Walling Must Hang

The report published the first of the week that Gov. Bradley had decided to give Walling a respite was untrue. The Governor says he sees no cause why he should interfere and both Jackson and Walling will probably be hung tomorrow. The Winchester Democrat Friday, March 19, 1897

Hanged

Scott Jackson and Alonzo Walling were hung at Newport Saturday in the presence of a large crowd for the murder of Pearl Bryan a year ago. The evidence was wholly circumstantial, but the particulars of the crime, especially that the fact that the dead woman's head had been cut off, were so horrifying that the death penalty was awarded by the jury. They were both hardened wretches and neither had at time shown any remorse or sorrow. In fact, they have at all times denied all knowledge of it. Friday they made a joint confession, implicating Dr. Wagner who is now in the Lexington Insane Asylum. The execution was set for Saturday morning, but was postponed for several hours as Jackson that morning had confessed that Walling was innocent. Gov. Bradley was informed by telegraph and said that Jackson would have to give facts and particulars, instead of merely stating his opinion before he would interfere. This Jackson would not do, and in a short while he said this confession was false and only made it to gain time.

Before being taken to the scaffold they said the confession implicating Dr. Wagner was false and was made to influence the Governor. They both died game and both, at the last moment, said they were not guilty. A part of their last night was spent in playing cards after which they slept the remainder of the time. Until morning Jackson's body was refused burial at Greencastle, Ind., and his mother had it cremated.

One of the deputies at the hanging of Jackson and Walling says that Jackson's mother told him to die game and not to tell anything.

George Jackson, the colored coachman of Pearl Bryan murder notoriety, now in jail charged with perjury, is charged in Ohio with having aided in the escape of Hoy Riggs confined for larceny. There are those who claim that all who came under the eye of Scott Jackson, one of the executed murderers Pearl Bryan, will have to contend with evil and the coachman is reaping his share.

The Highlands during recent years been the scene of several murders, but the citizens have not been so thoroughly aroused since the murder of pearl Bryan, which occurred only a mile away from the scene of the deed that was committed at 3 a. m. Wednesday. Unlike the pearl Bryan murder, there was a witness left to tell the story and to give a description of the murderer, who, however succeeded in escaping and has since eluded the many sheriff posses that are now scouring the country in search of him.

Bryan, William Jennings	William J. Bryan's Ancestry Editor The Winchester Democrat:
	The extract printed in last Tuesday's issue of The Winchester Democrat taken from the Cincinnati Enquirer of Sunday, January 16 th , in regard to William Jennings Bryan's ancestors, is erroneous from beginning to end. I have before me William J. Bryan's book published about one year ago entitled "The First Battle; A Story of the Campaign of 1896."
	I ask a small space in your next issue of The Winchester Democrat for a few extracts from this book in order that your readers may have a true history of the lineage of this eminent statesman.
	D. J. Pendleton
	"Some of the Bryans trace their ancestry to Ireland, some to Wales, while others have followed the name through Irish into English history. A biographical sketch, written under the supervision of Silas L. Bryan, states that the family is of Irish extraction." "William Bryan, who lived in Culpeper county, Virginia, something more than one hundred years ago, is the first ancestor whose name is known to the descendants. When he was born, and where, is a matter of conjecture. He owned a large tract of land among the foothills of the Blue Ridge mountains, near Sperryville. The family name of his wife is unknown. There were born to the pair five children, James, who removed to Kentucky, John who remained upon the homestead; Aquilla, who removed to Ohio, and Francis and Elizabeth, about whom nothing is known."
	"John Bryan, the second son, was born about 1790, and at an early age married Nancy Lillard. The Lillard family is an old American family of English extraction, and is now represented by numerous descendants scattered over Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee.
	To John Bryan and wife ten children were born, all of whom, excepting Russell and Elizabeth are deceased."
	"Silas Lillard Bryan, father of William Jennings Bryan, was born November 4, 1822, near Sperryville, in what was then Culpeper, but is now a part of Rappahannock county, Virginia."
	"About the year 1828 John Bryan removed with his family to the Western portion of Virginia, in what is now West Virginia. His last residence was near Point Pleasant, where both he and his wife died, the latter in 1834, the former in 1836."
	"Silas, then but a boy, went West and made his home a part of the time with his sister, Nancy Baltzeile, and part of the time with his brother William. He was ambitious to obtain an education, and after making his way through the public schools, entered McKendree College, at Lebanon, Illinois, where he completed his course, graduating with honors in 1849. On November 4, 1852, he married Mariah Elizabeth Jennings. In politics he was a Democrat in the broadest sense of the word, and had an abiding faith in republican institutions, and in the capacity of the people for self government. He was a staunch defender of higher education, and gave financial as well as moral support to various institutions of learning. He died March 30, 1890."
	"Mariah Elizabeth Jennings was born near Walnut Hill, Illinois, May 24, 1834. She died on the 27 th of June, 1896, and was laid to rest by the side of her husband. To Silas Lillard and Mariah Elizabeth Bryan were born nine children. Of these William Jennings Bryan was born March 18, 1860."
	"The Bryan, Lillard, Jennings and Davidson families all belonged to the middle classes.
	They were industrious, law-abiding. God-fearing people. No member of the family ever became rich and none were ever abjectly poor. Farming has been the occupation of the majority, while others have followed the legal professions and mercantile pursuits."

Bryant, Alex	Mountaineers Killed.
	Four of Them Bit the Dust in a fight Among Themselves Near Whitesburg, Ky.
	Louisville, Ky., Dec. 15.—The Commercial has received by mail from its correspondent at Whitesburg, Ky., a story to the effect that four mountaineers were killed near there a few days ago in a fight among themselves. Whitesburg is the county seat of Letcher county in the heart of the mountain region along the Virginia border and miles from a railroad.
	According to this story Alex Bryant, John P. Mullins, John H. and David L. Craft went to Shelby gap, a few miles from Whitesburg near the Pike county border, on business.
	En-route a quarrel arose in which Bryant is said to have been shot through the head and 1 2.1 Toute a quarter arose in which Dryant is said to have been shot unough the flead and instantly killed. The remainder of the party returned to Whitesburg, armed themselves and fled to the mountains, fearing arrest. Soon afterwards a number of shots were heard. Mullins a little later appeared at the house of Detective J. W. Wright, suffering from serious wounds. He said he proposed to the Craft boys to leave the country, he was to remain and turn states evidence on the killing of Bryant, taking his chance of acquittal. The Crafts refused and the fighting was resumed, the Crafts using the Winchesters and Mullins a revolver. The Crafts according to the story were killed and Mullins received wounds from which he is believed to have died, as he was in an exhausted condition when he left Wright's house. Mullins was the only surviving son of Ira Mullins, who was killed in the Mullins-Fleming tragedy at bound gap in May 1892. The Craft boys were his cousins. A party was organized and went in search of the Craft boys, who were found lying side by side with their Winchesters tightly grasped in their hands.

	Turnkey in a Pickle He Took a Prisoner in Jail for Murder, to the Theater. Louisville, Ky., Dec. 21.—Turnkey Dick Burnett got himself into a pickle Monday night by being too accommodating. Early in the evening he proceeded to load up on tanglefoot, and then he took Curtis Dearing, who last week shot and killed Claude Bryant, across the street to Geo. Bierod's variety theater to pass away the evening. Dearing has been in jail since the killing, and when seen at the theater the report was spread that he had made his escape. When the other turnkeys learned of Burnett's action they sent for Jailer Watts, and he at once took Dearing back to jail and announced that he would have another turnkey Tuesday. Buckner, Benjamin Forsythe	Judge Buckner was born August 19, 1836, in Jacksonville, Ill., though his parents were both natives of Kentucky. His father, Aylette Buckner, was a native of Henderson, and his mother, Charlotte Forsythe, of Bourbon county. His father was by profession a lawyer, and was, for a few years prior to his death, in 1867, Clerk of the Clark Circuit Court, in this state. Benjamin F. Buckner was educated at the Kentucky Military Institute, at Farmdale, leaving that institution in 1852. He was deputy in the Circuit Clerk's office in Clark county, at the same time reading law with his father, until 1856, when he entered the law department of the University of Louisville. In 1857 he was admitted to the bar, and began the practice of law in Winchester. At the beginning of the Civil War he entered the United States army as Major of the Twentieth Kentucky Infantry, serving for three, during which time he participated in the battle of Shiloh and several other important engagements. He then returned to Winchester and continued the practice of his profession there until 1870, when he removed to Lexington, his residence at this time. In 1865 he was elected to the Legislature from Clark county, serving two years. In 1874 he was elected by the Democracy as Judge of the Court of Common Pleas for the district composed of the counties of Bath, Bourbon, Clark, Fayette, Madison and Woodford. His term expired during the present year, when he was elected to a higher position for six years. Judge Buckner was married in 1868 to Miss Helen P. Martin, daughter of Dr. Samuel D. Martin, of Clark county. Clark County Democrat Wed., 8-11-1880 Death of Judge Buckner.
	Judge Benjamin Forsythe Buckner died at his home on South Maple Street at an early hour yesterday morning after a long illness aged about sixty-four years. The funeral will take place at two o'clock this afternoon at his late residence, services conducted by Revs. W. G. McCready and G. C. Abbitt. He leaves a wife, formerly Miss Helen Marrin, two daughters, Mrs. S. D Goff and Miss Sara Buckner, and a son B. F. Buckner, Jr. Judge Buckner had long been prominent in business and political life. He represented Clark county in the Legislature and was also Circuit Judge of this district. During the civil war he entered the Federal army and was Major of the 20th Kentucky Infantry. Col., Sanders Bruce commanding it. Charles Hanson, of this city, was its first Lieutenant Colonel and when he resigned to take charge of the 27th Kentucky, T. B. Waller succeeded him. After the war, Maj. Buckner returned to Winchester where he was a prominent member of the local bar. He afterward moved to Louisville, but returned to Winchester about five years ago where he has since resided. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, May 7, 1901
	Resolutions of Respect.

	At a meeting of the Winchester Bar, May 7, 1901, called for the purpose of passing resolutions of respect to the memory of the late Judge Benjamin F. Buckner, Judge James Flanagan was chosen Chairman of said meeting and F. Bush Hodgkin, Secretary. The Chair appointed the following named members of said Bar a Committee to draft resolutions. Capt. Hathaway, J. T. Tucker, L. H. Bush, E. S. Jouett, C. S. French, T. G. Stuart, S. A. Jeffries and thereupon said committee returned the following resolutions, viz. The death of Benjamin Forsythe Buckner takes from our Bar one of its oldest and ablest members. Trained in the law from his early boyhood, education liberally therein in his young manhood, he brought to the profession when he entered it in 1857, a strong and vigorous intellect, a temperament sanguine and aggressive, an earnestness of purpose which compelled success, an energy and industry which never flagged, all supplemented and adorned with the highest and best learning of the schools. His experience at the bar was no weary novitiate. He took his place easily and firmly by the side of such men as Allen, Hanson, and Huston, and they recognized at once a peer. His clientage grew with his years and his services were sought and secured in much of the weighty litigation of central Kentucky. Here he met many of the great lawyers of Kentucky and he was the acknowledged peer of them all. He was after a career of almost unparalleled success called from the bar to the bench. Here, too, he took his place and moved amid its exacting and all important duties with the dignity and the confidence of one joining to his birthright. He was by natural ability and by judicious and systematic training fitted for the position he wore the ermine as he had wielded the weapons of the bar, like one in to the manner born. He gave to his duties after his promotion, the same energy and perseverance, the same conscientious attention to all the issues submitted to his judgements had characterized his work at the bar. Therefore his opinions were peculiarly marked by evidence of patient and laborious research, incisive selection and extensive and liberal learning. He leaves to the bar and the bench, which he adorned a character for spotless integrity, commanding ability and great learning in his chosen profession. He has gone to join the company of his compeers at the high court of God's chancery.
	May the opinion of the Great Judge be "Well done." Till the universal assizes are held, we thy brothers bid thee farewell. Leeland Hathaway, J. t. Tucker, L. H. Bush, E. S. Jouett, C. S. French, T. G. Stuart, S. A. Jeffries, Committee. The Winchester Democrat Friday, May 10, 1901
	A Worthy Tribute The Richmond Climax in commenting on the death of Judge B. F. Buckner, says:"He was one of the ablest and best known lawyers in Kentucky, and the beautiful tribute to the life and character of the deceased, paid by the Winchester Bar, evidenced the esteem in which he was held as a lawyer and as a citizen." Buckner, Daniel T.	DEATH OF D. T. BUCKNER; Perhaps no death has happened in the memory of the present generation has been regarded as a personal loss by so many, as that of Capt. Daniel T. Buckner, which occurred at his residence on South Main street on Monday afternoon. He was attacked in the early part of the previous week with the prevailing influenza, and on Thursday he was compelled to take to his bed; pneumonia with typhoid symptoms followed and his delicate constitution rapidly succumbed. He was about 46 years of age and had lived all his life in Winchester, and as man and boy was known and loved by all its inhabitants, for his kindness of heart, ready wit, and his hatred and contempt for all that was low and mean.
	When the tocsin of war sounded he enlisted under the Federal banner and speedily rose to the command of Company A., of the 20 th infantry, commanded by the gallant Col. Chas. Hanson. He served about three and one-half years before being mustered out. He possessed in a great degree the traits that so endeared his father, Aylett Buckner, to the people, and that secured for him the position of circuit Clerk that he filled so long. Capt. Buckner had filled many positions of honor and trust at the time of his death was Master Commissioner of the Circuit Court and City Clerk. He was also Noble Grand Of Hickman Lodge, No. 72, I. O. O. F., Secretary of Winchester Lodge, No. 20, F. and A. M., and held positions in Justice Lodge Knights of Honor, and the fire Department.

	He was buried in the cemetery yesterday afternoon with the honors of Free Masonry, Hickman Lodge I. O. O. F. and the Fire Department attending in a body, the procession being preceded by Wolf and Trost's band, of Lexington. He leaves a wife, nee, Miss Carrie Garner, a daughter just budding into womanhood, and a bright little son to mourn his loss; to whom The Winchester Democrat in common with a host of friends, tenders its sympathy. 	The death of Capt. J. L. Wheeler brings to mind the fact that death is fast decimating the ranks of the Muckletonian Club, at one time the most prominent hunting and fishing club of the South. It was organized in 1872 with eighteen of the most prominent men of Winchester and vicinity as members. In addition to scores of minor trips they occasionally went on more extensive ones to Florida, Arkansas, the Pacific Slope, etc. These trips were truly days of true pleasure and good fellowship. Not a word of discord ever marred the harmony of their meetings. Col. R. N. Winn was the first President and still fills that position, although the remaining members are so few and scattered that the meetings of late years have been few. The first member die was John J. Eubank, followed in succession by Ben P. Goff, S. Grant Jackson, M. G. Taylor, Jas. D. Gay, David A. Gay, D. T. Buckner, John W. Prewitt, John A. Judy and J. L. Wheeler. The surviving members are R. N. Winn, Leeland Hathaway, J. D. Simpson, A. H. Sympson, and T. F. Phillips, of this city; Geo. R. Snyder and R. J. Snyder, of Louisville and Sam McKee, of Philadelphia. Ten have passed over the dark river while eight await the summons to join their comrades on the other side.

Buckner, Garrett Davis	DiedAt his home in Lexington, May 1 st , of apoplexy, Dr. Garrett Davis Buckner aged 41 years. He was a brother of Capt. D. T. Buckner, and a native of this city. He graduated at Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia and at the time of his death was one of the most prominent physicians of Lexington. Shortly after his graduation he was appointed Assistant Surgeon in the Navy and served on the ironclad Chickasaw under Admiral Porter, and afterward on the Katahdin under Farragut, participating with him in the capture of Mobile. He was one of the most prominent Masons in the State having been Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Ky., Grand High Priest of the Grand Chapter and Past Commander of Webb Commandery No. 3 Knights Templar. At his death he was High Priest of Lexington, Chapter No. 1 Royal Arch Masons; Past Master Lexington Lodge No. 1 and a member of Washington Council No. 1 Royal and Select Masters. He leaves a widow, formerly Miss Mary Martin of this city, and three children. His funeral was held at Lexington yesterday morning under the auspices of the Masonic Grand Lodge of Kentucky, and the remains were interred in the cemetery at this place. Winchester Lodge No. 20 attended in a body together with many friends of the deceased. Judge Morton adjourned Circuit Court in order to attend. We learn that Dr. Buckner had his life insured for $17,000, which together with his other property leaves his family in good circumstances. Buch, Don Carlos
	The Secret Room Was Invaded By Thieves and Robbed.
	Owensboro, Ky., May 25.—When Gen. Don Carlos Buell, the noted union general, died some five years ago in the castle-like mansion that stands at Aldree, on the banks of the Green river, in Muhlenberg county, a provision was left in his will that a certain room in the building should never again be opened under any circumstances.
	Gen. Buell's remains were taken to St. Louis for burial. His nearest kin was a stepdaughter, Miss Nannie Mason, who is now with the sisters of Sacred Hearts of Louisville. For the past five years the mansion with 26 rooms has been constantly guarded by Ramsey Briggs.
	Briggs discovered Saturday that the house had been robbed the night before. Indications were that the sacred rooms had also been broken open and no telling what is missing.
	Briggs called in the neighbors, but none would dare to go into the sacred room to see if everything was all right. A valuable book on the front veranda and the big broken glass in the front down hand down in the state of in the front door showed that the house had been vandalized. Briggs always stays in the rear and hardly ever opens the front of the house. Miss Mason has been sent for and probably will arrive at Aldree Sunday night. It was never known why Gen. Buell ordered that his private room should never be entered after his death.

Buford, Abe	A queerly erratic family were the Bufords, one of whom, Judge Marshall Buford, drowned himself at Lexington last week. Another, Gen. Abe Buford, shot himself some time ago. He was a noted turfman who professed to believe that horses would go to heaven. Another, Tom, shot Judge Elliott, of the Kentucky Court of Appeals, because he decided a case against him. St. Clair Buford went crazy and Henry was almost continually engaged in fistic turmoils. The Winchester Democrat Friday, June 11, 1897

	JUDGE BUFORD. City Solicitor of Lexington, Ky., Commits Suicide by Drowning. LEXINTON, Ky., May 27Judge Harry Marshall Buford ord. Lexington's city solicitor and at one time one of Kentucky's most brilliant young lawyers, committed suicide Tuesday night by drowning himself in a pond at Mat Simpson's country place, wither he had been taken Monday afternoon from the Protestant infirmary for change of scene. He was missed during the night, and search made for him at day break and his body was found, full dressed in shallow water at the edge of the pond. Buford had been mentally and physically depressed for some months as a result of excesses and the death of his mother greatly affected him greatly, as he was the only survivor of the family and he had on several occasions said that he had nothing to live for. He was formerly commons pleas judge. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, May 24, 1897.

Bullock, W. O. Sr.	Lexington Physician Dead Lexington, Ky., May 19 Dr. W. O. Bullock, Sr., of this city, died at his home Monday morning of paralysis, aged 61 years. Deceased was a confederate soldier and had a conspicuous career in the service. The Winchester Democrat Fri., May 22, 1903
Bullock, William F.	In the necrology of the year 1889, there will be no name so worthy of honor as that of William F. Bullock, who died last Friday at the home of his son in Shelby county. He was 82 years of age on the 16 th day of last January, and had lived, as should a man who realizes how brief is life and the solemn responsibility of preparing for eternity. He was in truth a gentleman of the old school, and had been faithful, upright and true in all the relations of life. He prepared, introduced, and secured the passage through the legislature of the first common school law enacted in Kentucky, and was the earnest, intelligent friend of the system until his death. He originated the School for the Blind, established by the State at Louisville, and was the only president of its Board of Trustees. More than any one else, he was instrumental in securing the American Printing Home for the Blind, which is sustained at the same place by congressional appropriations.
	Although himself never pinched by poverty, he was always in sympathy with the poor and distressed. Notwithstanding the fact that he was small in stature and insignificant in appearance, none ever came in contact with him who did not realize that they were in the presence of a man. For years Circuit Judge of the most important district in the State, he was the beau ideal of a judicial officer. Learned, courteous, patient, and prompt to decide he administered justice without fear and without reproach. For years, he was professor in the Louisville Law School, and was a most instructive, interesting teacher. But how insignificant does his career as a lawyer, judge, legislator and professor appear when compared with what he did as a philanthropist? It is for this that he will be remembered when more dazzling crowns struggled for by his contemporaries who despised his ambition, will have faded into oblivion. He not only loved his fellow man but he always kept in mind his obligations to his God. We would rather have his record than that of any prince or potentate that this world has ever seen. Dear, gentle, noble soul! We shall never forget his fervent blessings when we parted from him at our last interview, feeling then, as did he, that we would in all human probability never meet again on the shores of time. His

Bulluck, Mrs. Rose Watts Bulter, John Henry I	birthday ought to be made a children's day in our public schools. It would elevate and ennoble the little ones to study his life and character, and to keep in mind the example of one so pure and unselfish as William F. Bullock. Buildy, values	In Manchester, Clay County, Ky.—Two Men Killed in a Fight Barbourville, Ky., Jan. 13.—Reliable news reaches here of another bloody tragedy in Manchester, Clay county, on last Monday, in which Bob Philpot and James Bundy were killed. The fight was the result of the killing which occurred there on Christmas day when Philpot's brother and Bundy's brother were killed. A great deal of feeling exists between the Bundy's and Philpot's over the last election, which is ripening into another mountain feud and more trouble is looked for as the Philpot and the Bundy families are the largest in Clay county. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, January 18, 1898

Bundy, William Bundy, Wm.	The Winchester Sun Mon., 1-2-1939 Terrible Feud Outbreak.
Bundy, Will.	Five Men Reported Killed in Clay county Ky.—War Between the Philpot and Morris Factions.
	Louisville, Ky., July 18.—A special from London, Ky., tells of a report reaching here of the outbreak of another feud in Clay county by which five men lost their lives Monday.
	The dead are said to be: Robert Philpot, Ed Fisher, Aaron Morris, Jim Griffin and Hugh Griffin.
	These fatalities resulted from a pitched battle fought near Little Goose creek, three miles of Manchester.
	The feud dates back nearly two years. On Christmas, 1897, James Philpot was killed by Aaron Morris, but before he died he shot and killed Wm. Bundy, a friend of Morris. The Morris and Griffins were closely affiliated. Since then the feuding between the two factions has been very bitter, and it has been aroused recently by the White-Baker hostilities.
	The Philpots, who are the strongest faction in the mountain numbering about 750 voters, openly espoused the cause of the Bakers, White, the Griffins took sides with the Whites. The story that reaches here from Manchester is to the effect that Bob Philpot was arrested Monday morning by Deputy Sheriff Wash Thacker. While very circumstantial, in other respects the report does not show clearly the origin of the trouble nor give the reason for Philpot's arrest. It is said that while Thacker was taking Philpot's bond, the latter was shot from behind by a member of a crowd that had gathered. This precipitated a general fight with Winchesters and revolvers, which was participated in by George, Granville, Robert and Peter Philpot and Ed Fisher on one side and Aaron Morris, Hugh, Jim and Green Griffin on the other.
	The battle began about 9 o'clock and raged fiercely for ten or fifteen minutes. When it was over it was found that the five men mentioned above had been killed outright, three of the belligerents were seriously wounded, while Pete Philpot was the only one on either side to escape injury. Granville Philpot is said to be one of the most seriously wounded. He is a union veteran having lost a leg at Stone river. He is an ex-member of the Kentucky legislature and is said to have killed three or four men. Ed Fisher, who is reported dead, was another man with several nicks in his cane. He was but 23 years old but was said to have killed three men. The story of this battle caused consternation here notwithstanding the fact that serious trouble has been expected to break out among the mountaineers of Clay county ever since the assassination of Tom Baker several weeks ago. An effort was at once begun to secure deputies to go to the seat of the trouble and attempt to restore quiet, but up to a late hour in the afternoon there had not been enough responses to make up a force that would command respect. The situation at Manchester is deplorable. Since morning the place has been in a state of terror, scarcely anyone daring to venture out of doors. Business is suspended and the residents are momentarily expecting a renewal of hostilities. The entire county of Clay is filled with men mounted and armed. Other battles may occur at any moment. A relative of the Philpots has just left here to join his family and swears vengeance.
	London Depot, Ky., July 18.—Clay county has another killing for its annals. Dick Lovens' body has been found three miles from Manchester. He was beaten to death in the night. When found his head was severed from his body and had been beaten to a pulp. A 45-calibre revolver was found on the body. Having killed three men and injured several, he was probably killed by the friends of one of his victims. He leaves a widow and eight children.

	An attempt has been made to kill Will Gray, near Manchester, Clay county. After three shots had passed through his clothes, one of them scraping his body, he escaped by running through a forest. Gray is one of the Baker's friends.

	The Big Trestle on the L. & N. Near Town
	Nineteen Freight Cars Drop Sixty-Five Feet Crushing Out Two Lives in Their Fall.
	Warren Burch, of this City, One of the Killed.
	Trestle Was in a Dangerous Condition.
	Train Men Make a Miraculous Escape.
	Details of the Horrible Affair.
	One of the greatest railroad accidents that has happened in this part of the State for a long time occurred Saturday afternoon a short distance South of this city on the Kentucky Central road. At that point a big double wooden trestle about 300 feet long and sixty-five feet high spans a deep ravine. The timbers had decayed badly and a force of bridge germanters under the supervision of Oliver Green were engaged in repairing of bridge carpenters under the supervision of Oliver Green were engaged in repairing the trestle. Thirty or forty feet of the Northern end had been repaired and the men were at work on the bridge when a North bound freight train came along. It consisted of an engine, twenty-one cars and a caboose and was in charge of Conductor Sorrell.
	Apprehending no danger, the men at work on the bridge did not get out of the way as the train passed over, but continued their work. The engine and a couple of cars passed over in safety, when a cracking noise was heard and nearly the whole structure went down with a crash. Hearing the noise, the engineer looked back and saw the cars falling: he at once applied all the steam which alone prevented the engine, tender and two cars attached from being drawn back into the wreck. Several cars had not reached the trestle attached from being grawn back into the wicek. Several cars flat hot reached the freshe when the structure fell, but their momentum carried them over the embankment and into the wreck. The caboose left the track and turned over but did not fall into the ravine. The news spread rapidly and in a very short space of time hundreds of people were there and an examination began to find out the loss of life and those injured. Upon investigation it was found that James Harris and Warren Burch, both members of the construction corps, were missing and a search for their bodies was begun. The body of Harris was found in a few moments and was soon recovered. His leg, shoulder, nose and hip were broken and death was evidently instantaneous. Burch was soon found but car after car of lumber and coal was piled over him in such a manner as to make it dangerous to work where he lay, and it was far in the night before his body was extricated: his hand, foot, arm and neck were broken and his chest crushed.

Will Durbin of Richmond, was knocked down more than once by the falling timbers but escaped with a cut on his head. Hub. Ecton ran through a wire fence in escaping and was slightly cut. None of the train hands were hurt.

The bodies of Harris and Burch were brought to Winn's undertaking establishment and prepared for burial. Harris was a young man not much beyond his majority and came from Sumpter county, South Carolina, to which place he was intending to return in a short time. His body was embalmed and sent home for burial. He was unmarried. Warren Burch was a native of this county, a son of Will Burch and was about twenty-eight years of aged. He was quite popular with all who knew him, and great sympathy is expressed for his wife and little child, thus so suddenly bereft of support. He was buried yesterday at Dillard Ecton's, funeral services being held by Eld. J. W. Harding. Thousands of persons came Saturday and Sunday to view the wreck, which was appalling. Great timbers were smashed and broken as if they were straws and car loads of lumber and coal were piled together in inextricable confusions.

Of course all freight traffic was suspended but passengers and baggage were transferred and passenger trains ran as usual. The railroad company at once put a large force of men to work to clear away the wreck and rebuild the trestle. They worked all day and night and traffic will be resumed to-day or to-morrow. The damage will amount to many thousands of dollars, to say nothing of probable suits for damages on account of the death of the two men.

Coroner Lewis viewed the remains and impaneled the following jury: Jas. H. Boone, J. M. Locknane, S. I. Walden, E. G. Baxter, Chas. A. Sullivan, R. L. Sutherland and the inquest will be held this morning. As Mr. Locknane is closely related to one of the dead men, some one else will probably serve in his stead.

This section of the road has been the scene of a number of fatalities. The negro, Bob Haggard, was hung by lynchers to the bridge on this side; Maj. John Brink was struck by a train and killed near this place a few months ago; John O'Banion was shot and killed near the scene of the wreck and although the act was committed in broad daylight and in sight and hearing of a dozen people, neither the perpetrator or the motive was ever found out. While the road was being built, a work hand was blown to pieces by dynamite near the same place. A short distance on the other side an unknown tramp, who was stealing a ride, fell from the car and was cut in two by the wheels. An unknown man was killed while asleep on the track near the same place. Other accidents which did not prove fatal, have also occurred here. James W. Reed fell or was thrown from the train while passing over this trestle and was crippled for life. Mart. Ragland was struck by the cars and badly hurt, and Andy Murray, a section hand, was struck in the same manner and had a number of ribs broken.

Coroner's Inquest

Coroner Lewis summoned a jury last Saturday in the cases of Warren Burch and Zim T. Harris, the two men who were killed by the falling trestle that afternoon. As the witnesses were quite busy clearing away the wreck, he adjourned the inquest until Wednesday afternoon, when he made a full and careful inquiry into the matter. J. M. Locknane, who was an uncle by marriage of Burch, declined to serve, and James Oliver was put on the jury in his place. After full consideration the jury brought in the following verdict in regard to Burch and a similar one as to Harris:

We, the jury, find from the evidence the body before us to be that of Warren Burch, aged about 28 years, and that his life was crushed out by the falling of timbers, or giving away of the first trestle South of Winchester on the L. and N. R. R. on the evening of November 27, 1897. We further find from the evidence that said trestle was very much decayed and unsafe.

Capt. Thomas Reviews the L. and N. Disaster

On Saturday P. M., November 27th, the high, long trestle on the K. C. Division of the L. and N. Railway, one and a half miles South of Winchester, gave way, precipitating some twenty-one cars into the abyss and killing two men who were working on the trestle, by a miracle the train men escaping. The timbers were rotten and the trestle known to be unsafe for years past. For four or five years past trains have had "slow up" orders at this place as we are informed, and know by the trains slowing up. But "slow up" won't do for timbers many of which were as rotten as an old stump. I will not say that the blame attaches to subordinate officers of this road, but rather think to the policy of its management. Some one should be responsible for this criminal negligence. A common humanity cries out: We cannot bring the poor dead men back to life, but something must needs to be done to protect both the public and operatives of our roads. The appointment of a first class State Engineer and Inspector, responsible to, and reporting to our chief executive to inspect the rolling stock, bridges and roadways of the roads of the State might answer. We have two Insurance Commissioners to protect us from wildcat insurance. Our lives are of greater importance. We can not depend on great corporations, whose managers are most ambitious to earn dividends for foreign bondholders to keep their branch lines in safe condition; they should be made to do so or forfeit their charters. When the State grants privileges it has a right of surveillance. No sort of institution connects itself more closely with the lives and interests of the people than our railroads; no institutions can be made of greater benefit, or on the other hand instruments of greater oppression than they. The fight of life times is one of the people against corporate greed. While fairness should be shown invested capital, the rights of the people should be jealously guarded, and if perchance the bondholder does not get his dividend, the roads should be put in order and made safe. This is not only right but it is the best policy for the roads themselves. A property not kept up can not be expected to pay regular dividends to its ownership. It might this year or next, but the crash soles as this neglected trestle and greatest expense is involved. The good housewife, the good farmer knows and the railroad men ought to know and practice the old adage, "A stitch in time saves nine." Whether or not the railroads be inclined (some of them are) to keep up their property, the public is so much interested that they should be made to feel that their first and highest obligation is to the State and people by whom they are supported. J. M. Thomas Circuit Court Promises To Be A Busy Term Perhaps the most important is the suit filed by M. T. McEldowney, administrator of Owen Burch, against the L. and N. Railroad. Several weeks ago, it will be remembered, a freight train crashed through a trestle on the L. and N. road a short distance South of this city, about twenty cars loaded with coal and lumber being precipitated into the ravine below. A gang of bridge carpenters under command of Oliver Green, were at work repairing the bridge and two of them, Owen Burch, of this city, and Mr. Harris, of South Carolina, were instantly killed. In the petition filed, it is alleged that the timbers of the trestle were rotten and defective and that Burch's death was due to negligence on the part of the railroad and thirty thousand dollars damages is asked. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, February 8, 1898

Circuit Court The case in which most interest centered, was that against the L. & N. railroad on account of the death of Owen Burch who was killed last fall in a wreck near this city. Judge Scott granted a change of venue to Madison county. The railroad wanted it sent to Bourbon or Fayette county. The Winchester Democrat Friday, March 4, 1898

Forty years ago He began suit and was awaiting the result when death came Louisville, Ky., - William T. Burch, a well-known local attorney, died of septic poisoning. Mr. Burch was a native of Meade county and was originally a railroad contractor. He was a sub-contractor under a Mr. Hooper on the Chesapeake & Ohio, now the Illinois Central. Hooper failed, owing Burch $6,000. The latter instituted suit, but never allowed it to come to judgement until recently, when he learned that Hooper, who had gone to Colorado and amassed a fortune, was amply able to meet his indebtedness. Decision was to have been handed down last Saturday, but was unexpectedly withheld. Mr. Burch expected judgement for the original sum, $6,000, with interest for 40 years. Burdine, Robert Dalton	IN A FIGHT WITH NEGROS.
,	A White Man Was Killed and another Seriously Wounded.
	Louisville, Ky., Oct. 6Robert Dalton Burdine, a well-known young man was murdered, and W. D. Hays, his cousin, probably fatally hurt in a fight with Negroes on Sunday afternoon. The two young men who are members of theclub, left for a boat ride accompanied by fellow club members, and as they were passing Towhead island were attacked by several negroes, who threw lumps of coal into the boat. The boat tied up and its occupants started after the negroes, chasing them into a yard where Will Fletcher, colored, seized an ax and striking Burdine over the head, killed him instantly. Hays attempted to secure the ax from the negro, but was assaulted from behind and badly injured. The police arrested four Negroes, including Fletcher, although fully 20 were concerned in the assault.

Burkhart, Teague Another Feud Victim Little Girl Shot And Fatally Wounded In The Burkhart and Caldwell Conflict Pineville, Ky., June 1 Another outbreak between the Burkharts and Caldwells occurred when Teague Burkhart, a cousin of Wils Burkhart, who was killed by Blanton a few days ago, went to the home of King Caldwell and fired into his building. One ball struck Caldwell's 9- year-old daughter in the shoulder, inflicting a wound from which she will die. Blanton has not been captured, and it is believed he is being concealed at the home of the Caldwells, who are relatives of the Blantons. These families once waged a feud and fought desperately. It was in this feud that Washington Caldwell was killed. The Winchester Democrat Tue., June 5, 1900 Burkhart, Wilbert J. Burner, John	himself on the community that all watched his last illness with deepest concern, and his death was received with universal regret by our people. It may be asked what was the secret of the hold that he had on those with whom he had mingled so casually and with such light contact during the latter years of his life? It was undoubtedly his character which was so luminous and clear that it shed a luster wherever he went and made an impression which none, who had occasion to know it, could forget. He was always honest and true and faithful, and had men's confidence and respect because in whatever he said or did, he showed himself so absolutely worthy and straightforward. He did not sit about the streets and complain about hard times or whine that there is no longer a chance for a young man to get anything to do. He prepared himself as best he could, and went earnestly to work to get employment and when he secured it, was diligent to show that he was worthy of the vocation to which he had been called. During the seven years that he labored in the office of Beckner & Jouett as their stenographer, there was never a moment in which he did not have their unreserved confidence and respect, nor was there ever the slightest cause for them to complain of anything that he did. They can think of no instance in which he told them what they did not believe to be sincere and true and can recall no act of his which was in the slightest degree shady or uncertain, nor did he ever utter a word in the office which would have brought a blush to the cheek of the purest and most refined lady. He was ambitious to improve himself, and had risen to the front rank of his calling. He had married happily, and out of his earnings built himself a home where peace and happiness reigned supreme. He was as faithful in the church and in the lodge as he was in the other relations of life, and when the last moment came met death with a firmness and courage born of a supreme and undoubting conviction that he was entering upon his heavenly inheritance.

Burrows, Rube	Rube Burrows, the famous outlaw and train robber who has been a terror in Alabama, was tracked by blood hounds and captured by two white men, Carter and McDuffie and a negro. He was handcuffed and his feet tied and placed in Linden jail where he was guarded by McDuffie and the negro. Carter took the money in the outlaws possessions and went to the hotel. During the night Burrows complained of being hungry and asked for his saddle bags, which he said had some crackers in them. They were given to him and he thrust his manacled hands into them and brought out two pistols with which he at once covered the two guards. He forced the men to untie him and locking McDuffie in the jail, he forced the negro to show him the way to Carter's room, declaring his intentions of recovering his money. He got the drop on Carter, but the latter sprang to one side as Burrows fired, receiving the ball in the shoulder. At the same time Carter fired, his bullet entering the bowels of the outlaw, who fell dead. Carter is badly hurt but will recover.

Mullins and Skinner Kerr testified as witnesses. After due deliberation the jury returned a verdict that the body was that of Frank Burton, aged fifty-three years; that he came to his death from a wound inflicted at the hands of Willie Ragland and that it was done in self defense. The testimony showed that after he was cut, Ragland threw a rock which struck Burton on the side of the head, producing a slight indentation in the skull. The wound was thought to be a slight one and when brought to jail he protested that his head did not hurt him, and he only complained of a slight cut in his leg. Shortly after being placed in jail he went to sleep, and when Jailer Mullins examined him twice, he still seemed asleep, and it was thought that he was merely sleeping off the effects of his drunk. He told the jailer he did not want a physician. Willie Ragland, the boy who was cut, was at first thought to be fatally hurt, and had lost so much blood that it was not thought safe to bring him home from the residence of Dr. Richard Allen, where he was taken at first. He is now much better, however, and has been taken home, and it is thought will soon recover. Burton, Jeff	The Killing of Jeff Burton.
	His Slayer Removed From Madison to Henderson For Safe Keeping. Madisonville, Ky., July 6.—In a difficulty at Earlington, Marshall J. B. Lindel shot and instantly killed Jeff Burton. The report says that Lindel had arrested Burton on a charge of drunkenness and had him in a buggy carrying him to the station house, when Burton jumped from the buggy. Lindel ordered him to halt, which command he did not heed and Lindel drew his pistol and shot him as he ran. The ball entered his back, passing through his stomach. Lindel has a pretty widely known history.
	Madisonville, Ky., July 6.—Great excitement has been aroused in this section over the killing of Jeff Burton, a young man, at the big barbecue at Earlington, Ky., Saturday afternoon, by Marshal J. B. Lindel, who was brought to this city and placed in jail late Saturday afternoon.
	Until about 9 o'clock Saturday night the streets of this city were crowded with mad white men, who were commenting and condemning the affair, when all of a sudden the streets were deserted and the town appeared desolate. This caused the officers to suspect that something was going to be done by the outsiders, and he hurriedly took him from jail here and shipped him out in a buggy to Hanson, Ky., where he was put on the midnight train and carried to the jail in Henderson for safe-keeping. Perhaps had he been left here Saturday night a lynching would have occurred before Sunday evening, and that he is now considered safe at Henderson, as he may be reached by the mob there, and he may be moved from that place. The Winchester Democrat Friday, July 10, 1903

Durham was captured and confessed and taken to Long Branch, in order to escape a mob forming here to lynch him. Durham was sent from Long Branch to Louisville. Early Monday morning the body of Mrs. Burton was found in the woods near Waldon. She had been dead 12 hours. Her head had been beaten in with a club. An examination showed the full extent of the assailant's crime and there was evidence of a horrible struggle. Sheriff Rhodes and Deputy Hagan at once made an investigation, but found no clue. Suspicion did not point to Durham. He was in the crowd in town, seemingly aiding in the hunt for the murderer. Sheriff Rhodes suspicions finally became aroused. He watched Durham. He noticed blood splotches on his arms and clothing. He at once put him under arrest and soon got a confession from him. Durham said he had killed the woman with a club and assaulted her. News of the arrest and confession spread like wildfire. The town was soon filled with angry people, and threats of lynching were openly made. Sheriff Rhodes took the man under heavy guard to Long Branch and took the train for Louisville. Durham had recently left an insane asylum. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, August 14, 1900

Bush, Allen	Friday, Allen Bush, of Louisville, was shot by a man named Lee and died from the effects of the wound a few days later. The trouble arose in a saloon and Bush shot Lee and another man but neither wound was dangerous. He was the son of Ambrose Bush formerly of this county. His mother was Miss Flynn, also of this county. Bush has many relatives here and was regarded as a dangerous man when drinking. He had killed one or two men. The Winchester Democrat Friday August 23, 1895
	At Louisville Saturday, John Lee was brought out for trial for the killing of Allen Bush some time ago, the trial was postponed until January. Lee has already served two terms in the penitentiary and will be tried for murder and if he should get a penitentiary sentence it will be for life under the habitual criminal act. It is a question with the court whether he can be tried under this act and for the murder at the same time. Bush, the murdered man, was formerly from this county where he has many relations. The Winchester Democrat Friday, November 29, 1895
	Two years in the pen At Louisville Tuesday, John Lee was found guilty of manslaughter and was sentenced to the penitentiary for two years for killing Allen Bush. The facts brought out were that Bush, Lee and others had been drinking and that Bush had knocked Lee down and had shot at him. While lying down Lee shot and killed his assailant. This happened about a year ago. Bush was a native of this county and has numerous relatives here. This makes the fifth time Lee has been sent to the penitentiary. Bush, Ambrose Gholson	Death of A. G. Bush. Ambrose Gholson Bush died at his house near Providence Church on the Boonesboro pike Tuesday night of softening of the brain, aged eighty years. The funeral was preached at the residence yesterday morning by Revs. J. S. Wilson, of Carrolton, and B. B. Bailey, of this city, and the remains were buried in the family graveyard. He was thrice married. His first wife was Miss Kittie Hampton, of this city; his second wife was Miss Patsey Hampton, a sister of the first wife; his third wife was Miss Fannie Shields, of Jessamine county, the latter died about six years ago. He leaves three sons and two daughters, Christopher G. Bush, Oliver E. Bush and T. Shields Bush, Mrs. S. H. Rutledge and Miss Glorinda Bush, all of this county. Of a large family, one brother alone survives, Porter Bush, of Missouri. The deceased was one of our very best citizens, and a Christian gentleman of the old school. For more than half a century he had been clerk of Providence Baptist Church. The Winchester Democrat Friday, July 24, 1903
	Wills Probated.
	The wills of A. G. Bush, Ed. P. Bean and Mrs. Elizabeth Hedges were probated Monday. The will of Mr. Bush recites that his two younger children, Shields and Miss Glorenna Bush, own what is known as Powers place, which they inherited from their mother and therefore he leaves about one hundred and fifty acres to his children by a former wife, Christie G. and Oliver E. Bush and Mrs. Pattie Rutledge in equal shares except that Christie is charged with $300 advancements and his part is left in trust for his children with O. E. Bush as trustee. The will of E. P. Bean is a very long and complicated one. He leaves his wife, Mrs. Jennie C. Bean, the family residence, furniture, etc. also ten shares of Clark County Bank stock. Bush, Carrie	A dispatch from Richmond Friday says last night six young ladies went to a resort known as Flinton, on Kentucky river, on a picnicking excursion. They employed a boat to go riding and started up the stream. Before going far the boat began rocking, and the girls being frightened, were thrown out. Their cries were heard by Jack Sewell, who was a half mile away, and he came to the scene. He first rescued one, and returned and swam ashore with two. Then he succeeded in saving two more. He made an effort to save the sixth, Miss Carrie Bush, but she sank before he could reach her. He dived and recovered the body. Sewell will be presented with a medal by admiring friends for his gallantry and bravery. He is a young farmer and lives near Waco. Eld. J. W. Harding, of this city, preached the funeral at the family residence. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday June 19, 1894

Bush, George W.		AN OLD PIONEER GONE-DiedOn the 7th of January inst., Mr. George W. Bush, aged 83 years. He was born on Howards Upper Creek, in Clark County, Ky., September 1779. He has been an active man of business during the greater part of his life. He had a liberal education, and in his youth attended with the celebrated Guthrie, who was the author of the Guthrie Arithmetic. The deceased was a thorough mathematician of his day and time, being a practical surveyor, and having followed that occupation for several years. In his early years he followed school teaching, and distinguished himself among the pedagogues of the country. Later he built the noted mills at the mouth of Woodwards Creek, on Red River, now Vienna, and there he managed the business of the mills, store and blacksmith shop with his partner for several years. After disposing of that property he purchased the lands known as the Marshy Bottom, where he lived until his death, and after he sold his mill property he was employed by Hezekiah Oldham, the Madison stock trader, to do business for him in the south, which he did with success. Whilst thus occupied he became acquainted with Miss Eliza Crankfield, an amiable lady, whom he married, and who survives him. Mr. Bush has four living children and five dead. Later in his life he was employed by the Red River Iron Company, whom he served with satisfaction for many years. Mr. Bush was a good and just man, dealing fairly with every man of whom he had dealings. Has been a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church South for many years and was a pious, good man. His church has lost one of its ornaments, and his neighbors a valuable friend. In the early part of his life he was a military man, holding a commission in the militia from Captain to Colonel of a regiment. He also was a member of the Masonic Fraternity, having been initiated in 1826 at the Winchester Lodge No. 20, and at his death was a member of Right Angle Lodge No. 283, which buried him with the rites and ceremonies of the order, on the 8th of January, 188

	James Asa Bush died in St. Joseph's hospital at Lexington Dec. 14th. The funeral services at the Presbyterian church and the burial in the Winchester cemetary by the Elks took place on the 16th. The fatal disease was appendicitis. The first symptoms appeared on Sunday night. An operation was performed on Tuesday and he died Thursday. Mr. Bush was the son of the late James Thomas Bush. His mother, who was Miss Sue Bean, survives, also two sisters, Misses Mary and Eliza Bush. Mr. Bush to all appearances was a perfect type of physical manhood; he was the model of sobriety and industry. His devotion to his mother and sisters was a subject of general remark. Though he was only 27 years of age he had recently been a director of the Clark County National Bank. No death in many years has caused more sorrow in this community. At a called meeting of the Board of Directors of The Clark County National Bank held in its offices Dec. 16th, 1905, the following resolutions were passed in regard to the death of their friend and fellow-director James Asa Bush. Resolved 1. That it is but a just tribute to the memory of the departed to say that in regretting his removal from our midst, we mourn for one who was in every way worthy of our respect and confidence, and the rememberance of the still heavier loss sustained by his family who were nearer and dearer, adds to our grief. Resolved 2. That we sincerely condole with the mother and sisters of the deceased on the dispensation with which it has pleased Divine Providence to afflict them. Resolved 3. That the heartfelt sympathy of this entire Board is extended to the family in their great sorrow. Resolved 4. That these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the bank, and a copy be sent to the family of our deceased fellow-member and also to the papers of the City. B.F. Curtis – Sec of Board T.C. Bush, John AA	John Bush, the negro who murdered the little daughter of James VanMeter, now of this county, was again tried, at Lexington, last week and sentenced to be hung. He has had two trials heretofore, once the jury hung, and the other time he was found guilty and condemned to death. The Court of Appeals gave him a new trial, which has resulted in a death verdict. It was a fearful case of murder, and we have never yet heard a suggestion that could in any way excuse the crime. Thirty-six jurors have heard the evidence and thirty-five have voted for the death penalty. The other who hesitated about hanging because of a repugnance to capital punishment, was for imprisonment for life. He richly merits his fate, and as much as we shrink from the taking of human life, the sooner that monsters who shoot little girls are out of the way, the better it will be for the world and humanity. Bush is to be hung June 24 th . The Clark County Democrat, Wednesday, May 25, 1881.

Bush, Mary Emma	Miss Mary Emma Bush After an illness of several months dies at her home in this city early Friday morning Miss Mary Emma Bush, beloved daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Christie G. Bush, died at an early hour Friday morning after an illness extending over a period of several months, aged eighteen years. The death of this sweet young girl is extremely sad and falls with bewildering force upon family and friends. She had a lovable disposition, possessed an exceptionally bright mind having graduated only a years ago from our city schools and, being ambitious in further pursuit of knowledge, was taking a course in the Normal School at Richmond when her health failed. She was always studious and was extremely popular with both teachers and pupils. Thus the cherished anticipations of family and friends for a brilliant career for this bright girl were rudely severed by the unpitying hand of Death. Funeral services were held at the family residence on South Main Street Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock by Rev. Richard French, Messrs. Jeff Q. Stewart, Archie Hammonds, George Curry, James Elkin, Levi Thompson and Frank Ford acting as pall bearers, and the interment was in the Winchester cemetery where, in the bright sunshine among the flowers, with the birds chanting a solemn requiem the mortal remains of this lovely young girl were laid, but her soul is in her heavenly home awaiting a reunion with those on earth by whom she was so dearly loved and to whom the sympathy and condolence of all is extended. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, June 2, 1909
	A tribute To the memory of Mary Emma Bush who died Friday It seems but yesterday the dear classmate moved in our midst, a very sunbeam of joy and delight. Young and fair, in the sinless bloom of womanhood, while "life's morning sunlight was upon the hills and its dew on the flowers," quietly and softly she passes away. Gentle and modest, steadfast in her devotion to what was right, faithful in the performance of her duties at home and at school – and loyal to her church, she every where won the love and esteem of all who knew her. A number of floral tributes covered the casket and the grave, among them a beautiful design sent by graduates of the Class of 1908 of which she was a bright member. Her death, a sad bereavement to her friends – her parents, her brothers and sisters, was yet, the going home of a child of God. May they be comforted. 	Dunaways, and was a true Christian woman. During her illness, which slowly but surely ushered her into the dark valley of death, she did not murmur. As a friend, she was social, genial and true; as a wife, good and affectionate; as a mother, devoted and loving. No wonder then the once happy home is desolate and the devoted husband almost heartbroken. Funeral services were held on the following day at Dunaway's by

He is about 22 years old and formerly worked in Clark county. She was shot with his pistol, but he claims to know nothing of how it was done, but would leave the impression that it was suicide as he said she had threatened to take her life. When Mr. Moore, at whose house the deed was done, entered the room, he found her dead with her little babe lying on her arm and the pistol near her hand. She was a right handed and was shot on the left side of the head. Bush will almost certainly be hung. The Winchester Democrat Wednesday July 9,1890.
	Powell Circuit Court adjourned last week, and but little progress was made in its big murder docket. Wm. Smith was convicted of the murder of Andrew Gibbs last August, and was sentenced to be hung May 12 th . This is the first sentence ever passed in the county. The cases of Jas. Hall and Goodloe Combs who were under $10,000 bonds each, for complicity in the murder of Rose; of Simpson Bush for the murder of his wife; of Thos. Baker for the murder of Spencer; and other cases went over to the next term. The Winchester Democrat Friday, March 27,1891
	THE Circuit Court at Stanton this week was a busy one. Simpson Bush was sentenced to be hung for the atrocious murder of his wife at Clay City. Col. J. T. Tucker defended him and made the best fight possible, but the evidence was conclusive. The Winchester Democrat Wednesday, September 30, 1891.
	THE Court of Appeals Saturday affirmed the decision of the Powell Circuit Court by which Simpson Bush was condemned to be hung for the murder of this wife at Clay City. Col. Tucker defended him and did all in his power to save his neck. The Winchester Democrat Wednesday, October 28, 1891.
	CITY, COUNTY, and STATE IT is said that Simpson Bush, who was convicted of the murder of his wife at Clay City and who is to be hung February 5 th , has confessed that he killed his wife, but says he did it accidentally. The Winchester Democrat Wednesday, December 9, 1891.
	A DISPATCH from Stanton of Friday says: "About midnight last night the Jailer was aroused by a noise in the jail. He found Simpson Bush, convicted of wife murder, to be hung here February 5, and Thomas Baker, sentenced to serve a life sentence for the killing of William Hatton, doing their best to break jail. They had succeeded in breaking a piece off of the iron cage. There were two other prisoners in the same cage, Elisha Morris and William Smith, the latter charged with the murder of Andrew Biggs, once sentences to hang, but judgement was reversed by the Court of Appeals. Smith did not attempt or assist in any way to gain his liberty. The jail is new and substantial and could not have been forced open with a crow-bar, although, Bush and Baker had a seasoned piece of wood and a piece of chain to work with. The Winchester Democrat Wednesday, December 9, 1891.
	Gov. Brown has issued the death warrant for Simpson Bush, of Clay City. The date for his execution is fixed for Tuesday, February 5 th , and the Sheriff of Powell county is directed to execute it on that day. The Court of Appeals acted very promptly in this case. Bush was convicted in September and December, 18 th was fixed for his execution. For the first time in years the case was decided before the day fixed for execution. The Winchester Democrat Wednesday, December 16, 1891.
	WILLIAM HOCKENHIMER, who for some time has been confined in the Stanton jail for the murder of Grant Phillips, has given bond. While in jail he had a desperate fight with Simpson Bush, who will be hung Friday for the murder of his wife. The Winchester Democrat Wednesday, February 3, 1892.
	Three Murderers Hung THREE murderers paid the penalty of their crimes Friday by being hung. One of them was Robert Charlton, colored, of Henderson, who was hung for the murder of his mistress, Minnie Hoskins. With the others, Wm. Puckett, of Irvine, and Simpson Bush, of Clay City, our readers are more familiar. Bush made a speech saying he was innocent of the crime he was hung for, but that he had been a bad man and guilty of many minor crimes. Some weeks ago, he confessed to the killing of his wife, but on the scaffold said it was done by Alfred Frazier who slept in the same room. He said Frazier had hired him to burn the barn of Capt. Simms, near Chilesburg. The crime for which he was hung was the murder of his wife at Clay City in June 1890. At an early hour the inmates of the house were around by a pistol shot and found Bush crying by the bedside of his wife who was dead with a bullet in her brain and her four-months old babe on her arm and the pistol at the foot of the bed. Bush at first said it was suicide, but as it was plainly his work the Sheriff was forced to hurry him off to Mount Sterling to prevent his being lynching. He confessed at one time that he killer her, but said it was accidental and afterward denied it. He showed little regard for preparation for death and evidently died with a lie on his lips. A gentleman who saw Puckett hung at Irvine ways a drunken howling mob of several thousand were present to witness the spectacle. In November, 1890 Puckett and his two sons, Tobe and Ambrose, beat Henry Hall to death with clubs in a quarrel over a picket knife. They fled to Indiana where the officers found them in the woods on the verge of starvation and clothed in rags. The two boys were sent to the penitentiary for life where they now are. The old man was sentenced to death and strenuous efforts were made to secure a pardon or commutation of sentence, but Governor Brown refused to interfere. Puckett joined the Methodist church last week and was baptized while in the Richmond jail. This is the third hanging in Estill county. In 1857 Ned Hawkins was hung for the murder of Jas. Land and Jesse Arvin, and in 1862 a negro named Joe Stone was hung for an attempt to rape. The gallows on which those two were hung consist of a locust post with an arm from the top and is still standing. The Winchester Democrat Wednesday, February 10, 1892.

Bush, Mrs. T. J.	Petrified Body. Samuel Locknane recently sold his farm to a Madison county woman and one of the terms of the trade was that Mr. Locknane should remove the bodies of several members of the family who had been buried in the yard. In consequence the bodies of Jas. T. Locknane and wife, Mrs. T. J. Bush and others were taken up and reinterred in the cemetery. The body of Mrs. Bush had been buried more than a third of a century but was remarkably well preserved and in the opinion of many, was petrified. Bush, Mrs. William Rogers	William Bush, who lived at Clay City killed his wife early Monday morning by shooting her in the head as she lay in bed with her infant in her arms. No cause assigned. Bush came to Clay City a short time ago from Lee county. His wife was a Miss Rogers and formerly lived near Athens. The Winchester Democrat Wed. 6-25-1890
	Circuit Court is in session at Stanton this week, Judge Lilly presiding. Among the cases to be tried are two murder cases that have attracted much attention. The first is the trial of Jake Bush for the murder of his young wife, who was a Miss Rogers, from near Athens. the couple occupied upper rooms at Clay City, and early one morning last spring the occupants of the lower parts of the house heard a pistol shot and on rushing up stairs, Mrs. Bush was found with a bullet in her brain and her infant son in her arms.

	Her husband tried to make it appear that she had taken her life with her own hands and a pistol was found on the bed, but the nature of the wound showed that he fired the fatal shot. He was arrested at once and a determined effort made to lynch him, but he was hustled off to jail at Stanton before the lynching was effected. Jealousy was probably the motive of the crime. He will be ably defended by Col. Tucker of this city. The Winchester Democrat Wednesday, January 28, 1891
	A PETITION is being circulated asking Gov. Brown to commute the death sentence of Wm. Bush to imprisonment for life. Bush, who lives at Clay City, was convicted of the murder of his wife last year.

Bush, Richard H. C.	A Sad Accident. About midnight Friday night, Frank Gordon, who rooms on South Court Street, was aroused by the smell of something burning. After considerable search he, with officer Tarpy, located the fire in the room over the Safety Building and Loan Company's office, which was occupied by Richard H. C. Bush. When they burst open the door the room was found to be full of smoke and intensely hot. The fire alarm was sounded and when the flames were extinguished, the dead body of Mr. Bush was found on the floor. He went to his room several hours before and had not undressed. In some manner it is thought he set the bed on fire, as it was consumed and a large hole was burned in the floor. The body was found near the door and death evidently came from suffocation. Mr. Bush was about sixty years of age and was the only son of the late Judge James H. G. Bush. He leaves a wife, formerly Miss Smith, of Danville, a son, Dr. Beckner Bush, of Baltimore, and two daughters, Mrs. Walter B. Nichols, of Lexington and Mrs. John Nichols, of Danville. His only sister, Mrs. Ella McCoy, lives at Indianapolis, Indiana. The funeral was held Sunday afternoon at the First Christian Church, services conducted by Eld. Armstrong, and the remains were buried in the Winchester cemetery. He was a man of noble traits of mind and heart and everybody who knew him liked him, and many were the expressions of regret at his tragic death. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, March 31, 1903

In Memoriam

At the recent reunion of the Gentry family in St. Louis, the following was read in Memorial Meeting, as a tribute to the memory of one of our well known citizens: Among those of our number, who since our last meeting have joined the silent majority upon the other shore, is our friend and kinsman, Valentine W. Bush. On Sunday morning, January 29th, 1899, as the church bells, whose welcome call he had so often answered were pealing forth their tender message to the children of God, he bowed his head in humble submission, as the Heavenly Father touched him for the last time, and his soul left its earthly tenement. His troubles and triumphs alike were over and his days work done.

For some eighteen months his health had been declining. The final attack came in December and for six weeks his constitution fought against the increasing weakness which would not yield to the tenderest nursing and the best medical skill. He bore physical depression with a beautiful patience and submission that came from a perfect faith in god's goodness, and death had for him no sting, for though life was ever full of promise to him and the earth-ties strong, he gave his devoted wife and tenderly beloved children into Divine keeping, and surrendered himself to the will of his Heavenly Father.

His beautiful mortal life ended, but by the eternal decree of God, his life in its beauties and enjoyments had just begun, for while his temporal home was draped in mourning and sorrow and the dear wife and children and other relations and friends overflowed with grief, his purified spirit and found refuge in the Heavenly Home.

Brought up by Christian parents in the faith of the Church, he was a loyal and devoted son of her truths and at Sunday School, at the fireside, and in all the walks of life, he was faithful in teaching them. During the many years he served his Church as Elder he shunned none of the duties or responsibilities of this high trust imposed upon him, but ever made the Master's business his own. His type of piety was not that which manifests itself in public demonstration, but rather that which is seen in the private walks of Christian love and kindness.

As a host he was delightful as a friend, kind and thoughtful; as a man of business, polite accurate and unquestioned integrity. Those of us who knew him and enjoyed the genial manner and quiet humor that marked his intercourse with his friends, can not soon forget his gentle ways and courteous consideration of the claims of others. He was indeed an old school Kentucky gentleman, proud of all his people, his ancestry, his State and her history, and as jealous of his good name as the Knight Errant of old of the Honor of his Lady Love.

Of a bright and cheerful disposition his life was a happy one, for it was ever his philosophy that the troubles of life are not to be brooded over when there are so many pleasures to be enjoyed.

As surely a pebble dropped into the ocean must sink to the bottom, so must human life end, but long after the pebble has found refuge in the protecting sands, the little ripples it has caused, small though they be at first ever widen and spread, until they form a part of the mighty billows that break upon some foreign shore, and so it is with human life, for though dead our influence for good or evil is left to the world, for many a year we live in the hearts and lives of those who come after us.

How true this is of our departed friend and kinsman. His almost three score years and ten have not been in vain, for he leaves to his family and friends as a precocious legacy, a memory of tenderness and love, a spotless name the example of a good life, a character of unblemished honor and integrity, and influence which will be felt though "he sleeps the eternal sleep."

Bush, W. N.	Capt. W. N. Bush One of the most prominent figures at the recent Confederate reunion at Birmingham, Alabama, was Gen. W. N. Bush, commanding the North Eastern division of Texas. Mr. Bush is an ex-Clarkite and a solid, substantial citizen for many years of the Lone Star State. He was born here sixty-one years ago and lived here until shortly after his marriage to Miss Bettie Rainey. He then went to Collin county, Texas, where he has since resided. He enlisted as a private in the Confederate army; was chosen First Lieutenant and soon after Captain and served gallantly through the war. In one battle he had a horse shot under him and in another was wounded in the leg. After the war he returned to his home, and a few years after was elected Sheriff, to which office he refused a re-election. A couple of years ago he was commissioned Major General in the organization of United Confederate Veterans and has done much toward bringing the followers of the lost cause together. When appointed there were only three camps in his jurisdiction. Since which time he has built the number up to fifty-eight. He is six feet high, weighs over two hundred pounds, and is still an active, hearty man full of vigor and enthusiasm for the cause he loved so well. 	Germantown Items-The grave of Capt. Wm. Bush, the pioneer companion of Daniel Boone, is without enclosure in a field belonging to James Dykes. This old pioneer, of whom Gen. Huston spoke in his oration at the hanging of the portraits of other Clark heroes, came to this county with Boone and entered all the land lying between Two Mile and Howard's Creeks, extending from the river nearly to Winchester. He gave a great deal of it away to settlers, and spent a great part of his life in aiding the settlement and advancement of this county, and in aiding and developing the mineral resources of the mountain country, in which he had great faith that valuable mines existed. His portrait ought by all means to adorn the courthouse walls, and his grave should no longer be left in the condition that it is. The Clark County Demograt Wed. 5.5.1880

Bushrod, Raymond AA	The Winchester Sun June 12, 2012 Hanged by a Mob for Rape Hawesville, KY., Sept. 28.—Raymond Bushrod, who outraged Miss Maggie Roberts, near Petrie, Hancock county, Saturday, was hanged by a mob in Court Square here Sunday. The efforts of the sheriff to remove him to Owensboro were intercepted. The Negro confessed, and also acknowledged two other crimes of like character. The mob was unmasked and no effort was made to conceal the identity of the lynchers. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, October 5, 1897 It has been some time since Bushrod was hung, and the rains and frosts and travel have fallen on the spot where he was stretched on the pavement to receive the rope, but his outline is as plain as day, describing perfectly his legs, arms and head. Hundreds visit the spot to wonder and comment, and it has become one of the principal attractions of

Butler, Ben	PERHAPS the best hated man in America died Wednesday night. We refer to Gen. Ben Butler of Massachusetts. Everything by turns he was a true to nothing but Ben Butler.
	He started out as a Democrat and was a delegate to the Charleston convention in 1860.
	He soon after was a Federal General and made the famous order that negroes were contrabands of war. At New Orleans the people would have preferred the yellow fever.
	He levied a contribution on the rich and is said to have taken the silver plate to pay it.
	The name "Spoon Thief" stuck to him ever after. Jeff Davis proclaimed him an outlaw and offered a reward for him dead or alive. For years he was the bitterest Republican in Congress and was the leader in the effort to impeach President Johnson. He was afterwards three times a candidate for Governor of Massachusetts and was once elected as a Democrat. He as a delegate to the convention that nominated Cleveland the first time, but ran as an Independent for the President in hopes of beating him. He was impervious to criticism and only once did he flinch. Sixteen or eighteen years ago Gov.
	Brown of this State, was in Congress and in the bitterest speech probably ever heard there he fairly skinned Butler alive. After speaking of the efforts being made by the Republicans under Butler to humiliate the South he turned on Butler and said "Now what should be said if that accusation should come from one – I speak not of men but of language within the rules of the oust-if that accusation against that people should come from one who is outlawed in his worn home from respectable society, whose name is synonymous with falsehood, who is the champion and has been such on all occasions of fraud, who is the apologist of thieves, who is such a prodigy of vice and meanness that to describe him imagination would sicken and invective exhaust itself. In Scotland years ago, there was a man whose trade was murder and he earned his livelihood by selling the bodies of his victims for gold. He linked his name to his crime and today, throughout the world it is known as Burking.
	"This man's name was linked to his crimes, and today throughout the world it is known as Burking. If I were to characterize all that was pusillanimous in war inhuman in peace, forbidding in morals and infamous in politics I should call it Butlerizing.".
	The Winchester Democrat Wednesday, January 18, 1893.
	The infinitesial Defineral incumestary, January 10, 1073.
	About the bitterest attack ever made on the dead is the following comment of a Tennessee paper on the late Ben Butler. We have no love for him, and praise of any kind, solely be cause he is dead would be the variest hypocrisy from Southern people.
	There is nothing in his whole life to excite our admiration. When it is said that he possessed great intelligence and undaunted energy all that is to his credit has been said.
	He was a truckling demagogue whose selfishness amounted to pollution: he was an autocrat who used power to wreak personal vengeance: he was mean and malignant, a hangman from prejudice, the insulator of woman, a braggadocio, a trickster and a scoundrel whose heart was as black as the smoke from the coals that are now scorching his soul. If there be a future of peace in store for Ben butler after his entrance upon eternity, then there is no haven and the bible is a lie. If hell be only as black as the good book describes it then there are not as degrees of punishment in which some Christians believe. He is already so deep down in the pit of everlasting doom that he couldn't get the most powerful ear trumpet conceivable to scientists and hear the echoes of old Gabriel's trumpet, or fly a million kites and get a message to St. Peter, who stands guard at the gate of heaven. Butler has gone where he can order no more spoons to be stolen. He has gone where it's not to be stolen. He has gone where it's not in his power to order hanged Southern gentlemen for alleged treason against Butlerism. Good bye Ben! You strutted through a few temporal triumphs; now rest if you can in the brimstone glare of hell fire. You laughed twenty-five years age when you branded your offensive personality upon the memories of your superiors, now smile if you can where powerless and sunk so low as to be beyond the sympathy of even Christian men and women.

Butler, Bennie	The Winchester Democrat Wednesday, February 1, 1893. Some marked peculiarities appear in connection with the drowning of persons in the Kentucky river from Boonesborough up to the Mouth of Red river. The drowning at Ford last week brings forth these remarks. From the settlement of this locality, 1775 to about 1885, a period of eighty years, it is believed nobody was drowned. About the latter year Capt. Turnbull, of Winchester was drowned at the mouth of Bear Run. Probably three years later, Pen Coe, another Clark county man was drowned just below the mouth of Four Mile. In 1882, a dozen negro men and a white woman were washed out of a railroad camp on Two Mile creek into the river and drowned near Ford during a sudden rise. A few years later, several boys from Clark were drowned at the Mouth of Upper Howard's creek. Since that time the number of drownings especially at Ford, have been too great to be recalled, but perhaps every instance except that of John Sewell, several years ago and the boy East a year ago and a colored boy the past Spring that were from Clark. Thus it spans that for nearly a century and a quarter only four or five Madison county people have been drowned along about fifteen miles of river and those within the brief period of less than six years, while Clark has been unfortunate for nearly forty years and the extent of dozens. But our Madison people on the North side never had any great love for water except for farming purposes.—Richmond Register. This is only a partial list of those drowned near Ford is even the last generation: Rufus Emerson was drowned at Boonesboro; a man named Tillet near the Mouth of Otter Creek; John Atkinson some where near the same place; two sons of Commodore Richardson at the mouth of Two Mile, and a negro boy in the big eddy above the Mouth of Four Mile. Zach Hukill drowned himself on account of ill health near Riverside; Bennie Butler was drowned in Two Mile creek and his body was afterward found in the river. Quite a number of other drownings have occurred, th

Butler, Fielding & Wife	Died—Tuesday at Oakview, a suburb of Ashland, the funeral services of Mr. and Mrs. Fielding Butler, old and prominent citizens of Boyd county took place. It was a pathetic scene, as friends and neighbors gathered from miles around to hear preached the funeral service of two persons, and that man and wife who had worshiped in that village church for nearly fifty years. Mrs. Butler, who was past three score and ten years of age, was the first to lay down the burden of life; and within eight hours of her death he who had been her partner and sympathizer for nearly half a century and who had more than reached the eightieth round in the ladder of life, said "it is well with my soul," and the candle of life went out. Butler married Miss Parsons but the marriage was not a happy one and the couple had separated, the wife returning to her fathers home. Butler went there as he says, to see his child. 	LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 18The result of Coroner Hood's inquest into the death of David Butters, who was killed in this city by being run over by a train last Sunday

Butterworth, Ben	Few more touching sentences were ever written than the pen picture of the death-bed of Ben Butterworth, the brilliant Ohioan, who died at Thomasville, Ga., Sunday.
	"Just as dawn came, he bade his family farewell, sighed heavily, turned his face from the light, and passed from time to eternity. When the physician placed his hand upon his heart, it was still."
	And thus comes the end, to king and beggar alike. The silence of the tomb, the grass grown mound, the rattling bones and the grinning skull—what are the few days of

	Mrs. Alivia Butterworth, the wife of W. L. Butterworth, died at her home in Irvine, Ky., on the morning of the 26 th inst., in the thirty-eight year of her age. She was born on the 14 th of April 1850 in Clark County, Ky. Her father was Rev. J. H. Ramsey, for 25 years an active and useful member of the Cumberland Presbyterian church. She made a profession of religion at the early age of 14, connecting herself with the above named organization in this county, in which she continued to be a zealous, faithful member until about six years ago when she transferred her membership to the Presbyterian church at Irvine, Ky. At the age of 17 she was married to W. S. Butterworth, and by all who knew her best was regarded as a model wife. Blessed with an amiable and attractive disposition, her life of simple earnestness and humble piety won the love of many and commanded the respect of all. She was stricken with disease on the 18 th day of February last and, never having been strong physically, could not long resist the attack. After five weeks of intense suffering, which was borne throughout with admirable Christian fortitude and patience she fell asleep in Jesus and passed up to her reward. Given to hospitality, rich in faith, zealous in good works, a true friend and an exemplary Christian, she has left a record which will live long in the hearts of those who knew and loved her. May the influence of her example and the memory of her lovely character be a source of unfailing comfort to the husband and two children who mourn her loss, and may the cross they now bear be so sanctified of the Lord as to raise them to the heaven whither she has gone.

Byar, Nelson T.	Last week we mentioned the death of Nelson T. Byar, of Bracken county, who was stricken with paralysis on the morning when he was to have married, Mrs. Anna Fay, and died a few days later. The following tinge of romance overshadows the sad affair. About twenty-five years ago, when each was young, they were engaged to be married. They had been sweethearts from childhood, but before the day arrived a lover's quarrel intervened and the engagement was broken. They separated and each married another, but as time rolled on each lost their companion and were free again. They met. The old spark was rekindled, and once more as in their youth, they had the day set for their wedding, but fate had decreed otherwise, and on their wedding day they were again, separated, but this time forever.

Bybee, Alfred	We publish the following sketch of a former Clark county man from the Cass County, Mo., Democrat: Alfred Bybee After a lingering illness, largely the result of old age and a general breaking down of the system, Alfred Bybee died on the 5th of November inst., at the residence of his son, Senator Fielding E. Bybee, in this county, and was buried at the beautiful cemetery at Freeman on the following day. A large number of friends followed the remains to their last resting place, and just before the interment took a last look at the face which was so familiarly known to the old citizens of the county. Mr. Bybee was born December 10, 1810, in Clark county, Ky., and was married in 1837 to Araminta Railsback. Eight children were born of the marriage—only three of whom survive, James L., Fielding E. and Napoleon B. Bybee. He moved to Cass county October 25, 1840, and became a farmer and stock dealer until 1860. At the breaking out of the late war he espoused the cause of the South, and from 1861 until August 1865, he was absent from the county. Since then he has resided with his sons, and been in no active business. His death again reminds us that what are regarded as the Old Settlers—the pioneers who blazed the way for the present generation in this county—are fast passing away. But two short months ago Robt. A. Brown, Sr., who came here in 1842 died. Later, and only a few weeks ago, died Mastin Burris, a resident since 1834. Mr. Bybee, like many other of the pioneers in his early life, endured many hardships and toils, but as a result finally secured a competency for his old age and for his children. A man of sound judgment and of untiring energy, he succeeded in whatever he undertook. In his convictions he was very decided and when he took a position about a matter was firm in his faith. He dealt honestly and fairly with all men and had no patience with dishonesty in others. He was not a man of policy. He could not dissemble about anything. One could always tell just where to find him, as he spoke freely and honest Byrd, A. Floyd	Byrd Threatened. Circuit Court is in session at Jackson. Commonwealth Attorney Byrd is not in attendance, as he has been notified that it would be very dangerous for him to attend and that his life is sought by some of those whom he offended by his course during the Jett trial. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, November 10, 1903. ATTORNEY BYRD.

	Announces That He Will Stay Away From Breathitt County.

	Lexington, Ky., Nov. 9A Floyd Byrd, commonwealth attorney of Breathitt county, who gained a national reputation in the prosecution of Curtis Jett and Tom White for the murder of Attorney Marcum, in a long distance telephone communication Sunday confirmed the rumor that he has decided to remain away from Breathitt county during the term of court, which begins there Monday. His action is taken upon the insistent solicitations of friends and relatives who declare that judging from the past history of the county his life would be in constant peril there. He has not received warning of a definite plot to take his life as has been rumored. T. P. Cole of Jackson has been temporarily appointed prosecuting attorney. There will be no indictments at the coming term of court. Mr. Byrd says in connection with the numerous assassination cases and further investigation will be postponed for the present. Mr. Byrd's term of office will expire January 1. He will then move to Winchester to reside permanently, but does not expect to server himself entirely from the mountains in which he has been instrumental in bringing about a revolution of law and order. He has been urged to run for congress from the Tenth Kentucky district to succeed John B. White, and he may do so, but has not yet announced himself. Only minor cases are on the docket of the Breathitt circuit court and the trials which begin this week will be in marked contrast to the last term of court when Jett and White were tried when the courthouse was surrounded by soldiers and citizens stored their weapons in an improvised "armory" before entering the courthouse. The Winchester Democrat Friday, November 13, 1903.

Byrd, Wesley Byrd, William	The Winchester Sun Fri., 7-2-1999 Deputy Marshall Killed
	Will Byrd, Deputy United States Marshall, who lived at Jackson, was shot and killed in the mountains of Breathitt county Thursday. Byrd had arrested Sam Neace, charged with illicit distilling and with his handcuffed prisoner behind him on his horse, was returning to Jackson. He saw two men in pursuit armed with Winchesters and told them if they fired on him he would kill the prisoner. Jake Neace, an uncle of the prisoner, fired, striking Byrd just over the heart. The latter fired twice at his assailants and then fell over dead. Neace fled and is said to have declared that he would not be taken. Byrd's friends declare they will be revenged and trouble is expected. The dead officer was well known here as an absolutely fearless man and a terror to evil doers. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, January 19, 1897
	THERE is much excitement at Jackson over the capture of men who killed Deputy Marshall Will Byrd. The sheriff and other peace officers, it is said made no attempt to arrest the murderers, and detective George Drake did the work. He persuaded them to surrender which they did, expecting to be tried by the county authorities and acquitted. As Byrd was a federal officer the Federal authorities took charge and they were tried before Marcum. Byrd's friends and the friends of the prisoners were each heavily armed and trouble was feared for several days. The jail was heavily guarded to prevent a lynching or rescue. At the trial Commissioner Marcum has everybody disarmed by the deputy marshal before entering the courtroom, and two barrels of revolvers were secured. The brothers of the murdered deputy Byrd refused to be disarmed, but finally yielded. They cried like children when they had to give up their guns, as they said they could not bear to be near the men who murdered their brother unarmed. The prisoners, Jacob Neace and Dan Farler, were held over without bail to be tried in Louisville. The Winchester Democrat Friday January 22, 1897.

	Expected a Pardon Neace, the slayer of United States Marshall Byrd, is alleged to have killed Byrd with the expectation that Gov. Bradley would pardon him. Joe Bruner, formerly a policeman of this city and who has frequently been with Byrd on his raids, is quoted as follows by the Lexington Leader: "It is the general belief in Jackson that a remark alleged to have been made by Governor Bradley while there during the campaign last summer was the cause of Will Byrd's death. I had heard of this several times before, and to-day Tom Coates, the County Attorney of Breathitt county stopped over in Lexington and recalled it to my recollection. Last summer Governor Bradley made a political speech in Jackson in which he challenged any one present to deny that the Republican party in Kentucky had fulfilled every pledge made the people before it came into power. Byrd, who was in the audience, and had been drinking, replied by denying the truth of the Governor's statement. Several men in the audience made a rush for Byrd, but he drew his revolver and kept them at bay. It was later reported that on the Governor's return to the hotel he had said that he could easily pardon a man for killing Byrd. This baseless story is probably what Neace refers to." The Winchester Democrat Friday, January 29, 1897 Jacob Neace, one of the moonshiners of Breathitt county, who has been confined in the Louisville jail awaiting his trial for the murder if United States Deputy Marshall, Wm. Byrd, died Sunday of pneumonia. The jail physician states that Neace's death is due fully as much to his determination to starve himself and thus cheat the gallows as it was to disease. Dan Farler, the other man who is implicated in Byrd's murder, will be tried in the Federal Court on April 15th. The Winchester Democrat Friday, February 26, 1897 Congressman Fitzpatrick has introduced bills in the house to pension members of the Sixty-fifth enrolled militia of Johnson county; to pay $5,000 to the widow of William Byrd of Breathitt county, who was killed in the service, while Deputy Marshall; granting same rights to the Three Forks Battalion of the State troops of Kentucky as have other organizations which rendered service in the Union Army. The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, January 18, 1898 It is likely that death will cheat the courts out of justice on the murderers of the late Will Byrd. Jake Neace, one of the murderers, died in the Lexington jail of pneumonia and Dan Farler is dying of consumption in the Louisville jail. The Winchester Democrat Friday, February 11, 1898 Will Turn State's Evidence. Louisville, Ky., March 11.—In order to save himself from punishment, Alex Farler will be permitted to turn state's evidence for complicity in the murder of Deputy United States Marshall W. A. Byrd, though his own brother may suffer from his testimony. Sam Neace, Dan Farler and Alex Farler were indicted for complicity in the crime, which was committed 20 miles from Jackson in January 1897. The case against Alex has been nolle prossed, and a jury is now being impaneled to try Sam Neace and Dan The Winchester Democrat Tuesday, March 15, 1898 Sam Neace and Dan Farler, charged with conspiring with Jacob Neace to murder Deputy U.
