felt sympathy, and point them for consolation to the God in whom he trusted. He alone is able to heal the broken heart and brighten the saddened life. WHEREAS, In the wise dispensation of God, our Brother, Jefferson W. Weldon has been removed from our midst and Lodge, therefore, be it. Resolved. That in the death of our Brother, the Fraternity and Lodge has lost an efficient member, the community a worthy citizen, the church a bright member. 2d. That the charter of the Lodge be draped in mourning for the usual length of time these resolutions be placed upon the records, and be printed in the Winchester Democrat and a copy be sent to the family. Wells, George	Fatal accident At Lexington, a street car dashed into a C & O passenger train, last Thursday. The motorman, George Wells, was killed. All the passengers on the street car, eighteen in number, were more or less injured. Among them was Chas. Scott, General Passenger Agent for the L. & E.R.R. Mr. Scott is well known here, where he is very popular. It is Mr. Scott who manages the trains for the Sun-Sentinel Makers at their annual outings. The Winchester Sun-Sentinel Thursday, May 16, 1907
Wells, George	A NUMBER OF Negro raftsmen from Clay and Laurel counties were returning from Frankfort Friday and when they reached Junction City some of them entered Russell's saloon and became boisterous, City Marshall Wells summoned aid and attempted to arrest them. In company with the saloon keeper and Mr. Sampson, the Marshall entered a small room where nearly a dozen negroes were congregated and attempted to arrest the ringleaders. Russell was pushed out of doors by a negro who locked the door on the inside and at once the negroes began shooting. Sampson was badly shot and the Marshall Wells, was fatally wounded. Several of the negroes were shot, but none mortally. Most of them including the ringleaders were arrested and hurried off to Danville to avoid being lynched. The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, February 11, 1891 Of the nine negroes charged with the murder of Chief Wells, at Junction City, four were discharged on motion of the prosecution. Pomp Bates and George Ward waived examination and went to jail. The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, February 18, 1891 Pomp Bates, of Danville, wasn't satisfied with a sentence of twenty-one years for murdering George Wells and got a new trial. He now goes up for life. The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, October 14, 1891 The trial of Pompey Bates for the murder of Marshal Wells, at Junction City resulted in a verdict for life. The last court gave him 21 years, but the Court of Appeals reversed, the judgement because Wells was not a regular officer. Since the trial a note was thrust under the door of the Danville Advocate office, saying that if Bates was not sent to the penitentiary the property of Danville would suffer. The Democrat, Wednesday, October 14, 1891. The jury in the case of George Ward, the negro, who killed the town marshall of Junction City, disagreed this week. Ward's first trial resulted in a verdict of twenty-one years in the penitentiary, but was reversed by the Court of Appeals. THE WINCHESTER DEMOCRAT FRIDAY 3-11-1892 Pomp Bates, colored, of Manchester, who killed Marshal Wells, of Junction City, has secured a second new trial from the Court of Appeals. The Winchester Democrat Wed., 7-13-1892 GEORGE WARD, the Clay county negro who killed GEO. Wells, marshal of Junction City, was tried this week in Danville and sentenced to five years in the penitentiary.

		This was his third trial. At first he was given twenty-one years, next time a life sentence. Pomp Bates was tried with him the first and second times and got the same sentence but finally died in jail while the Court of appeals was considering his case. The Democrat, Wednesday, February 1, 1893.
Wells, George		In Horrible Agony Growling Like A Dog The Third Victim Of A Mad Canine Expired Owingsville, Ky., March 20 After suffering horrible agony in numerous convulsions, during which he frothed at the mouth and growled like an angry dog, George Wells, 14 years old, died here at the home of his parents of hydrophobia which developed from an injury received six years ago from a mad dog bite. He was stricken with measles last week, hydrophobia developed Sunday, and his growls and cries could be heard in the street. Wells is the third to die from injuries inflicted by the same dog, which ran through the streets here during the street fair in October, 1900, biting Henry Vaughn and George Stevens and terrorizing the community. Over 100 shots were fired at the mad brute without effect. In passing Robert Wells' home the dog attacked dogs belonging to Wells, who ran to their assistance. The dog then attacked Wells, biting and lacerating his face terribly. Vaughn developed hydrophobia, dying a week later in convulsions. Stevens' health failed and he worried himself to death over the injury, and George Wells' mind failed as the result of his injuries. The Winchester Democrat Fri., March 23, 1906

Wells, Leech	Near Little rock, Ark., a passenger on a train became suddenly insane and shot the conductor, Leech, through the head killing him instantly. He then fired at Isadore Meyer, a drummer and also killed him. Meyer was formerly a merchant at Richmond. The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, February 25, 1891 Isader Meyer, who while traveling on the Iron Mountain road near Little Rock, Ark., was shot and instantly killed by a passenger named Greater, who became suddenly insane, a notice of which was given in our last issue, was a brother-in-law of Mr. Landsberg of this city. Messers, Theodore Landsberg, of this city and Henry Landsberg of Versailles, were with their sister, Mrs. Meyer, at New York, when the news of her husband's death reached her. She has three children, all girls. Wells, the murdered conductor left a wife and nine small children in destitute circumstances. Messrs. Beckner & Jouett, of this city, Gen. Wendling, of Indianapolis, and a prominent local attorney have been retained by Messrs. Landsberg and the murderer will be vigorously prosecuted. He is thought to be a victim of temporary insanity of a most murderous type. He was sent from his home in Texas, in shackles as a dangerous maniac, but was discharged reaching his destination as he showed no signs of insanity. Messrs. Landsberg say the object of the prosecution is to have full severity of the law meted out to him, if he proves to be rational, and if he is insane, to have him placed where he will have no further opportunity to exercise his murderous proclivities. Wengert, Mrs. Patricia Joan	The Winchester Sun Tues., 4-2, 4-3-2002
Wengert, Richard	Richard Wengert passed away after a nearly three-year battle with cancer. Dick was born in Fort Wayne Ind. to Hugo and Magdelina Wengert on Nov. 12, 1930. His childhood was full of love, fun and family spending many days up at "the lake." He went to Concordia High School where he was a member of the first football team, and proudly recalled the first game that they lost 0 to 50! He went on to Purdue University where he obtained a bachelor's degree in Forest Management and upon graduation was drafted into the Army and sent to Korea for two years. One of his final jobs as a sergeant was to give the American servicemen who had been held as prisoners of war in North Korea, U.S. clothing when they walked across the "Freedom Bridge" into South Korea and freedom. Upon arriving home he married the love of his life, Patricia Kerr Wengert, and together they raised four children as they traveled the United States with Dick's job as a forester with the US Forest Service. During his 39-year career with the Forest Service, he inspired hundreds of employees on numerous national forests in resource management practices and conservation. Dick started his Forest Service career as a smokejumper in 1950 and ended his career as forest supervisor of the Daniel Boone National Forest. Upon his retirement it was said that "every aspect of the Daniel Boone NF improved under his administration, including the overall health of the forest, fish and wildlife resources, recreation opportunities and the education and training of young people." For 24 years he also served as a member of or as Fire Boss of the National Fire Overhead Team that was used nationwide in wildfire suppression efforts. Dick was recognized in so many ways they cannot all be listed, but some he was the most proud of were his election as a Fellow in the Society of American Foresters; Forest Conservationist of the Year from the League of Kentucky Sportsmen; Leadership Award for Conservation and Recovery of Threatened, Endangered and Sensitive Species on the Daniel Boone NF from the US Department of Agriculture; Certificates of Appreciation from the Kentucky Dept of Fish and Wildlife resources and US Senator McConnell; Leadership Award from the Job Corps; Presidents Award from the Kentucky Forest Industries Association; and, the Conservation Award from the Kentucky Environmental Quality Commission. Upon retirement in 1993, Dick and Pat built a "cabin" on Cave Run Lake that is enjoyed year round by family and friends. They started traveling to Germany to connect with family, and took a yearly motorhome trip to Alaska to enjoy the sights and fishing experiences that only can be found in Alaska. But, in 1996 forestry pulled at Dick once again and he started a business as a consulting forester. He relished getting out into the woods once again, among nature and the trees that he so loved. He provide woodland owners expert advice in trespass and insure claim cases along with helping them to generate the maximum dollar return from their woodlands while keeping their property aesthetically pleasing to the eye. Dick was a woodworker extraordinaire, building cradles and rocking horses for his grandchildren. He built them toys that two generations have enjoyed. He spent hours with his grandchildren teaching them to respect nature while enjoying it to the fullest. He was an active lifetime member in the Society of American Foresters, League of Kentucky Sportsmen, Purdue Alumni Association, American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and the National Rifle Association. He was also a member of Kentucky Forest Industries Association, Kentucky Association of Consulting Foresters, Association of Consulting Foresters of America, National Arbor Day Foundation, American Chestnut Association, Ducks Unlimited and the Korean War Veterans Association. Dick is survived by his wife Ione, of seven years; daughter Deb Hansen and her family; sons Rich and Bill Wengert and their families; his sister Mary Metzger and her family; as well as his sister-in-law Emma Wengert and her family. He was preceded in death by his cherished first wife of 48 years, Pat Kerr Wengert; his parents; his dear brother Jack Wengert; and his beloved daughter Cindy Wengert. Funeral services will be Friday at 11 a.m. at the Rolan G. Taylor Funeral Home, 289 S. Main St., with Pastor Thomas W. Hoyt officiating. Visitation will be Thursday from 5 to 7 p.m at the funeral home. Graveside services and burial will be Saturday at 1 p.m. in the St. John Cemetery in Fort Wayne, Ind. West, Arthur		Triple Tragedy Details Of Which Probably Will Always Remain A Mystery Mayfield, Ky., May 21 A triple tragedy, the details of which will probably always remain a mystery, occurred at Lynneville, this county. A visitor to the warehouse owned by Mark Wilson, a prominent merchant, found the proprietor, his brother West Wilson and Arthur West lying on the floor shot to death. Revolvers were found beside the bodies of Arthur West and West Wilson. Two citizens reported that they had been at the warehouse shortly after 7 o'clock Sunday evening and left the trio apparently on good terms, although all had been drinking. The supposition is that West Wilson and Arthur West engaged in a shooting affray, killing each other, and that one of the bullets struck Mark Wilson. The Winchester Democrat Fri., May 25, 1906

West, Thomas	A DISPATCH from Rockville, Md., says” Some excitement was created here today by the appearance of Edward Riddle, United States deputy marshal, for the purpose of serving summonses on the trustees of the Rockville Academy. Henry N. Copp and others in a suit for ejectment filed in the United States Circuit Court in Baltimore by Gilson W. West and others, heirs-in-law of Thomas West, deceased. The land involved in this suit embraces a large portion of the Western section of the town upon which are a number of fine residences, and also a portion of West End Park. The present value of the property in dispute will amount to several hundred thousand dollars and a large number of persons are interested.” The G. W. West mentioned above is Gilson West, of this city. The facts are about as follows: Thomas West, grandfather of G. W. West, died in 1810 and left a large body of land which is now part of the town of Rockville an is valued at a quarter million dollars or more. After his death, commissioners of the court sold the land to his widow, Eleanor West. She failed to comply with the terms of the sale and no deed was made to her, but her descendants and those folding title from them have held the land since. Mr. West’s attorneys are very sanguine of success. Some of the parties on the other side have brought suit to quiet the title. If successful Mr. West will get half of the estate, which we hope he may speedily enjoy. The Democrat, Wednesday, December 28, 1892.

West, Wright N.		Squire West dead Squire Wright N. West died yesterday afternoon of the decay incident of old age. A fuller notice will be given in our next issue. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, December 11, 1906 Ripe in years Squire W.N. West passes away after a long illness On Monday afternoon death claimed one of our oldest and best citizens in the person of Wright N. West, who died at his home on North Main Street, aged eighty-two years. A few years ago he suffered a stroke of paralysis and subsequently two others, but the immediate cause of his death was cerebral hemorrhage. Since last March he has been helpless, but the devotion of his daughters, who as far as possible, anticipated every want, has been most lovely indeed. He was a native of this city, a son of Robert and Sallie Wright West, the former a gallant soldier of the war of 1812. Squire West married Miss Mary E. Swinney, who died twenty-six years ago. For some time he was in the merchant tailor business with Eld. J.W. Harding, afterward in the grocery trade with the late J.W. Parrish and again in the hardware business with the late Wick Curry; he also lived on a farm for some years and in the latter part of his life was a real estate agent. For twelve years he was a Magistrate and was always regarded as one of the best members of the Board. During most of his life he was a consistent member of the Christian Church and died in the triumphs of the Christian faith. He was a splendid citizen and a devoted husband and father. He leaves two daughters, Misses Nannie and Lizzie West, and a host of friends. Funeral services were held at the family residence Wednesday afternoon by Eld. J.W. Harding and W.E. Thayer, and the remains were buried in the Winchester Cemetery. The Winchester Democrat Friday, December 14, 1906 Among those from a distance who attended the funeral of Squire W.N. West were his nephew, Mr. Will Chrystal, of Chicago, Mrs. George Swinney, of Versailles, and Mrs. John Spohn, of Cynthiana. The Winchester Democrat Friday, December 14, 1906

Westbrook, John		Kiddville Correspondences-It is our melancholy duty to record the sudden death of Mr. John Westbrook, formerly a citizen of Winchester, which occurred on Sunday, the 28 th instant, at his mother's, near Kiddville. He went out to bring in a load of wood and while out was taken with hemorrhage of the lungs. He was discovered, the blood gushing from his nose and mouth, assisted to the house, conducted to a chair, bent himself forward, and almost instantly died. Thus suddenly terminated the life of John Westbrook, born on our midst and known by us all. Peace to his ashes. Let us look around and observe how our neighbors and friends are falling, and ask ourselves the question in view of those facts, "What manner of men should we be?"- RESPONDER Clark County Democrat Thur., 2-1-1872

Whayne, R. C.		Heavily Insured. R. C. Whayne, Found Dead, Carried Policies to the Amount of $340,000. Louisville, Ky., Dec. 18.—R. C. Whayne, the largest dealer in sewing machines in this city, was found dead in a lane near his country home Wednesday night. He was on one side of a barbed wire fence and a double-barreled shotgun on the other. He told friends several days ago, it is said, that he was insured for $100,000 in case he died suddenly. He was married and had three children. Louisville, Ky., Dec. 19.—It developed Thursday that R. C. Whayne, a Louisville business man who was found dead Wednesday night in the vicinity of Jacob park with a gunshot wound in the breast, carried insurance on his life of $340,000 and had

	applications pending for $50,000 more. The policies were distributed as follows: Equitable Life Assurance Society of New York, $200,000; Provident Savings Life Assurance Society of New York, $100,000; Union Central Life $10,000; New York Life, $5,000; North-western Mutual Life, $5,000. Mr. Wayne had applied for a policy of $25,000 with the Manhattan company, and that policy was to issue December 22. Another application had been made to the Mutual of Vermont for an equal amount, and this policy was to be dated December 24. It was upon the fact that Mr. Wayne carried such a large life insurance and was said to be suffering from rheumatism that a theory of suicide is based. Coroner Kelly went to the scene of the death Thursday. He said the circumstances were such that the case would require exhaustive investigation. The inquest will be held Saturday. Near Mr. Wayne's body when found but on the opposite side of the fence was a shotgun with one barrel empty, and the other loaded and cocked. His friends and family declare that death was due to an accident, and that the gun was discharged while he was climbing the fence. It developed Thursday that four of Mr. Wayne's policies, two in the Equitable Life Assurance Society for $50,000 each and two in the Provident Savings Life Assurance Society for $60,000 each are contestable in case of suicide. All of the other policies with one exception contained the suicide clause but the limit in every case had expired. The Winchester Sentinel, Wednesday, December 24, 1902 The Heavily Insured Man. Coroner's Jury Returns a Verdict of Accidental Death. Louisville, Ky., Dec. 22.—The coroner's jury, which spent a full day in investigating the death of R. C. Wayne, a prominent business man, who was found late Wednesday night in the vicinity of Jacob Park with a gunshot wound in his breast, returned a verdict of accidental death. Intense interest was manifested in the case, as Wayne carried life insurance policies aggregating $390,000 and had applied for $50,000 more. Among the policies carried by Mr. Wayne were the following: Equitable Life Assurance Society, of New York, $200,000; Provident Savings Life Assurance Society, of New York, $120,000; Union Central Life, $10,000; New York Life, $5,000; Northwestern Mutual Life, $5,000. Mr. Wayne had applied for a policy of $25,000 with the Manhattan Co., and the policy was to be issued December 22. Another application had been made in the Mutual of Vermont, for an equal amount and this policy was to be dated December 24. It was upon the fact that Mr. Wayne carried such a large life insurance, and was said to be suffering from rheumatism, that a theory of suicide was based. Near Mr. Wayne's body, when found, but on the opposite side of a wire fence was a shotgun with one barrel empty and the other loaded and cocked. His friends and family declare that death was due to an accident, and that the gun was discharged while he was climbing through the fence. The evidence offered at the inquest supported the theory of accident, together with there being no feature which pointed to suicide. It is not known what steps the insurance companies will take. Several New York detectives are here. A part of the $390,000 insurance is incontestable. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, December 26, 1902 Made Another Payment Louisville, Ky., Jan. 10 The Equitable Life Assurance society paid another $65,000 to the R. C. Wayne estate Friday. This amount was paid on a policy whose premium had been extended. Two policies of $50,000 each remain unpaid, and it is believed they will be contested. So far the Equitable Life Assurance society has paid the R. C. Wayne estate $150,000. Winchester Democrat Fri., Jan. 16, 1903

Wheeler, James Levi	Death of Capt. J. L. Wheeler Capt. James Levi Wheeler died at the residence of Mr. Anna W. Bean, on South Maple

	street, Wednesday morning after a protracted illness of a complication of diseases. The funeral was preached yesterday afternoon by Rev. J. J. Chisholm at the residence and the remains were interred in the cemetery. Capt. Wheeler was born January 1833, and was one of five children of Samuel and Caroline Mason Wheeler. Samuel Wheeler was a pioneer in the iron business and with various members of the Jackson family owned and ran the Estill Furnace. Capt. Levi Wheeler built and operated the famous Cottage Furnace, in conjunction with his brother-in-law, Hon. John C. Mason, who was a very prominent man and formerly represented his district in Congress. In October, 1865, Capt. Wheeler married Miss Sarah C. Moore, who died several years ago, leaving two children, John M. Wheeler and Mrs. Katherine Wheeler Bean, wife of Ernest S. Bean. Two sisters survive him, Mrs. J. F. Robinson and Mrs. Chas. Hanson, of Lexington, and two are dead, Mrs. Leeland Hathaway and Mrs. Boone Railey. Capt. Wheeler was a man of earnest convictions and the courage to uphold them, and when the war came he promptly took up arms in the defense of what he believed to be right. First as Lieutenant and afterward as Captain in Chenault's regiment of Morgan's command and in every situation he demeaned himself as became a gentleman and a soldier. He was captured on the famous Ohio raid and for months suffered in various Northern prisons, from which he was finally exchanged. He was a true man in every sense of the word; of the highest integrity, of the keenest sense of honor, and of the broadest charity. Perhaps no resident of our city was more esteemed or will be more deeply lamented. The Clark County Confederate Association met at the Court House; and after appropriate action, attended the funeral in a body. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, April 27, 1894 Resolutions of Respect The Clark County Association of Confederate Soldiers met at the Courthouse in Winchester, April 26, 1894, at 2 o'clock p. m. for the purpose of showing their respect for the memory of their deceased comrade, J. L. Wheeler. The meeting was called to order by the President, Rodney Haggard, who stated the object of the meeting. The following resolutions were offered by Col. Jos. T. Tucker and were unanimously adopted: Resolved, In all our associations with him whether in camp or on the march, in the fiery ordeal of battle, or in the walks of civil life, we found him always courteous generous noble brave chivalrous and true to all the instincts of the noblest manhood. 2d. He was an honor to the community in which he lived; an honor to the friends that loved him, and as gallant a soldier as ever wore the gray. 3d. We sympathize with his bereaved children and kin. Their loss is our loss also. 4th. We as an Association will attend our deceased comrade's funeral services in a body and convey his remains to their resting place. 5th. That the Winchester papers be requested to publish these resolutions. The Hon. Rodney Haggard, of the Association, made a short but exceedingly feeling address in which he spoke of the high esteem in which the deceased had always been held by the community in which he had lived, and his own personal love and respect for him. Capt. J. C. Turner moved that a committee of three be appointed to prepare a sketch of the military services of the deceased to be placed within the archives of our Association, which was unanimously agreed to, and the following members were appointed as said Committee: Rodney Haggard, B. F. Curtis and Leeland Hathaway. Also, Mrs. Jennie Catherwood Bean, assisted by the President Rodney Haggard were appointed a Committee to procure a speaker or speakers to be with us on Decoration day May 26th. The meeting then adjourned to attend the funeral services and burial in accordance with the resolutions. Rodney Haggard, President, D. J. Pendleton, Secretary. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, May 1, 1894 The death of Capt. J. L. Wheeler brings to mind the fact that death is fast decimating the ranks of the Muckletonian Club, at one time the most prominent hunting and fishing club of the South. It was organized in 1872 with eighteen of the most prominent men of Winchester and vicinity as members. In addition to scores of minor trips they occasionally went on more extensive ones to Florida, Arkansas, the Pacific Slope, etc. These trips were truly days of true pleasure and good fellowship. Not a word of discord ever marred the harmony of their meetings. Col. R. N. Winn was the first President and still fills that position, although the remaining members are so few and scattered that the meetings of late years have been few. The first member die was John J. Eubank, followed in succession by Ben P. Goff, S. Grant Jackson, M. G. Taylor, Jas. D. Gay, David A. Gay, D. T. Buckner, John W. Prewitt, John A. Judy and J. L. Wheeler. The surviving members are R. N. Winn, Leeland Hathaway, J. D. Simpson, A. H. Sympton, and T. F. Phillips, of this city; Geo. R. Snyder and R. J. Snyder, of Louisville and Sam McKee, of Philadelphia. Ten have passed over the dark river while eight await the summons to join their comrades on the other side. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, May 4, 1894 John M. Wheeler qualified as administrator of J. L. Wheeler, with C. S. French, A. H. Hampton and J. W. Poynter appraisers. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, May 8, 1894

White, child	Died Four Years Ago. Undertakers Want To Be Relieved of the Corpse of an Infant. Owensboro, Ky., Sept. 22.—The Owensboro Undertakers' Association has a strange case to deal with. A little child of A. M. White, a veterinary surgeon, who lived here, died in the spring of 1898, and it was sent to Robert Tennelly, an undertaker, to be prepared for burial. When it was embalmed the parents had no money to pay the undertaker, who refused to give it up. The body remained in Tennelly's establishment until a few weeks ago, when it passed to the Owensboro Undertakers' Association, which bought Tennelly out. The present proprietors desire to get rid of the body, but there is no one to take it. At the time Tennelly refused to give the body to its parents a Louisville paper published an account of it which resulted in an important damage suit, and a judgement for Tennelly for $5,000. The parents of the child are no longer here, and the Owensboro Undertakers' Association has a baby on hand that has been dead for more than four years. White, Everett	Sensational suicide Everett White, formerly of Fairview, Mason county, suicided at the home of Miss Kittie McDowell, near Mt. Olivet, Monday night by taking morphine. He is said to have formed a strong attachment for the young lady when she was at Fairview teaching school; on her return to her home he followed and was employed as a hand on the farm. Monday he and Miss McDowell drove to Mt. Olivet together. It seems during the day he began drinking, and when he started to drive home in the afternoon the horse did not act to suit him. He jumped from the buggy and knocked the horse down with the butt of the whip. Miss McDowell then sprang from the buggy, took the whip away from him and gave him several lashes about the shoulders. She declined to drive home with him. He went to a soda fountain, and drank a quantity of morphine with his soda. White, Hugh L.		Hugh L. White, a prominent citizen of Richmond and a deacon in the Presbyterian Church, committed suicide Wednesday by hanging himself in his stable with a halter. A few minutes before he was talking with a friend and seemed in his usual spirits, and nothing is known as to the cause unless it was some late financial losses. It seems that suicide runs in the family, as a few years ago his daughter killed herself by cutting her throat with a pen-knife, and others of his relatives are said to have taken their own life. Mr. White was a native of Clay county and a cousin of ex-Congressman, John D. White. The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, May 27, 1891

White, J. L. B.		A Winchester workman The inside pages of the last issue of The Democrat contained a sketch of John C.C. Mayo and his palatial home at Paintsville, costing about a quarter of a million dollars. The bulk of this work was done by J.L.B. White, of this city. The stone for the foundation and even for the massive stone porch columns, was dug from the adjacent hills and wrought out under Mr. White's supervision. White, Lee Jake		Died-At Clay City Sunday, of consumption, Lee Jake White, bookkeeper of the Clay City National Bank. His remains passed through here Monday enroute to Richmond, his former home, for interment. He was a nephew of Mrs. J. M. Rash, of this city. Winchester Democrat Wed., 6-8-1892

A few weeks ago, Lee Jake White, Teller of the Clay City Bank, died after a severe illness, leaving an estate of about $15,000. After his death a will was offered for probate giving two-thirds of it to John G. Cole and the remainder to others who are not heirs-at-law. The will was written by Cole and signed by White just before he died, and, it is claimed, while he was not conscious of his actions. His aunt, Mrs. J. M. Rash, of this city, and some of his relatives from Madison county, have brought suit to set aside the will and it was brought up for trial at Stanton yesterday. Beckner & Jouett, of this city, and W. B. Smith, of Richmond, are Cole's lawyers; the other side is represented by Haggard & Benton, of this city, Judge Kinkead and Brown & Allen, of Lexington. This is the first will case contested in Powell county.
Winchester Democrat Wed., 7-20-1892

The will of the late Lee Jake White, of Clay City, which is contested by Mrs. J. M. Rash and others was admitted to probate last week by Judge Mastin of Powell county. The contest will be carried to a higher court.
The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, July 27, 1892

The White Will Case; The Richmond climax has the following to say of a will case in which a number of Clark county people are interested: "Depositions have been taken here during the past week of many prominent citizens in the case of Jacob S. White, &c., vs. John G. Cole, &c., pending in the Powell Circuit Court, which comes up before the court next Friday. Much importance is attached to the case owing to the prominence of nearly all the parties connected with it, some of whom are citizens of Madison. It involves a will purported to have been made by Lee Jake White a young man well known prior to his death, and now favorably remembered, who was born near Foxtown. He was residing and doing business at Stanton, Powell county, at the time of his death. When three weeks old his mother died, and his uncle, John G. Cole, of Foxtown, adopted him and raised him.

In this will Mr. Cole and Miss White, of Foxtown, are made the devisees, Mr. Cole being made the principal one by two thirds interest. The will was written by Mr. Cole the day before Mr. White died, and properly probated.

It is now sought by the appellants to break the will on the grounds that it was improperly made, and with undue influence over White by Cole, and that rationally, he would have bequeathed his property to his kin, who are natural and legal heirs; that the will was written only a short time before the death of White during his illness, and while he was not in natural health, the appellants think, establishes, to their minds, Mr. White's desire that his property, by course of law, should revert to his kin, his natural heirs.

The amount involved is about $20,000, and there is considerable interest in the case. Depositions are being taken before Examiner W. P. Norris.

The principal contestants are N. Veeder White, of this county, and J. M. Rash, of Winchester, who married into the family. The attorneys for the contestants are J. A. Sullivan, of this county, J. M. Benton, of Winchester, and Chas. J. Bronston of Lexington, while W. B. Smith, of Richmond, and Beckner & Jouett, of Winchester, represent the devisees."

The case comes up for trial at Stanton this morning.

The Winchester Democrat, Friday June 22, 1894

In the Stanton Circuit Court John Kimbrell was given two years in the pen for horse stealing; The case of the Commonwealth against Goodloe Combs, of Breathitt, for being accessory to the murder of John A. Rose and who at the February term received a life sentence, which was reversed by the court of Appeals was continued until the November term of the Powell Circuit Court, and he was released on bail of $7,500. The White will case of which we made mention in our last issue, was continued until this morning.

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday June 26, 1894

The White will case in which J. M. Rash, John G. Cole and other citizens of the county are interested was set for Tuesday in the Stanton Circuit Court but Judge Scott was too ill to try it and it went over until the fall term.

The Winchester Democrat, Friday, June 29, 1894

The contest over the will of the late Lee Jake White of Clay City, will be tried this week in the Stanton Circuit Court. John G. Cole, of this city, is one of the principal beneficiaries, and Mrs. J. M. Rash, of this city, is the principal contestant.

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, Nov. 20, 1894

The contested will case of Lee Jake White, in which John G. Cole and Mrs. J. M. Rash were the principal contestants, and which was set for last week in the Powell Circuit Court, was continued on account of illness of Judge Scott's wife.

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, December 4, 1894

THE suit between Mrs. J. M. Rash and John G. Cole, both of this county, concerning the will of the late Lee Jake White will come up in the Stanton Circuit Court Tomorrow.

The Winchester Democrat, Friday, March 22, 1895.

THE White will case has occupied the attention of the Powell Circuit Court for several days. The late Lee Jake White, of Powell county, died a year or two ago leaving the bulk of this property to John G. Cole, of this county. Mrs. J. M. Rash was a near kinswoman of Mr. White and she brought suit to set aside the will, alleging undue

	influence on the part of Mr. Cole. The case was gone over with much thoroughness and much interest was manifested. The jury finally brought in a verdict in favor of sustaining the will, at the close standing nine to three in favor of the propounders. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, April 2, 1895. JOHN G. COLE, of Clark county, was here last week, and said that he would, as administrator of Lee Jake White, proceed to sell the property, as the Court had decided the will in his favor.-Richmond Climax The Winchester Democrat, Friday, June 28, 1895. Affirmed. The case of White vs. Cole from the Powell Circuit Court has been affirmed by the court of appeals. This was a case growing out of the will of the late Lee Jake White of that county, whose will left his property to John G. Cole, of this county. The will was contested by the legal heirs of White, one of whom was Mrs. J. M. Rash, of this city, on the ground that undue influence was used and that White was in no condition to make a will when that instrument was executed. The will was sustained in the Powell Court and this judgement is affirmed by the higher court. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, November 15, 1898 Farm Sold. The Winchester Sun-Sentinel Thursday, June 20, 1907 A tribute The Beattyville Enterprise paid the following tribute to Mrs. J.L.B. White, whose death was announced last week: Mrs. White was a daughter of John Cole, Sr., and his wife, Bettie. Her father died long since, but her death is the first break in the group of seven devoted brothers and sisters. As Lima Cole, the people of Beattyville knew her to be a woman of exceptionally fine character, gentle and considerate, a loving, dutiful daughter and sister, and a very true friend. Her married life was most happy and her friends in Beattyville sympathize, sincerely, with her stricken family and with her husband bereft in so short a time of the wife and the babe which died before its mother's spirit returned to the Master whom she had so faithfully served. Whitehead, Peter F.	In his speech at the Courthouse yesterday, Dr. Blackburn paid a beautiful and touching tribute to the memory of Dr. Peter F. Whitehead, a native of Winchester, who died of yellow fever at Vicksburg last Fall, whilst nobly battling against the terrible scourge. The Semi-Weekly Sun Tue., 2-25-1879 TRIBUTE TO THE LATE DR. P. F. WHITEHEAD Read by C. A. Rice, M. D., at the Meeting of the State Medical Association, Held at Aberdeen, Miss., April 2d, 1879 (From the Vicksburg, Miss. Herald) Mr. President: ‘Tis a sad duty which calls us together on this our regular meeting, when we know that so many faces, familiar and welcome at our annual gatherings, are gone from us forever. Sadder still to attempt anything like a just or proper tribute to our departed brothers. It brings them not back again. It does not re-animate their cold and lifeless clay. Our voices fall as dead as the cold clods that covered them forever from our sight. They have gone the thunder may break above their heads but will not disturb their rest. They are as deaf alike to the fulsome admiration of admiring friends as to the carping detraction of opponents, and while I would speak of P. F. Whitehead there are others whose memories I will ever cherish as among the best friends of my life. Dr. Peter F. Whitehead was born in the town of Winchester, Kentucky; on the 9 th day of June 1838. He commenced the study of medicine there under the instruction of Dr. H. Taylor, in the year 1857, and finished his medical education at Jefferson Medical College, in Philadelphia, Pa., graduating in the class of 1859-60 with honors to himself and his “Alma Mater.” Immediately succeeding he was elected by the City Council of Philadelphia one of the four of the graduating class as physician for Blockley Hospital, in that city, where he remained one year. Soon after leaving Blockley he settled at Independence, Mo., where he practiced his profession winning the confidence which his genius and talent justly merited.

Upon the breaking out of our late civil war, at the call of the Governor of Missouri, he enlisted as a private in Captain Eugene Erwin's Company at Independence, Mo. He was shortly afterwards commissioned as a Surgeon in the Missouri State Guard, and assigned to duty at General Price's headquarters as Surgeon of the General's escort. He served in this capacity until the "State Guard" was mustered out, and again enlisted at Corinth, Miss., in 1862, in the Confederate service as a private in a regiment of Missouri troops commanded by Col. Eugene Erwin, his former Captain.

He served but a few days as a private before he was appointed a Surgeon in the Confederate service and assigned to duty with the third Louisiana regiment. He served through the siege of Vicksburg, and many a poor and wounded soldier in those weary, anxious hours of night was gladdened by his presence, and comforted with the attention from his gentle hand and sympathetic disposition. There are others upon this floor who were there, and learned to love him as well.

He followed the fortunes of our "lost cause" through all its vicissitudes with duty ever his watchword, and occupied a prominent position in the medical department of the army of the "Confederate States." He was Chief Surgeon of General Loring's Division, in which position he surrendered at Greensboro, N. C. in April 1865.

He was married to Miss Irene Cowan, of Vicksburg, Miss., just before the surrender, in 1865, and immediately after the close of the war settled in Vicksburg to practice his profession, where he was loved by all who knew him to the day of his death, which sad event occurred on the 5th day of September, 1878, of yellow fever, battling with the disease as he had in several epidemics before. The physicians and friends in his native town, by resolution and wearing mourning, attested their high appreciation of his worth and merit. Its municipal authorities held a meeting of respect to his memory and passed appropriate resolutions. The physicians in Vicksburg and members of his church have alike expressed their profound grief and irreparable loss in his death.

It would be improper to close without adding some testimonials gathered from the press. A special dispatch to the Courier-Journal from Vicksburg says:

"This is the darkest day we have yet seen. Dr. Whitehead is dead. He was a Kentuckian, and Kentucky may well be proud of her son, and mingle her tears with ours, for she has none left that are nobler than he. He was the very type of a perfect man—strong as a lion, gentle as a woman, handsome as a god. Among his professional brethren he was the acknowledged head; yet none were more modest than he. Nature had placed the stamp of nobility upon his brow, and he who ran might read it. When the fever broke out he might well have gone as others did. His practice was confined to a class of people who have the means to go North every Summer, and who had gone this time, but he stood by his people in their hour of need, and he died in the cause of humanity. Vicksburg will long remember him, and Kentucky will be untrue to herself if high on the roll of her distinguished sons she fails to engrave the name of P. F. Whitehead."

The Courier-Journal in speaking of him says: "Kentucky has not been without her 'victories of peace' in the grand cause of suffering humanity, though her monuments do not tell the story of the heroes who have shed this noble luster upon her name. For the most part their name and deeds live in tradition, and the affectionate remembrances of those they have succored. Such a one has just passed away; he did not fall amid the glory of successful war, or in the grim despair of defeat. There was no pomp and circumstance to fire his heart, nor the inspiration of tumultuous combat to urge him on to deeds of valor. There was no hot, brief struggle, and the final charge beneath the sulfurous canopy of war and amid the resounding clamor of battle, that makes the soldier forget how close the laurel and cypress grow together. Yet heartily and daily he faced death in one of its most fearful forms. He walked continually in the shadow of the dark valley. His work was with the dying—in never-relaxing effort to save them from the fell-destroyer that had seized upon the fair South, and spare not youth, nor age, beauty, nor manhood, strength nor feebleness. With the calmness of devoted courage and the high resolve of noble purpose he passed from bed to bed—from house to house, ministering to the needs of the suffering.

"While life lasted he never wavered, but the talismanic power of gratitude at least was no proof against the monster who demanded more and more, and in the inscrutable dispensation of God this lover of mankind, this devoted member of one of the noblest professions, this soldier of humanity, this man with soul attuned in sympathetic accord with the sufferings of his kind, was stricken down in the midst of his greatest usefulness. He cannot be forgotten. But his name should not be left to fond memory alone. In the State Cemetery at Frankfort another shaft should be reared to commemorate the deeds of those brave sons of Kentucky who have fallen in the battle of pestilence. On this shaft should be inscribed the name of the brave and devoted Whitehead, and around it should be gathered the names of all those who have fallen in this summer's terrible war, battling at the front to save the stricken and the doomed, or standing valiantly at the post to which they were assigned by duty, unswerved by the dreadful devastation surrounding them."

We are not here to invoke the trumpet's mournful sound, or tap the muffled drum for him whose lifeless clay to the grave has been given, but to express, as best we may, our estimate of his worth.

May the rose and the jasmine ever blossom over his grave; may we ever keep bright in our memories his many virtues; may his memory endure as long as the battle-scarred hills where he wrought his faithful work, and let the gentle breeze as it mummings through the willow boughs that kiss the waters of the Mississippi upon whose banks he sleeps, sing the requiem to his departed worth, and that mighty current, in its majestic course, be the emblem of his noble generous spirit.

	The Semi-Weekly Sun Tue., 6-17-1879 Interesting Reminiscences of the Siege of Vicksburg Gen. D. H. Maury, in a recent issue of the New Orleans Democrat, had the following among other reminiscences, which is of considerable local interest. "On the evening of December 29th, I think it was, a flag of truce bore a letter to me signed by Gen. George Morgan, of Ohio, a splendid soldier and warm-hearted, manly fellow, requesting a truce for the burial of their dead. Gen. Carter Stevenson had then arrived with his fine division and was commander-in-chief of our forces. I handed Morgan's letter to Lee and said: "You killed these men, Lee: it was your battle-please reply." Which he did, granting a truce of two hours for the object in view. Just as the trumpets were about to sound for the end of the truce, I was startled to see a beautiful young girl, accompanied by a gentleman and a negro, with a large market basket behind them, coming at a gallop to my headquarters. I rode to meet them and told them the truce was over and the firing would be resumed in a few minutes, and they must get away at once. "Her eyes were bright and her face flushed and beautiful as she explained: "We heard of the truce, and came to bring some home-made bread and delicacies for our wounded men." I said: "I thank you very much, but there are only ten of them, and they have all been sent to their homes or to the hospital in town. "Then with a charming hesitancy she said: "Would you object to the wounded Yankees having them?" "No, indeed." I said, and sent an orderly to conduct the negro to the field hospital, and urged her and her escort to get away at once. One of my staff volunteered to escort her beyond the range of the fire. I think it was Adj. Gen. Flowers who volunteered for this trying service. The young lady was Miss Irene Cowan, to whom I always pay my respects when in Vicksburg. She is now the widow of Dr. Whitehead." Dr. P. F. Whitehead, the gentleman mentioned above, was a native of this county and a resident for many years. He was a nephew of Judge James Flanagan, of this city, and received his early education here. He graduated with high honors from a Philadelphia medical college, and during the war was Chief of Surgeons of Gen. Loring's Division, one of the most renowned fighting divisions in the Confederate service. Dr. Whitehead was a victim of the yellow fever epidemic at Vicksburg in 1878. In honor to his memory, a fine portrait of this distinguished gentleman adorns the walls of the Circuit Court room in this city. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, March 22, 1895. Death of Mrs. Whitehead. Mrs. Irene Whitehead died at Vicksburg, Miss., May 31st, aged sixty-four years. Her husband, Dr. Peter Whitehead, was a nephew of Judge Flanagan and his portrait adorns the walls of our Courthouse. When the yellow fever epidemic of 1878 visited Vicksburg, he refused to leave, but continued to minister to the stricken people until he fell a victim to the dread scourge. Whittaker, John	A penitentiary sentence Dr. F.D. Marcum, of Louisa, was given a sentence of seven years in the penitentiary for the killing of John Whittaker on a C & O train about two years ago. Whittaker and three companions were acting disorderly on the train and the conductor asked Marcum, who was at that time marshal of Louisa, to arrest them, and a fight followed in which Whittaker was killed. At the first trial the jury disagreed. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, September 13, 1910 Louisa – The jury in the case against Dr. F.D. Marcum for killing John Whittaker brought in a verdict of manslaughter and fixed his punishment at seven years in the penitentiary. The killing took place on a C & O train two years ago. Marcum was marshal of Louisa, and was requested by the conductor to arrest Whittaker and three companions for disorderly conduct. They resisted, and in the fight that followed, Whittaker was fatally shot. The jury disagreed in the first trial. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, September 13, 1910 Officer pardoned Gov. Whittaker, Roy		Prayer Not Loud Enough To Suit Alleged Tormentors, Who Are Sought For Murder Somerset, Ky., May 28 Roy Whittaker, of the Line Creek section, a few miles west of here, while returning home from church Sunday night, was attacked, it is claimed, by James and Robert Barnes and killed instantly. The report is that while Whittaker was on his way home from church the Barnes boys met him and asked him to lend them his horse. Upon refusing, they made him, at the point of a pistol, get down from his horse, and told him to get down on his knees. He obeyed, but because he did not pray as loud as they thought he ought, one of the boys shot and killed him. Neither of them has been caught. There has been no previous trouble between the parties. Newport, Ky., March 27.—George Wiedemann, the head of a large brewery firm that bears his name, died Tuesday afternoon at his home in Newport shortly after 3 o'clock. While his death was not sudden his illness had never been made public, and when his death was announced, it came as a great shock to his many friends and the citizens of the city where he was so well known. Tuesday morning he was operated on for appendicitis, but it was found that besides this ailment he had a complication of diseases of the stomach, which was almost fatal, so they tried to revive him, but he never rallied. His death was quiet and peaceful and he was surrounded by his wife, child, brother and many friends. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, April 2, 1901

Wiggington-White, Lauren Ashley	A child of God’s own creating, Lauren Ashley Wiggington White had a beautiful, genuine, and compassionate soul that was taken to heaven tragically on November 14, 2021. This precious daughter of Mark and Beth Wiggington, was born in Lexington, KY on July 13, 1984. She was raised in a loving Christian home with her parents and brother. Lauren was a fierce and loyal friend to many as she graduated from George Rogers Clark High School in 2002. As a college student at Eastern Kentucky University, she was blessed to meet Curt, the love of her life. After graduating with a Bachelors of science degree in Nursing, they were married shortly thereafter in Lexington on May 27, 2006, and began their beautiful adventures together. Laurens deep seated desire to care for others was evidenced by her career choice as an ICU nurse, Travel Nurse, and her final calling working as a hospice nurse in Clark County, Ky. She appreciated and cherished the opportunity to witness and serve patients and families in their last moments on earth. Lauren was a Daddy’s girl and best friend to her parents Mark and Beth, and loving daughter to Curt’s parents Norma and Alan White. She was an Angel on earth to her family as she nurtured them with love and selflessness. Leading her boys to grow to become gentlemen, have good values, and love the Lord was her highest priority. Lauren believed that caring for Curt and their boys was the ultimate gift and a blessing

	that she cherished above all others. Her passion for animals and the outdoors was fulfilled as she became a shepherdess and was a newly elected board member for the Kentucky Wool Producers Association and a member of the Kentucky Fiber Trail. Curt and Lauren have always known that the most valuable part of life is our faith and are raising their boys to know and love Jesus, their Savior. They are members of First Fire Methodist Church in Winchester. This family believes firmly that Jesus is our Savior from sin and in God's perfect time will reunite them all with one another in Heaven. A celebration of her life on earth will take place at 11:00 am on Saturday, November 20, 2021 at Calvary Christian Church, 15 Redwing Drive in Winchester, Kentucky. Wilder, Pleas	Tuesday's Tragedy. Pleas Wilder shot and Killed by Allen Brown Who Is Declared Justifiable. In Rice's saloon on North Main street Tuesday morning Allen Brown, City Clerk of Ford, shot and killed Pleas Wilder. For some time they had not been on friendly terms. Brown and a friend stepped into the saloon closely followed by Wilder who, on being asked by Brown to take a drink, replied insultingly and drew a big knife, Brown backed away warning Wilder not to advance. Wilder disregarded the warning and met death. Four shots were fired three of which took effect—two in the body and one in the arm, one ball piercing the heart. Brown surrendered to Sheriff McCord and was in his charge until after the Coroner's inquest, when he was admitted to bail in the sum of $500 and left for home. The body of Wilder was taken to the boarding house of Mrs. Lawrence on Main street whence the burial took place yesterday. Coroner Brinegar held the inquest before a jury composed of R. L. Sutherland, J. B. Adams, J. M. Reeves, G. B. Young, John R. Pace and A. N. Swartz. A number of eyewitnesses were examined, all testifying in accordance with the above statement of the case, and a verdict was made finding Brown justifiable in what he did. Wilder, Will	Mary West, of Lexington, was held over in $2,000 bail for killing Will Wilder by shooting him in the neck. Both parties are white. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, December 10, 1897 Unusual Plea Another Woman Being Defended When Mary West Killed Wm. Wilder Lexington, Ky., Dec. 15.—The trial of Mary West, who, on Sunday morning, December 5, shot and killed Wm. Wilder in Ida Clark's resort, occupied the entire day in the circuit court, the case going to the jury at 5 o'clock. At 10 o'clock the jury

	announced that it had been unable to arrive at a verdict, and Judge Parker ordered it locked up for the night. The case has excited much interest, the defense making a plea for acquittal on the grounds of killing in defense of another whose life was in danger, holding that Mary West was justified in killing Wilder while he was attacking Ida Clark with a chair. Judge Parker's instructions to the jury were very liberal on this point, and recited that if the jury should find reasonable grounds for the belief that the killing was done in defense of another the woman should be acquitted. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, December 21, 1897 Mary West Acquitted – Lexington, Ky., Dec. 16 – Mary West, the 20 year-old white girl, who shot and killed William Wilder in a Spruce street house ten days ago, was tried by a jury, which acquitted her at noon Wednesday after being out 12 hours. Willcox, Johnnie	OBITUARY Died—On Dec. 1 st , 1879, Johnnie Willcox, in the 23 rd year of his age. We offer this tribute of respect to the memory of one whom we have known and loved for sixteen years, and of whom we can truly say, that we have never known him to be guilty of an action unbecoming a gentleman. He was a brave and chivalrous friend, a generous and forgiving enemy, a dutiful son, and a good citizen. To the grief-stricken parents of the deceased we tender our heartfelt sympathy, but to her whom he loved with all the ardor of his young manhood, we feel that the poor, common words of consolation would be but a mockery; but death loves a shining mark, and we can but bow in humble submission to the will of Him who doeth all things well. Williams, Charles	Killed Both. Man and Woman Murdered by an Unknown Assassin—Murderer Said to Be the Woman's Husband. Henderson, Ky., Oct. 6.—A man who is said to be Charles Williams and a woman whose identity has not been established, were shot and killed opposite Evansville by an unknown man. A stranger, armed with a gun, crossed the river in a skiff. He met a man and woman in a grove, and immediately opened fire. The woman fell dead and the man received a mortal wound in the head. He was conscious, and said that the dead woman was the slayers wife. He gave his name as Charles Williams. The murderer escaped. In the boat several papers were found containing the name of Jesse J. Cornell. Coroner Rousseau believes that Cornell did the shooting and that he will be captured. The sheriff is on the track of Cornell. As the shooting is investigated it appears that the woman deserted her husband for Williams, with whom she was living at the time of the tragedy. Mr. Williams was a Baptist Minister for more than fifty years. He once owned all the land covered by the populous and flourishing city of Mt. Williams, Joe	AA	Another murder has been added to the list committed in Tin Can alley. That part of the city is a veritable Sodom, and all the wickedness known to man from crap shooting to murder finds its votaries there. Sunday morning one of the foulest murders ever perpetuated around here took place in the house of a courtesan named Addie Martin in that delectable place. Joe Williams, a negro who worked near Renick, came in town Saturday night and as usual proceeded to squander his earnings on mean whisky and meaner women. In company with Henry Yates and a couple of other men he spent the night at one of the houses of ill repute. The next morning, Yates missed two dollars from his pocket and accused Williams of having taken it. This the latter denied, when Yates placed a pistol near his body and fired. The ball entered a little below the heart and inflicted a wound from which Williams died in a few minutes. Immediately after the shooting, Yates ran and a few hours after was found by the police in a corn field a few miles from town. He offered no resistance and was brought to the city and lodged in jail. Coroner Alexander held an inquest which brought out the facts given. According to the verdict of the jury, the killing was wholly without provocation. Both parties were colored. Williams was a Mt. Sterling man while Yates came from South Carolina. He told a comrade some time ago that he had killed a man in that State for which he was forced to leave. In this case as in most other serious infractions of the law, the culprits come from other places, for the universal testimony of the officers of the law is to the effect that with few exceptions, the colored people of Winchester are the best in the State. Williams, John		Ben Pendleton, of this county, and John Williams, of Estill county, got into a difficulty Wednesday near Stanton, in which the latter received a fatal wound. From a statement of a witness to the unfortunate affair it seems that the two men were sawing timbers for a trestle on the K.U. Each accused the other of riding on the saw, and finally Pendleton called Williams a "damned liar". Williams retorted with a stinging blow in the face. Pendleton snatched up a hammer and Williams a adze. Pendleton, however, succeeded in administering the first blow, striking Williams on the head and crushing the skull. At last accounts he was still living, but with no hopes of recovery. The friends of the injured man made a desperate attempt to capture Pendleton for the purpose of lynching him, but he succeeded in escaping and is still at large. Williams, John Stuart	Resolutions of Respect At a meeting of the members of the Winchester Bar, to take suitable action upon the death of Gen. Jno. S. Williams, Hon Ben F. Buckner was chosen chairman and Sam M. Boone secretary. On motion the chair appointed the following members of the bar a committee on resolutions, to-wit: C. S. French, Rodney Haggard, James Flanagan, Thomas G. Stuart and Geo. B. Nelson, who retired and returned the following preamble and resolutions, which were unanimously adopted: WHEREAS, we have received intelligence of General John S. Williams, a member of this bar, who breathed his last at his late residence, in Montgomery county, July 7, 1898 therefore be it. Resolved, that while with bowed and reverent heads we yield to this dispensation of Divine providence, we cannot forebear to express the deep sense of loss we have sustained, and take this method of bearing testimony to some of the many virtues of the deceased. Resolved, that in General Williams we recognize the manly spirit and the type of generation now rapidly passing away-a generation born to chivalry and romance of a more generous age: that in his life and character friendship was a sacred principle held inviolate, and personal honor an altar on which all unworthy ambitions were sacrificed. Resolved, that we take pride in pointing to his gallant career as a soldier on the plains of Mexico, and, confident of his enduring fame, cheerfully resign to history the welcome task of recording his distinguished services in that foreign field. Resolved, that while he followed the fortunes of the lost cause and Confederate banner with the same spirit of heroic devotion that distinguished all his military career, and never for a moment faltered in his zeal, till all was lost, yet when peace returned and loyal citizenship was expected as the only tribute to a just government, there were no more prompt than he to render a graceful and just allegiance to that government. Resolved, that a copy of these proceedings be presented to the Clark Circuit at its term for record among its personal annals, a similar copy be sent to the family of the deceased and to the clerks of the Bourbon and Montgomery Circuit Courts, for record in their offices. JAMES FLANAGAN. RODNEY HAGGARD. THOMAS G. STUART. GEO.B. NELSON. C.S. FRENCH. Eloquent speeches were made by Judge Buckner, Judge Haggard and Capt. Boone. The Winchester Democrat, Friday July 11, 1898. Death of Gen. John S. Williams Gen. John Stuart Williams died at his home in Montgomery county early Sunday morning, aged eighty years, after a lingering illness. He was born in Montgomery county near the Clark line, and was the son of Gen. Sam Williams, a native of Virginia, and a prominent officer in the war of 1812, and who several times represented Clark and Montgomery counties in both branches of the Legislature. The mother of the deceased was Miss Cluke, of this county. He was named for Judge John Stuart, of this county, an intimate friend of his father. He was educated in the common schools of Clark and Montgomery, at the Winchester Academy and at Oxford College, Ohio. Ex-President Benjamin Harrison was a classmate at the latter institution. After leaving school he studied law and located in Paris, where he was a partner of Judge Elliott. This firm had one of the largest practices in the State. He married Miss Mary Harrison, daughter of Patton Harrison, of this county, and shortly after this he moved to Clark and engaged in farming and stock raising. Mrs. Williams died shortly after the birth of their only child who is now Mrs. J. H. Holloway, of this county. He afterward married Mrs. Henrietta Hamilton, nee Lindsay, who survives him. At the beginning of the Mexican war he raised an independent company called Clark County Rifles. Roger Hanson was First Lieutenant. This company won imperishable fame by storming the heights of Cerro Gordo, and he was ever after affectionately known as "Cerro Gordo" Williams. He was then made a Colonel of a crack Kentucky regiment with Gen. William Preston as Lieut. Colonel, and John C. Breckinridge as Major. This regiment won the prize as the best drilled regiment in the American army and was given the honor of leading the army in the occupation of the Mexican capital. After coming home he ran for

legislature and beat Roger Hanson after a memorable race. He served with distinction and together with General McClellan was sent by the government to observe the progress of the Crimean war. He remained abroad for several years and was everywhere received with distinction. He traveled to Asia, Africa and Europe. After his return he bought a large tract as what is now a very valuable land in Illinois, but which was confiscated when he entered the Confederate service. He was a great friend of Gen. Sam Houston, the noted Texan, and when the latter attended Henry Clay's funeral as a member of the Senatorial Committee, Gen. Williams entertained him and gave him a great Shorthorn which was the nucleus of a herd of improved Texan cattle. Before the war he ran for Congress, but was beaten by W. H. Wadsworth, of Maysville, but materially reduced the usual adverse majority. When the war broke out he raised a Confederate regiment and was soon a Brigadier General. He whipped Gen. Garfield, afterward President, at Middle Creek, in this State, and afterward was in charge of this district of West Virginia. He defeated Burbridge at Saltville, Va., where Col. Charlie Hanson, of this city, was severely wounded. He took Hanson and treated him as a personal friend instead of a captured enemy. At the closed of the war he surrendered as part of Joe Johnson's command and came home. After the war he ran form Commonwealth's Attorney in the old Ashland district composed of Clark, Fayette, Bourbon, Scott, Woodford and Madison counties, against Billie Breckinridge, Lawrence Jones and Ed. Marshall. He went into the convention with more votes than all the others combined, but was beaten in a deal in which Jones was chosen Attorney and C. B. Thomas, of Lexington, Judge over Richard Hanson. About this time he married the second time and moved to Montgomery county. He was soon elected to the Legislature from that county and this. He was next a candidate for Governor with more instructed votes than any other candidate, but was beaten by McCreary by a fraction of a vote. He accepted the result in a stirring speech and at once announced himself a candidate for United States Senator. He was beaten by Senator Beck by one vote, but was soon after chosen as Beck's colleague in the Senate, where he served with distinction, and was the author of some beneficent legislation. He was a candidate for reelection in 1884 and had enough instructed votes to win, but after a hot fight of forty days, he was again beaten by one vote by Joe Blackburn. At the close of his term he was urged for Minister of Mexico, but was opposed by Secretary Baynard and was not appointed. He was offered a smaller mission, but declined. He then came home and, except being elector at large, he never again applied for office. He was always true to his friends and was always popular with the masses of people and his defeats were attributable to political machinations. Mrs. Amanda Lowe, Mrs. Carie Shryrock and Ben Williams, of this city, are his only surviving brothers and sisters. The funeral was preached at Mt. Sterling yesterday afternoon by Rev. G. C. Abbitt and the remains were brought here for interment. The following were all pall bearers: The Confederate Veterans Attended the burial in a body. ACTIVE PALL BEARERS: Geo. G. Hamilton, Dr. J. B. Taulbee, H. M. Woodford, Jno M. Elliott, James Bogie, Ed Mitchell, Henry Barnes, H. R. Prewitt, HONORARY PALL BEARERS: J. D. Reid, C. F. Keese, Col. Thos. Turner, Col. T. Johnson, Judge Jas. Williams.

Reminiscences of Gen. John S. Williams, the Statesman and Soldier.

General John Stuart Williams, of Montgomery county, Kentucky, after an illustrious life of eighty years, sleeps under the daisies and blue grass of his native State.

His life was one round of generous impulses and noble deeds, and no storm clouds of misfortune ever darkened or conquered his sincere soul, that like an eagle sailing over Alpine crags looked to the sun and held his course by the compass of Duty and Honor. I met the General in the fall of 1855 at Mt. Sterling, being introduced by Dick Wood or his brother, who brought me in one of their "Overland Schooner" from Maysville, through Flemingsburg, Pin Hook, Sherburne and Sharpsburg.

From that time, forty-three years ago, to the death of this great man, I have ever cherished his kind and noble nature and although the late rebellion separated us for years, as it did many other Kentucky heroes, it never for a minute chilled the respect and admiration I entertained for the glorious achievements of "Cerro Gordo" Williams. Ours was a family fuss, born out of the unfortunate philosophy of slavery in a Republic. The Revolutionary fathers, Jefferson, Hancock, Franklin, and even Washington, knew full well that the recognition of a slave in a government professing freedom was at best but a paradox and solecism, a political subterfuge, hatched up by the thirteen original States.

But, thank God, the boys who wore the gray and the boys who wore the blue have recently won imperishable victories at Manila and Santiago where the stars and stripes floats over the temples and towers of monarchy.

I'll never forget one morning I called at the Metropolitan Hotel in Washington to see General Williams, who was reported to be ill; and at the same time the papers were full of a prospective duel between Joe Blackburn and himself.

Being shown to the room by a "Smoked Yankee," I found the General alone and reclining at full length in bed with a dark skull cap encircling his massive brows.

After shaking hands, I inquired at to his physical condition, and being assured that he was not as sick as reported, I incidentally remarked that the town was full of talk about his duel with Blackburn over some public building contest at Frankfort.

He replied, "Why, "Johnny," you don't believe all you see in the papers I hope." "No!" said I, "but if there is going to be a duel between you and "Joe," I'd like to take a hand as your second, as you have been my dearest friend since boyhood."

He laughed outright, sat up in bed and asked me to ring the bell for some "ice water and Kentucky trimmings.”

“No, “Johnny, said he, “Joe would not fight me for a million in gold. There will be no duel.” And with a twinkle in his eye, remarked, “I know Joseph.”

While talking, Wade Hampton and Jim Brock came into the room, and after saluting each other, the usual “Kentucky trimmings” were ordered spontaneously, after which the General arose, dressed, and took a carriage ride with his Senator and colleagues.

Some twelve years ago, I had a lecture fever on me, and made an intellectual and partial Bacchanalian raid on my “Old Kentucky Home.”

At Mt. Sterling, I was introduced to the audience by Col. Thomas Johnson, and “Cerro Gordo” and some of his family were present. The day after, Jim Gatewood invited me to spend a day and night at his house on the Owingsville pike. I had known Jim’s wife Genellia Ewing, of Bath, when I was Deputy Clerk of the Circuit Court before the war. After supper with Gatewood and his family, I expressed the desire to see my old friend General Williams, and as it was a beautiful night, the whole family made a call with me, and I can assure you that a more generous hospitality I never received than that given by Col. Hamilton, Miss Ida, her intellectual mother, and the old Mexican hero himself. Miss Ida played the piano, I sang old Irish and Kentucky melodies, and spouted some of my verses, until away after the roosters on the hills of old Hinkson warned us that the midnight noon had passed away, and the flashing beams of old Sol were standing tip toe on the mountain tops.

I knew old General Sam Williams, the father of Cerro Gordo, when I was a boy, and often saw him riding into town on the Maysville pike. For a short time I went to school to Potter, the Latin school teacher, and if I remember rightly, Ben Williams, the General’s brother, Bob Stoner, Davis Reid, Tom Metcalf and Dave Chenault were pupils at the Highland Literary institution. But most of my schooling was obtained when Mr. James B. Crane and his mathematical wife ran the scholastic machine. I remember that bob Williams and Bob Stoner had a little “unpleasantness” over one of bill Regan’s daughters, yet, what’s the odds now? A fellow from Kentucky that would not fight, and if necessary, die for a Blue Grass beauty, deserves no memorial stone to mark his remains.

I could tell you a score of instances where “Cerro Gordo” Williams helped the poor and oppressed. His hand and heart were open as the day. He is an honor to our glorious old commonwealth and Montgomery, Bourbon and Clark may well be proud of once having this noted man their fellow citizen.

The people of Kentucky should erect a monument to his memory, and side by side with Clay, Crittenden, Breckinridge and Menifee, he shall shine along the fleeting years as an example to emulate and a hero to admire and deify.

Stout heart, good man, no pomp or state
Can gild thy pure renown,
Thy life was moulded pure and great,
Lofty, in field or town.
Hater of shame, lover of right.—
A patriot sublime—
A man who ruled by love not might,
And sours o’er all of time.
Thy memory like a sweet perfume,
Shall shine along the ages.
Be fadeless as immortal bloom—
Or like the golden pages—
Where Love and Truth are entertained,
Nobility his plan—
Great royalty of heart and mind,
He lived for god and man. —John A. Joyce

Mexican Soldiers.

We are indebted to Judge Jas. Flanagan for the following roster of one of the most prominent bodies of troops in the Mexican War, which will be of special interest to the many descendants of those whose names are contained therein.

Union Hall, Ky., March 1st, 1900
Hon. James Flanagan, Winchester, Ky.

My Dear Judge; It affords me much pleasure to send you herewith a copy of the Muster-In-Roll of Capt. John S. Williams Independent C. Ky., Volunteers in the Mexican War.

It will no doubt be interesting to you to ponder over those names of more than fifty years ago.

Being acquainted with most all these men, and having done so much for this company, you could not now feel otherwise than deeply interested in the remaining few who still survive.

Many of their names have grown dim in my own memory, some few entirely forgotten; while yet there are others, the memory of whose noble, manly bearing, I delight to cherish.

No company that went to Mexico have more cause to be proud of the record it made than this Clark county company—and none should more proud of its officers that it. Captain Williams was not only competent and brave as an officer but he was manly and courteous among his men, and always vigilant in providing for their comfort and safety. His influence in the army was always superior to other officers of his grade.

You will remember, I am sure, how, when his company was at first not accepted by the State on account of surplus over the quota for Kentucky, he went to Washington and personally explained to President Polk that injustice had been done in Kentucky in not accepting his company, which resulted in his company being accepted by the President over and above the regular quota of troops allowed to Kentucky. This illustrates the determined perseverance of the man.

Wishing you many days of peace and happiness, I remain as ever your friend, J. W. Jones

In memoriam

John S. Williams camp passes resolutions in memory of Lieut. Ellis G. Baxter and Capt. Leeland Hathaway

At a called meeting of the members of the General John S. Williams' Camp of Confederate Veterans held at the Court house on Saturday, November 6, B.F. Curtis, Commander in the chair, the following resolutions and notice of death of members was passed, and ordered printed. Whereas it has pleased God to call from among us our dear friends and co-workers Lieut. Ellis G. Baxter and Capt. Leeland Hathaway, and in our association together as members of this Camp of Confederates of this city they have endeared themselves to us by their wise council and unflinching devotions to duty; therefore be it, Resolved by this Camp first that in the death of our two brothers our camp has sustained irreparable loss in that two of its most faithful and efficient members have been called away from us. And we now pledge ourselves anew to a more diligent effort in the work left for us to do, and we will further pledge ourselves to ever keep green the memory of our two faithful and devoted brothers who in their lives were always ready to act for this camp, and the cause it represents. Resolved, second, that we extend our sympathy to the family of Brother Baxter and the daughter of Capt. Hathaway and pray that the Holy Spirit may comfort and sustain them in this, their time of great sorrow. Resolved, third, that a copy of the proceedings of this meeting be sent to each of the families of our deceased brothers and also published in the city papers. Signed; J.H. Croxton, R.H. Patterson and W.H. Talbott, Committee

ELLIS G. BAXTER

Of the many faithful and true soldiers of the Confederacy who followed that flag that went down without a stain upon its fold, Ellis G. Baxter was not excelled by any of the many who were its defendants. He was born and reared in Clark county, Ky., and joined the Confederate Army (when quite a youth), in the summer of 1862 in the Seventh Kentucky Calvary of General John H. Morgan's command as a private; he was soon promoted to the rank of Lieutenant and served as such until his capture with Morgan in Ohio and remained in prison until near the end of the war (refusing, as all good soldiers would, all offers of release upon the terms offered, that of taking the oath). He was finally exchanged and sent to Richmond, Virginia. This was near the end of the war, and with the command of the illustrious and indomitable Lee surrendered at Appomattox, C.H., on April 9th, 1865. After being paroled he walked back to his home some five hundred miles, and has continued to reside here until his death which occurred on the 9th day of August, 1909. There was never a time during his life that he regretted having served the Confederacy as all will testify who knew him, and no one who took more pleasure in relating his own experiences than did he. He was a past Commander of this camp and was always active in its interest. Lieut. Baxter was twice married and leaves a wife and two children to mourn his life.

CAPTAIN HATHAWAY

Death, the common enemy of our race, has again invaded our rank, and another loved comrade has fallen. Another Confederate tried and true, "has passed over the river and rests under the shade of the trees." Captain Leeland Hathaway was a native of Montgomery county, Ky., and entered the Confederate Army from that county. Under the foolish idea of neutrality (a Yankee scheme to prevent Southern men from joining the Confederacy) it was hazardous to undertake it and the Captain had to fight home guards before reaching the command he had intended to join. He succeeded however, in reaching General John H. Morgan's command then located in Tennessee, and was soon thereafter made Adjutant of the Ninth Kentucky Calvary. He was captured on Morgan's

	raid into Ohio, and kept a prisoner until near end of the war, when he was exchanged and sent to Richmond, Va., where he again joined the remnant of his old command and was again captured at the end of the war near Washington, Georgia, as an escort of President Davis. The Captain was a real type of the old Southern Gentleman (of whom so few are now left) a man of strong convictions, always for the right, as he saw it regardless of the cost, or consequences, and yet as modest and gentle as a woman. To the end he was a firm believer in the justice of the cause in which he fought, and there was nothing ever said or written that could move him from the doctrine of State sovereignty as taught by Mr. Jefferson. After returning to Kentucky after the war, he was married to Miss Mattie Wheeler, a native of Clark county, and he came to Clark to reside. Of this union only one child was born, Miss Carrie Lee, who survives, his wife having preceded him to the grave many years since. The Captain began the practice of his profession, the law, upon his locating in Clark and at the time of his death, was the oldest practitioner at the bar. Captain Hathaway was also a past Commander of this camp and always was greatly interested in its success, as he was in the membership composing it. After a brief illness of pneumonia he died in this city on Saturday, October 23rd, 1999, in the 75th year of his age. The announcement of his sudden death was a great surprise and shock to both the town and county, for there were none, but who looked upon him as a man of the highest integrity and honor, and a most worthy and valued citizen. Peace be to his ashes. The Winchester Democrat Friday, November 19, 1909

Williams, Laura		Fatal Accident. Sunday afternoon Willie Jones, a young man living near Pilot view, was returning to the house with a small rifle, twenty-two caliber, in his hand with which he had been shooting sparrows. As he entered the house the weapon was discharged, the bullet entering the bowels of Miss Laura Williams, aged nineteen years, who was sitting near by. Drs. Geo. Clark, B. F. Johnson and I. A. Shirley were summoned and performed a surgical operation for her relief. It was found that the intestines had been perforated ten times. She did not recover from the shock and died that night. The remains will be buried to-day at Eld. Wm. Rupard's. The deceased was a daughter of Richard Williams and was a young lady of fine qualities and her death is greatly lamented. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, November 4, 1902 Sad Accident. At about 11 o'clock Sunday morning a rifle in the hands of Willie Jones caused the death of Miss Laura Williams, at the home of the girls father, Richard Williams, near Pilot View in this county. Dr. Clark the family physician called in consultation Drs. Johnson and Shirley of this city, but their efforts were without avail. She died at 4 o'clock Monday morning. The funeral service and burial was at Elder Wm. Rupards place yesterday. It was purely an accident. The young man whose grief is so great is not sure whether the gun was accidentally pulled off or the hammer struck something. The ball entered the abdomen and ranged downward, perforating the bowels in ten places, Miss Williams was 19 years old, very beautiful and loved by all who knew her. To the family and to Mr. Jones we extend our heartfelt sympathy. The Winchester Sentinel, Wednesday, November 5, 1902

Williams, Lewis		Lewis Williams Drowns Trusted employee of Old Kentucky Telephone Co., meets tragic fate in waters of Big Stoner An unfortunate accident occurred Wednesday afternoon in which one of Winchester's most exemplary young men lost his life. The storm Tuesday had caused trouble along the lines of the Home Telephone Company, and Lewis Williams, a young man in the employment of the company was sent out on the North Middletown line to adjust matters. Shortly after noon he had occasion to cross Big Stoner Creek between the homes of Will and Nelson Gay. The ford is a dangerous one when the creek is up as was the case at this time. When he reached the creek he hesitated for a while and then forced the unwilling horse to enter. When he reached the middle of the creek, he stopped and evidently tried to turn back. The horse reared up and fell back on the vehicle, and horse, buggy and driver were at once swept into deep water. The horse and driver were both drowned. Mrs. Blackwell, who lives near by, witnessed it but she was alone with her little children and was not able to give the alarm until late in the afternoon. A search for the body was at once instituted and the horse and buggy was found in a short time. Owing to the high water, search for the body was rendered difficult and the body was not found until nearly daylight the next morning when it was discovered by Office John Ballard and John Powell in an eddy a short distance below where the accident occurred. He was the son of Will T. Williams, the blacksmith, and lived on Kentucky street, South Park. He had been employed by the Old Kentucky Telephone Co., for the past three years and was one of its most trusted employees. He was sober, industrious and trustworthy, and popular with all who knew him. The funeral will be preached at the Baptist church this afternoon, services by Rev. Richard French and burial in the Winchester cemetery under the auspices of Onequa Tribe of Red Men, of which he was an honored and useful member. The following will officiate as pall bearers: Lee Vice, Venard Owen, Clay Frisbie, Robt. L. Aldridge, J.F. Adams and Jas. Caskie. NOTICE TO RED MEN – All members of Onequa Tribe No. 2, Improved order of Red Men, are notified to meet at their Council Chamber, this Friday, afternoon at 1:45 o'clock to attend the funeral of Bro. Lewis Williams. Attest: C.E. Lyddane – Chief of records, M.E. Haggard – Sachem. The Winchester Democrat Friday, June 11, 1909

Williams, Mrs. Mary Harrison	Death of Gen. John S. Williams Gen. John Stuart Williams died at his home in Montgomery county early Sunday morning, aged eighty years, after a lingering illness. He was born in Montgomery county near the Clark line, and was the son of Gen. Sam Williams, a native of Virginia, and a prominent officer in the war of 1812, and who several times represented Clark and Montgomery counties in both branches of the Legislature. The mother of the deceased was Miss Cluke, of this county. He was named for Judge John Stuart, of this county, an intimate friend of his father. He was educated in the common schools of Clark and Montgomery, at the Winchester Academy and at Oxford College, Ohio. Ex-President Benjamin Harrison was a classmate at the latter institution. After leaving school he studied law and located in Paris, where he was a partner of Judge Elliott. This firm had one of the largest practices in the State. He married Miss Mary Harrison, daughter of Patton Harrison, of this county, and shortly after this he moved to Clark and engaged in farming and stock raising. Mrs. Williams died shortly after the birth of their only child who is now Mrs. J. H. Holloway, of this county. He afterward married Mrs. Henrietta Hamilton, nee Lindsay, who survives him. At the beginning of the Mexican war he raised an independent company called Clark County Rifles. Roger Hanson was First Lieutenant. This company won imperishable fame by storming the heights of Cerro Gordo, and he was ever after affectionately known as "Cerro Gordo" Williams. He was then made a Colonel of a crack Kentucky regiment with Gen. William Preston as Lieut. Colonel, and John C. Breckinridge as Major. This regiment won the prize as the best drilled regiment in the American army and was given the honor of leading the army in the occupation of the Mexican capital. After coming home he ran for legislature and beat Roger Hanson after a memorable race. He served with distinction and together with General McClellan was sent by the government to observe the progress of the Crimean war. He remained abroad for several years and was everywhere received with distinction. He traveled to Asia, Africa and Europe. After his return he bought a large tract as what is now a very valuable land in Illinois, but which was confiscated when he entered the Confederate service. He was a great friend of Gen. Sam Houston, the noted Texan, and when the latter attended Henry Clay's funeral as a member of the Senatorial Committee, Gen. Williams entertained him and gave him a great Shorthorn which was the nucleus of a herd of improved Texan cattle. Before the war he ran for Congress, but was beaten by W. H. Wadsworth, of Maysville, but materially reduced the usual adverse majority. When the war broke out he raised a Confederate regiment and was soon a Brigadier General. He whipped Gen. Garfield, afterward President, at Middle Creek, in this State, and afterward was in charge of this district of West Virginia. He defeated Burbridge at Saltville, Va., where Col. Charlie Hanson, of this city, was severely wounded. He took Hanson and treated him as a personal friend instead of a captured enemy. At the closed of the war he surrendered as part of Joe Johnson's command and came home. After the war he ran form

	Commonwealth's Attorney in the old Ashland district composed of Clark, Fayette, Bourbon, Scott, Woodford and Madison counties, against Billie Breckinridge, Lawrence Jones and Ed. Marshall. He went into the convention with more votes than all the others combined, but was beaten in a deal in which Jones was chosen Attorney and C. B. Thomas, of Lexington, Judge over Richard Hanson. About this time he married the second time and moved to Montgomery county. He was soon elected to the Legislature from that county and this. He was next a candidate for Governor with more instructed votes than any other candidate, but was beaten by McCreary by a fraction of a vote. He accepted the result in a stirring speech and at once announced himself a candidate for United States Senator. He was beaten by Senator Beck by one vote, but was soon after chosen as Beck's colleague in the Senate, where he served with distinction, and was the author of some beneficent legislation. He was a candidate for reelection in 1884 and had enough instructed votes to win, but after a hot fight of forty days, he was again beaten by one vote by Joe Blackburn. At the close of his term he was urged for Minister of Mexico, but was opposed by Secretary Baynard and was not appointed. He was offered a smaller mission, but declined. He then came home and, except being elector at large, he never again applied for office. He was always true to his friends and was always popular with the masses of people and his defeats were attributable to political machinations. Mrs. Amanda Lowe, Mrs. Carie Shryrock and Ben Williams, of this city, are his only surviving brothers and sisters. The funeral was preached at Mt. Sterling yesterday afternoon by Rev. G. C. Abbitt and the remains were brought here for interment. The following were all pall bearers: The Confederate Veterans Attended the burial in a body. ACTIVE PALL BEARERS: Geo. G. Hamilton, Dr. J. B. Williams, Nathan	Sued on an Old Promise Squire William Williams of Red House, has been sued by a Mrs. Meredith of Missouri. Nathan Williams, the father of Squire Williams, died near forty years ago. He had bought the dower interest of Nancy K. Oldham and sold it to his son Squire Williams, taking his note therefor payable on the death of the aforesaid Mrs. Nancy Oldham. At the death of Nathan Williams, his son Squire William was appointed administrator, and, in settling did not account for the dower note because Nancy Oldham was then living and the said note was therefor not due. The petition recites that Mrs. Oldham died near fifteen years ago. Mrs. Meredith is an heir of Nathan Williams, and sues for her interest

Williams, Sol.	AA	Convict Killed Friday, James B. Willis, a guard in the penitentiary, shot and killed Sol. Williams, a colored convict. Williams was at work in the chair factory and during a quarrel struck an old man. Willis sent him to the Warden, who whipped him and sent him back to work. He came back sullen and mad, and attacked Willis with a piece of timber, when Willis shot him through the heart. The convict formerly lived here and was regarded as a desperate character. Chief of Police Madigan came near being killed while attempting to arrest him. He served one or more terms in the pen from here, and then went to Paris. He was sold last year in that place for vagrancy and afterward stole a watch in Lexington and was sent up for a couple of years. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, February 23, 1897
Williams, son		Mrs. Lucy Williams, of Lexington, went to Indiana a couple of weeks ago on a visit. While there her twelve-year-old boy fell sick and died of diphtheria. She ordered the remains prepared for shipment to Kentucky, but the undertaker refused as it was against the law to ship the body of a person dying from a contagious disease. She then applied to the city authorities for a permit, but it was refused. The mother then hired an undertaker to take the remains in a hearse overland to Lexington, and for this agreed to pay him $500, but the authorities again interfered and declined to indorse the arrangement for the reason that the people in the towns of the State through which the hearse would pass would be subject to danger from the disease. As a last resort, the mother proposed to buy a rolled steel, air tight casket and after having the body embalmed ship it to Lexington in that way. The authorities believed that this might prevent contagion en route but it would be an evasion of the law, and Mrs. Williams was finally notified that the child could not be taken out of the State. It was, therefore, buried at Crown Hill and the mother returned home. The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, January 3, 1894

Williams, William		W. W. COMBS, agent of the R. N. I. & B at Moberly Station, near Waco, recently paid a visit to his wife's grandmother. Mrs. Lottie Williams, resident of Vienna, Clark county, and while there gained some information of historic value. Her husband, the late William Williams, was with his father Stephen Williams, in the fort at Boonesborough, and assisted in the recapture of Boone's daughter and the Calloway girls. She says Collins' History of Kentucky does not give his name, but he was certainly there. Mrs. Williams who is 92 years old, is a daughter of John Finnell (or Finney, as he was then called.) another pioneer of Boone's Fort. Mrs. Williams has in her possession a kettle coffee mill and set of tea cups and saucers, which were used in the old fort. They were unlike cupboard ware not in use, and very old vessels. Williamson, _____	Sunday as the Hemphil Brothers, Sheriff and deputy of Knox, were conveying Berry Hensley to the penitentiary to serve a term of twenty-one years for the killing of Dan Baker of which he was convicted at the last term of the Circuit Court very strange to say, he jumped through the car window between Maretsburg and Broadhead, while the train was running at a fare rate of speed and made his escape through a cornfield. The train was stopped and the officers put off, but they had not captured the daring rascal at last accounts, although he is handicapped with a pair of handcuffs. This case is very similar to that of Bill Wilson, who with Clay Dye was sentenced to the penitentiary for the killing of young Williamson, at Shelby City. He was given twenty years and while being taken to Frankfort he dashed through a window near Loretto and notwithstanding the train was stopped and a general hunt made he escaped capture and is at large to this day. Stanford Journal The Winchester Democrat Wed., 9-25-1889
Williamson, _____	POLSGROVE, who was released on bond before his victim had been removed from the store of Hudson, Humphries and Cassell, whether he had been carried immediately after being shot, has been under merely nominal arrest since the death of Williamson, being allowed the freedom of the city in the custody of a Sheriffs officer. On the evening of the day when Williamson died, Polsgrove attended the theatre, and is said to have thoroughly enjoyed the play, though the man he had shot down without warning, lay dead less than two blocks away, while the innocent man moaned and tossed in pain as the result of his unlawful shots. They say Polsgrove is a clever fellow and used to be ex-deputy sheriff possess rights superior to the common herd. There are too many clever fellows who had murdered their men at large in Kentucky today, and the good of the State and the safety of the innocent require that the number shall be lessened. Men who are so "clever" with their pistols that they have sent shots into a crowd and kill one and would three other men, are entirely too clever to be permitted to bond, however high the office they may have held. The Democrat, Wednesday, November 25, 1891.
Williamson, Bertha Etta	From Ambush. A Young Girl Shot and Killed Near Marion, Ky. Marion, Ky., Oct. 21.—In the Chapel Hill neighborhood, this county, Miss Williamson, daughter of Horace Williamson, a prominent farmer, was shot and instantly killed by an unknown party while she was returning from church accompanied by a young fellow named Brown. The assailant was hidden in the woods along the road. Two shots were fired both striking the young lady, one tearing away the lower part of the face and the other lodging in the shoulder. The barrel of the gun was within five feet of the girl when the shots were fired. Some time ago Brown and Allie Sisco had a quarrel regarding the young lady, and Brown shot Sisco, wounding him badly. It is thought that some friend of Sisco, seeking vengeance murdered the young lady, though he evidently intended to kill Brown. Bloodhounds will be put on the murderer's trail at once. Great excitement prevails. The murdered girl was about 18 and very popular. Brown and a brother of the murdered girl claim to know the assassin. The Winchester Sentinel, Wednesday, October 29, 1902 Died Of Grief Marion, Ky., Oct. 27 Mrs. Horace Williamson, mother of Miss Bertha Etta Williamson, the young lady who was murdered Wednesday night by an unknown assassin, died from grief over her daughter's tragic death. Willis, _____ (minister)	The steamer Australia, arrived at San Francisco from Honolulu, Wednesday morning with the remains of the late Minister Willis from the Hawaiian Islands. Mrs. Willis and

	son accompanied the remains, which will be taken directly to their home in Louisville, Ky. The Hawaiians sent no military escort with the body as was at first planned. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, January 22, 1897 An Old Crime Recalled A year or more ago the late Minister Willis made the interesting discovery that the most eloquent and popular native preacher in Honolulu is a descendant of one of the first families of Kentucky. The story goes that Gov. Joseph Desha's son, convicted away back in the 20's of murder most foul and pardoned by his father, drifted to Honolulu under an assumed name married a Kanaka woman and raised a Christian family of daughters and sons, one of whom is the present half-breed, pulpit orator preaching to large congregations in the Hawaiian capital. While visiting Louisville last summer, Mr. Willis spoke of the matter to some of his friends and expressed a purpose to more thoroughly test the truth of what was general report among American residents in Honolulu. And on this connection it may be remarked that the official records do not sustain the very general understanding among present day Kentuckians that Gov. Desha followed the pardon of his son with his own resignation of office.—Louisville Times The above recalls a crime that has passed from the minds of most people and brings to my memory a number of circumstances in connection with the Desha murder that are known to but few. Seventy years ago Isaac Desha, whose father was the Governor of Kentucky, killed a traveler, James Baker, and robbed him of seven hundred dollars. He was arrested and lodged in jail. The evidence was overwhelming and the only hope was executive clemency. Much pressure was brought to bear on his father, Gov. Desha, for pardon, but the old Governor said he would let the law take its course. Young Desha was tried, convicted and during some of the legal technicalities growing out of the case, he was placed in the Cynthiana jail for safe keeping. While there he tried to commit suicide and nearly succeeded by cutting a great gash in his throat. Public sympathy was aroused and at last his father pardoned him, just before the former's term as Governor expired. The Governor did not resign as is generally supposed, but served till the end of his term. After the young man was pardoned he lived a wandering life for some time. The brand of Cain was on his brow and he lived a miserable life. Finally he was reported dead and was gradually forgotten. Some time in the early 20's G. W. Crawford, of Greenup county, took a flat boat loaded with produce to New Orleans, as was customary in those days. Each night he would land his boat and only traveled by day. He slept in a portion of that boat remote from the other hands, and one night while tied up to the bank near Vicksburg, a man entered his cabin and awoke him, threatening to kill him if he made a noise. Crawford knew Desha well and when the latter made himself known recognized him at once. Desha told Crawford that he could not live in Kentucky, but had changed his name and was going to change his life; that he was going to some distant island and live as a Christian man should. He refused to tell Crawford the name he had assumed or his intended retreat. At Crawford's invitation he remained on the boat until it reached New Orleans, when he left and was probably never seen again by any of his acquaintances. Crawford asked me at the time not to mention those things and probably told no one else as everybody thought Desha was dead and Crawford thought it unwise to remove this impression. Until Minister Willis discovered his progeny in Honolulu, nothing had been heard of this Kentucky boy who, with all the advantages of good blood, education, and influential connection, was a murderer and a wanderer, and who died an exile from home by his own actions. But blood will tell and we are not surprised to find his son taking a high rank in the island republic. William Fleming, the father of Mrs. P. B. Winn, also knew young Desha well as Fleming. Desha and Crawford worked as boys in the same store in Flemingsburg some seventy-five years ago. Crawford was a brother of the celebrated lawyer, James Crawford, formerly member of Congress from this district, and was raised at Mt. Sterling. L. H. W. Wills, boy	THE PARKER CASE. About thirty years ago two boys from this county went to Fayette county in search of work. One was named Wills and the other McDonalds. They secured a job cutting corn for a man by the name of Montgomery Parker who lived about five miles east of Lexington. Parker's reputation was not good. It was said that he was formerly an overseer and domineered over his hands and did not pay promptly. The boys went to work in the forenoon and Parker went to Lexington. In the afternoon someone told the boys of Parker's reputation when they became alarmed and decided to return home without waiting for Parker to come back. One of them carried away a corn knife which was of less value than the work they had done. A yellow dog that belonged to Parker followed them, though the evidence showed that they tried to drive it back. When Parker returned and found the boys gone he was in great rage and started after them on his horse. When they saw him coming at a point where the Pine Grove Station pike connects with the Winchester and Lexington pike about eight miles west of this city the boys left the pike and ran through a field. Parker went through an opening in the fence and continued the pursuit. The boys found that they could not escape Parker being nearly up to them. They threw up their hands having in the meantime dropped the corn knife. At this moment Parker fired a pistol which he carried in his hand and the Wills boy fell dead. Parker claimed that his horse shield and the pistol went off accidentally. He was indicted in Fayette county. The family had plenty of money and a strong defense was made. On a change of venue the case was transferred to Woodford county. In the first trial there was a hung jury. It was said that one man on the jury stood out for acquittal. This man became so unpopular that in a few years he left the county. At the second trial Parker was found guilty and sentenced to twenty years in the penitentiary. Every effort known to the law was without avail and Parker was finally carried to the prison at Frankfort. The same spirit that had manifested itself in his life continued with him in prison. He could not be conquered. All the punishments known to the rules were applied to him without effect. One morning he was found dead in his cell. His friends claimed that he was whipped to death, but the prison officials maintained that he died from poisoning. The Sun-Sentinel, Thursday, December 3, 1903.

Wills Will Case	Dated: February 23, 1878 Recorded; January 26, 1885 Will Book 2, Page 66 Dated: February 23, 1878 Recorded: January 26, 1885, May 16, 1888, August 4 and 14, 1888 The Wills Will Case Another chapter has been added to the long drawn out contest known as the famous Wills case. This case or rather two, have been before the courts for a generation. About thirty years ago litigation began over the will of Jack Wills. This was finally settled, a portion of the land in controversy going to his son, John G. Wills, who lived and died near the Northeastern suburbs of the city. The latter made a will leaving his property to his wife, who in turn died shortly after leaving no children. Her heirs were the Tanners and some of the Ramseys. The will was contested by Squire Ben Wills and Mrs. Charles Ecton on the ground that he was incompetent to make a will on account of physical infirmities and that he was unduly influenced by his wife. The case went through the Circuit Court with the usual delays and was decided in favor of Mrs. Wills' heirs. It was taken to the higher court and reversed on account of errors in the instructions of the trial court. The case was again tried in the Circuit Court and again won by the same side. It was again carried to the Court of Appeals which this week again reversed the finding of the lower court. The case promises to be as long drawn out as the celebrated one of Jarndyce vs. Jarndyce mentioned by Dickens. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, March 5, 1897 The Wills Will Case The accuracy of our report of that famous case as given by The Democrat some time ago, having been called in question, we hereby append an epitome of the decision as given by the Courier Journal: Will Contested—Evidence---Instructions. B. E. Wills, etc., vs. J. W. Tanner, etc.—(Not to be reported.) Filed March 2, 1897. Appeal from Clark Circuit Court. Opinion of the Court by Judge Guffy, reversing. First—In this action, contesting the last will of the decedent, testimony concerning an action to which the witness was a party was properly admitted for the purpose of showing an estrangement between the testator and his sister, one of the contestants. Second—Section 4850 of the Kentucky Statutes gives the conclusion of the argument to the propounder of the will, and the objection raised by the applicants, who are the contestants, upon that ground can not be maintained. Third—The failure of the appellants to ask for an instruction upon the question of the testator's mental capacity does not bar them of the right to complain of those given, which are inconsistent with one as to mental capacity. Fourth—The evidence and circumstances in the case entitled the appellants to have the evidence of the testamentary capacity of the te-tator of the testamentary to the jury, and the instructions given by the court, having directed the jury to find for the paper unless they believed from the evidence said paper was procured by undue influence, in effect excluded from the jury the question of testamentary capacity, and were, therefore, erroneous. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, March 26, 1897 Ben E. Wills & co. vs. James W. Tanner & co. Jury finds that the last will and testament of John G. Wills signed February 23rd, 1878 is the last will and testament of John G. Wills attested to by J. N. Winn, H. French and C. S. French.... Order Book 20; P. 150; May Court 1888 Protracted Litigation. The compromise effected last week between the propounders and the contestants of the will of John G. Wills, deceased, finally settled the ownership of property which has been the subject of uncertainty for a third of a century. John P. Wills was a prominent citizen of this county, who kept the Blue Ball Tavern, a famous stopping place, on the old dirt road that led from Winchester to Mt. Sterling. He died shortly after the close of the civil war, leaving two sons, two daughters and two great grandsons, whose mother was the daughter of the first wife of Dudley Flynn, who married two of the daughters of John P. Wills. His other daughter married C. B. Ecton, one of our most energetic and esteemed citizens, Ben E. Wills, the popular member of our Fiscal Court from Winchester precinct, and John G. Wills were the two sons of "mine host" of the Blue Ball. John P. Wills made his will on the day that the battle of Richmond, Ky., was fought in the fall of 1862. It cut out and left nothing to the children of his granddaughter, who was the only offspring of his deceased child who had married Dudley Flynn. Charles S. Locknane, their father, contested the will, and in this litigation were engaged Judge James Simpson and Gen. John C. Breckenridge for the propounders and Gen. John B. Huston and Judge W. M. Beckner for the contestants. After several mistrials, the will was rejected in our Circuit Court, but the court of Appeals reversed this action, and ordered the paper in contest to be finally probated. There was one clause in the will, which provided what should become of the property left to the four devisees in case of the death of either of them which was generally construed by the lawyers to give his children only a life estate with remainder to the survivors or their descendants. John G. Wills, one of the sons, had married when quite young, and had two children, but both died very early, leaving him childless at the time of his father's death. Desiring to build a new house on the land devised to him, in 1873,

	he got a construction of his father's will by the courts, which gave him his property in fee simple. The other children of the testator however, were not parties to the suit, and the judgement rendered was not therefore conclusive as to them. He made a will in 1878, and died December 25, 1884. He had devised the farm where he lived and all his personalty to his wife and one hundred and thirty acres, lying near his home place to John E. and Bettie Ramsey, who were closely related to both his wife and himself, and whom he had reared from their early childhood. His will had been written by Judge C. S. French, to whom he had declared that he did not wish his blood relatives to have any of his property. Suit was immediately brought by C. B. Ecton and wife, B. E. Wills, Mrs. Dudley Flynn, and the Locknane children, to recover the real estate, claiming that under the will of John P. Wills, his son, John G. Wills, took only a life estate. This contention was sustained by Judge Morton in our Circuit court, but the Court of appeals took a different view and in a very able opinion by Judge Pryor (reported in 85 Ky.) decided that John G. Wills took an absolute estate and could therefore dispose of it as he pleased. An attack was then made on his will, which has since raged with varying fortunes. Mrs. John G. Wills died in 1885 without a will leaving her brothers and sisters, who, were the children of John M. Tarnner, deceased, as her heirs, and to these the property went if the will should be sustained. In 1888, a jury found in favor of the will, but the court of appeals reversed this finding because Judge Morton had refused to give an instruction allowing the jury to find for a part and against a part of the will, and which had been offered by the contestants after the argument had been begun. In 1894, another jury found for the will, but a second appeal resulted in a second reversal on the ground that Judge Scott did not give an instruction as to mental competency, which had not been asked for by either side. When the case was about to be tried again last week, the contestants accepted one thousand dollars and dismissed their suit, thus ending a struggle which has had few equals in this region for the pertinacity and vigor with which it has been fought. The attorneys for the contestants have been Hon. C. J. Bronston, Judge Rodney Haggard, Judge J. M. Benton and Col. Leeland Hathaway. The propounders have been represented by Judge W. M. Beckner, Judge E. S. Joutt and Hon. James F. Winn. Judge Beckner is the only lawyer living who has been in the litigation in all its phases from the beginning. The property involved amounts altogether to be about $25,000. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, May 23, 1899

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, May 22, 1894 Circuit Court The close of the Asher case was followed by the immediate consideration of another big case—the Wills will case. This will probably be decided by tomorrow. The damage cases against the railroad, arising from the death of little Susie Hatton, who was run over and killed, are set for tomorrow. The case now on trial has been before our court before. It was decided in favor of those holding under the will, but was reversed by the Court of Appeals, which ruled that Judge Morton had erred in not instructing the jury that they could sustain a part of the will and not sustain the whole. The following new jurors have been summoned this week to take the place of the same number excused: A. H. Sympson, Carr Calmes, T. C. Robinson, J. A. Wills, J. M. Woodward, Charles Hadley. Wills, Mack		Mack Wills, of Estill was mysteriously murdered in Powell last Sunday night. He was found with several bullet holes in his body in the yard of a man named Holmes, who is suspected of the killing, but has not, we learn, been arrested. No cause is assigned for the murder other than the fact that Wills was pursuing some criminals with the intention of capturing them, and obtaining the reward offered for their apprehension. He was worthy young fellow, and was betrothed to a young lady, of this county, at the time of his death. The Clark County Democrat Wed., 8-13-1879

Lewis Wills and Mrs. Mattie Azbill, the latter's share to be held free from the debts or control of her husband. Kendrick assisted by Eld. E. T. Edmonds of Carlisle. The Democrat Wednesday May 1, 1889 The case of Garner vs. Wills was this week decided in the Court of Appeals. This case involved the construction of the will of Mrs. Ben. W. Wills. One of the questions was whether of not she had the right to cut her husband out of his "right of courtesy" or life interest in her estate, even with his consent; also as to whether Mr. Wills had any right under the will that could be reached by his creditors. The lower court decided that as a feme sole, she had such right and that his creditors had no recourse on the property and this view of the case was affirmed by the higher court. Wills, Mrs. Francis	OBITUARY-Francis Wills, wife of Simpson Wills, departed this life March 4th, 1881. She was born September 14th, 1826, married March 4th 1858, and was the daughter of Marilda and David Twyman. She died of a cancer of about fifteen years standing. Mrs. Wills was a kind, good woman, an affectionate wife, a pleasant and indulgent mother, an accommodating neighbor, a consistent and reliable member of society. She made home agreeable, desirable and attractive; she was loved, respected and admired. She recognized her disease and knew its tendency, and the certainty of its final result, yet she bore it with fortitude, patience and meekness, and as the end approached, she calmly exhorted her friends to prepare to meet her beyond death, where there is no pain. In her last days she was not only nursed by her family, but by her neighbors, and many kinsmen and acquaintances attested the intimate in which she was held by coming and attending her, and supplying everything that could contribute to her comfort or lessen her suffering. She leaves a husband, a daughter, and near relations, with a wide circle of acquaintances to mourn her loss, though their loss is her gain, for in heaven all that the soul shall experience will be perfect bliss, all that it shall express will be perfect praise, and Hallelujahs exalted employ every tongue. His crime was the murder of a son of Capt. Williamson, at Shelby City. The Winchester Democrat Friday July 2, 1897

Wilson, Charles T.		The Power of Public Sentiment. The passing of Mr. Charles T. Wilson, erstwhile Chief of Police of Mt. Sterling, marks another page in the glorious history of Kentucky chivalry. Backed by a prestige which he had in some way other than by true merit acquired. Wilson sought to override the established rule of society by bending the laws of the land to suit his caprice and laugh to scorn the criticisms hurled against the bulwark of his position. So firmly grounded was he in the security of his office that even after committing the outrage of forcing an entrance into the sanctuary of a couple of innocent, defenseless telephone girls, contaminating the pure air with the fumes of debauchery and adding insult to injury by his supreme insolence and refinement of cruelty, the honorable Board of the council of the city of Mt. Sterling was willing to condone the unpardonable offense by a brief suspension of this inglorious official. The storm of indignation that followed this action swept away the props of power to trifle with the moral rights of the people and sent them whirling like wisps of straw in the vortex of popular disapproval. The Mayor, disgusted with the weak kneed and subservient action of the Council, resigned his office and washed his hands of the whole dirty business. The press and the pulpit arose to the emergency of the hour and swelled the flood of condemnation beyond the power of resistance. The people demanded a more fitting recognition of the sanctity of the home; a more stable assurance of the protection of honor and virtue and that's what they got. Mr. Wilson was forced to resign; the Council was forced to accept his resignation and in his place was appointed another man, who let us hope, may prove more worthy. Thus again has public sentiment stretched forth its strong arm and raised against the onslaughts of the reckless libertine an impenetrable barrier at the foot of which we read in flaming letters: "Thus far shalt thou go and no further." Wilson, Dick	AA	Was He Murdered? Dick Wilson, a well known negro who lived near Hedges, came to town Wednesday. He drew some money from the bank and then visited several negro houses on Highland near Broadway where he remained some time. Among other things he partook of some wine with some of the women and shortly after was seized with convulsions and died in a few minutes. A severe wound was also found near the eye. Owing to the suspicious circumstances attending his death Coroner Wills summoned a jury composed of F. T. Martin, J. W. Wheeler, W. R. Browns and J. T. Stokley, N. A. Powell and C. A. Brown, who viewed the remains and adjourned yesterday to await the result of the chemical analysis. Dr. J. N. Rankin made an autopsy by order of the court and the contents of the stomach were placed in the hands of James H. Martin for chemical analysis. This will take several days and the Coroner's jury will not render their verdict until after that time. Dr. Rankin says the symptoms of Wilson's death

	resembled those of strychnine poisoning. Wilson was a negro of more than ordinary ability and at one time had considerable property. About fifteen years ago while returning on a negro excursion he shot and killed Ben Hampton in an altercation over the latter's wife. It was an unprovoked murder, but Wilson had money and influential white friends and he was finally acquitted after spending most of his means. He was a bad and dangerous negro, and a year or two ago was indicted for stealing a wagon load of tobacco from Col. A. T. Duckworth, who had befriended him in his former trouble. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, April 8, 1898 The mysterious death of the negro, Dick Wilson, brings remembrances of his killing Ben Hampton, another negro, many years ago in an altercation over Hampton's wife. After Hampton's death she went to Indianapolis where she married again. She was untrue to her last husband and he was killed in a similar manner. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, April 12, 1898 He Was Poisoned The Coroner's jury in the case of Dick Wilson, the negro from the country who died so suddenly last week while at Lina Railey's place on Highland street, finished their deliberations Tuesday. Chemist Jas. M. Martin, who had been analyzing the stomach and contents found strychnine as was expected from the circumstances under which he died. The verdict of the jury was that he died from the effects of strychnine poisoning at the hands of some party unknown. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, April 15, 1898

Wilson, George	AA	Lulu Willis and Russell Snapp were arrested at Carlisle charged with the murder of the negro, George Wilson, who was found hanging to the limb of a tree near town. The negro had been a lover of Lulu Willis and the officials got an idea that she had something to do with his taking off. In jail the woman confessed to having killed Wilson with the aid of other persons and said they hanged the body to the tree to lead to the belief that he was lynched. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, September 10, 1897
Wilson, George	AA	Two negroes in a free-for-all fight at Gray's Station, Knox county, almost shot one another to pieces. One of them, named Geo. Wilson, received fourteen shots in his body, any one of which might have proven fatal. The other, Sam Jones, is probably fatally wounded, he having sustained some eight or ten painful shots. The fight occurred over a half-gallon can of coal oil, which each of the participants claimed, and it took several rounds from the revolvers which each carried to determine the ownership, which was founded finally to be a white man. Wilson, Hiram	The following is an account of a killing Tuesday in Breathitt county: A grudge has existed between Hiram Wilson and Oscar Morton, two white men, for some time past. One night last week a party of white caps called on a number of lewd women and taking them out of their house gave each of them a severe whipping. Among these women was one to whom Wilson had been paying much attention. When he heard of the white caps visit he became very angry and swore he would have revenge. It seems that Morton was one of the white caps and when Wilson heard this he secured a double barreled shotgun and a pistol and started out to find him. Instead of his killing Morton, however, he was killed by Morton, who had heard of his threats and had armed himself with a shotgun. Wilson was shot through and through and died in a few minutes. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, August 3, 1894 Oscar Morton, who has been in jail here for the past ten days on an order from the Breathitt court, was discharged Tuesday having been admitted to bail in the sum of three thousand dollars. A few weeks ago he killed a man named Wilson in that county. Morton says Wilson was hunting for him with a shot gun when Morton got the drop on him with a pistol and killed him. He seems confident of acquittal. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, August 17, 1894

Wilson, Mark	Triple Tragedy Details Of Which Probably Will Always Remain A Mystery Mayfield, Ky., May 21 A triple tragedy, the details of which will probably always remain a mystery, occurred at Lynneville, this county. A visitor to the warehouse owned by Mark Wilson, a prominent merchant, found the proprietor, his brother West Wilson and Arthur West lying on the floor shot to death. Revolvers were found beside the bodies of Arthur West and West Wilson. Two citizens reported that they had been at the warehouse shortly after 7 o'clock Sunday evening and left the trio apparently on good terms, although all had been drinking. The supposition is that West Wilson and Arthur West engaged in a shooting affray, killing each other, and that one of the bullets struck Mark Wilson. The Winchester Democrat Fri., May 25, 1906

Wilson, West	Triple Tragedy Details Of Which Probably Will Always Remain A Mystery Mayfield, Ky., May 21 A triple tragedy, the details of which will probably always remain a mystery, occurred at Lynneville, this county. A visitor to the warehouse owned by Mark Wilson, a prominent merchant, found the proprietor, his brother West Wilson and Arthur West lying on the floor shot to death. Revolvers were found beside the bodies of Arthur West and West Wilson. Two citizens reported that they had been at the warehouse shortly after 7 o'clock Sunday evening and left the trio apparently on good terms, although all had been drinking. The supposition is that West Wilson and Arthur West engaged in a shooting affray, killing each other, and that one of the bullets struck Mark Wilson. The Winchester Democrat Fri., May 25, 1906
Wilson, Will	Two shooting affrays Accident claimed in one of them – Officer will die Dukedom – There were two shooting scrapes here in which two men were fatally wounded. Boone Taylor, a prominent young man, was shot through the lung by Ted Wylie. Taylor says he knows no motive for the shooting and Wylie claims it was an accident, but has skipped to Tennessee. Jim Thomas and his two sons, Stanley and John are in jail here, charged with shooting and assaulting Will Wilson, deputy constable. Wilson had gone to arrest the Thomas men. It is claimed they beat him almost to death with a club and took his pistol and shot him through the arm. Jim Thomas' arm was broken. Wilson will die. Winn, Jesse	AA	TO HANG The Death Penalty Given to Dillard Rainey. The Murder of Aaron Adams to Be Avenged. The Majesty of the Law Vindicated. Not in a spirit of vengeance; not with an outburst of wrath nor with the savage senselessness of mob violence; but with the calm, dignified majesty of the law has the blood of Aaron Adams, which cries from the ground, been avenged, or will be when the sentence of the law is executed. A thrill of horror went through our people when the causeless, cruel murder was committed, and when the news spread Saturday that the death penalty had been awarded the murderer, there was a verdict of assent almost universal, and the only regret was that Matt Rainey, the prisoner's father, did not receive the same sentence. The crime was a most atrocious one, and with no mitigating circumstances. Matt Rainey and James Henry had differences concerning a piece of land near the mouth of Upper Howard's Creek, and Henry had placed Frank Haggard in possession as a tenant. Rainey hauled the fence from around Haggard's garden leaving it open to the stock. Haggard hauled the rails back again and a quarrel on the 13 th of last May in which Rainey shot Haggard inflicting a wound that it was thought would prove fatal. Mrs. Haggard saw Aaron Adams passing along the road and asked him to go for a doctor. Adams went after Dr. T. S. Allen, who lived near, and returning with the physician half an hour later, he was met by Matt Rainey and Dillard Rainey, father and son. Matt was armed with a gun and Dillard with a pistol. The former raised his gun to shoot Adams, but was prevented by Dr. Allan. With an oath he told his son to shoot and the latter did so. As Adams sank down pierced with a number of balls, Matt Rainey savagely tried again to shoot him. Deputy Sheriff Eperson was in the neighborhood and arrested Matt Rainey at once. Dillard escaped, although the officers once got close enough to shoot at him. He went through the mountains and was finally arrested at Roanoke, Va., under an assumed name. Matt Rainey was tried last fall and got a life sentence. He took an appeal and since has been in jail here. Two or three feeble attempts were made to mob him here last Spring but they lacked leadership. Since he has been in jail he has incurred the ill-will of the officers and fellow prisoners all whom concur in saying he is the meanest man with whom they have ever had dealings.

	The trial of Dillard Rainey began last Tuesday. The evidence closed Thursday at noon and was argued until the next morning when it was given to the jury, which brought in a verdict of guilty and fixing the death penalty the next day. When the prisoner heard it he turned deathly pale and seemed almost overcome. He soon recovered and was taken back to jail cursing the jury and vowing that he would never be hung. Neither of the prisoners have ever shown any remorse for the poor widow and the six helpless children. This will make the second sentence pronounced by Judge Scott, the other being the negro Will Taylor, who was hung for the murder of Squire Doty, in Madison county a year or two ago. If Rainey is hung it will make the fourth legal hanging in the county, and the first white man to be hung. Many years ago Jesse Winn, a negro, was hung near where Col. R. N. Winn's residence now stands, for the murder of Wm. Emerson, a white man, who owned him or had him hired. In August, 1839, a young negro named Knight was hung on the Lexington pike near F. H. Dudley's. He belonged to Mr. Morris who lived on Stoner and had committed a rape on a little white girl. In April, 1841, a negro man, belonging to Daniel Spar, broke into a house and disemboweled his wife. The latter got well, but the negro was hung for housebreaking. The negro woman belonged to Geo. Anderson and her assailant was hung near the far end of the C. and O. trestle on the side of Poynterville. In November, 1850, Thomas Nichols killed his master, Fred B. Nichols, at a rock quarry on the Lexington pike. He was hung about Christmas of the same year. The late Wm. Simpson was Sheriff at the time, and not liking the job of hanging the negro, he employed Marsh Lawrence to tie the rope. A year or two later Marsh Lawrence was killed by his brother, Jack Lawrence. The latter fled to Missouri, but was caught, brought back and sentenced to be hung. He was the first white man in the county to receive the death sentence, but was finally pardoned by Gov. Powell. About seventeen years ago, Ben. Plunkett was lynched, being hung to a tree in the Courthouse yard, the charge being an attempt assault on Miss Annie Ball, now Mrs. Bradford. In the fall of 1895 Bob Haggard was hung from the bridge on the Muddy Creek pike for a similar assault on Miss Elkin of near Ford. No motion has yet been made for a new trial, but this will be done. Since the death penalty has been given to Dillard, his father says he does not wish a new trial, but is inclined to accept the life sentence given him last fall. The general opinion is that if he should secure a new trial he would also be hung. The Winchester Democrat. Tuesday, February 16, 1897.

Winn, Joshua Nicholas	Death's Angel Claims Two of Clark County's Honored and Respected Citizens. Joshua Nicholas Winn. About three o'clock Tuesday afternoon, Joshua Nicholas Winn died at his home near this city, and about twelve hours afterwards his brother, Robert Nicholas Winn, followed him to the spirit land. The burial of both will take place this afternoon in the Winchester cemetery, services at the grave being conducted at three o'clock. They were both natives of this county, being sons of Phillip B. Winn; their mother was Miss Nicholas, also, of this county. Joshua Nicholas Winn was in his 80th year and had long been one of the most prominent men in this community. He was called upon more than any other man in the county to serve as commissioner, arbitrator, etc., whose good judgement, sound discretion and perfect honesty was required, and no one ever thought of questioning either attribute. He had long been a member of the First Christian Church. He was twice married. His first wife was Miss Emily Poston, and his last wife was her sister Miss Ellen Poston. By his first wife he leaves two sons, William P., of the Winn Furniture Co., and Hon. Jas. F., both of this city, Mrs. Nellie McClure, of Paris, and Mrs. Kate Eginton, of this county. By his last wife he leaves four sons, Capt. John S., of the 2nd Regular Cavalry now stationed in Cuba, Walter S., in charge of government work in Alabama, Nick Jr., now in Mexico, and Dr. Robert Winn, a surgeon in the army, stationed at Ft. Riley, Kansas, and two daughters, Mrs. D. C. Lisle and Miss

	Pattie Winn, both of this county. Col. Robert Nicholas Winn. Col. Robert Nicholas Winn was equally well known as a gentleman of the highest character, and one of our very best citizens. He was for a long time one of Winchester's most prominent business men, and all who dealt with him bore witness to his integrity and probity. He had not filled as many places of trust as his younger brother but was worthy of the utmost trust and confidence. He was eighty-three years old. His wife, who preceded him to the grave many years, was Miss Brasfield. He leaves two sons, Phillip B., of the Winchester Bank, and James S., of the Winn Furniture Co., and two daughters, Mrs. Mollie Dandridge and Miss Elizabeth Winn. In the loss of these two brothers, Clark county has lost two of her very best citizens, and we with a host of friends, join in sympathy with the bereaved families. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, September 27, 1901 Tribute. On last Friday there moved along the streets of Winchester two long lines of vehicles filled with the sad faced kindred and friends of Robert Nicholas Winn and Joshua Nicholas Winn. The black-plumed hearses bearing the mortal remains of these brothers rolled solemnly side by side, while the pall-bearers took their places in advance. The families and comrades of the two were the same, and the long lines of procession paid tribute to both. Robert N. Winn, aged eighty-three years and seven months, died at three o'clock, A. M., on Wednesday, September the 25th, and Joshua N. Winn, aged eighty years, died just twelve hours before. They were born and spent their long and useful lives in this county. Both were men of affairs and intimately connected with the business interests and the social relations of the community. Robert was clerk, deputy sheriff, magistrate, merchant and banker, while his younger brother preferred the quiet dignity of the farmer's life. Both were eminently successful in their vocations. They were richly endowed in mind and heart. Modest and retiring, they were earnest and steadfast for the right. They went their quiet way among their people and by word and deed set an example of character and conduct by which it will be well for our young men to fashion their lives. Thus these gentle, genial brothers lived their four score years very close neighbors, and passed much time together, and in their undemonstrative way clung close as brothers should. These long processions took their slow and solemn way to our cemetery, and the bodies of these noble brothers were laid to rest in adjoining lots and the same requiem sang a lullaby for their last sleep. So like David and Jonathan, "they were lovely and pleasant in their lives and in their death they were not divided." Leeland Hathaway. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, October 4, 1901

Wiseman, Mike	On the night of Feb. 16th, Rev. Mike Wiseman, a Baptist minister, was waylaid and foully murdered in the Tar Ridge locality in Wolfe county, by two men by the name of Booth and Sparks. Booth's brother had been indicted by the preacher for disturbing religious worship, and the preacher had also censured Booth and others for placing logs, brush, & c., across the road to impede the passage of persons to and from church. It is thought this was the only cause of the trouble. The murderers escaped after accomplishing their hellish work, but at last accounts officers were in hot pursuit and their capture is almost certain. The people of Wolfe are greatly incensed and the murderers will no doubt receive their just dues if captured. They hang criminals in Wolfe.—Mt. Sterling Gazette. The Democrat, Wednesday, March 5, 1890. John Booth was last week sentenced to the penitentiary for twelve years by a Wolfe county jury for the murder of his brother-in-law Mike Wisman, a Baptist preacher. Booth had piled logs in Wisman's road and the later retaliated by calling him a thief. Booth lay in wait For Wisman as he was returning from a protracted meeting which he was holding and stabbed him to death. The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, February 4, 1891

Witherspoon, Mrs. Laura		Mrs. N. H. Witherspoon. Died; Friday afternoon, of consumption, after a long illness, Mrs. Laura Witherspoon, wife of N. Holly Witherspoon. Funeral Sunday afternoon at Stackhouse and R. French and interment in the cemetery at this place. She was the only daughter of Dr. J. W. Johnson and wife and leaves two children Misses Linna and Martha Witherspoon. Death is the great leveler of all ranks and conditions. When the destroying angel with sable wings broods over the home and wife and mother folds the tired hands that so long, with loving tenderness have ministered to the dear ones of the household, and the earthly tabernacle now cold, pulseless and tenantless, is robed in the cerements of the grave, the same cry of grief and despair goes up whether the place is a cottage or a

	palace. It is this common grief which so many of us have felt that causes our hearts to go out in sympathy to our fellow-townsmen. Mr. N. H. Witherspoon, and family in the great bereavement that rest upon them. To them it is hard, indeed. But to the dead who was so tenderly laid away among the flowers she loved, herself the sweetest and fairest of them all, it was but a transplanting into that land pure, bright and painless where the glorified body is never racked by pain or disease; it was not with fear and dread that her feet approached the shores of that grim, and silent river, this side of which looks so dark and cheerless; but with the eye of faith she saw beyond the brief interval of pain into the fields, the eternal garden of our God and her soul was satisfied. We are aware that "When the heart is sad and bitter thoughts come crowding thick for utterance and the poor, common words of courtesy seem but a very mockery." That little can be said. The grief of the husband bereft of the loving sympathy and tender welfare of the wife of his bosom, of the daughters budding into womanhood, who so sorely need a mother's watchful care and solicitude; of the mother, weeping as Rachel of old, for the loss of an only daughter; of the father and brothers; all these are beyond the power of alleviation by poor human means and it is only by the sustaining power of Him she loved so much that these things can be borne. The universal esteem in which she was held by all her acquaintances is shown by the subjoined from the pen of one who knew and loved her: "She went from us as she would have wished to go, clasped in arms and circled with hearts dearest to her; looking bravely into eyes that held her as their most precious image, and seeing, unseen to others, god's angel come. "We laid her to sleep on a pleasant hill-side where the South winds blow and the flowers will bloom, and the long train of relatives and friends who followed her to the grave felt, amid their sorrow, a sense of exaltation and hope which can be imparted only by the purest Christian influence. "The seasons may go and come and tears may cease to flow, but thy memory, sweet friend, will ever be fondly cherished among the dearest and most sacred reminiscences of the past by those who knew and loved thee the best." The Democrat, Wednesday, March 22, 1893.

Witt, Charles	An ancient heirloom Mr. Charles Witt, of this city, owns tobacco box over two hundred years old The Democrat was shown yesterday a tobacco box which has been in the possession of one family for over two hundred years. The box is about three inches in diameter and an inch in depth, and on the cover is a portrait in oil of Queen Elizabeth which evidently a fine piece of hand painted work. It is now owned by Mr. Charles Witt and was brought to this country in 1730 by Elisha DeWitt, the great grandfather of the present possessor of the valuable relic, and it had been in the family for many years before that time. Elisha DeWitt settled in Virginia, and shortly after the name was changed to Witt. The tobacco box was carried by him through the Revolutionary war, and during the progress of that war, his wife and family emigrated to Kentucky and settled in what is not Estill county at Witt Springs. Elisha Witt lived to the advanced age of 110 years, and his wife lived to be nearly as old. They left a large family who have been prominent in the development of this section from pioneer days to the present time. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, February 16, 1909

Witt, Cora	Death Of Miss Witt

	Miss Cora Witt died Wednesday evening at the home of her brother, Grant Witt, after a short illness of brain fever and spinal meningitis. The funeral was preached at the residence yesterday morning by Eld. C. J. Armstrong and the remains were taken to the old home place, in Estill county, for burial. She was a christian lady in the highest sense of the word and will be much missed by those who knew her. The Winchester Democrat Fri., Feb. 6, 1903 MISS CORA WITT. A sweet disposition, coupled with a noble character, will always impress a community. A lasting affection is always won by "soft invincibility." To be praised by one's own life and glorified by one's own character, is better than the tributes of words or the eulogies of orators. In every community there are such invincible souls. They are "The Salt of the Earth." "The light of the World." In Miss Cora Witt this city possessed such a character. Her departure for heaven, in whose light she had long dwelt, took place on February 4. The whole community mourned. As a daughter, a sister, a friend, an employee and a Christian she was noble and true. Though only twenty-six years of age when she fell asleep, she had lived long in unselfishness of life. Her body, which suffering had racked but never caused her to murmur, was laid to rest at her old home in Estill county, in fullness of hope of a glorious resurrection. Being a true Christian, it is not possible that she should be holdened of death, for her Lord has conquered the enemy. When quite young Miss Cora Witt joined the Christian Church. At the time of her death, she was a faithful member of the First Christian Church of this city. For over three years she was in the employ of the Old Kentucky Home Telephone Company. The grief and genuine expressions of the sorrow of the directors, employees and subscribers of this company testified volumes to her worth. She is survived by her father, five brothers and four sisters. "Life's race well run. Life's work well done. Life's crown well won, Now comes rest." The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, February 10, 1903.

Witt, Joseph Lee	 Joseph Lee Witt, 67, of Winchester, shared his final days and moments at home, surrounded by his loving and devoted family, before succumbing to complications from terminal cancer at 11:35 p.m. on Monday, June 18, 2012. Born Sept. 19, 1944, in Winchester, he was the only child of Joseph Eugene Witt, who died when Joe Lee was only 9 years old. His mother, Marie Tapp Witt, taught elementary school in Clark County for 43 years. From a very young age, Joe accepted responsibility for the family home and farm on Irvine Road. Even through college, marriage and children of his own, he thoughtfully cared for his mother until her death in 1985 at age 73, always treasuring the special bond they had together. After graduating from Eastern Kentucky University in 1971, Joe married Karen Henderson of Cincinnati on Feb. 23, 1973. The two met while at EKU and spent almost 40 years faithfully sharing their lives with one another. For 35 years he worked in professional sales, known by his colleagues and clients alike as a man of unquestionable integrity and personal commitment. As a child and young man, Joe Lee attended the First Baptist Church in Winchester where he was baptized. During his adult years, he treasured kinship with fellow Christians at the First United Methodist Church in Flemingsburg and Fellowship of Believers congregation in Winchester, Southland Christian Church in Lexington, and Calvary Christian Church in Winchester. His gentle, quiet spirit and compassion toward others was an example to many. Many wonderful relationships were formed with lifelong friends. Survivors include his wife Karen Henderson Witt of Winchester, and three children: Joshua Lee Witt (Julie Lanier), Winchester; Michael Jennings Witt (Penny Smith), Washington, D.C. and Erin Elizabeth Ellen Witt, Winchester. Grandchildren include Cameron Scott, Avery Marie, Lauren Elizabeth, Harrison Grant, Corban David, Bristol Joseph, Clara Joy, Barrett Michael, Lincoln Christopher, Kendall Jennings and Noelle Grace, all of Winchester. The newest grandchild is expected in Washington, D.C. in late August. All are invited to an informal visitation being held at the Calvary Christian Church chapel, 15 Redwing Drive in Winchester, at 5 p.m. on Friday, June 22, 2012. A memorial service arranged by the family will be held at 6 p.m. with an open reception immediately following. The Winchester Sun June 21, 2012

Woodford, Charlie	AA	Uncle Charlie Woodford A true man, a good citizen, an honor to his race. Such was Uncle Charlie Woodford, whose remains were buried yesterday. Born a slave, with no advantages of education, he worked and gave to each of his children a College course, and they, to their credit, are an honor to their father. Eighty seven years of age: half of his life a slave, the other half free. His life and character is a good object lesson for all. How many of us could have done as well. Born without honor, in a period of strife. He honored his race by a pure, holy life. A man among men, in spite of it all, In humility with glory, he met the last call. The Winchester Sun-Sentinel Thursday, September, 12, 1907

(Woodford Will Case)	Sunday, aged seventy-four years. He was a brother of Samuel Woodford, of Howards Lower Creek, this county. He was a bachelor and leaves a large estate. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, June 25, 1897 Mrs. Rhodes Quisenberry, of Clark county, came over on Saturday last to spend several days with her sister, Mrs. Maggie Evans, at Dr. G. W. Evans but was called home by telegram on Monday last to attend the funeral of her uncle, Thos. Woodford of Bourbon county.—Richmond Climax. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, June 25, 1897 The will of the late Thomas Woodford, of Bourbon, divides his estate equally among his twenty-nine nephews and nieces. Among these are the children of Mr. S. A. B. Woodford, of Clark, viz: Lewis A. Woodford, Mrs. Perry Browning, Mrs. H. B. Browning, Mrs. J. J. Pursley, Mrs. J. J. Fishback, Mrs. Rhodes Quisenberry, Miss Nina Woodford and the heirs of the late Mrs. Webb Taylor. The estate amounts to over $200,000, mostly in cash and the share of each heir will be about $7,000 or nearly $60,000 for the Woodford heirs in Clark. They are most excellent people and deserve this handsome addition to their fortunes. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, June 29, 1897 The will of the late Thos. BLACKBURN left Monday for Washington, where he will be engaged as attorney in several large suits. He will return to Kentucky the last of November to take part in the trial of the “Woodford will case”, in Paris, having been employed by the defense of the executors. This will be one of the biggest will snits tried in Kentucky. Thos. Woodford, of Bourbon, died and left an estate of about $ 200,000 to his nieces and nephews. He left nothing to his two brothers or sister, explaining in his will that they were already wealthy. The brothers and sister are now suing to have the will set aside. Ashbrook and John S. Smith. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, November 19, 1897. The famous Woodford will case is on trial at Paris. As twenty-two lawyers are employed, it will probably be in court for a long time. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, December 10, 1897 A most sensational episode occurred during the trial of the Woodford will case at Paris Monday. Emmett Dickson, one of the attorneys for the will, asked Judge Cantrill to discontinue the trial until an investigation could be had, as he had information that there has been an effort to bribe members of the jury. The Judge sent the jury out, put Mr. Dickson under oath and asked him the source of his information.. Dickson stated he was honor bound not to divulge the name of his informant. The Court threatened imprisonment and the attorney stated that W. R. Thomas, son of Senator-elect J, M. Thomas, had told him that Hon. John T. Hinton, member of the Legislature, and J. Hal. Woodford, one of the beneficiaries of the will, and a prominent farmer and turfman, were charged with attempting bribery. The Court issued a rule against Thomas, Hinton and Woodford returnable Tuesday morning. Thomas did not appear but Hinton and Woodford were present, and demanded an investigation, which was postponed until the next day. On Wednesday morning the matter was fully investigated and Judge Cantrill said there had been no contempt of court or attempt at bribery and the trial of the case was resumed. county jury last week, shows what a farmer can do in Kentucky. He started in life with nothing, and when a young man, worked as a laborer for his brother, S. A. B. Woodford, of this county, at $8 per month. He was an overseer for Gen. Blackwell at $200 per year. Later he went to Bourbon where he made his money. He was in his seventy-third year when he died, and the inventory showed that he was then worth $210,000. He never engaged in any speculation, nor did he deal in fancy stock of any kind. He was hardworking and economical and had great skill in buying cattle, and showed remarkable judgement in all that he did. He never married, but made a will two months before he died, leaving his property to his nieces and nephews equally. A sister and brother, each of whom had one child only and the three children of another sister who is dead, contested his will because the other three brothers had twenty-four children altogether, thus giving the children of a brother and two sisters five shares, whilst the children of the other three brothers would get twenty-four shares. The property had been made by him, and when the will was executed he said that all his nieces and nephews were the same to him. The trial lasted two weeks and was hotly contested. McMillan & Talbott, J. C. S. Blackburn, W. M. Beckner and W. H. Holt represented the propounders, and C. J. Bronston, John S. Smith, E. M. Dickson and T. E. Ashbrook the contestants. Judge Beckner on behalf of the propounders, interrogated the witnesses and was to have made an argument, but the Court limited the time for speaking to five hours on a side and he gave his time to Senator Blackburn, who closed the case in a masterly speech. Mr. Bronston made what all who heard it, pronounced the greatest effort of his life. The case will be taken to the Court of Appeals. L. A. Woodford, Mrs. Perry Browning, Mrs. Blades Browning, Mrs. Bettie Quisenberry, Miss Maria Woodford, Mrs. Mildred Pursley, Mrs. J. J. Fishback and the children of Mrs. Mary Taylor, (wife of D. W. Taylor,) deceased, are devisees under the will.

Will Case Reversed

The decision of the Bourbon Circuit Court in the Woodford will case was reversed Friday. The action was a contest over the will of Thomas Woodford, a bachelor, who died on June 20, 1897, leaving an estate valued at $200,000. The will was executed in April before his death, when he was seventy-three years old. The will was contested upon the grounds that the testator did not have mental capacity to make it or that it was obtained by undue influence. In the will he chose as a class his nephews and nieces and made them equal in the distribution of the estate. The lower court refused to allow the will to be probated. In reversing this judgement the court here says:

“We have reached the conclusion that we should not order the will probated, but that there is sufficient testimony offered by contestants, the appellees here, to allow the jury to determine whether the testator had mental capacity sufficient to make a will and whether it had been obtained by undue influence.”

A number of those interested live in this county.

	The Winchester Democrat Tue., June 11, 1901 A Big Fee Judge Cantrill last week allowed Hon. C. M. Thomas, receiver of the Thomas Woodford estate, a fee at the rate of $5,000 per year. Mr. Thomas has had charge of the estate two years and eleven months. Both contestants and contestees will take an appeal to the Court of Appeals. Paris News The Winchester Democrat Fri., June 21, 1901 Will Case Compromised The Woodford will case of Bourbon county, which has figured prominently in the Circuit and Appellate Courts for some time, has been compromised. Under the compromise Dr. Matt Woodford, one of the contestants, gets the interest on fifty-two shares of bank stock for life, which insures him a comfortable income. The remainder of the property is to be equally divided between the nieces and nephews under the provisions of the will. The case was a most celebrated one and had a large array of legal talent employed. The deceased was a brother of Sam Woodford, of this county, and his children are heirs to the property. The Winchester Democrat Fri., Nov. 8, 1901 Sale of Bank Stock. The executors of Thos. Woodford sold Monday at Paris, 50 shares of Agricultural bank stock at an average of $224.50 per share. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, July 15, 1902 Reduced His Allowance The Court of Appeals has reversed the judgement of the Bourbon Circuit Court in the case of Sallie W. Spears and others against Claude M. Thomas receiver. The Appellee was receiver for the estate of the late Thomas Woodford, valued at $200,000. The court below allowed him $15,000 for his services. Woods, Henry		As a general rule, the delay of a criminal case works to the interest of the accused and against the Commonwealth, but in the case of Gilbert Woods last week the tables turned. Five years ago two rival merchants, Henry Woods and Thomas Gregory became involved in a difficulty, when Woods was killed by Gregory, who was tried and acquitted on the ground of self defense. Shortly after his acquittal, Gregory was on the streets of Manchester under the influence of whisky, and he was armed with a pistol and Winchester rifle. He said that he had killed Woods and was not afraid of any of the surviving members of that family. Gregory Woods aged twelve years, a son of the man killed, procured a pistol and killed Gregory. On account of the boy's age sympathy was with young Woods and at his trial shortly after the killing, the jury stood eleven for acquittal and one for a short term in the penitentiary. The case was called last week and a jury from Owsley county summoned. A verdict was returned giving the boy a life sentence. He is now seventeen years old but is large for his age. Woods, James D.		Killed in a pistol fight Was former leader of United Mine Workers of Kentucky Central City, Ky., - In a desperate revolver battle between James D. and John Woods, brothers, and John McGann, former chief of police. James D. Woods, former president of the United Mine Workers of Kentucky was instantly killed; his brother John desperately wounded, and McGann shot, but not fatally. The shooting took place at a railroad crossing. The men renewed an old quarrel, and after a few words, began firing. When the smoke cleared away James Woods was lying on the ground with five bullets in his body, dead. His brother lay nearby with a bullet in his bowels, and the ex-policeman had a bullet in his hip. The shooting was the result of an old grudge, covering a period of several months. The city council of Central City recently became deadlocked over the election of Wryme Wooten to succeed McGann as chief of police. This and other personal troubles promoted the duel. Woodson, Wash	A Horrible Death. Prominent Farmer of Estill County Mutilated by Hogs. Wash Woodson, aged about fifty, a prominent farmer living near Irvine, told his wife Friday that he would ride to a neighbor's on business, and proceeded to the barn lot for his horse. Some time afterward she was surprised to see the horse in the lot, not having been used. Her husband being still absent, she went to the lot to search for him, and there she observed one of the several hogs in the lot with a bloody nose. Thinking nothing of this she continued her search a short distance further where horrified she beheld the prostrate form of her husband being devoured by hogs. They had consumed almost the entire face and other parts of the body. The viciousness of the swine is inexplicable, unless Woodson's presence exasperated the mother of some young pigs. Woosley, Woody	Their Life For the Flag. The papers are filled with accounts of the terrible sufferings of the soldier boys in the military hospitals and if half what has been said is true, somebody or several bodies, ought to be hung. It is said that Company C. our own boys who have been left at Chickamauga, when most of the other troops were taken away, have suffered tremendously. It is said that not more than twenty-five men are fit for duty. When it is remembered that the muster roll comprises nearly one hundred men it will be seen that disease is rampant there. Quite a number of the boys are at home on sick leave or furlough, but the condition of affairs is bad enough. While many have been ill, but two have died, and their bodies were sent home Wednesday. One of these, Woody Woosley, the son of James Woosley, was taken to Hunt where he was buried in the old Lane graveyard. The other was Samuel Mahone, who was buried in Lexington, Corporal A. _____ was ordered to accompany the remains of the latter, while Corporal Vernon Ogden accompanied the remains of Woosley. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, September 2, 1898

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, January 25, 1898

	Obituary Departed this life January 9th, 1898, at her residence in Clark county, Mrs. Anne E. Wornall in the seventy-fifth year of her age. The deceased was one of a family of nine children, her father, the late Thomas R. Moore, a gallant soldier of the war of 1812, was distinguished among the people of his county for his business sagacity and enterprise as well as for his moral and personal worth, and his memory still lingers among them as one of their most honored traditions. Her mother, Mrs. Evaline W. Moore, nee Hockaday, served faithfully her day and generation and well earned the meed of praise from all who knew her. In early life the deceased was united in marriage to James R. Wornall, of highly respected memory, and together they entered upon life's journey, whose mystic mazes none can tell save those who have trodden it to the end. To her young imagination the world was fair and lovely in perspective, its hopes, its promises and pleasures all garlanded and festooned in fairy decoration. When she left the pebbled beach, and entered the frail bark to tempt life's serious voyage, she thought but little of chilling winds or angry clouds or swelling tides, for he to whom she had plighted her troth and paid the most sacred of woman's vows, he was her brave and trusted helmsman and to him she committed all her earthly hopes and fortunes. But in more serious moods in after times, in the changed relations from maidenly fancies to actual experience, came cares and trials, as come they must and will to all who tread this world's thorny paths. These cares and trials all unknown before, presented themselves in grim array and demanded earnest thought and prompt solution. The many cares of a household, the well being of husband, children, friends and home, all came to her in teeming, thronging appeal, and well did she respond to the pressing demands. At once she became the patient, careful, fostering housewife; at once the virtuous woman whose praises were long since thus most fitly spoken in sacred story as one who "looketh well to the ways of her household and eateth not the bread of idleness." But her feeble constitution could not long withstand the strain; the tension was too great. Her delicate frame withered and wasted until she seemed but the shadow of her former self. Yet strange to say, in that fragile tenement she lingered on and on from year to year, until a new generation had well nigh come and gone. But the end came at last; for there is a limit fixed which none can pass; there is a dread boundary line beyond which we dare not, cannot tread. God has marked it with his own mighty hand according to his eternal purpose. She had touched the bounds of her earthly habitation and calmly, gently, peacefully yielded up her spirit, even as a taper burning so low and faint, that one can scarcely tell when the flickering light is gone. For many years she had been a member of the Presbyterian Church and was loyal and true in her relations as such, contributing liberally of her means to its various interests. Her two daughters and only children, long since embraced the faith of their mother and their mother's mother, and today sorrow as only daughters can who know the loss of a mother's love. Her funeral services were conducted at the homestead by her pastor, the Rev. Mr. Chisholm, and attended by a large circle of sympathizing friends and acquaintances; the sermon was timely, comforting and well-befitting the occasion. Services ended at the home, her remains were carried to the Winchester cemetery, and laid beside those of her devoted husband who long years ago had gone before, crossed the river and entered into his rest. Peace to the silent dust! Peace to sorrowing friends! That Peace which passeth all understanding, the everlasting Peace of God. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, February 22, 1898

Wright, Lewis C.	Lewis C. Wright, near Levee, one of the best known men in our county, committed suicide yesterday whilst insane. He had developed insanity on Thursday and since then his family and friends have been watching him. Their eyes were fully open to the fact that he contemplated self-destruction and several acts on his part had plainly shown that he was seeking an opportunity to end his life. Yesterday, about noon, while one or two had hold of him he broke away and jumped into a well in the yard drowning himself before he could be taken out, although every effort was made to rescue him.—Mt. Sterling Advocate. Mr. Wright was formerly a citizen of this county. He married a niece of W. B. Kidd, of this city, and was a brother-in-law of John A. Eubank. The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, March 25, 1891 Squire Lewis Wright, who committed suicide last week at his home in Montgomery county, was buried at Kiddville, this county. He was a member of Bethlehem Christian Church. His insanity was caused by brooding over his financial troubles. The first indication of it was a week or so previous to his death, when having been summoned as a juror at Mt. Sterling, he burst into tears and begged the Judge to excuse him, saying he was not fit for a juror.
