	Mrs. Curran Smith died at her home in Richmond Saturday morning aged seventy-five years. She was a daughter of Judge W.C. Goodloe, who for a quarter of a century was Circuit Judge, Clark county being in his circuit part of the time. In 1854 she was married to Dr. Curran C. Smith who died some years ago. She was a devout member of the Presbyterian church and was held in the highest esteem by a large circle of friends and acquaintances. She is survived by five children, one of whom is Mrs. Jas. M.
	Benton, of this city. The funeral will be held this morning at the family residence and the remains will be buried in the Richmond cemetery. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, December 21, 1909

	Mrs. C.C. Smith
	The Richmond Register has the following passing away of a prominent resident of that city: "After a six week illness Mrs. Curran C. Smith passed away at her home on North street early Saturday morning. Mrs. Smith had been in ill health for a long time, but a severe fall on Thanksgiving Day hastened her end, and since that time only her remarkable vitality sustained her. The end came peacefully, and without pain and fully conscious, she fell into the sleep that wakens in the resurrection beyond the grave. "The deceased was the relict of the late Dr. S.C. Smith, and was in many ways a remarkable woman. Possessed of a brilliant intellect, an unusual memory, and splendid faculties, she was one of the most interesting members of the community. Even in late years in spite of her physical infirmities she took a keen interest in affairs, was a great reader, and a student of politics and morals; she retained perfect recollection of antebellum history and with her knowledge of contemporaneous events made a very delightful and instructive companion. She was 76 years of age and is survived by five children, Mrs. G.W. Evans and Miss Curralene Smith, of this city, Mrs. H.H. Rogers, of Vincennes, Indiana, Mrs. J.M. Benton, of Winchester, and Mr. J. Speed Smith, of Seattle, Washington. To all of these the sincere sympathy of their friends is extended in their irreparable loss. The funeral services were conducted Tuesday, followed by the interment in the Richmond cemetery. The deceased, like all of the women of the old school, of which she was so perfect a pattern, was a true Christian and a firm believer.
	In her death she found life in the reunion with her beloved dead in the world beyond the tomb. "Out of town people attending the funeral were the Rev. William O. Goodloe, of Scottsburg, Ind.; Mrs. James Edgar, of Detroit; Mrs. W.L. Neale and Mrs. Dr.
	Bosworth, of Lexington; Judge J.M. Benton and family, of Winchester; Mrs. H.H.
	Rogers, of Vincennes, Ind.; Mrs. Ollie Hall, Mrs. Ed. Jouett, Rev. Mr. Cummings and Miss Rice, of Winchester.

Smith, Paul	Paul D. Smith, 81, beloved husband, father and believer in Christ, passed away Nov. 23 next to his wife Jane, his devoted wife and companion of 60 years and mother of their precious daughter Renee Risner of Clark County. Throughout most of their married life, he and Jane enjoyed simple things like working with horses and cattle, being outdoors, attending church and caring for their beautiful hillside farm in the Pilot View community.
	He was born in Perry County, Ky. to the late George and Alma Edwards Smith. He was the youngest of their 10 children. Paul attended Trapp and Pilot View Elementary Schools, Clark County High School, the University of Kentucky and Georgetown College.

	After graduating from Georgetown, he worked 40 years for East Kentucky Power Cooperative at Dale Station with a hard-working team that brought light, power and a better way of life to thousands of rural Kentucky families.
	He was a member and believer in the Primitive Baptist faith for 50 plus years. He often said that nothing that any man has done could ever compare with what Jesus Christ did by dying a cruel death nailed to a cross to give His children the gift of salvation. Paul believed in the absolute sovereignty of God, saying the He is — and always will be — in control. Everything happens according to His eternal decrees established when He laid the foundations of the world.
	In addition to being a devoted father, Paul deeply loved Jane and their granddaughters, Dr. Elizabeth Durham (Donovan) of London and Laura Reed (Dillon) of Williamsburg. He is survived by his brother Charles E. Smith (Lucille) of Irvine and cousin Steve Curtis of Winchester. He was preceded in death by his parents and siblings, June Curtis, Jetta Elkin, Travis Smith, Jewell Hall, Burtis Smith, Clyde Smith, Willie Smith and a baby brother.
	Family would like to extend a heartfelt thank you to his caregivers, Connie Curtis and Rachel Gross.
	Visitation will be at the Scobee Funeral Home, 219 West Lexington Ave., Winchester, Ky., starting at noon on Nov. 27 and the service will begin at 1 p.m., followed by burial at Winchester Cemetery. Masks will be required, and we ask that attendees practice social distancing by maintaining six feet separation – no more than 25 people permitted, per government guidelines.
	Presiding will be Brother Ben Cordes. Pallbearers include: Ray York, Anthony Childers, Doug Rupard, Donovan Durham, Dillon Reed and Kevin Osbourn. Honorary Pallbearers include: Donald Birch, Steve Billings, J.E. Lakes, Hubert Smith and John Farmer.

Smith, Richard	The lifeless body of Richard Smith was found last Sunday morning hanging upward across a picket fence back of his residence, in Mt. Sterling. He had been drinking a great deal of late, and it is supposed that while in a state of intoxication he attempted to make his way to the house through the back yard and accidentally fell backward across the fence and there died before he could free himself or raise an alarm. Deceased was about 30 years of age, and was Coroner of Montgomery county at the time of his death.
	He was a first cousin to Judges J. H. And C. M. French and Richard French, of this

Smith, Richard	The Owen News prints the following of a strange character who lived near that town:
. ,	"The death of Richard Smith at his home two and a half miles from town, Tuesday last of heart trouble, reveals a most peculiar character. He was a man of average intelligence, a bachelor, sixty-one years of age, and for thirty-five years he had never been in the town of Owenton. Although living at a place where he could see the town every day in the year he could never be induced through all the changes and exciting had never cast a vote. He died of heart trouble, and was a brother of Chas. Smith.

He received two sentences of ten years each on the charges of robbery, and a sentence of ninety-nine years for murder. A peculiar feature of the case is that Stovall was placed on trial three days after being arrested, on three charges, and was on trial three days. The murder for which Stovall received a life sentence was committed two weeks ago at Artemus. At that point officers and a crowd of negroes fought a battle following efforts of the posse to serve

S.man, Speed	MRS. LENA WHITEHEAD, of Williamsburg, was in the city Thursday en route to Washington where she had been summoned by the illness of her father. Rev. Green Clay Smith. While here she was the guest of Mrs. J. M. Benton, who is a niece of Mr. Smith. Speed Smith, a brother of the latter, is ill at Alum Springs, Va., and will hardly live to get back to his home in Madison county. The Washington correspondent of the Courier-Journal says of Rev. Green Clay Smith: "About three weeks ago Gen. Green Clay Smith was compelled to take to his bed on account of a carbuncle on the back of his neck, at the base of the brain. It was not thought dangerous at first, but a few days ago Dr. John W. Bayne performed an operation which relieved him for the time being. Since then, however, he has been steadily growing weaker and to-day he is very low, though a very slight change for the better was noticed this morning. He is only conscious at intervals, the danger being that his vitality may give out, though he is, physically speaking, a well-constituted man. The General is sixty-six years of age, and commanded a brigade of Kentucky troups in the Union army. He represented Kentucky in Congress from 1863 to 1866, was Governor of Montana in 1866-79, presidential candidate of the Prohibition party in 1876, and is now the pastor of the Metropolitan Baptist church in this city. He was an honorary pall-bearer at the funeral of Abraham Lincoln." The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, June 25, 1895.

	in the head with a shot gun. Several years ago he lost considerable money by George Becker, the well known cattle dealer, who bought the cattle and made an assignment threatened to kill himself. The night before he was very low spirited and expressed a

The Execution of Bad Tom Smith at Jackson. "WORSE than affairs in Breathitt county," which a few years ago was the worst that could have been said of any community, can now no longer be truthfully averred of that action. The church, the schoolhouse and the newspaper have done their civilizing work and instead of crime being avenged by the bullet of the bushwhacker or the rope of the lyncher, the stern majesty of the law, without haste, without hate, but terrible in its awful simplicity, enforces the penalty of the ancient law, "Who so sheddeth man's blood, by man shall his blood be shed." An object lesson of the stern majesty of the law, an account of which will take its place among the traditions of the mountains and which will be handed down to future generations, was the execution Friday of Tom Smith at Jackson for the murder of Dr. Rader last February. The day was beautiful and several thousand persons were present including many women. An excursion was run from Lexington and a number from here went up to see the execution. Those present say it resembled a huge picnic or holiday more than anything else. Several days ago Smith professed conversion and at an early hour he was taken under a strong guard to the river where with manacled hands and feet he was baptized by a couple of Baptist ministers. The scene was a most impressive one and set for the execution. Just before the hour fixed Smith told the sheriff that he had been forgiven for all his other crimes, but was not for the murder of Dr. Rader. He telegraphed to Gov. Brown asking for time but the latter refused to interfere and the execution proceeded. On the Scaffold he made he made a long talk confessing his various crimes interspersed with appeals to God for mercy. K. J. Hampton and John Bosley were there in the interest of the Louisville Post and the following extracts are from their report:

"He and Joe Adkins ambushed Joe Eversole and Mick Combs. Joe Adkins fired the fatal shot and he afterwards shot Combs and Eversole. He then took $30 from Eversole's pocket. He shot at John McKnight, but as Bob Profit was shooting at the same time, could not tell who killed him.

"I shot and killed Bob Cornet while he was sitting on a log. Jack Combs was with me. "He said he was with B. F. French, Joe Adkins, Jesse Field and Boone Frazer at Field's house last fall, when they planned the murder of Judge Josiah Combs. He said he was wounded at the time and could not go with them.

"I heard Atkins say afterward that he fired the shot that killed Combs. I also heard French speak of the job.

"After making this statement to the reporters he talked to the crowd and warned the young men of the dangers of whiskey and bad women. He told how in a drunken delirium he had killed Dr. Rader. He said:

"No man paid me to kill Rader. I was drunk and Catherine McQuinn roused me from my sleep and said: "He is fixing to kill you." I jumped up and fired two shots; one of them killed him."

The preachers then sang ,"Guide Me, Oh Thou Great Jehovah," in which smith joined as he walked around on the top of the scaffold. After this he knelt under the gallows and prayed most fervently for god to have mercy on him. He arose and another song

"He then roamed again under the gallows and prayed most pitifully. The black cap was placed on his head and his last words were, "God have mercy upon me." Sheriff Breck Combs spring the trap."

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, July 2, 1895.

THE Frankfort Capital says: "Bad Tom Smith blamed his whole miserable career on bad whisky. So do nine-tenths of the men in the local penitentiary. Was it bad whisky or simply whisky to which Bad Tom ascribed his crimes? This is an important distinction. Good whisky does not inspire men to evil deeds, but the awful stuff sold under that name brings men to the penitentiary and the gallows, and villains like Bad Tom Smith bring disrepute on the good as well as the bad by laying their misdeeds in general to whisky. If Tom really said bad whisky, then it roves him to have been a criminal of more than usual judgment about language.

The Winchester Democrat, Friday, July 5, 1895. BAD Tom Smith must hang. The Court of Appeals at its sitting Friday rendered a decision in his case affirming the judgment of the lower court, which sentenced him to hang June 4th, but he obtained a stay of execution on account of the pending appeal in the case. The governor will now have to set the day of the hanging and as the murder of Dr. Rader by Smith and his paramour, Mrs. Catherine McQuinn, was particularly cold blooded and atrocious there is not likelihood of executive clemency being extended in his behalf.

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, June 18, 1895.

THE Breathitt county hanging will come to pass Friday the 28th. As stated last week, the Court of Appeals affirmed the decision of the Circuit Court which sentenced Tom Smith to hang for the murder of Dr. Rader. His attorneys at once make application for a rehearing which was over ruled, and Gov. BROWN fixed the 28th inst., as the day of execution. The court of Appeals also affirmed the life sentence in the penitentiary given Mrs. Quinn for complicity in the same crime.

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, June 25, 1895.

SHERIFF COMBS of Breathitt county, passed through this city Tuesday with Mrs. Catherine McQuinn, who was on her way to the penitentiary to serve a life sentence for the murder of Dr. Rader for which crime Tom Smith is to be hung to-day. She seemed to be in good spirits and those in a position to know say that she hopes that the confession to be made by Smith will exonerate her so such an extent as to secure a pardon for her. Judge Redwine authorized the jailer to have a guard of fifty picked men all the past week and for several nights a picket line has been thrown around the town to guard against surprise.

The Winchester Democrat, Friday, June 28, 1895.

A Breathitt County Case.

A case from Breathitt county was tried here this week before Judge Benton. Thomas McQuinn sought to set aside a deed made by his son, Jerry McQuinn, to the latter's wife, Catherine McQuinn, on the ground of mental incompetency. Judge Benton set aside the deed but evened up matters by giving Mrs. McQuinn a homestead in the property. She is the woman at whose house Dr. Rader was murdered and for which murder "Bad Tom" Smith was hung. In order to shield Smith she said she did the killing, but Smith was hung anyhow.

	Cyclist killed in Saturday crash
	Two people lost their lives within 30 minutes of each other early Saturday morning, one in a motorcycle crash on Cabin Creek Road and the other on Interstate 64 just inside Fayette County. The first happened around 3:26 a.m. Saturday, when 23-year-old Michael T. Smith of 3081 Mount Sterling Road crashed his motorcycle on Cabin Creek Road about eight miles from Winchester. According to the report at the Clark County Sheriff's Office, Smith missed a right-hand curve while riding his 2008 Honda CBR600 motorcycle. Deputies said his motorcycle left the road and entered a ditch before it hit a fence and a tree. Smith was ejected from the motorcycle and struck the tree. Clark County Sheriff Berl Perdue Jr. said he did not believe Smith was wearing a helmet at the time of the crash. There were no witnesses. Deputies do not believe alcohol or drugs were involved in the crash. After the impact, deputies said the motorcycle crossed the road and stopped in the yard at 901 Cabin Creek Road. Smith was pronounced dead at the scene. Less than a half-hour later, another fatal accident occurred on Interstate 64 near the Clark-Fayette county line. Initially, the accident was believed to be in Clark County, but local responders were canceled after it was determined to be in Fayette County. According to Lexington Police, Kevin S. Kinitgos of Greenup was traveling east in the center on a moped near the 89 mile marker at 3:50 a.m. when he was hit from behind by a Mitsubishi Eclipse, driven by Keith Malone of Mount Sterling. Police said Kinitgos was traveling at a low rate of speed. He was pronounced dead at the scene at 5:05 a.m. After the initial impact, police said Kinitgos was struck by a tractor trailer, which continued eastbound on the interstate. Police believe the driver may not know that he hit Kinitgos. Lexington Police kept the interstate closed for several hours Saturday while they investigated and reconstructed the accident. It was reopened at 10:23 a.m.

Smith, Wiley	In the United States Court at Cincinnati, a singular case was disposed of. Mrs. Nancy Smith of Carter county, Ky., obtained a pension as the widow of Wiley Smith, a soldier who died in 1873. She has received $2,500, and had $1,500 of this deposited in an Ironton bank. Recently it came to the ears of the Government officials that she had been divorced from her husband in 1868, and suit was brought to recover the money, and the bank was enjoined from paying the money on demand until the suit was decided. Mrs. Smith denied that she had ever applied for a divorced and testified that she was living with her husband at the time of his death. The court records and the testimony of her own daughter convinced the jury that she was wrong and a verdict was rendered for the Government.

Smithson, Harry D.	DIED – Harry D. Smithson, died at his home in Kansas City, Mo., about the first of the present month aged fifty-two years. He was a native of Clark county and lived here until he attained to manhood. He married Miss Kate Fox, of Pilot View, and after the war moved to Holden, Mo., and became one of the most noted auctioneers in that part of the State. He was a Federal soldier and served on the staff of John Sherman. At one time he was quite wealthy but later lost most of his money. He leaves a wife and married daughter.

Smithson, James	The remains of James Smithson arrived Saturday. Prof. Alexander Graham Bell accompanied the remains from Genoa, Italy, where Smithson died, and was buried in 1829. Prof. Bell learned that the English cemetery at Genoa was to be converted into a quarry and it was mainly through his efforts that the body was disinterred and brought to this country. Smithson was an English scientist and scholar. He was a natural son of the third Duke of Northumberland, and his mother was lineal descendant of Henry VII.
	His life was an extremely sad one, and he lived little in his native country. When Smithson died he left his fortune of $500,000 "to found at Washington under the name of the Smithsonian Institute, an establishment for the increase and diffusion of knowledge among men." Smithson left a nephew who had the use of this money during his lifetime, but dying childless, the fortune then came to the United States. This was late in the 30's, and the money was brought to this country in 150 bags, each containing $1,000 sovereigns. The stone which marked Smithson's grave at Genoa did not, until a few years ago, record the fact of his bequest to the United States. Officials of the Smothers, son	At Jeffersonville, Indiana, Friday William Smothers buried his son. At the funeral and when Smothers was kneeling at his son's bier, George Hall edged against him, deliberately picked his pockets and stole therefrom a gold watch and chain. Smothers did not miss the watch until he was about to enter his carriage, when he gave the alarm. Suspicion pointed to Hall and after a lively chase he was overtaken and the timepiece found on his person. No time was lost in placing Hall in jail.

Snowden, boy	In an effort to arrest Cash Graves, a horse thief, last week near Spout Springs, a boy named Snowden was shot and badly wounded by a deputy Sheriff. Graves escaped. It is said he had stolen sixteen horses and a half dozen buggies near Versailles, Ind., and that a reward of one thousand dollars is offered for his arrest. He is a very desperate man and a brother to the escaped convict who was killed by Steve Sharp and others near Athens several years ago, after Graves had killed one or two of the pursuing party. Snowden, E. B.	Dr. E. B. Snowden died last Sunday night, of typhoid fever, at his father's home in Covington, aged 29 years. His heart-broken widow and infant, and fond parents and loving brothers, have our sympathy in this their saddest bereavement. His remains were brought to Clark Tuesday and interred in the family burial place. The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, February 19, 1890.
	Wades Mill. Our brother, Tom, writing from Covington says: "We buried our good old family Doctor Riffe today. He had been a member of the church 61 years and an Elder 45 years, 15 years at Winchester and 30 years here. It was one of the largest and saddest funerals I have ever attended. It was a pathetic scene indeed when his two old servants came into the church and stood by the coffin to take one last look at the lifeless remains of their dear old master. There was not a dry eye in the house." Some ten years ago the grim reaper entered the home of our brother and it did seem with ruthless hands took away his eldest son, Dr. E. B. Snowden, the family's cherished idol, and who was just entering upon a course of usefulness and happiness. It was at this time we formed the acquaintance of Dr. Riffe, which soon grew into a warm and trusting friendship. He was indeed and in truth one of nature's noblemen, competent, careful and pains taking physician and a gentleman and Christian in the fullest sense of the terms. And this leads us to remark that no one is so sadly missed when he dies as the old family Doctor. A loving wife or an idolized child lies for weeks perhaps very near the cold chamber of death. The Doctor is constant and unremitting in his attention to the sick, and finally the home which has been shadowed in gloom and sadness is made bright and happy by the returning health of the dear sick inmate. And thus it is that the Doctor has such a warm place in the hearts and homes of the people. Friendship grown in times of prosperity and happiness is some times evanescent, but when formed mid the chilling blasts of sorrow and adversity is much stronger and more endearing. Southerland, Mrs. Ella Martin	Mrs. W. D. Southerland died Sunday night in this city and was buried yesterday. She Southerfaild, Wirs. Ella Wartin	was the daughter of Capt. Robt. E. Martin, deceased, and belonged to one of the oldest and most respected families in the county. She was an admirable woman and leaves a large circle of friends to mourn her death.
	The Winchester Democrat, Wed., 12-11-1889
	Southerland—On the 25 th day of May. 1889, at the age of 34 years, sister Ella Southerland wife of W. D. Southerland passed away.
	She was a member of the Church of Christ and died as she had lived, in the faith.
	She leaves a devoted husband and two little children (girls) to mourn her departure.
	She expressed a desire, that if it were the Lord's will she might remain with her children until they should reach womanhood.
	Why should a Christian desire to remain here but for the good of others? Paul said "for you (Christians) it is better for me to remain, but for me it is better to depart and be with Christ" Would we were all living thus. Who in suffering would remain here if they could gather up the loved ones and pass into the bright beyond?
	She prayed, "let the Lord's will be done" and she fell asleep in Jesus.
	May the Father in his good providence's be mother to the little ones until they meet the loved and left in the day of God's home—bringing—Let us in hope sing until we are called to go.
	"To Zion's peaceful courts above in faith triumphant may we soar, Embracing, in the arms of love
	The friends not lost, but gone before.
	To Jordan's bank when'er we come
	And hear the swelling water's roar,
	Jesus, convey us surely home
	To friends not lost, but gone before."

	Newport, Ky., April 25
	After a trial lasting all week in Independence, Shelby Wilhoit was found guilty of voluntary manslaughter of James Sparrow by the jury, and his punishment fixed at 12

He loved to work with his hands, and took pride in his work — whether laying tile or mulching a yard. According to his customers, his work ethic was beyond reproach. Barron was definitely not all work and no play. He loved any adventure involving the water, mountains, dirt back riding, 4 wheeling, jet skiing — anything that involved some risk. He loved to live on the edge. When Barron began to struggle with drug addiction he knew he did not want to live this way. So, last October, he admitted himself into Satori Waters Rehab in Ft. Spears, Noah	Capt. Noah Spears, a retired banker of Georgetown, met his death in a singular manner. He had just returned from the declamatory contest at Georgetown College, which was won by his daughter, Miss Mary, and was putting his horse in the stable when he slipped on a piece of terracotta pipe. It rolled from under his feet and he fell on his stomach across the edge of a lard keg, rupturing his bowels. He was able to walk to the house, but from that time on he suffered intense agony until death relieved his sufferings.

TO HANG

The Death Penalty Given to Dillard Rainey.

The Murder of Aaron Adams to Be Avenged. The Majesty of the Law Vindicated. Not in a spirit of vengeance; not with an outburst of wrath nor with the savage senselessness of mob violence; but with the calm, dignified majesty of the law has the blood of Aaron Adams, which cries from the ground, been avenged, or will be when the sentence of the law is executed. A thrill of horror went through our people when the causeless, cruel murder was committed, and when the news spread Saturday that the death penalty had been awarded the murderer, there was a verdict of assent almost universal, and the only regret was that Matt Rainey, the prisoner's father, did not receive the same sentence.

The crime was a most atrocious one, and with no mitigating circumstances. Matt Rainey and James Henry had differences concerning a piece of land near the mouth of Upper Howard's Creek, and Henry had placed Frank Haggard in possession as a tenant. Rainey hauled the fence from around Haggard's garden leaving it open to the stock. Haggard hauled the rails back again and a quarrel on the 13th of last May in which Rainey shot Haggard inflicting a wound that it was thought would prove fatal. Mrs. Haggard saw Aaron Adams passing along the road and asked him to go for a doctor. Adams went after Dr. T. S. Allen, who lived near, and returning with the physician half an hour later, he was met by Matt Rainey and Dillard Rainey, father and son. Matt was armed with a gun and Dillard with a pistol. The former raised his gun to shoot Adams, but was prevented by Dr. Allan. With an oath he told his son to shoot and the latter did so. As Adams sank down pierced with a number of balls, Matt Rainey savagely tried again to shoot him.

Deputy Sheriff Eperson was in the neighborhood and arrested Matt Rainey at once. Dillard escaped, although the officers once got close enough to shoot at him. He went through the mountains and was finally arrested at Roanoke, Va., under an assumed name. Matt Rainey was tried last fall and got a life sentence. He took an appeal and since has been in jail here. Two or three feeble attempts were made to mob him here last Spring but they lacked leadership. Since he has been in jail he has incurred the ill-will of the officers and fellow prisoners all whom concur in saying he is the meanest man with whom they have ever had dealings.

The trial of Dillard Rainey began last Tuesday. The evidence closed Thursday at noon and was argued until the next morning when it was given to the jury, which brought in a verdict of guilty and fixing the death penalty the next day. When the prisoner heard it he turned deathly pale and seemed almost overcome. He soon recovered and was taken back to jail cursing the jury and vowing that he would never be hung. Neither of the prisoners have ever shown any remorse for the poor widow and the six helpless children.

This will make the second sentence pronounced by Judge Scott, the other being the negro Will Taylor, who was hung for the murder of Squire Doty, in Madison county a year or two ago.

If Rainey is hung it will make the fourth legal hanging in the county, and the first white man to be hung.

Many years ago Jesse Winn, a negro, was hung near where Col. R. N. Winn's residence now stands, for the murder of Wm. Emerson, a white man, who owned him or had him hired

In August, 1839, a young negro named Knight was hung on the Lexington pike near F. H. Dudley's. He belonged to Mr. Morris who lived on Stoner and had committed a rape on a little white girl.

	In April, 1841, a negro man, belonging to Daniel Sphar, broke into a house and disemboweled his wife. The latter got well, but the negro was hung for housebreaking. The negro woman belonged to Geo. Anderson and her assailant was hung near the far end of the C. and O. trestle on the side of Poynterville. In November, 1850, Thomas Nichols killed his master, Fred B. Nichols, at a rock quarry on the Lexington pike. He was hung about Christmas of the same year. The late Wm. Simpson was Sheriff at the time, and not liking the job of hanging the negro, he employed Marsh Lawrence to tie the rope. A year or two later Marsh Lawrence was killed by his brother, Jack Lawrence. The latter fled to Missouri, but was caught, brought back and sentenced to be hung. He was the first white man in the county to receive the death sentence, but was finally pardoned by Gov. Powell. About seventeen years ago, Ben. Plunkett was lynched, being hung to a tree in the Courthouse yard, the charge being an attempt assault on Miss Annie Ball, now Mrs. Bradford. In the fall of 1895 Bob Haggard was hung from the bridge on the Muddy Creek pike for a similar assault on Miss Elkin of near Ford. No motion has yet been made for a new trial, but this will be done. Since the death penalty has been given to Dillard, his father says he does not wish a new trial, but is inclined to accept the life sentence given him last fall. The general opinion is that if he should secure a new trial he would also be hung. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, February 16, 1897.

	Mr. Spinks Tuesday has cast a shadow of gloom all over the city of Newport, as he was while Mr. Spinks was attempting to step from a loaded coal barge to an empty one in and precipitated him into the water below and before the accident had been noticed he

	The insurance was a joint one between the father and son, being paid for out of the

The Winchester Democrat, Friday, October 9, 1896  Grassy Lick  It does seem that Mrs. Stallard has had more than her share of trouble lately. Last fall her husband, who was a railroad employee, was killed by the cars near Middlesborough, leaving her in almost destitute circumstances with five small children. She then came to her sister's to live; only a few weeks later her sister, Mrs. Sam Turley, died of consumption, and in February her father and mother died and last Saturday her 14 months old babe died.  The Winchester Democrat, Friday, March 19, 1897  A Big Suit  Hon. H. B. Kinsolving, of this city, as attorney, recently filed a suit in the Clark Circuit Court for the plaintiff, Mrs. Lilly C. Stallard, administrator of W. E. Stallard, deceased, against the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company, in which a claim is made for $15,000 damages, for killing her husband about a year ago at Middlesboro. Hon. W. M. Beckner, of Winchester, is associate counsel of Mr. Kinsolving. These attorneys think they have a good case.—Mt. Sterling Sentinel-Democrat. Stamper, Bill	The Winchester Sun November 5, 2019  A horrible tragedy occurred at Dripping Springs near Crab Orchard Saturday afternoon, in which Rodney Singleton, a young farmer, was killed, D. G. Slaughter, proprietor of the Springs was fatally shot, and a young man by the name of Bill Stamper was fatally wounded. The trouble originated at a picnic and dance given by the proprietor. Slaughter was prompting the dance, when Stamper came in drunk and created a disturbance. He was put out, but came back accompanied by Singleton, a friend of his, and endeavored to run the dance. Slaughter was trying to eject them from the place when the shooting occurred. All were prominent people of that section and the tragedy is greatly deplored.

	those around him, besides often bestowing charity on the needy. He was married to Susan M. Stuart in March 1858. He leaves a widow, two daughters and three sons to mourn his death. He petitioned this Lodge on the 27 th of October 1877, and initiated the 27 th of November 1877; was passed the 19 th of January 1878, and was raised the 23 rd of

	Resolved, That this Lodge be draped in mourning and the members wear the usual badge of mourning for thirty days.
	2 nd , That the Lodge tender to his family their heartfelt sympathy in their sad

	Man Found Dead.
	Early Tuesday morning the body of a white man was found a short distance beyond Thomson Station. No one seemed to know him and his clothing contained no papers or other things by which he could be identified. On the body was found an old pistol, $1.50 in money, a couple of cheap photographs, and near his hand a razor was lying.  The body was found near the railroad track and a deep wound fracturing the skull showed the manner of his death. It was thought by many that he was drunk and was struck by a passing train while lying near the track. Others thought he was struck by someone and placed near the track.
	Coroner Brinegar summoned the following jury: E. Shields Cunningham, Butler Coburn, John Cline, Ike Clem, Henry Frogge and E. D. Jones, who returned a verdict of the body being that of an unknown person who came to his death from an unknown cause.
	It was afterward learned that his name was Stanhope, a son of Jas. Stanhope, of Powell's Valley, Powell county, and that he had been in the neighborhood the previous day drinking. The Windhester Democrat. Friday, December 26, 1902

Stanley, Jonathan Samuel "Sam"	Jonathan Samuel "Sam" Stanley, 34, of Winchester died Wednesday, Nov. 4, after a long battle with chronic medical conditions.
	Sam was a graduate of George Rogers Clark High School and attended Culinary Arts School. Sam loved being surrounded by nature. He was passionate about fishing and had a keen sense of humor and a dry wit. We were all charmed by his sparkling blue eyes and mischievous smile. Sam appreciated breathtaking scenery and would marvel at the massive sky and clouds. He found peace when looking at the moon, the stars, a sunrise, or sunset. He was a generous soul and wanted to help those in need, especially the homeless. He loved cooking for his family. Sam will be missed greatly and the absence of his kind voice and easygoing personality will leave a void in the hearts of all who loved him.  Sam is survived by his parents, Mary Emmons and Gary Clay of Winchester, Johnathan and Genevieve Stanley of Lexington; sister Megan Jessica Stanley (Tim Hunt) of Denver, Colorado; grandmother Susan Adams of Winchester, beloved aunts, uncles, and cousins, and his border collie Bella. He was preceded in death by grandparents Drew and Mary Lucy Emmons and Lt. Col Harlan Adams.  A private funeral mass will be held November 13 at St. Joseph Catholic Church. 	Grandmother charged in double stabbing  Winchester Police announced this morning that Lillie Stanton was charged with two counts of murder for allegedly killing her daughter and granddaughter Sunday afternoon in a double homicide and attempted suicide. Lillie Stanton, 48, of 233 Vaught Road, told police Monday afternoon that she killed 23-year-old Danel Korrey Stanton and 22-month-old Kaydence Ray Miers Sunday at the home they all shared. Police said Lillie Stanton tried to harm herself by cutting her wrists and throat after her daughter and granddaughter died. So far, police are not releasing possible motives for the homicides or what set the events into motion. "Due to her injuries, (Lillie Stanton) was not able to talk to us until yesterday," Winchester Police Capt. James Hall said this morning in a press conference. "Ms. Stanton has given a statement to the police department admitting her actions in the murder and gave statements that she attempted to harm herself afterward." Hall said Lillie Stanton is still listed in serious condition, after being released from the intensive care unit, and in Winchester Police custody at the University of Kentucky Medical Center. Upon release, she will be lodged in the Clark County Detention Center. Lillie Stanton's ex-husband, Robert Stanton, who also lives in the home, called 911 Sunday afternoon after he returned home and found the scene, Hall said. Lillie Stanton made an initial statement to Robert Stanton, Hall said, but it did not match her statement from the hospital Monday afternoon. Neither Robert Stanton nor Miers' father Jonathon Miers were home at the time the deaths occurred. Hall did not have an exact address for Jonathon Miers, but said he lived between Winchester and Lexington. Clark County Coroner Robert Gayheart said Kaydence Miers died from a cut to her neck. Danel Stanton's cause of death is still under investigation, he said. Hall said there likely was a gap between the deaths and when Lillie Stanton tried to harm herself, though they could not establish an exact timeline. Hall said there was no history of domestic violence and no signs of forced entry to the home. Officers also recovered several knives with blood on them from the scene. They have been sent to the lab to determine which ones were used in the deaths, he said. At this point, there are no other suspects though the investigation remains open. "We're getting information every day," Hall said, and officers are continuing to interview witnesses. According to court records, a custody case between Miers' father and Danel Stanton was scheduled for Wednesday morning in Clark Family Court. The file was not available, but computer records listed Wednesday's hearing as a final hearing. "We're still waiting on court records," Hall said. Court records showed no previous violent arrests for Miers, Danel Stanton or Lillie Stanton.

Judge sets $500,000 bond for Lillie Stanton in double murder case

A District Court judge Wednesday set a $500,000 bond for a Winchester woman accused of killing her daughter and granddaughter. Lillie Stanton, 48, was arraigned via a video link on two counts of murder in the May 20 deaths of Danel Korrey Stanton, 23, and 22-month-old Kaydence Ray Miers. Judge Brandy Oliver Brown scheduled a June 13 preliminary hearing for Lillie Stanton. A not guilty plea was entered automatically on her behalf. According to Winchester Police, Lillie Stanton told officers she was concerned about a May 23 Clark County Family Court custody hearing between her daughter and Jonathon Miers. Initially, a citation filed by investigators states, Lillie Stanton wanted to take her daughter and granddaughter out of state, but did not have the money to do so. She said "killing them was the best thing to do." Winchester Police charged Stanton with the murders on May 22, after she admitted to the killings.

Lillie Stanton has been jailed at the Clark County Detention Center since being released May 23 from the University of Kentucky Medical Center. She was hospitalized for treatment of apparently self-inflicted knife wounds to her wrists and throat. According to the citation, Lillie Stanton said both Danel Stanton and Kaydence Miers were asleep in their beds May 20. She said she took Kaydence Miers to the basement and cut her throat before returning her to bed. She said she also cut Danel Stanton's throat, but was unsuccessful in killing her. She told police she then suffocated her. Jonathan Miers' mother, Linda Ross, spoke with reporters after the arraignment. "We want justice for Korrey and Kaydence," Ross said. "I just want to make sure Korrey and Kaydence aren't forgotten." Ross declined to speak about the custody hearing. "I want to make sure justice is served," Ross said. A public defender will be appointed to represent Stanton at the preliminary hearing. A District Court judge will decide whether to forward the case to a grand jury.

Staples, A. W.	For three succeeding nights Mrs. A. W. Staples, wife of the Presbyterian minister of Stupies, 11 VV	that name at South Byron, New York, dreamed that she witnessed her husband's electrocution. She saw him strapped into the fatal chair, the burning electrodes applied to his flesh, sparks of the electricity, and witnessed his horrible death. Each dream was even more realistic than the previous one. The third vision was seen a few nights ago, and the next morning when she awoke she related the story to her husband. He laughed and said: "Well, if I am to be electrocuted, I'll supply you with groceries first," and together they went to the village store. While making purchases Rev. Mr. Staples suddenly fell backward to the floor and writhed as if in great agony, frothing at the mouth and acting in every particular like a man suffering from the effects of a severe electric shock. He died in less than two minutes and hardly uttered a sound.  The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, April 19, 1893

Staples, F. J.	Strange incident
Stapies, 1.3.	Man arrested for murder on funeral train of victim Henderson – The unusual occurrence of arresting a person charged with murder who was making his escape on the funeral train of his alleged victim, took place here when the police officers took Charles Burton, a coal miner, aged 30 years, of Shelburn, Ind., into custody and lodged him in the city prison. He is a miner and is charged with shooting F.J. Staples twice and killing him at Mine No. 4 in Shelburn, a coal mining town in Sullivan county, Ind. The body of Staples was in the baggage car of the train, and Burton was riding on the cushions of the smoker. Two men, who were members of the funeral party that was taking the corpse to a point in Daviess county for interment, passed through the smoker, where they saw Burton and recognized him. When the train arrived at Henderson these two members of the funeral party proceeded to notify Officer Bonenberger, who arrested Burton.

Starr, Tom	HE KILLED SEVENTY MEN; "Old Tom Starr," one of the most remarkable desperadoes of this county is dead. He was a Cherokee Indian, six feet four inches in height, straight as an arrow, and at the time of his death nearly eighty years of age. This remarkable man came West with his father when the Cherokees were removed to this area to this part of the country. A bitter feud arose over the sale of the home of the red man, east of the Mississippi between two factions known as the Ridge and Ross parties. "Old Tom's father belonged to the Ridges. He was shot down in his own door by a party of the enemy. Tom killed three of the party on the spot, and then he began a war on the enemy in which seventy people, as estimated by the Cherokee council, were slain by him. About fifteen years ago the Cherokee council, entered into a treaty with Tom since which compromise he has lived an exemplary life.  During the days of his warfare against the Indian foe there were many deeds of desperate daring placed to his credit. By him a tax collector in Crawford county, was killed and robbed of $10,000. Watt Grayson, a Cherokee, was robbed of $32,000, and a subsequent suit against the government to recover the money developed "Old Tom" as the brains of the gang who did the neat job in a most romantic way, aided by the cunning of Bill Reid. After the robbery Reid went to Texas, where he met a tragic death and Belle and Tom quarreled over the Grayson booty. Belle married Sam, Tom's pet son to spite "Old Tom" and his wife. Three years ago Sam Starr and Bill West, cousins, killed each other in a duel over family matters, and a little later Belle Starr was shot while on horse back, near her home in Younger's Bend, presumably by friends of her husband, who believed she conspired with West to kill Sam. "Old Tom" would talk freely of his deeds in revenge of his father's death, but he rarely spoke of his other exploits.—Denver News.

Steele, Andrew F.	Shooting At Versailles. Andrew F. Steele, Prominent Business man Killed By Merritt J. Hughes—Politics Was at the Bottom of It.  Versailles, Ky., Sept. 1.—Andrew F. Steele, a prominent business man of Versailles and an ex-councilman and a very prominent factor in politics, aged about 50 years, was shot and killed Wednesday afternoon by Merritt J. Hughes, also a prominent business man of this place.  The shooting took place on Main street. Bad blood had existed between the two men for over a year. Politics was at the bottom. Steele and Hughes met on the street and Steele called Hughes a vile name. Hughes told Steele that he did not want any trouble with him. Steele repeated the same vile epithet and took out his knife, Hughes said: "You can't draw a knife on me." Steele cursed Hughes for the third time and then Hughes drew his pistol and fired four shots in rapid succession.  The first shot went wild, but the others took effect in Steele's body, killing him almost instantly.  Ex-Senator Blackburn witnessed the shooting, Steele had been drinking some, but a friend who was with him a short time before he was killed said he was not drunk. Hughes was immediately arrested and placed in jail. Both men are very prominent. Steele was the son of the late Judge William J. Steele and a brother of J. W. Steele, the dealers in lumber. He is a very peaceable man and very popular. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, September 6, 1898

Steele, John	Awful accident
	Richard and John Steele instantly killed by a C & O train
	The universal brotherhood of man is never more clearly shown that by shock of sympathy and horror that comes with the announcement of some accident involving the loss of human life and there were few hearts that did not feel a shock over the sudden death of Richard and John Steele Thursday night. The West bound passenger train on the C & O road which leaves here for Lexington between five and six o'clock was behind time. A cold and stormy day was giving place to a colder and stormier night.
	Everybody was shielding himself so far as possible from the cutting blast and intense cold; between this city and Pine Grove is a long stretch of straight track with down grade and at the foot of the grade is the crossing near Tebbs' station, a small flag station a short distance on this side of Pine Grove. The long, straight track and down grade is a favorite place to make up lost schedule time and the trainmen were making the most of the opportunity. The point where the short pike leading from the old Todd's road to the Combs Ferry pike is one of the most favorable places imaginable for a tragedy. The railroad occupies a cut of considerable depth and the grade of the pike at the crossing had to be lowered six or seven feet to reach the grade of the railroad. This effectually shuts off all view of approaching trains from the east, and for this reason the crossing is regarded as one of the most dangerous on the road. When within a few feet of the crossing, engineer Owens saw a horse and buggy crossing the track directly in front of him. It was too late for air brakes or danger signals for the momentum of the train carried it far beyond the point before it could be stopped. The engine struck the vehicle squarely between the front and rear wheels, and utterly demolished it in an instant. The shock was so great as to tear the buggy loose from the horse and the animal escaped unharmed. When the train was stopped the crew went back to find the occupants of the buggy. They looked along both sides of the track and even up a considerable distance from it. Portions of the buggy and harness were found but no bodies. After they had returned to the train the bodies of two men were found on the pilot or cow catcher of the engine, both entirely dead. They carried the bodies to Pine Grove where the were recognized as Richard and John Steele. On examining their injuries it was found that one side of Richard's head and face had been crushed. Few or no bruises were found on John's body and unless the spinal cord was wrenched and broken, death probably ensued from shock. The two men were brothers and were on their way to the home of a brother-in-law, Rev. Wm. R. Moore, when the accident occurred. In the buggy were a number of school books belonging to Mr. Moore's daughter and this at first gave rise to the report that she had been killed. Undertaker Milward, of Lexington, was notified and took charge of the remains. The funeral of each took place at the family residence Saturday and they were buried in the Lexington cemetery. John, the elder brother, was about forty-five years old and lived near Yarnalltown, Fayette county. He leaves a wife, formerly Miss Patrick, of Fayette county, and three children. Richard was several years younger. He leaves a wife and four children. The former was Miss Susie Jones, daughter of the late Roger Jones, of this county, and one of the loveliest ladies of central Kentucky. Both the brothers were among the most energetic and successful farmers in the State. Richard and his brother-in-law, Rev. Moore, for years rented hundreds of acres each year and probably raised more wheat, hemp etc., than any other firm in this county. John was a large farmer in Fayette county and, as might have been expected from such hustling, energetic men, both were very successful. Both the brothers carried policies of life insurance. John had ten thousand dollars on his life and Richard half that amount. On the subject of the deadly railroad crossing the Lexington Gazette says: "There is great horror felt at the recent railroad accidents by which the lives of four of the best citizens of Central Kentucky have been sacrificed to carelessness or worse, and there is a general demand that all railroads be required by statute to provide against such in future. This can be done by requiring flagmen to be placed at crossings or bridges built when this is practicable. The death of the Steele brothers has brought this subject prominently before this community where these men were known and loved and esteemed as among the best and most enterprising citizens in the county. If our representatives in the Legislature would have an act passed requiring these precautions to be taken by railroads, it would meet with the universal approbation of their constituents."

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, February 25, 1896

The killing of the Steele brothers has called attention to the unprotected and dangerous crossings. As mentioned, elsewhere Judge Phelps, of Fayette county, has introduced a bill in the Legislature requiring a flagman at every grade crossing. One of the most dangerous of these crossings is that where the Lexington pike crosses the C & O road. AS this is within the city limits, the City Council has jurisdiction and at its next meeting will be petitioned to order some safeguards established by the railroad. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, February 28, 1896

A good bill introduced

The death of Messrs. Richard and John Steele, who were killed last week by a train at Tebbs' station, has aroused interest in the subject and Judge Phelps, who represents Fayette county in the Legislature, has introduced a bill in the Legislature which makes it obligatory for railroad companies to station a flagman at every railroad crossing at least ten minutes before the train passes. Whenever there are cuts near the crossings or from any other cause the approach of trains cannot be seen from the crossings, the companies must erect bridges to accommodate the traveling public. If they erect the bridges they do not have to maintain a flagman at the crossing. If companies violate the provisions of the bill they may be fined any sum at the discretion of the jury.

Big Suits on Hand

The big damage suits brought by the administrators of John Steele, of Fayette county and Richard Steele, of this county, against the C. and O. road, will come up at Frankfort in the Federal Court to-day. It will be remembered that one cold and stormy night last winter these men were killed at Tebbs Station, this county, while crossing the railroad track in a buggy. The suits are for $20,000 in each case.

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, January 12, 1897

Verdict For Damages

The case of the administrators of John and Richard Steele against the C. and O. Railroad, has occupied the attention of the Federal Court in Frankfort this week. The two cases were tried together and the jury gave a verdict for eight thousand dollars damages in each case. It is thought that the road will not appeal as it is said the officials offered five thousand dollars as a compromise.

The Winchester Democrat, Friday, January 22, 1897.

Verdict Affirmed

Our readers will remember that Richard Steele, of this county, and John Steele, of Fayette, while crossing the C. & O. road in a buggy near Tebbs' Station one bitter cold night a couple of years ago were struck by a West bound passenger train and were instantly killed. Their widows brought suit for $25,000 each and the cases were transferred to the Circuit Court, where a verdict for $8,000 was given in each case. The railroad appealed to the Federal Court at Cincinnati where the judgement of the lower court was affirmed.

The Winchester Democrat, Friday, January 7, 1898

The award of the jury of $8,000 each to the administrators of Richard and John Steele who were killed a few years ago near Pine Grove, by a train on the C. and O. road, have been paid by the road.

	The Winchester Democrat, Friday, May 27, 1898
	Nearly a Tragedy.  The place where the Basin Spring pike crosses the C. & O. road near Tebbs Station, will be remembered as the place where Messrs. Richard and John Steele were killed by the cars a few years ago. This came near being the scene of a similar tragedy Monday afternoon. Just as the whistle of the approaching train was heard, the colored driver of a team of miles attached to a heavy wagon belonging to S. T. Prewitt. Lost control of his team. Realizing that a collision could not be averted, he jumped and thus saved himself. The train struck the wagon completely demolishing it, and most of the fragments remained on the pilot of the engine. The mules were thrown down but their weight and strength broke the harness and prevented their being drawn under the wheels. It was a narrow escape for the team and driver.

Patterson Steele died Tuesday in a Lexington hospital of a complication of diseases, aged forty-eight years. His home was at Payne's depot, Scott county. At one time he lived in this county where he has many friends. The remains were buried in the Lexington cemetery, funeral services being conducted by Elds. Collis and Shouse. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, July 24, 1908 The Winchester Sun Fri., 7-31-1987 Steele, Reese Steele, Richard Awful accident Richard and John Steele instantly killed by a C & O train The universal brotherhood of man is never more clearly shown that by shock of sympathy and horror that comes with the announcement of some accident involving the loss of human life and there were few hearts that did not feel a shock over the sudden death of Richard and John Steele Thursday night. The West bound passenger train on the C & O road which leaves here for Lexington between five and six o'clock was behind time. A cold and stormy day was giving place to a colder and stormier night. Everybody was shielding himself so far as possible from the cutting blast and intense cold; between this city and Pine Grove is a long stretch of straight track with down grade and at the foot of the grade is the crossing near Tebbs' station, a small flag station a short distance on this side of Pine Grove. The long, straight track and down grade is a favorite place to make up lost schedule time and the trainmen were making the most of the opportunity. The point where the short pike leading from the old Todd's road to the Combs Ferry pike is one of the most favorable places imaginable for a tragedy. The railroad occupies a cut of considerable depth and the grade of the pike at the crossing had to be lowered six or seven feet to reach the grade of the railroad. This effectually shuts off all view of approaching trains from the east, and for this reason the crossing is regarded as one of the most dangerous on the road. When within a few feet of the crossing, engineer Owens saw a horse and buggy crossing the track directly in front of him. It was too late for air brakes or danger signals for the momentum of the train carried it far beyond the point before it could be stopped. The engine struck the vehicle squarely between the front and rear wheels, and utterly demolished it in an instant. The shock was so great as to tear the buggy loose from the horse and the animal escaped unharmed. When the train was stopped the crew went back to find the occupants of the buggy. They looked along both sides of the track and even up a considerable distance from it. Portions of the buggy and harness were found but no bodies. After they had returned to the train the bodies of two men were found on the pilot or cow catcher of the engine, both entirely dead. They carried the bodies to Pine Grove where the were recognized as Richard and John Steele. On examining their injuries it was found that one side of Richard's head and face had been crushed. Few or no bruises were found on John's body and unless the spinal cord was wrenched and broken, death probably ensued from shock. The two men were brothers and were on their way to the home of a brother-in-law, Rev. Wm. R. Moore, when the accident occurred. In the buggy were a number of school books belonging to Mr. Moore's daughter and this at first gave rise to the report that she had been killed. Undertaker Milward, of Lexington, was notified and took charge of the remains. The funeral of each took place at the family residence Saturday and they were buried in the Lexington cemetery. John, the elder brother, was about forty-five years old and lived near Yarnalltown, Fayette county. He leaves a wife, formerly Miss Patrick, of Fayette county, and three children. Richard was several years younger. He leaves a wife and four children. The former was Miss Susie Jones, daughter of the late Roger Jones, of this county, and one of the loveliest ladies of central Kentucky. Both the brothers were among the most energetic and successful farmers in the State. Richard and his brother-in-law, Rev. Moore, for years rented hundreds of acres each year and probably raised more wheat, hemp etc., than any other firm in this county. John was a large farmer in Fayette county and, as might have been expected from such hustling, energetic men, both were very successful. Both the brothers carried policies of life insurance. John had ten thousand dollars on his life and Richard half that amount. On the subject of the deadly railroad crossing the Lexington Gazette says: "There is great horror felt at the recent railroad accidents by which the lives of four of the best citizens of Central Kentucky have been sacrificed to carelessness or worse, and there is a general demand that all railroads be required by statute to provide against such in future. This can be done by requiring flagmen to be placed at crossings or bridges built when this is practicable. The death of the Steele brothers has brought this subject prominently before this community where these men were known and loved and esteemed as among the best and most enterprising citizens in the county. If our representatives in the Legislature would have an act passed requiring these precautions to be taken by railroads, it would meet with the universal approbation of their constituents." The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, February 25, 1896 The killing of the Steele brothers has called attention to the unprotected and dangerous crossings. As mentioned, elsewhere Judge Phelps, of Fayette county, has introduced a bill in the Legislature requiring a flagman at every grade crossing. One of the most dangerous of these crossings is that where the Lexington pike crosses the C & O road. AS this is within the city limits, the City Council has jurisdiction and at its next meeting will be petitioned to order some safeguards established by the railroad.

The Winchester Democrat, Friday, February 28, 1896

A good bill introduced

The death of Messrs. Richard and John Steele, who were killed last week by a train at Tebbs' station, has aroused interest in the subject and Judge Phelps, who represents Fayette county in the Legislature, has introduced a bill in the Legislature which makes it obligatory for railroad companies to station a flagman at every railroad crossing at least ten minutes before the train passes. Whenever there are cuts near the crossings or from any other cause the approach of trains cannot be seen from the crossings, the companies must erect bridges to accommodate the traveling public. If they erect the bridges they do not have to maintain a flagman at the crossing. If companies violate the provisions of the bill they may be fined any sum at the discretion of the jury. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, March 3, 1896 Mrs. Susie Steele qualified as administratrix of Richard Steele and as guardian of their children. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, March 6, 1896 Big Suits on Hand The big damage suits brought by the administrators of John Steele, of Fayette county and Richard Steele, of this county, against the C. and O. road, will come up at Frankfort in the Federal Court to-day. It will be remembered that one cold and stormy night last winter these men were killed at Tebbs Station, this county, while crossing the railroad track in a buggy. The suits are for $20,000 in each case. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, January 12, 1897 Verdict For Damages The case of the administrators of John and Richard Steele against the C. and O. Railroad, has occupied the attention of the Federal Court in Frankfort this week. The two cases were tried together and the jury gave a verdict for eight thousand dollars damages in each case. It is thought that the road will not appeal as it is said the officials offered five thousand dollars as a compromise. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, January 22, 1897. Verdict Affirmed Our readers will remember that Richard Steele, of this county, and John Steele, of Fayette, while crossing the C. & O. road in a buggy near Tebbs' Station one bitter cold night a couple of years ago were struck by a West bound passenger train and were instantly killed. Their widows brought suit for $25,000 each and the cases were transferred to the Circuit Court, where a verdict for $8,000 was given in each case. The railroad appealed to the Federal Court at Cincinnati where the judgement of the lower court was affirmed. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, January 7, 1898 The award of the jury of $8,000 each to the administrators of Richard and John Steele who were killed a few years ago near Pine Grove, by a train on the C. and O. road, have been paid by the road. The Winchester Democrat, Friday, May 27, 1898 Nearly a Tragedy. The place where the Basin Spring pike crosses the C. & O. road near Tebbs Station, will be remembered as the place where Messrs. Richard and John Steele were killed by the cars a few years ago. This came near being the scene of a similar tragedy Monday afternoon. Just as the whistle of the approaching train was heard, the colored driver of a team of miles attached to a heavy wagon belonging to S. T. Prewitt. Lost control of his team. Realizing that a collision could not be averted, he jumped and thus saved himself. The train struck the wagon completely demolishing it, and most of the fragments remained on the pilot of the engine. The mules were thrown down but their weight and strength broke the harness and prevented their being drawn under the wheels. It was a narrow escape for the team and driver. 	Daughter of dairyman meets a terrible fate

	Covington, Ky., - Miss Minnie Steenken, 17, daughter of Herman Steenken, a dairyman on the Highland pike, three miles from here, received burns which caused her death.
	Shortly after breakfast she went into the kitchen to heat some water for her mother, who is confined to bed with blood poisoning. In placing the kettle upon the cook stove a draught caused her apron to come in contact with the flames. Rushing from the kitchen she ran screaming for help, and her body surrounded by a mass of fire. At the stable some farm hand seized the girl and tore the burning clothes from her. A physician was summoned at once and an examination disclosed that the burn received are of a nature almost necessarily fatal. The portions of the very worst affected are the breast, back, arms and hands. Her hair was almost completely burned. Herman Steenken, the father

Stephenson, George AA	Paid The Penalty
	Geo. Stephenson Hanged at Stanford, KY., for the Murder of Joe Tilford—He Was Strangled to Death. Stanford, Ky., Aug. 19.—Geo. Stephenson, colored, was hanged here at 8:30 o'clock
Stephenson, Helen Jones	Thursday morning. In 23 ½ minutes, Stephenson who killed Joe Tilford, was pronounced dead by Drs. C. M. Thompson and W. B. O'Bannon. His neck was not broken, owing to the stretching of the rope. He died of strangulation. He was not the least excited, and after walking to the gallows unsupported, he spoke several minutes in a clear voice, telling how his sins had been washed away. Threats by Negroes amounted to nothing and nothing unexpected happened. On the afternoon of July 4, 1898, at a flag raising at Crab Orchard, Lincoln county, George Stephenson, on coming out of a saloon and without a word of warning, shot to death Joe Tilford, a white boy, 13 years old firing five shots, three of which struck him. After a hot chase the Negro was caught and placed in the little wooden jail there and a force of men ordered to guard the building. A number of starts were made to take Stephenson out and hang him, but cooler heads prevailed on those who wanted to hang him to let the law take its course, and at nightfall Sheriff Sam M. Owens, with a heavy guard, brought him to Stanford and put him in the county jail. A grand jury was summoned the next day and his trial ended two days later, when the jury returned a verdict of death. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, August 23, 1898  George Stephenson, colored, was hanged at Stanford Thursday for the murder of Joe Tilford, a white boy, fourteen years old, at Crab Orchard July 4 th . He was tried and convicted three days thereafter. The killing was deliberate and entirely unprovoked. He spoke a few words on the scaffold saying he was prepared to die. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, August 30, 1898  Helen Jones Stephenson, widow of former mayor Charles G. Stephenson Jr., passed

	After suffering horrible agony in numerous convulsions, during which he frothed at the mouth and growled like an angry dog, George Wells, 14 years old, died here at the home of his parents of hydrophobia which developed from an injury received six years ago from a mad dog bite. He was stricken with measles last week, hydrophobia developed Sunday, and his growls and cries could be heard in the street. Wells is the third to die from injuries inflicted by the same dog, which ran through the streets here during the street fair in October, 1900, biting Henry Vaughn and George Stevens and terrorizing the community. Over 100 shots were fired at the mad brute without effect. In passing Robert Wells' home the dog attacked dogs belonging to Wells, who ran to Vaughn developed hydrophobia, dying a week later in convulsions. Stevens' health

Stewart,	Lieut. Col. Williams Dead.
	The Deputy Quartermaster General, U. S. A., Succumbs to Yellow Fever at Havana, Cuba.
	Cuba.  Washington, Nov. 12.—Adjt. Gen. Corbin received a message Friday morning from Gen. Wade, chairman of the Cuban evacuation commission at Havana, announcing the death from yellow fever of Lieut. Col. Charles W. Williams (not W. A. Williams), deputy quartermaster general.  Lieut. Col. Williams was the youngest officer in his grade, being only about 45 years of age, and was regarded as certain of becoming quartermaster general in the course of a few years. He was a native of Kentucky and was appointed to the military academy from that state.  In Havana he held the rank of colonel. Mrs. Williams and family are now in Washington. She is a daughter of Gen. John R. Gordon, of Georgia.  Havana, Nov., 12—The body of Col. Williams will be embalmed and will be carried directly on board the Ward line steamer Segurancia, which was expected here Friday afternoon from Vera Cruz, for shipment north. The remains of Mr. Stewart were buried here Friday afternoon. The deaths have caused a profound sensation. It is a strange coincidence that the only cases of yellow fever among foreigners here lately have been those of the members of the American commissions and staffs.

Stewart, David "Coondog" Marion	On Tuesday, May 9th, 2023, David "Coondog" Marion Stewart of Sharpsburg, Ky, was called home at the age of 68. His love and devotion to his family were evident during his hard fought battle with cancer. He is survived by his beloved wife of thirty-eight years, Debbie Stewart (Terrell), his children Kenneth Barnett, Trish Stewart, Sarah Criswell, Conner Stewart, Marissa Stewart, and Angel Stewart; and his grandchildren, Eleanor and Nolan Stewart, Kenley and Abby Barnett, and Grayson Criswell; and sisters, Inas Meadows, Ginny Williams, and Libby McIntosh. He was preceded in death by his parents, Kenneth "Radio" Stewart, and Mary Stewart (Carl); sister Fuzzy Goldy, and brother Daryl Stewart.  David was honest, kind, and hard working. He was a lifelong farmer, and talented carpenter. No matter how difficult his work was, he looked forward to getting up and getting the job done. He believed any job worth doing, was worth doing well.  He was admired by his friends for many reasons, including his success in breeding and training prize winning coondogs. He could be turned to in times of trouble, and in times of joy. He was good at making us laugh at ourselves.

	He taught us so much. We learned to appreciate the great outdoors and be grateful for what we could reap from the earth. He made sure we understood that we should treat everyone fairly no matter how different they are from us. He reminded us that it's important to enjoy life and each other. In that spirit, we ask that you take time to remember the good times you had with him. Know that you will meet again at heaven's gate

Stewart, James	The old story of two trains on the same track and going in different directions was enacted again Friday morning with the same result. Near Slate Creek, in Montgomery county, the engine of a freight train slipped an eccentric, and during the delay caused thereby, through improper flagging, the passenger train came along and crashed into it.
	A number of cars were demolished and James Stewart, fireman on the passenger train was so badly crushed about the head that he died the following night. Stewart was formerly from this city and worked for a long time at Conn's Mill. He was an industrious, bright young man, and in a couple of weeks would have been promoted to a position as engineer.

THE Insurance Herald prints an article strongly suggesting fraud in the manipulation of a life insurance policy. The facts are that about August 1º Joe Stewart of this county, who was at work in a brick yard in Mr. Sterling was insured for $9,000. Of this $1,000 was taken out in favor of his mother and $8,000 was transferred to Mr. Howe to secure a debt as is claimed by He woungen that he was in the last stages of consumption when insured: and that fraud and collision among several was practiced. They say a common labore would not be bear to pay for that much insurance and could not obtain credit for an indebedness that it would take $8,000 to secure. Those implicated say that everything is straight and all right, a suit will probably result. Judge Apperson was here this week looking up proof for the company. Stewart, M. L.	W. Scott Glore, for several years largely interested in the Frankfort Lottery of Kentucky, died of paralysis of the brain at his residence in Louisville last week, aged forty-eight years. He leaves a fortune of $150,000 for a widow and one son. A strange fatality has followed the owners of this lottery. Ex Gov. Bramlette, one of the founders, fell dead of heart disease before he realized any of his profits; C. M. Briggs, another, met the same fate; W. D. Barrow made a fortune in it and died suddenly while on a visit to Colorado; Chas. J. Howard, one of the founders, and who also was one of the starters of the New Orleans lottery was thrown from a buggy in New York and killed; M. L.
	Stewart, who had a long legal contest about the lottery, fell dead on the street, and George Miller, a prominent owner, died of delirium tremens.

Stillwagon, Mrs. Rachel	In 1842 Mrs. Rachel Stillwagon, of Flushing Long Island, being then 56 years old, and feeling rather feeble, concluded to make her will. With careful and tender impartiality she divided her comfortable estate among a large number of relatives. She died last week at the age of 105 and none of the relatives are left. The poor things grew tired of waiting.

Stix, Mrs & son	At Big Bone, Boone county, Mrs. Stix and her seven-year-old boy went out Tuesday to gather blackberries. When they did not return at the time expected a search was instituted, and on Wednesday they were found lying dead in a shallow pool of water. It seems impossible that it could be an accident, as there was not over six inches of water in the pond.

	There are two theories advanced one that the woman wanted to commit suicide, and, in order to do this, murdered the boy first. The other is that they were murdered, for it is said that there were indications the woman had been assaulted. Excitement reigns supreme there.

Stone, Samuel Hanson	Samuel Hanson Stone Brief Sketch of Kentucky's New Auditor of Public Accounts Samuel Hanson Stone, whom the Republicans have elected Auditor of Public Accounts, was born in Madison county forty-six years ago. He is a son of General James C. Stone, now of Leavenworth, Kan., who was Captain of a company from Madison county in the Mexican War, and was Assistant Q. M. General in the late war. His collateral ancestor, Thomas Stone of Maryland, signed the Declaration of Independence. General Stone's father came from Virginia and his mother was a Rodes, of an old and wealthy Madison family from Virginia. Auditor Stone's mother was a daughter of Samuel Hanson, lawyer and Legislator of Winchester, father of General Roger Hanson of Confederate fame and Colonel Charles Hanson, of the Union Army, Samuel Hanson's wife was a daughter of General Richard Hickman, of Winchester a distinguished citizen of his day, who acted as Governor during Governor Shelby's campaign against the British and Indians in the North-west in 1813. Gen. Hickman's wife was a daughter of Colonel
	Richard Callaway, a distinguished pioneer and companion of Daniel Boone, and therefore a sister of Elizabeth and Fanny Callaway, heroines in that famous pioneer romance of the Dark and Bloody Ground, wherein the two young ladies with Miss Boone, were captured by the Indians and rescued by their fathers and lovers. Auditor Stone was educated in the East and in Leipzig and Heidelberg and probably used the same tactics on Auditor Norman with which he so signally defeated the finest swordsmen in Europe.  His wife is a daughter of ex-Senator John D. Harris, of Madison, and they have two grown sons. Mr. Stone has an 800-acre bluegrass farm near Richmond, and his home life abounds with charming hospitality.—Maysville Public Ledger.  The Winchester Democrat, Friday, November 22, 1895
	A sketch of Auditor-elect Sam H. Stone in our last issue was credited to the Maysville Ledger, where we found it without credit. It should have been credited to the Richmond Climax where it first appeared.  The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, November 26, 1895

Stonestreet, James	The venerable James Stonestreet whose death, in this county, we noticed last week, emigrated with his father from Virginia and settled in this county. After remaining here some years, Mr. James Stonestreet moved to Clark county. While here with Gen. Leslie Combs and Major Price were deputy clerks under County Clerk Woodson, father of the late Judge Tucker Woodson. Mr. Woodson then lived on a place now owned by Mrs.
	Shelby, about a mile from town, on the Danville pike and the County Clerk's office was in the yard. That was before Nicholasville was founded. For thirty two years Mr.
	Stonestreet served as Clerk of the Senate and House of Representatives of Kentucky, the duties of which he discharged with credit to himself and satisfaction to all concerned. He was an honored member of the Presbyterian church, and the oldest Presbyterian Elder in Kentucky. In church polity he was as well posted as in the affairs of State, and he is said to be the only Elder that could cope with the late Dr. Breckinridge on questions of church government. About twenty or twenty five years ago he sold his farm in Clark county and moved to Missouri, where he bought land and settled his children in comfortable circumstances. At the time of the late unpleasantness, he returned to Kentucky, and after remaining a few years among his old neighbors in Clark, in 1866 he came to this county to live in retirement with his grand-daughter, Mrs. Thomas Butler, where he breathed hid last, as stated, at the advanced age of 91 years. Of him it may be truly said, "Thehead is a crown of glory, it being found in the way of righteousness",Jessamine Journal.

	Came Back For Trial.  When Sim Dezarn killed Louis Stores in Estill county a year or two ago, Harvey Thomas was present and was accused of being implicated, although he denied any knowledge or complicity, still to avoid arrest and a term in jail he left home. Sunday his brother, Winfield Thomas, of this county, went to Cincinnati and brought him back. They went to Irvine yesterday where a speedy trial is promised Harvey, in which he has no fears that his innocence will be established. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, July 1, 1902

Storm, Mrs. Catherine	Mrs. Catherine Storm died at Lexington Sunday and her remains were brought to this city Monday and placed in the vault. She was a Miss Haris and an aunt of Dr. Glenmore Combs, of Hedges. Her husband, Joel Storms, who died thirty-three years ago, was jailer of this county and a detective of more than local reputation. It was him who tracked Ned Hawkins through several States and finally brought him to justice after having married a dozen wives and killed almost as many people.  The Democrat, Wednesday, January 6, 1892.

Storr, Burch	Troops To Guard The Court.  Lexington, Ky., June 3.—The Lexington battalion of the state guard with a Gatling gun, left here on a special train Saturday morning for Manchester, the county seat of Clay county, to protect the court while Tom Baker and accomplices are tried for killing Wilson Howard and Burch Stone last year in the Baker-Howard feud. Ammunition for rifles and Gatling gun arrived here Friday morning. There was target practice Friday afternoon and Col. Williams took 30 of the best marksmen from each company, besides the Gatling gun battery and the men to serve it.  The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, June 6, 1899
	Baker Kept His Word. Was in Waiting, When the State Guard Arrived—He Says It Will Be Easy to Prove an Alibi.
	Manchester, Ky., June 9.—The Bakers are in the guardhouse at Camp George Bradley, under the protection of the state militia. Wednesday morning at 4 o'clock a detail of 20 men, under Maj. J. Embry Allen and Capt. Fred Wilson, guided by Deputy Sheriff Stubblefield, left Manchester in two jolt wagons. They arrived at the home of Perry Collins on Cane creek, 12 miles from here, about 8:30 o'clock. As per his agreement Tom Baker was there. With him was his wife, his son, his brothers, Dee and A. W.
	Baker and their friend, Robert Henley. Immediately upon arrival at Collins' home Stubblefield read to Tom Baker a warrant sworn by county Judge Wright, charging him with the murder of Burch Stoor, who was killed from ambush on April 6, 1898, along with Wilson Howard, and at the same time that a. B. Howard was punctured in the back, for all of which Tom Baker is held responsible. The arrest of Baker by Stubblefield on such a warrant was as much a surprise to the soldiers as it was to Baker, who on the other hand, regarded the troops, whom he believed had come merely for the purpose of protecting him, with suspicion, believing, for a time, that he was being entrapped.  The entire party named above entered the wagons with the guards and were driven back to Manchester. The Bakers were uneasy all the route and kept watchful eyes on the hilltops and ever tried to penetrate the denseness of the roadside brush and foliage for evidence of some lurking enemy with an assassin's heart. The journey, however, was without particular incident, nothing occurring that was the least in evidence that the opposing faction had made a move to take Baker's life.

Baker says he is innocent of the murders charged against him and can easily prove an alibi.

The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, June 13, 1899

Clay County Feud

The Trial of the Bakers at Manchester terminated in a tragedy in spite of the presence of the troops. The indictments against the Bakers were quashed, new ones found, and a change of venue to Knox county had been granted. Tom Baker, the principal prisoner, stepped out of the tent in which he was guarded and was shot through the heart by a bullet fired from the house of Sheriff Bev. White across the street. The assassin was not found, although when broken into, White's house was found to be well stocked with guns.

The troops left Sunday for Barbourville with two of the other Bakers as prisoners. John G. White, of this city, brother of Sheriff and of Will White who was killed by Tom Baker, left Sunday for the seat of war. It is expected that trouble will break out afresh. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, June 13, 1899

Capt. Slack was with the soldier boys at Manchester as Adjutant. On the was to Barbourville the forces were interrupted by a crowd whose object is thought to have been the capture of the Gatling gun, of which they stood in wholesome awe, but when this was placed in position they left at once. He thinks there will be more trouble in Clay county and says that no one can foresee the end.

JIM BAKER TRIAL

The Prosecution Concluded Its Testimony by Introducing Four Witnesses-Baker Claims an Alibi.

BARBOURVILLE, Ky., Aug 5.-In the Jim Baker trial the prosecution concluded its testimony by introducing four witnesses. A. B. Howard testified that he was wounded at the time his son William was killed. As they were riding along the road they were shot at by persons in ambush. He recognized Tom Baker and some one whom he thought was Jim. James Robinson, who was working at Bakers' house when the killing occurred, testified that soon after shots were fired Tom and Jim came home greatly excited. Just before the shooting he said Tom went down the road in the direction whence the shots came, with what he thought to be a gun. Robinson testified in the examining trial that Tom and Jim were both home when the shots were fired. Now he claims that he was forced by the Bakers to swear to a lie as they threatened to kill him. John Collins testified that when he heard shots he immediately ran up the hill in their direction. He saw two men enter Tom Baker's house, but could not identify them. Fuller Barrett had testified twice before that Tom and Jim were at home when Wilson Howard was killed. This time he swore that he, in company with Jim, Tom and Wiley Baker were together in the road when Howard came up: that Tom fired and Burch Storr fell dead and Bill Howard was wounded. Jim Baker fired and there was a fusillade of bullets. He said the Bakers forced him to swear false the first two times. Barrett was indicted with the Bakers for the murder, but after his indictment had been canceled by the commonwealth he turned state's evidence. He is a first cousin to Tom Baker. The defense claims to be able to prove an alibi.

ADMITTED TO BAIL

Wiley Baker Charged Together with Jim Baker, With the Murder of Wm. Howard and Storr, Released.

BARBOURSVILLE, Ky., Aug. 2.-Monday morning a motion was made and tried in the court to admit Wiley Baker to bail, this was done before Judge Dishham, who placed his bond at $ 2,500 in each case. Gen T. T. Garrard of Manchester, was his security. Wiley, together with Jim are charged with the murder of Wilson Howard and Burch Storr. No date was set for Wiley's trial. Jim, the oldest son of Tom, will be given his final trial beginning Tuesday morning. It is not probable that a motion will be made for bail in Jim's case, as it most likely would be denied. About 20 of the Bakers and many of the supporters are here. A large White force is also here, but none of the Whites. Both sides are heavily armed and considerable bitter feeling is expressed. The Bakers said Monday night that the other side are attempting to bridle the Bakers' witnesses. The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, August 8, 1899.

Jas. Baker Acquitted

James Baker was acquitted at Barbourville Monday of the murder of Wilson Howard. The case against him for the murder of Butch Storr was continued, and he was released on $1,000 bond. His Attorneys believe this case will be dismissed.

Story, _____

A terrible tragedy occurred Monday at Murray, in Calloway county. Two men named, Story and Cochran, were in love with a Miss Kelley, daughter of an ex-Deputy Sheriff of that name. Last Sunday Story and the girl were married. Cochran was very much excited over the marriage, and was heard to threaten Story's life, but Monday morning went to him and made up. Tuesday night, however, Cochran went to Kelley's house and called Story out, asking him to take a walk with him, as he had something to say. When a short distance from the house Cochran drew a revolver and without a word shot Story in the mouth, killing him instantly. He then went to the house, and meeting Kelley, the father of the girl, he drew his gun again and shot him, the ball taking effect in his mouth also. At last accounts, Kelley was alive.

After the investigation by the Coroner she was arrested and charged with having poisoned it. On her examination she was held over for trial without bail and placed in jail. She became very nervous and since the hanging of the negro, Tom Stout, a few days ago, she has shown symptoms of insanity. She was taken to the Asylum where she died Saturday the result of exhaustion from acute mania.  The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, December 11, 1906

Strader, James	James Strader Dead To The Last He Begged Them To Take Off His Bandages Lexington, Ky., April 2 Jas. Strader, who was shot while hunting ducks at the city reservoir last Tuesday, succumbed to his wounds Monday morning. He was in a semi-conscious condition at intervals during his confinement in the hospital, but died without the knowledge that his eyes had been removed by the surgeons in an effort to save his life. It required the combined strength of two men at all times to prevent him from tearing the bandages from his eyes, while on one mission it was necessary to place him in a straightjacket. At all times during his confinement he begged the nurses to take the bandages off his eyes for a few minutes and allow him to see those about him. Benjamin Stewart, who is under arrest charged with the shooting was arraigned in court and the charge against him changed to murder. His examining trial was set for Friday.

Strange, Tobe	The subject of this sketch was a native of Estill county. He was a giant in strength and prided himself on his ability to whip any number of men that could get to him in a rough and tumble fight. The late Judge Robert Fluty who knew him well, told me of a number of incidents connected with Puckett's fighting career. About fifty years ago, at Elkins Mill (Vienna), in this county Puckett was engaged in one of the most terrific battles of his life. About the year 1855 he located in the southern part of Anderson county where he married a Miss Kaze. I was a small boy then and Mr. Puckett appeared to like me. At least, he petted me and in my childish fancy I looked upon him as a great hero. At almost every public gathering there would be a fist and skull fight with Puckett as the star performer. On one of these occasions he severely whipped a young man by the name of James Searcy. Some months afterward there was a sale on Beaver creek. Puckett was there as was Searcy. Searcy was a small man but had attained some reputation as a fighter, and was engaged at Dog Walk in a fight with the Millers, of Washington county, in which wounded. His life was despaired of for a time. Puckett walked to the spring about one hundred yards from where the sale was being held, and after getting a drink of water started to return when Searcy deliberately raised his squirrel rifle and shot him. The ball entered the lower part of the chest and went through the body. Puckett fell and everyone believed he would die in a short time. He was placed on a sled and taken to his home, and after a few months recovered. Later he was at a Logrolling at Frank Baxter's on Puncheon creek. As usual he got into a fight. This time it was with Mr. Baxter. He had Baxter down and was beating him when Baxter got out his knife and cut Puckett severely in a number of places. Puckett went to his home bleeding profusely. That night a shot was fired through the window of Baxter's house and Tobe Strange was hit in the shoulder. The parties rushed out but could find no

Strickrod, Harry W. Striebel, James	The Winchester Sun Mon., 11-22-1993  THE neighbors of James Striebel, of Brownstown, Ind., are inclined to believe that he is Strieber, James	an object, even in his grave, of the divine vengeance. Striebel was killed by lightning last summer just after he had shouted out a blasphemous curse at the elements. His friends buried him and erected a stone monument nine feet high to his memory. A few nights ago this monument was struck by a thunderbolt and shivered into pieces, and the superstitious people are much exercised over the circumstance. They must have an exalted idea of the power that rules the universe.

Strong, William	Died With His Boots On.  A few weeks ago we chronicled what was supposed and hoped to be the closing act in the feud which had long existed in Breathitt county between the Strong and Callahan clans. Both parties went to the county seat fully armed and prepared for blood. At the solicitation of mutual friends the leaders shook hands and agreed to live in peace and the members of the two bands rode home together in seeming amity and good fellowship. The hopes that this would end the scenes of bloodshed and assassination which have disgraced the fair name of Breathitt county seemed well founded, but proved to be illusive.
	Sunday morning Capt. Bill Strong, the leader of that faction left his home about ten miles east of Jackson, to visit a neighbor. He had gone about half a mile when his family heard firing and ran to see what was the matter. He was found dead in the road seven bullets having entered his body. Investigation showed that seven or eight men had lain behind a "blind" construction to command a view of the road, and scraps of bread and meat showed that they had lain for him.  He has a very large circle of friends and relatives who will avenge his death and more trouble is expected.  He was quite wealthy, owning two farms and a half interest in very fine cannel coal lands. He is credited with having killed a score or more of men in various feuds with which he has been connected. He was a great log man and was well known to many of our people along the river. Stuart, Daniel	Miss S. Gay Stuart was called to Winchester Sunday by the death of her relative, Mr. Charles E. Stuart. Georgetown Times The Winchester Democrat, Fri., Aug. 29, 1902  A Deplorable Tragedy
	The following special from Paris gives the particulars of a deplorable killing. At 9 o'clock, A. M., Monday R. B. Hutchcraft shot and killed Daniel Stuart in this city, at the corner of Pleasant and Third streets. This is a killing that has been looked for and its result is not a surprise to many.
	Hutchcraft is the head of the large wholesale commission firm of R. B. Hutchcraft & Co., and is one of the wealthiest men in the county. Stuart was a wealthy Fayette county farmer, residing just over the Bourbon line, at Muir station. About eleven months ago, Mrs. Daniel Stuart, who was the sister of Hutchcraft was killed with a pistol. Stuart claimed she had committed suicide, but her relatives claimed he had killed her. From letters written by Mrs. Stuart to her brother Hutchcraft, it was learned that Stuart had treated his wife in a most unmerciful manner and had threatened to kill her. Since her death Stuart has on different occasions attempted to raise a disturbance with Hutchcraft and he invariably walked away and refused to quarrel with Stuart.
	This morning the two men met on the corner of Main and Third streets and Stuart again demanded the letters Hutchcraft had received, saying,
	"Unless you give them to me within a week, I will kill you."
	Hutchcraft replied: You can not get the letters, but I will show them to any friend you will name," and then welled away from Street and want to his warshaye near the will name," and then walked away from Stuart and went to his warehouse near the freight depot. In a few minutes Hutchcraft had occasion to go to Ford & Co. on business and placed his pistol in his pocket.
	At Third and Pleasant streets he again met Stuart, who demanded the letters, and on refusing Stuart struck him three times over the head with a loaded cane. Hutchcraft drew his pistol and shot three times one ball lodging in the right breast, one in the left breast and the other under the left eye, the last ball striking in the identical place where Stuart's wife was shot.
	Stuart tried to draw his pistol, but was not quick enough. Stuart had just returned this morning from a visit to Fleming county. He leaves three daughters and two sons, the oldest boy being twenty-two and the youngest ten years of age. He leaves them a farm of six hundred acres and several thousand dollars in cash. He was about fifty years old and a brother of John Stuart, one of our leading wholesale commission merchants, who is very popular.
	Hutchcraft is about fifty years old, and has a wife and three children.  After the killing, Hutchcraft fainted from loss of blood from his wound.  The Winchester Democrat, Wednesday, June 28, 1893
	In commenting on the recent Paris tragedy the Courier-Journal says: "It is such tragedies as the one at Paris which furnish material for the harsh and unsparing criticisms of Kentucky in the Eastern papers. Here were two of the most prominent men of one of the richest counties in the State, both well to-do, influential and widely known heads of families and brothers-in-law; infact, representatives of the very best society

Stuart, Ed. W.	which the unequaled Bluegrass can boast. They meet in the streets of one of Kentucky's richest towns, a vicious encounter follows and one is killed by the other. In its character and significance this tragedy differs wholly from the mountain killings, which are mainly the result of broils between ignorant and uncouth men. But Hutchcraft and Stuart stand for what is highest in the civilization of Kentucky's famous rich district. Similar tragedies of course, disfigure the history of other States, but it does look like they are more frequent here, or at least they are more conspicuous. The fact that humanlife is held so cheap by people otherwise cultured, advanced and well-bred is one which distinguishes this State from all others. Would that it was not so. Stuart, Roy	Hon. John T. Stuart The Keosauqua (Iowa) Republican has quite a sketch of Hon. John T. Stuart of Shenadoah, Iowa, who was recently on a visit to his old home in Van Buren county, near Keokuk. Mr. Stuart is a son of the late Roy Stuart, of Clark county, and moved to Bonaparte, Iowa, in 1847. He severed as Sheriff of his county for several years and was then nominated for State Senator and afterwards became U. S. Marshall of Iowa. He then moved to Council Bluffs and helped to lay out and build up that city. Then he moved to Shenandoah, his present home, and has helped to build it up from a village to a city. The Republican says that although Mr. Stuart is past 70 years of age, he looks as hale, hearty and vigorous as a man of 60, and has become one of the wealthiest citizens in Southwest Iowa. Stubblefield we overlooked some important facts, and also were in error as to the given name of the deceased's father. William P. Stubblefield was the son of John Parker Stubblefield, who was a descendant of Gen. Anthony Parker, or Virginia. Gen. Parker was twice a member of the Continental Congress and also recruited and commanded a regiment in the Revolutionary War. John Parker Stubblefield was a first cousin of the late noted Baptist divine, Elder Thomas Parker Dudley, who was step-father to the late Carter Henry Harrison, of Chicago. William P. Stubblefield was one of the few remaining links connecting the past with the present. We have already referred to his retentive memory, extending back for over three-sore years. He was familiar with all the important personages and events of local history; was accurate as to dates and situations, and that no record was kept of his reminiscences is additional cause for regret. Sturgill, James	Killed at Morehead.
, , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , ,	Marshal T. A. Day of Morehead, shot and instantly killed A. Short at that place Saturday. Short had been drinking heavily and had abused his wife. A warrant had been sworn out but had not yet been put in the officer's hands. Short was in town and started home but had lain down. When the Marshall attempted to arrest him Short resisted and presented a Winchester rifle but Day was too quick and shot him.
	Bad blood existed between the two men as about a year ago Short and his brother-in-law, Jas. Sturgill attempted to take the town and a fight ensued in which Sturgill was killed Short was not unknown to the officers of this city. During an excursion a year ago he got drunk and tried to terrorize the train. The police of this city were notified and when the train reached this place he was arrested and placed in jail. He was indicted and fined $75 in one case and $40 in another. These fines are still unpaid.

Sutherland, Carrie	Died—At the residence of her brother-in-law, Squire J. Scott Renick Saturday, Miss
,	Carrie Sutherland, after a long illness of consumption. The funeral was preached Sunday at the family residence by Rev. J. D. Tadlock and the remains were interred in the Winchester cemetery. She was a most estimable young lady, endowed with the graces that go to make the perfect Christian lady. With kindly heart and generous impulses, she was very popular with all who knew her. To her, Death had lost the terrors so generally attributed by the young, and was welcomed as a sweet relief from the pains of disease and desirable transition from this world to a brighter and better one, and without a tremor she superintended the making of her burial robes, selected the Scripture for the funeral service and other things as calmly as if they were the ordinary occurrences of life. The wealth and beauty of the floral tributes were mute evidences of the high place she held in the affections of her friends, to whom she has left a rich

Sutherland, Lida Ward	In Memoriam.
	How often, in the first pangs of parting we feel resentment at the taking off of those we love, but how selfish the feeling, for "Death is dawn; The waking from a weary night Of fevers unto truth and light" Lida Ward Sutherland was taken in the fairest days of maidenhood, just as the springtime of her life was passing, when all her world was filled with visions that betokened the fuller life of womanhood. Death knows no age.
	Mrs. Hemans says
	"Leaves their time to fall,
	And flowers to wither at the North wind's breath And stars to set—but all, Thou hast all seasons for thine own, O Death."
	When a sweet young spirit leaves us fully prepared for the new life to which it is called, there should be rejoicing, for it is freed from pains and suffering of the earthly life; gone is all disease and disappointment. Remember how Evangeline found that "Death, the consoler, Laying his hand upon many a heart, had healed it forever."

	A special from Owingsville says: "The case of the Commonwealth against Henry Scott, Jr., for the murder of Sam Swarts, was tried in the Circuit Court here this week, the jury bringing in a verdict late last night for two and a half years in the penitentiary, after having had the case about forty hours. Although there is not the slightest doubt of Scott's guilt, the verdict was a surprise to the public, as it was clearly proven that Swarts had debauched Scott's wife. Public sentiment is greatly in Scott's favor, and he will, no doubt, obtain a pardon before reaching the penitentiary."  The Winchester Democrat, Tuesday, May 29, 1894

Swartz, Henry	A STRANGE COINCIDENCE. Death Believed to Have Been Presaged By Crushing of Picture. Lexington, Ky., Oct. 19-Henry Schwartz, 28, was killed at Burgin, Ky., Saturday night while trying to board a south-bound freight train. He lived at 718 Central Avenue, Newport, Ky., and was in company with Robert Weaver, also of that city, when he met death. Both are machinists, and were trying to get south in search of employment. Newport, Ky. Oct. 19Schwartz and Weaver left Newport on last Wednesday. He was a widower, and had been making his home with his father, Joseph Swartz, the well-known carpenter. A curious and remarkable incident in connection with Schwartz's death was related by a younger brother, when the latter called at police head-quarters
	Sunday night in search of definite information of Henry's death. He related that on Saturday afternoon a picture of the deceased hanging in the parlor at the home fell to the floor with a crash, breaking the frame and glass to pieces. Examination showed that the cord by which it was suspended had parted from age and decay, and that nothing had struck or jarred the picture as was at first supposed. Mr. Schwartz stated that he immediately remarked that something had happened to Henry, and this opinion was at once shared in by the rest of the family. The falling of the picture was referred to several times during the evening and the entire family seemed to look upon the incident as a forewarning of bad news to come about the absent one and it seems that their worst fears were fully realized. Sweeney, W.W.	The Winchester Democrat, Friday, August 27, 1897.  Gone to his reward  The Stanford Interior-Journal has the following pleasant reminiscence of Capt. W.W.  Sweeney, who was widely known through this section of the State: "The death of Capt.  W.W. Sweeney removes from earthly scenes the oldest employee on the L and N. He ran the first passenger train on the road and the first that came to Stanford. For many years he ran on this division and made friends by the hundreds. He was a conscientious Christian and carried his religion into this every day life, by sowing seeds of kindness and saying a good word for his Master. He was a great temperance man and it is said would hold his train a few minutes at stations to deliver little lectures for the cause, to great disgust of the engineers who wanted to run on schedule time. One night several years ago, a very fierce storm prevailed as his train sped from Louisville to Jellico. It was fearfully dark and as the tempest howled, a young girl, who happened to be the sole occupant of the sleeper, became greatly alarmed. Capt. Sweeney tried to calm her without avail, till he proposed that they kneel in prayer. She assented and the petition that he sent to the Throne of Grace, had the effect of quieting the young lady's alarm and after saying that she had no fear now on a train conducted by such a godly man, soon fell into peaceful sleep. After the old man got so that he could not run trains properly the L and N gave him a sinecure and kept him almost on its pension list to the last. He was 71 years old and was buried at Lebanon. Swift, Charles Sr.	Charles Swift Sr.
	Died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Dabney Parrish, in Lexington, Thursday evening, November 29 th , Mr. Charles Swift, Sr., in his sixty-ninth year. A brave and noble spirit passed away when, on the evening of the 29 th , the heart of Charles Swift Sr. ceased to beat. The announcement started a train of recollections and associations that ran far back into the troubled days of war. Among the most grateful memories of those perilous and anxious days is that of the warm welcome and unvarying kindness extended by this noble gentleman and his devoted wife to the destitute Confederate soldiers who had fought for and lost a cause which they believed right. Many residents of this section of Kentucky remember the old mansion and the "Sulphur well," situated in the midst of a wide amphitheater of green hills and flowing streams and whose generous hospitality embraced all who come within its shadow. Mr. Swift was born and reared in Lexington, Ky., one of three sons of an old and respected family. In 1860 he married Miss Anna Lewis, after which he moved to Clark county and engaged in agriculture. On a secluded and beautiful estate he lived for many years faithfully discharging his duty. Ever cheerful and full of genial humor, wide reading and wholesome fun he was indeed a delightful host for those who availed themselves of his always open home. In 1904 his friends pressed upon him the claims of his district and he became a candidate for State Senator. He withdrew from the canvass on account of his failing health, although his prospects for election were bright and his many friends confident. He retired hoping that the rest and tender care of his home would restore him.
	Yielding to the solicitations of his loved daughter he went to her home in Lexington to pass the winter. His family believing that health and vigor would return with the springtime, but an all wise Providence decreed that his work was accomplished. Mr.
	Swift was brought up an Episcopalian, his wife was a Presbyterian, and as there was a church of that denomination near his home, he became a member and, until God's own hand prevented him, he was always in his place in the house of his master. He was elected an Elder and, in that capacity, served his church faithfully. He leaves a devoted wife and four children together with a large circle of friends and acquaintances to mourn his loss. He will be missed in the community, in the neighborhood, but most of all in his family to who he was devoted. His funeral was preached by Rev. William Cumming, of this city, and his remains laid to rest by the side of kinded dust in the Lexington cemetery under the auspices of the B.P.O. Elks, of this city, of which he was an honored member, the following acting as pall bearers: Active – Eli Dooley, A.R.
	Sphar, F.P. Pendleton, Judge J.H. Evans, A.R. Baldwin, E.S. Bean, Woodson McCord, Chas. W. Bean. Honorary – Judge J.M. Benton, Dr. W. Miller, N.C.Rogers, Capt. Thos. Bush, Thos. Henry Clay, Hon. John T. Hinton, T.C. Robinson, Capt. Ed Taylor.
	Mr. Swift's generous and upright character marked him as one his friends delighted to

	Resolution of Respect Whereas, It hath pleased Almighty god in His wise providence, to remove from our midst our beloved brother, Joseph A. Swope, who was taken from us in his early manhood when just entering on a life of honor and usefulness, let us not forget that we too, are mortal and traveling upon the level of time to that undiscovered country or judgement log of God where all our works must be proved and tried. Then with humble submission, let us bow, and with the hope that we may meet our brother in that Celestial counsels where he was ever ready to perform all Masonic duties involved upon him.  2d. We tender to his bereaved relatives and friends our sincere sympathy over the death

	3d. We tender our thanks to Winchester Lodge No. 20, F. and A. M., for the many

	Newport, Ky., Sept. 12In the death of Henry Richmond Sykes, which occurred at Dayton, Ky., Wednesday, there passed away not only the oldest citizen of Kentucky, but probably of a dozen other states. Born in 1779 his life has been almost co-extensive with that of the United States government. He has been the contemporary of all the great men, from Washington, Franklin, Adams, Jefferson, down to the present day. He was born near Hull Eng. While a young lad he came to this county with his parents. He led a sailor's life for a number of years, and upon the breaking out of the war of 1812 enlisted with the United States navy and was assigned to duty with Commodore Perry's fleet. He was with the latter at the time of his famous victory on Lake Erie, and was commended for his bravery. After the war he settled in Pennsylvania and later immigrated to the mountains of Kentucky. He was with Daniel Boone in many of his famous encounters with the Indians and many are the thrilling stories which he told of the great pioneer and huntsman. After he had become too decrepit to engage in hard manual labor he assumed the role of a rag picker and was a familiar figure about the streets of Dayton up until about two or three years ago.

Dr. Sympson was a native of this county and during his long and useful life, all of which was spent here, he made legions of friends. As a nurse and physician, he had few equals, and much of his success in the sick room was due to his abundant sympathy. During the late war he helped to raise the Twenty-Fourth Kentucky Federal Infantry, which was raised principally in this and Bath counties, and was commanded at first by Col. Brax. Grigsby, of this city, and afterward by Col. Smith Hurt, now of Owingsville. Dr. Sympson was surgeon of the regiment and afterward of the brigade, serving from early in 1862 until the end of the war.
